FCC spokesman says that Howard Hughes has been excused due to recognized illness. Lee, however, will probably again be summoned though on different count. His presence will very probably be sought at hearing on renewal of licenses for Don Lee owned and operated stations, announced fortnight ago.

AMECHE'S LATEST OFF WITH DASH BUT SLOWS UP

Capsuling the elements of music, drama and comedy into a variety pattern was patently the blueprint of the new Drene show which bowed last night under the starry aegis of Don Ameche. First half gave promise of carrying out the original intent but the dramatic spot was yet to come and the earlier zest slowly faded on a sombre note. Whether the death bed scene from "Goodbye Mr. Chips" was good radio for a variety show is conjectural even though ably performed by Ameche and Ida Lupino, guesting for the night in one of the show's chief props, the favorite scene of picture stars.

Comedy content was underplayed, and the buffoonery of Pinky Lee, only holdover from last season's Rudy Vallee Drene exhibit, could have been given wider latitude. Confined to one short segment well up front, he might have with good effect been brought back after the dramatic vignette for a bit of by-play and Director Carleton Alsop avoided such a clash of moods. Instead, he had Ameche and Joanell James tag off the stanza with a duet that was an off-blend.

The young singer, however, did quite well on her own in a soft, thrushy voice with a gliding trick. Ameche also had a solo but his forte is still dramatics and mastering the ceremonies. It is not likely that the routining on the opener will stay pat. There will be some changes made and Lee undoubtedly will have more to do to give the show a brighter facet. There could also be a spot for Joe Lilley's music, even for some of his own selections or arrangements, the latter of which are notable. Commercials, as in most Procter & Gamble shows, are pounded at annoying intervals. The show has yet to prove itself as an improvement over "Villa Vallee."

COLLARS, FLACKS NEAR STRIKE IN HOME OFFICES

New York, Sept. 8.—White collarite strike in New York film offices became imminent over the weekend with collapse of negotiations between the Screen Publicists Guild and major film companies. No furthe meetings are slated between the contesting factions.

SPG membership meeting authorized union's executive council to cal special meeting next Thursday for final strike vote on an industry-wide basis. In the meantime, individual SPG units are being polled on strike measure.

Screen Office Professional Employes Guild are also preparing for a showdown with the majors. United Artists and Columbia chapters of the SOPEG adopted resolutions stating:

Todd Takes Chance in Bowl; Chill Hits 'Central Park'

selves and although a battery of microphones stretched across the stage, they sometimes yelled to be sure that story reached the audience.

"Park" is a caricature of Irish politician-grafters who mulcted the treasury of the city of New York during the reign of Boss Tweed, in the 1880's. It's funny only in spots, show being a smash on Broadway through the novelty of presentation, the music of Sigmund Romberg, who conducted the augmented orchestra at the premiere and the series of drops picturing the Currier and Ives prints. As drops cannot be hung in the Bowl, "Park" loses that important element in the present showing.

NOT UP TO ORIGINAL

New "settings" designed are not comparable with the original nor are the stage effects. Ordinarily the high-scoring skating ballet is mild because the falling snow effect in Central Park is out. Background drops look miniature, the scenery being disclosed in album-like fashion. Looks like Todd overplayed his hand but this version of "Park" will provoke plenty of comment.

Cast is virtually the same as originally, with Wilbur Evans' fine, lusty baritone winning first honors. Little fiery Maureen Cannon and comedienne Betty Bruce are runners-up. Standout tunes are "Close as the Pages in a Book," "Big Back Yard," "When She Walks in the Room," "It Doesn't Cost You Anything to Dream" and "Firemen's Bride." Malcolm Lee Beggs as Tweed is okay. Russ Brown and Walter Burke supply fun as shanty dialect grafters. Fred and Elaine Barry seem lost on the enormous platform but their dances get something. About 20 minutes of the original show is cut, specialties replacing such as the monocycle Shyrettos, McLean Bagpipers, Rivas Troupe and Frik and Dodo.

SWEET CHARITY SHARES

"Park" is $4.50 top and can possibly gross $200,000 in the 22,000-seat Bowl on the week but that figure will hardly be approached. There are 60 in the orchestra, around 60 stage hands and light operators. As 25 per cent of the gross goes to charity fostered by local newspapers and the Bowl's share is 12½ per cent, means that 37½ per cent comes off the top, so how "Park" can operate at a profit is Todd's secret. Perhaps he depended on the press which went to town for the show to insure abnormal attendance.

Backing of the dailies accounted for Thursday's parade on Hollywood boulevard. Procession, with the cast and chorus in oldtime open face hacks was one of the corniest stunts yet, but it was funny and aimed at the yokels. First time that a parade license was issued for a show in Hollywood.

WIDE OPEN SPACES

Plenty of open spaces in the Bowl on the first night but mostly away up the hill where they rush at four bits. Not so much nearer was the press in upper tier boxes. Claimed that those who covered the show request those locations but it may have been Mike's idea to keep 'em as far from a closeup as possible.

Band shell has been pushed aside, replaced by the platform, beneath which is the improvised orchestra pit. A dozen years back, Max Reinhardt staged "Midsummer Night's Dream," with ensemble coming down from the hills. It was credited with being a hit but was mostly a sight show. Present scenery by Horace Armistead not comparable to Howard Bay's original. Programs are sold for 50 cents but include the show's souvenir booklet, gotten out by Bill Doll, chief press agent for "Park."

Par Sets Nitery Film

"Five and Dime" has been set as next Technicolor Musical Parade on Paramount's short subjects schedule. Lou Harris will produce story with Broadway nitery background.

'OKLAHOMA' SETS BO GROSS MARK

Achieving the greatest gross in American legit history, the national company of "Oklahoma" passed the $5,000,000 mark over the weekend in St. Paul, Minn., where the company now is playing. Record was disclosed yesterday by Rouben Mamoulian, currently directing "Summer Holiday" at Metro, who was original director of the show, which opened in New York on March 31, 1943. Herbert Farrar succeeded Mamoulian as director of the show when latter recently signed with Metro for current chore.

Transmitted in today's tests were the New York Times photo and facsimile; Dow-Jones news ticker; a news commentator; teletype service; re-broadcast of programs from a standard modulated broadcasting station and from a frequency modulated station, and two types of transcribed music.

System is a combination of pulse time-wartime improvement of the AM and FM types of modulating broadcasts—and standard multiplexing circuits. Programs are fed in rotation into the transmitter, and, at the receiver, circuits unscramble the signal so any one of the programs can be received by pushing a button.

NY Truck Strike Cuts Newspapers

New York, Sept. 8. — With the truck strike entering its fifth day, newsprint situation for New York dailies is becoming desperate. Most sheets, anticipating strike, accumulated stockpiles. Latter action was limited because of storage facilities.

It is estimated no paper has more than a 10-day supply. The Mirror sacrificed all ads Friday and Saturday. In addition, paper dropped all amusement news yesterday in effort to stretch newsprint supply.

It is understood other dailies are contemplating similar measures. Omission of amusement news and ads is expected to have a bad effect on Broadway film and legit grosses.

'Outlaw' Seal Revoked; Big Court Fight Looms

days in which to remove seal from all prints of the film.

Yanking of seal by Breen adds only a minor burden to Hughes' problem of finding playdates for the picture. Producer has fought censorship, both church and police, plus the Motion Picture Association, for the right to screen film as made since its initial roadshow engagement in San Francisco in 1943. A number of circuit deals for picture have been hanging fire awaiting action by the Legion of Decency. Catholic censorship body has reportedly been mulling whether to give film a classification and if such does come through, even though a ''B'' or restricted to adults, many theatre deals would be set. Breen's action adds new complications, although no worse than Hughes has been facing.

NO THEATRE PENALTY

As no penalty can be leveled on theatres screening picture, even without the PCA's seal, yanking is not expected to hinder current engagements. In fact, action may result in an upswing to already boff grosses because of publicity over seal-lifting. In every playdate so far, ''Outlaw'' has either broken all existing gross records for the houses or pulled extremely heavy business.

Despite Breen's pulling back seal, its local moveover first run at the Marcal theatre on Hollywood boulevard will continue. Before the moveover date, ''The Outlaw'' did a seven-week stand at the four Music Halls, establishing a new record for gross at regular admission prices for the entire city. It is now in its 12th week at the Marcal, a 900-seater, after piling up tremendous $76,800 gross. Moveover take, plus the Music Halls' gross, gives film total of $546,500 for local run to date.

HUGHES SILENT

Hughes organization here had no comment to make on lifting of the seal by Breen, other than to say that notice had been received. Action is expected to spur Hughes in his court fight against the Motion Picture Association. Expected his attorneys will press for an early trial of the suit, in which MPA is charged with anti-trust violations, in New York courts. While Hughes lost his motion for injunction to prevent MPA's Code Administration from lifting the seal until case had been tried, matter still has to be fought out in court and unexpected revocation will now lead to vigorous pressing of suit.

BREEN SENDS LETTER

Breen was notified Friday to send out letter of revocation. Letter charges Hughes with ''failure to comply with paragraph 3'' of agreement, in that he had ''not submitted for approval to the Association all advertising and publicity matter used in connection with the advertisement and exploitation of ''The Outlaw'' and for using material unapproved by the Association.''

Letter went out over Breen's signature as head of the PCA, although decision originated at MPA's New York headquarters, to which Hughes appealed five years ago when local office nixed film.

SAN GABRIEL MAN TELLS HOW U.S. CHOOSES FILMS

The Japanese like their motion pictures woefully sad or hilariously funny, says Bob Berkov, of San Gabriel, newly appointed head of the Far Eastern division of the United States Office of International Information under the State Department.

''They like sad endings, enjoy writhing and sobbing as they look at unrelieved tragedy, and they like Charlie Chaplin,'' says Berkov, who has recently returned from a conference with General MacArthur on United States information service operation in Japan. Chaplin's picture, ''The Gold Rush,'' in a sound version, was one of the recently shown pictures in Japan, drawing capacity audiences. Most of the unrelieved tragedy is furnished in the Japanese produced films, which, says Berkov, compare with American pictures in story, direction, photography and acting, but which, he says, are technically inferior because modern equipment in good condition is not available.

One of the most popular films in Japan was ''The Watch on the Rhine,'' with Paul Lukas.

''That fooled our men who select the pictures,'' Berkov says. ''We did not think the Japanese people knew enough about the German underground to enjoy that, but they crowded it at every performance.''

The first American pictures shown were ''His Butler's Sister,'' with Deanna Durbin, who's a Japanese favorite, and ''Madame Curie,'' with Greer Garson, who is also high in their lists.

In selecting the pictures, screened by the State Department, and selected from nine producers, efforts were made to guide the Japanese in working out their reorientation, and to show United States life. These consiredations are no longer regarded as important as they were when the occupation began.

Japanese-made motion pictures are most popular in the more remote areas where the people do not know much about American ways, and where they are more entertained by the more familiar Japanese program. Because of the hinterland showings as well as city showings for the Japanese films, they gross more than the American, according to Berkov.

Berkov's report on this and other aspects of the education and information program on Japan will be heard on Harry Flannery's program tonight over CBS at 4:30.

UA Continues Release Of Unsealed 'Outlaw'

New York, Sept. 9.—United Artists will continue to handle distribution of "The Outlaw" despite withdrawal of its certificate of approval by the Production Code Administration of the Motion Picture Association. CIO Withdraws Bid For LA FM Station

Washington, Sept. 9.—United Automobile Workers (CIO) today withdrew its bid for an FM station in Los Angeles. Union finances were reported behind the move. However, 15 others are still in the running for LA channels at the hearings which begin on the West Coast Nov. 15.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

SOL Lesser's production staff is currently having as tough a time as the man who had to take all the bears out of the animal crackers because they frightened his little boy. Readying of a new Tarzan film for production has brought in scores of hopeful owners of animals ranging from rabbits and snakes to bears, seeking screen tests for their pets. So far the list hasn't equaled the registration of Noah's ark, but studio personnel fears the worst. They haven't forgotten the lady who came in and left a box with one of the secretaries, asking her to care for it for a few minutes. "It's just my little pet, who's working in the picture," she explained. "He won't give you any trouble." "Just what is 'he'?" asked the secretary. "Oh, he's the most beautiful cobra!" exclaimed the owner. And the secretary left abruptly.

ARNOLD Pressburger will go to England next month for confabs with Alexander Korda on lab they own jointly. Intention is for one to buy out the other, with Pressburger probably selling out to British producer. Following termination of this business, Pressburger will continue on to Paris, to look into affairs of his production company, CIPA, which is currently active in making French pictures. Possibility that he may try to make deal in this country for distribution of these French-language pictures, after he returns here. While abroad, producer will scout all possibilities of this idea.

SO that Judith Anderson might not have to suffer unduly from housing shortage, Warners had director Raoul Walsh shoot all her scenes in "Pursued" early in picture. Actress, who sold her home several months ago with intention of going to England, stayed over after windup of Sol Lesser's "No Trespassing" for United States picture, then discovered she had to flit from hotel to motel all during filming of Warners' Niven Busch story. Actress wound up her stint last night and left immediately for New York.

ON which side of the courtroom is the jury box? The whole RKO legal department was called in to decide the question for a murder trial scene in "They Won't Believe Me." "It simplifies my problem," he said, "and you can tag it a legal precedent."

Carpenters Want Directive Activated

Immediate meeting to put into effect an AFL directive of Aug. 16 was asked of the major studios yesterday by Local 946 of the Carpenters union in a telegram signed by Charles Stroul, president, and J. W. Vance, recording secretary. Directive in question restores to the union approximately 500 jobs taken away last January under an earlier interpretation of a directive that ended last year's strike.

As It Looks to FLANNERY

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The AFL maritime workers believe they have just cause for a strike. Did not their employers agree to pay them the demanded wage? Why should they not get it then, despite the National Labor Board? The arguments that we are trying to keep wages from rising too high, that we thus set the increase at no higher than that recently gained by the CIO maritime workers, falls on deaf ears. Why hold down wages, they ask, when the present OPA allows price increases that includes increased costs? What about our increased costs? The argument is good, but it will nevertheless contribute to two ends: 1. The ending of all wage controls, which would start a new wave of strikes, and destroy the possibility of an effective OPA altogether. 2. A reaction against labor, which will mean revision of the Wagner Act. This is a period out of joint, because of the effect of the war, when neither Labor, Management, the Farmer, the Consumer, or any group can expect their situation to be equitable. Each—whether Labor, the Meat Producer, the Manufacturer, the Consumer—should forego current demands, or the whole system will be wrecked. But that's easy to say—impossible to sell.

Brash has accorded picture class oduction, turning out a feature hich bears mark of one with far gher budget. Sets by Edward C. well, decorated by Glenn P. Thomp- n, provide handsome backgrounds r action which Edgar G. Ulmer di- cts so smoothly, and photography y Franz Planer is exceptional. Miss Coleman contributes a com- assionate performance as girl who trives desperately to keep her end f bargain, and Miss Lindsay is limpsed in one of best roles of her areer. Major share of $360,000 gross total in sight for Los Angeles first runs this week is coming from holdover attractions. Only two new film bills are currently screening. "Claudia and David" is shooting for mild $50,500 at the Chinese, Loew's State and Uptown. "White Tie and Tails," double-billing at the United Artists, Guild and Ritz, is comparatively better at $32,000.

Top holdover coin is going to "Holiday in Mexico," which is shooting for $61,500 in four houses. Film snatched fine $93,000 on its first week. "Notorious" continues hefty at the Hillstreet and Pantages on third frame with $44,000 in sight on the week. "Caesar and "Cleopatra" continues forte at the Music Halls with estimated $46,500 on the second week. "Two Guys from Milwaukee" in the Warner theatres is sighting neat $46,000 or near that for its second frame. Third week of "Monsieur Beaucaire" at the two Paramounts is rolling up $33,000 for a third and stays four weeks.

English films are all demonstrating commanding box office. In addition to the "Cleopatra" take, "They Were Sisters" at the Four Star is coming through with stout $6,000 for a second week, and "Henry V's" 13th week on roadshow run at the Laurel looks like better than $6,000.

Paramount Cashes in Big Way On Showing of Eight Oldies

Paramount is cashing in on its oldies with 13 weeks of booking through late November at four Los Angeles houses, it was disclosed yesterday. Deal is with Four Academy theatres, Vermont, Arlington, Pickfair and Cinema, and calls for two weeks each of double bills of pix, most of which date back a decade or more.

Among the bills are "Waikiki Wedding" and "The Ghost Breakers;" "Lives of a Bengal Lancer" and "The Glass Key;" "Rhythm on the Range" and "Virginia;" "Wells Fargo" and "The Last Outpost;" "Beau Geste" and "The Shepherd of the Hills;" "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" and "Death Takes a Holiday."

"The Plainsman," incidentally, is being re-issued for national release.

Idea of putting the oldies on the market started with showing of "Jungle Princess," Dorothy Lamour's first sarong pic, and "The Plainsman" at the Ambassador in New York in connection with Paramount's 34th anniversary. The two pix broke all opening week records at that house and were held for second week.

First pair of the remember-whens screened at the four local show shops, "Lady Eve" and "The Plainsman," report top grosses, according to studio execs. The four theatres are pooling their ad and exploitation money for a big bally that includes use of 700 six-sheets in Los Angeles as well as newspaper advertising.

Membership also passed motion at Sunday night's mass meeting which would do away with $8.50 work calls and establish $14 and $20 as minimum daily scale.

Net rentals for the week throughout the country were reported greatest in history of Paramount by Charles M. Reagan, veepee in charge of distribution. Reagan, in wire to studio from New York said a total of 16,120 theatres, amounting to 99.24 per cent of the theatres in the country, played Paramount product during the week.

Holiday Over

William Boyd and Grace Bradley return today from a short vacation to prepare for "Hoppy's Holiday."

ASCAP TAKE UP $800,000 IN 7 MONTHS

Ascap has increased its take in the first seven months of this year by $800,000, it was revealed yesterday in the treasurer's report read at the annual Coast meeting. Coast cleffers and publishers also heard John Gregg Paine, general manager, report that he had signed 14 foreign performing rights societies on his recent junkets to Europe and Latin America.

Coast session was held at Earl Carroll's and was presided over by Deems Taylor, Ascap prexy. Afternoon business meeting was highlighted by Paine's hour-long report of his travels, in which he told of Brazil's entering, for the first time, into an agreement with Ascap to work in reciprocity on collection of coin for U.S. and Brazilian composers. Paine stated Brazil would add about $30,000 to Ascap's funds this year. All countries signed five year pacts with U.S. Society.

MORE FOREIGN COIN

Another increase of coin is due from France, England and Spain, where payments were held in abeyance during war years. Funds from Germany and Italy are not expected by Ascap. Both former enemy nations have not paid in cash to U.S. since 1938.

It was also announced that the State Department has asked Ascap's aid in drawing up a form to be used both here and in Russia for mutual protection of composers of each country.

Question was raised by Adolph Deutsch concerning possible increase of payoff coin to motion picture composers. Deutsch predicated his question on basis of heavy payment by foreign performing rights societies to their film composers.

HEAVY THEATRE MONEY

Answer was made that heavy coin for foreign societies comes from theatres, inasmuch as European radio is non-commercial. In U.S., however, radio carries biggest brunt of funds dispersed and payoff, therefore, goes to composers whose music is heavily played in radio.

Business session, labeled as "quietest" in history of Coast conclaves, was followed by cocktail party and dinner meeting.

E-L GETS RANKS 'BEDELIA' PRINTS

"Bedelia" is first of 10 Rank films which Eagle-Lion will handle in this country this year, and will be ready for distribution in about two months.

DENMARK SET TO LIFT LIMIT ON U.S. FILMS

Washington, Sept. 9. — An early clean-up of the film export situation into Denmark is predicted here by the State Department which predicts a satisfactory deal from the U.S. viewpoint.

Fay Allport, of MPA, is currently in Copenhagen, working on the matter with the Danes who have refused to take in U.S. pix up to now on the ground that they did not have the funds available to pay our distributors.

Under the deal reportedly being worked out, there will be no limit on the number of our films which can be admitted into Denmark; Denmark has limited our pix rentals to a ceiling of 30 per cent of the gross. An effort is being made to allow U.S. firms a high percentage.

THE GRAPEVINE: Charlie Chaplin will rent out his studio at Sunset and La Brea after he finishes his current Bluebeard epic, according to report. Studio's several soundstages will be leased out between his own widely-spaced productions . . . Joan Fontaine and William Dozier will crash her sister, Olivia de Havilland's honeymoon in New York. They leave eastward Sept. 25 after Joan winds up her role in "The Emperor Waltz" . . . You wouldn't know it by the avalanche of rejection slips in the mail every day, but the search for Grade A literary material is growing more feverish. Fred Brisson, prexy of Independent Artists, for instance, is bringing Lajos Zilhay, Hungarian playwright and novelist, to Hollywood next month for conferences. Brisson has already taken a 90-day option on all of Zilhay's literary output. Meanwhile, American publishers are sending their story scouts to Europe in droves to ferret out promising new talent, in the apparent hope that the war incubated more genius over there than it did here . . . Vera Ralston's father, whom she hadn't seen since leaving Czechoslovakia eight years ago, arrived in Hollywood yesterday . . . Having finished "Dead Reckoning," the Humphrey Bogart picture at Columbia, John Cromwell shoved off yesterday for a two-week vacation in New York.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Ever hear of Leopold Jordan, the legendary British-American journalist? About 30 years ago he migrated to the U.S. and went to work for the San Francisco Call. His editor didn't know what kind of assignment to give the stranger, decided on the tennis matches at Oakland as being something a Briton could handle. On his return from Oakland, after covering the matches, the drawbridge was left open and the train on which he was traveling dived into the Bay. Just when the Call editor was working up to a frenzy of the first water for more details on the accident, Leopold Jordan strolled in. The editor sat him before the typewriter and told him to pour out the story. Jordan typed away, brought his copy to the city desk. It was the story on the tennis matches . . . Lou Smith's expert buildup on Gloria Grahame is the talk of the town's flackeries. The Liberty Films publicity head took an odd approach on publicizing Gloria, who was borrowed from Metro for second femme lead in "It's a Wonderful Life." He had a flock of still pix made and sent them around to the various editorial desks without further comment. The strip-tease approach aroused curiosity. Life, Parade, newspapers throughout the country and fan mags are using layouts and requesting stories to go with them. Sometimes reticence pays off . . . Marjorie and Jack Reynolds gave themselves a grand piano to commemorate their tenth wedding anniversary.

CALL SHEET: PETER LIND HAYES comes home in triumph today. Several years ago he went away as a minor comedian, later entered the Army. When he came out his career zoomed in the NY night clubs and vaudeville and he got a whopping contract from International. His former Hollywood salary is now multiplied tenfold. Accompanying him is his wife, Mary Healy, former 20th-Fox starlet, who's done all right on Broadway herself . . . ESTHER WILLIAMS' sister, June Sherwood, tossed a combined birthday party and baby shower for her yesterday. Williams clan held a reunion for the first time in several years . . . GEORGIA GIBBS heads for New York and a musical comedy spot after the fold-up of the Tony Martin airshow . . . STEVE HEALEY goes to Baton Rouge, La., to gather material for the original story on Governor Jimmie Davis to be titled "Louisiana" . . . CHARLES STARRETT has finished his hunting, fishing and swimming for the summer and starts a new series of giddyaps tomorrow for Columbia . . . BARRY SULLIVAN'S role in "The Hunted" is being rewritten to make him a sympathetic character. They figured one heel role in "Suspense" was enough for a while . . . GUY PRICE returned from his vacation at Coronado. He was guest of Vice Admiral Frederick G. Sherman, a former schoolmate, aboard the cruiser Vicksburg when the latter relinquished command of the Fifth Fleet.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Sidney Skolsky's production "The Jolson Story" will open at the Radio City Music Hall Oct. 3 or 10. Film runs two hours and nine minutes in its release form . . . Variety story on the plight of Bill Anson, KFWB disc jockey, who found a swarm of belligerent bees in his back yard when he moved into his new home, bore immediate results. A Lockheed test pilot showed up with mask and gloves and coaxed the queen bee into a special hive. The rest of the bees devotedly followed and Anson's property was declared safe for human occupancy . . . Errol Flynn left his yacht at Acapulco over the weekend and motored to Mexico City for a few days visit with friends before continuing his cruise into southern waters on a scientific expedition with his father . . . Singer Bob Graham claims to know an actor who never knows where his next check is coming from—or when his last one is coming back . . . Dorothy Lamour and Bob Hope hosted a party of San Francisco and Oakland newspaper reviewers and editors over the weekend . . . Dick Powell tossed a party for cast and crew on completion of "Johnny O'Clock" . . . Red Skelton, squeezed into a Union uniform for a scene in "Merton of the Movies," complained that his Confederate grandfather would haunt him for playing a Northerner. "If it makes you feel any better," suggested director Robert Alton, "we'll pay you off in Confederate money."

Light 'n' Airy

by JACK HELLMAN

Not so many years ago a show based on a comic strip was being peddled around the agencies. It found no ready takers but summer was coming on and a manifestation of interest was noted in some commission houses. Sure enough, as you might have suspected, it was taken into custody and put on the air. It not only survived the strawhat season and two sponsors but has been on ever since. The show is "Blondie" and the reason for this hurrah is that it now tops the August Hooperatings with a fat and fancy 13.8. Credit where credit is due so the salvos belong to director Don Bernard, the principals, Arthur Lake and Penny Singleton, and Scripter Johnny Green.

In setting the coast pace, the comedy show lords it over some pretty fair exhibits. Skimming down the list another surprise entry makes its first appearance in the select 15—"Chick" MacGregor's "Hollywood Skippy Theatre"—clocked at 9.6 and showing the way to "This Is Your FBI" and the Bob Hawk show locked at 9.1. The CBS curdler, "The Whistler," is runnerup at 13.4 and the others fall into this sequence: "Michael Shayne" 12.9; Aldrich Family 11.4; Frank Morgan 11.3; "Crime Doctor" 11; Jergens Summer Show 10.8; "Ellery Queen" 10.6; Quiz Kids 10.2; "Big Town" 10.2; "Mr. and Mrs. North" 10; Screen Guild Players 9.7.

We're awaiting Carroll Carroll's reply to Don Quinn's crack, "Are you giving up huckstering and going back to writing?" . . . It never fails. Ask an agency man or producer what the client thought of the first show and he'll invariably answer, "they loved it." Which is not a bad title for a stage or tome satire on the radio biz . . . Frank Ferrin takes "Phone Again Finnegan" back east for three broadcasts late this month . . . John Guedel has withdrawn as Hollywood rep of the Russel Seeds shows due to the press of other business and Freeman Keyes is opening his own quarters here with Lou Place in charge. Jack Simpson, radio director of Seeds, is in town for the Red Skelton takeoff tonight.

BROADWAY RUNAROUND

By RADIE HARRIS

It's a sad commentary on the state of the NY theatre that the new season had to start off with a revival of a play originally seen on Broadway 18 years ago. Yet, if it had to be a revival, Hunt Stromberg, Jr., and Thomas Spengler chose wisely in the selection of Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur's rowdy melodrama of the Fourth Estate, "The Front Page." And what a break these producers got in having Brooks Atkinson's first review in the Times since his sabbatical two years ago, a rave notice. With such an auspicious tee-off plus the other excellent quotes, this revival should prove as successful to the "new generation" as "The Red Mill" and "Show Boat." No wonder that the Sardi talk tells the story of a prisoner just released from a long stretch at Sing Sing, who walking down the Main Stem, viewing the billboards on these three former successes exclaimed, "My God, don't tell me they're still running!"

But revival or new play, it was fun to be a first nighter again. Somehow, there is something about an opening on Broadway which captures an excitement that is lacking in a Hollywood premiere, no matter how many celebs there are bathed in kliegs. Sharing the excitement at "The Front Page" I spotted Helen Hayes with her daughter, Mary, who was just about a twinkle in her father's eye when he conceived this production—Miriam Hopkins with her son, Peter—Ruth Hussey, enjoying her busman's holiday—and Anita Loose, Bob Sherwood, Jimmy Dunn, Enid Markey, Phillip Barry, Haila Stoddard and Josh Logan. Prior to the public opening, there was a newspaperman's prevue, which Marc Connelly attended as a playwright who knows a newspaper man. As everyone is aware by now, the famous curtain line of the third act is "that son of a b—— stole my watch." Marc remembered it then for the howl it gave him. Now, he'll never forget it for its appropriateness to the occasion. As he left the theatre, he discovered that his treasured gold watch had suddenly vanished, and he still hasn't caught the son of a b—— who stole it!

SCOOPING AROUND: Sidney Kent's lovely widow, Lilyan, and French artist, Bernard La Motte, who were quietly married this summer, will sail for Paris shortly on a belated honeymoon . . . June Walker's new temporary address is Hartford, Conn., now that Elia Kazan has tagged her for "Boomerang" (20th-Fox). June's 14-year-old son, Jackie Kerr, played the comedy lead in the Cape Playhouse apprenticeship group production of "Out of the Frying Pan" and stole the show. But he's entering Exeter this fall and vows he doesn't want to be an actor—until the next time you hand him a script! . . . Lou Koerner is combing the town for his boss, Sam Goldwyn, in the hope of finding a dancer who can act and vice versa for the male lead opposite Vera Ellen in "Billion Dollar Baby" . . . David Niven, back from Newport's Bailey Beach set, is now being veddy social with the Westbury, Long Island crowd, and it's good to see him more like his old, gay self again . . . Add it's a small world dept.: Susan Douglas, who went to the Coast to test for the role of Beth" in David O. Selznick's "Little Women," returns to Broadway for the femme lead in Arthur Laurent's "Heart Song," the first legit production of Mrs. David Selznick . . . Dorothy Massey Chiefed back to NY yesterday to put her daughters, Margaret and Dorothy Whitney, in school, and rejoins Ray on Crescent Drive, the 21st. Warners, incidentally, has just pacted Ray to a new five-year contract with no options, and calling for one picture a year. Which means that he'll be free next summer to do "Turning Wheels" for Arthur Rank . . . Winston Guest is offering unlimited backing to anyone who can find a suitable script for his favorite blonde, Lucy Cochrane . . . Shean McGlory of the Abbey theatre (with a name like that, shure and where else would he come from?) won't have much time to discover Hollywood. He's already spotted for an important supporting role to Roz Russell in "Mourning Becomes Electra" (RKO) . . . Although the props for the traveling "Lute Song" which starts a cross country tour under the auspices of the Theatre Guild doesn't call for a perambulator or play pen, they will be included among the baggage.

SOLID SILVER: I've seen Sophie Tucker, Jimmy Durante, Joe E. Lewis, Jerry Lester, Mitzie Green and Peter Lind Hayes at the Copa. Sock entertainers, all of them. And then, this week I saw Phil Silvers. And, from my ringside, he topped them all. Yes, he had two great advantages. First, he hasn't been seen in the NY nitery belt for a long time, so he's a novelty. Second, he had a stooge working with him named Frank Sinatra. But it was his material—original, fresh, superbly paced and delivered, that had his fellow artists—Joe E. Lewis, Ethel Merman, Ray Bolger, Peter Lind Hayes, Eddie Duchin, Betty Garrett, Joy Hodges and the rest of the jammed packed room as grateful as he that, at long last, he's been released from 20th-Fox "Penitentiary" to show how his talents have been dissipated in the Hollywoods. He's only "let loose" for four weeks, so hurry, hurry, hurry—not that it will do you any good unless you happen to know the Right People named Monte Proser, Jack Entratter, Joe Lopez and George Evans. For when word of mouth gets around about this "Silver" mine in the Copa cellar, the gold rush will be on!

Getting back to Phil's stooge, F. Sinatra, who flew in just for the opener, he really proved what friendship is. His was a gesture that I'm sure Phil will never forget, because he knew that it wasn't meant for him alone but also for that other pal, who at the end of all the hilarity, Phil cried for when he bent his head and quietly said, "And now I make a silent bow for Rags."

BORGE'S DROLLERY TOPS SOCONY AIR OPENER

After sampling the new Socony Vacuum show on NBC it is understandable why the billing reads, "Victor Borge Show Starring Benny Goodman." That's front billing over the star, so to speak, and the madcap Dane rates it. Goodman may be a bigger name but his running mate is fast developing into one of the drollest comics on the air and ample evidence thereof was given last night on the blow-off. True he was given crisp material by Jay Sommers and Jesse Goldstein but he mastered every line and inflection with effortless precision.

If it posed a problem for Producer Vick Knight to proportion the spots for the two stars without incurring enmity he managed it quite well. There was enough for Bennah and his licorice stick, plus an augmented orchestra that must have run up a fancy music bill, and he was also cut in on the running dialog. All due credit to Goodman's music, plenty solid and swingy, but it's Borge's show for those who like shaded humor on the sophisticated side. The bit wherein he gave Guestar Lana Turner a singing lesson was laugh-packed. Questionnaire routine with Don Wilson also had its humorous moments. Just to prove that he's not all comic and has a musicianly side he did a straight piano rendition of a Chopin classic. Credits were worked in with a novel touch and the Flying Red Horse commercials not stuffy or overlong.

For a program costing around $15,000, with an added touch for such guestars as Lana Turner, the Borge-Goodman combo won't have an easy time of it breaking into the select Hooper circle. There's the last half of Lux in the opposite slot and that's a distinct disadvantage. Goodman has his following among the hepsters and there's the added inducement of the guesters but the show will get its heaviest play from those who like the Borge brand of humor. He'll build in this spot but how long it takes is for the tab taker-uppers to stew over.

MARTIN ENTERS OPTION SUIT AGAINST FCB

Legal notice was served yesterday on Foote, Cone & Belding agency and its client, the Bourjois Co., by attorney for Tony Martin, as preliminary move in a contemplated court action to force exercise of an option on his radio show.

It is alleged by Martin that he had been given a verbal commitment by Hubbell Robinson, radio director of F-C-B, acting on behalf of Bourjois. Short time later Martin was advised by Bourjois, through the agency, that his show would be cancelled at the close of the current 26-week cycle three weeks hence.

Martin further charged that the oral commitment prevented him from accepting a fall program with Texaco. Before leaving for New York over the weekend, Emerson Foote, prez of F-C-B, denied that any commitment, verbal or otherwise, had been made by the agency or Bourjois extending the program another 26 weeks.

OBITUARY

FIELDING C. COATES

Funeral services for Fielding C. Coates, electrical engineer to the film industry who died Saturday, will be held today at 11 a.m., at Hollywood Cemetery chapel. Cremation follows.

HAYES, EXPERTS GET MILEAGE ON GRID GAS

Sam Hayes was handed two experts on football, Major Lyle B. Chapman and Verne Landreth, and a neat script by writer Lee Wood for the kickoff of Mobile Gas "Touchdown Tips" on NBC's Pacific Coast regional net last night, marking the beginning of the first gridiron season without war since 1941.

That it bodes well for a good season, with the vets back in school, was attested by Hayes and his guests on the half hour stanza. While long, show had a handful of good touches to set it off from the run of the mill sportscasts. Besides the usual prognostications, there was a "big game of the week" breakdown, tips on college, junior college and major pro games on tap, and complete team schedules.

Sports editors throughout the region were also quoted on the season's prospects; Hayes and Landreth discussed 1946 rule changes, and Hayes and organist Rex Kourey held a musical interview, with Kourey supplying recognizable college tunes to Hayes' questions on which teams the organist thought looked best. Latter proved a refreshing contrast to the remainder of the package's straight chatter, which listened like a most digestible pill for the pigskin fans to follow.

Gwenn, Cooper Cast

Edmund Gwenn and Gladys Cooper have been cast in featured roles in "Green Dolphin Street." Victor Saville will direct the Metro film.

VETS' BUREAU APPROVES AFRA SCHOOL PLAN

Difficulty between Veteran's Administration and American Federation of Radio Artists has been settled and bureau has given green light to union's refresher courses for talent with G.I. Bill financing. Union's plan had been held up for several weeks when Robert Light, administrative head of union school, could not obtain approval for changes in curriculum.

Union wanted for practical reasons to cut courses from 25 to 12 hours weekly. When apprised of change VA refused to permit it and withheld approval for re-schooling of ex-service thesps, singers, announcers and sound effects artists. Union found that majority were working at least part of time and heavy schooling schedule was virtually impossible. After considerable haggling bureau came through.

Under new plan so-called supervised study, which would have involved student attendance at a program rehearsal or an actual broadcast has been dropped. Also television, except for smattering, will be dropped. With so little video activity hereabout, union feels latter item unnecessary at this time. Course will then include three hours of private instruction, two hours of lectures, and seven hours of workshop or actual broadcasting, depending on station cooperation. School starts Sept. 16. Course costs of $462 per student will be paid for by government.

U.S. BEEF ON FRENCH PIC RULE

the French issued administrative regulations together with two new restrictions. Restrictions provide that:

All films must be shown within six months of the date of the contracts.

In any six months period, a distributor cannot sell more than six pix to any one exhibitor.

MPA has raised the roof, contending that these limitations constitute a violation of the agreement signed by Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Leon Blum, who headed the French trade mission to this country.

UA CONTINUES 'OUTLAW'

next Tuesday, Sept. 17, due to fact Gradwell Sears is still on the Coast pitching on the Enterprise deal. Raftery said there was no decision yet from UA owners on re-joining the industry organization.

MPA, in a special release tonight, pointed out that newspaper statements that the seal revocation means "The Outlaw" cannot be shown in theatres owned or operated by MPA members was erroneous. MPA members "and indeed all exhibitors are under no obligation not to show the picture and no liability or penalty will be attached if they do so."

Loew's executives, in an off-the-cuff opinion, said they believed the circuit wouldn't play a seal-less picture. However, this is strictly academic as far as they are concerned since "Outlaw" has played all but two Loew dates, and in both of these, Washington and Syracuse, the company has been served with written notice from the police not to exhibit the film.

William Morris Agency, Inc.

Dear Johnny:

This week we celebrate your twentieth anniversary. Twenty years is a long time to be as closely associated as we have been and I do not have to tell you how long it would have seemed if we hadn't worn so well with each other.

We have been very fortunate to have had the benefit of your wisdom and experience in our planning and thinking and doing, and the steady growth of the Agency can, in no small measure, be attributed to your efforts. I am particularly mindful of the solid management you were largely responsible for during the several years of my leave of absence. It was no easy job that was thrown on your shoulders, that of taking care of my chores as well as your own, and the fine way you handled it was, indeed, a tribute to your great ability.

I hope you will pardon me for letting all of our friends look over my shoulder as I write this letter to you. So congratulations, Johnny!.....and here's my sincerest wish that you, Bill and myself will go on as partners in this business for many, many years.

Affectionately,

Abe

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

NEW stunt of clocking, rehearsing and scheduling location shooting in advance is being employed by Metro for outdoor scenes for "Green Dolphin Street" on Klamath Glen location. Each scene is planned in detail, sketched, timed and rehearsed with the camera, but without players. Victor Saville, director, and George Folsey, cameraman, have made three trips to the Northern California spot to lay out the work in advance. They have even gone into almanac calculations to time filming when the sun is exactly right. Same system will also be followed on Catalina Island locations. Carey Wilson, producer, said the reason for the careful preparation is to get maximum speed in filming the outdoor scenes before winter weather interferes with production.

BY means of a further technical improvement in the prismatic lens used to take color pictures with regular black and white film in the Thomascolor process, it is now possible to photograph sequences in color in the lowest key possible used in black and white photography. It has been heretofore impossible in existing color processes to achieve low key photography owing to the huge volume of lights necessary to record natural tints on film. Thomascolor process thus will enable lensers to achieve dramatic highlights inherent in low key photography without sacrificing color values. Development also will save large sums of coin by reducing lamps and electricity volume now necessary to shoot films in color.

JOSEPH P. Day, Inc., bigtime auctioneer, has proposed to the court, the Department of Justice and the majors that autonomous organizations be set up to handle the auction bidding of films. Special Assistant Attorney General Robert L. Wright is leery of the proposition because it is felt the distributors might be behind the move. Proposal, which cost an estimated $500,000 annually, would require majority approval of the companies and would call for offices in each of the 31 exchange cities. Distributors aren't hot about the proposal. Warners is the coolest and Columbia the warmest to the idea.

NOW that Universal's "The Black Angel" is in release and doing nicely at the box office it develops that Roy Chanslor, who wrote the screenplay, was so high on the picture possibilities of the Cornell Woolrich novel that he bought an option on it and did the script on his own time. Chanslor developed the property into virtually an original screenplay, utilizing only the central theme and a major characterization from the Woolrich yarn. Universal paid him $15,000 after deals with several other studios had been held up by casting problems.

WITH studios placing heavy emphasis on name players, agencies are currently having a tough time "selling" lesser known or new personalities to producers. Scarcity of available stars chiefly results from fact that latter, when free from long term studio contracts, are primarily interested in participation deals with indies. Many agencies, as a result, are launching a program of concentrating on new talent.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

One of the international developments has its macabre humorous aspects. It's the Russian protest in Berlin that United States-sponsored sports programs for German youth in which they are taught baseball, football and other sports, are a violation of allied regulations against regimented sports, and may be regarded as quasi-military training. The Russians who protest should be brought to the United States to attend a baseball game, where they can listen to what the fans say to the umpire. It sounds ridiculous to us to hear of anyone calling our sports regimentation, but unfortunately this is just another one of those instances that illustrate how difficult it is for the Russians to understand our way of life. There is nothing more free in our system, nothing that does more to teach the elements of fair play—sportsmanship is the word we use—than baseball, football, basketball and so on, as played in the United States—but still, since it is a part of our way of life, the Russians look upon them with suspicion.

Carol Reed Says British Pictures Aimed at Yanks are Due to Flop

British films consciously aimed at the American market won't go over in this country in the opinion of Carol Reed, top British director, here to direct Skirball-Manning's "Portrait in Black."

"Only by making purely British films for Britons" will pictures be of top quality salable in any part of the globe, Reed said yesterday. Films aimed especially to please Yank patrons was the policy before the war and the result, Reed pointed out, was "pictures which were obviously insincere and never made headway in the United States."

Reed arrived here Monday with Jack Skirball and leaves tomorrow with Skirball for the latter's ranch.

PREVIEWED at RCA Studios, Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 10, 1946. Running time: 67 MINS.

"Roll On Texas Moon" is standard for the Roy Rogers series, with some good tunes and a story that is stock material for Western films. In fact, the action is so fast, furious and constant that Rogers gets only one chance to play the guitar, his time being pretty thoroughly taken up with fights, gunplay and wild rides on Trigger.

Rogers and Dale Evans, in the romantic leads as usual, do a nice job of putting over the tune, "Wontcha Be a Friend of Mine," and Rogers, with the Sons of the Pioneers, is featured in another number, "What's Doin' Tonight in Dreamland."

"Gabby" Hayes gives his characteristic performance as a comedy cattleman, Dennis Hoey is the smoothie heavy and Francis McDonald the rough one. Balance of the cast handles the acting and riding chores in approved sagebrush style.

Story is a variation of the old feud between the cattlemen and the sheepherders, brought into modern time. The cattlemen raise cattle and the sheep men raise sheep and the crop turns out to be the customary Western corn. Rogers is called in to quiet the feud, which, of course, can't last long with an upstanding, guitar-playing, fighting and singing cowboy at the head of the cattle interests and a gal with Miss Evans' looks and personality on the side of the sheep.

Production materials given Edward White seem skimpier than in some of the previous films of the series, but he has made showmanlike use of them. Director William Witney keeps the action at top speed and develops to advantage what drama and comedy the script affords. Three of the songs are by Jack Elliott and a fourth, "The Jumpin' Bean," is by Tim Spencer with Spanish lyric by Glenn Spencer. Latter and the "Friend of Mine" number are the best of the lot. Camera is competently handled by William Bradford.

Rank Aims at Commercial Tele With Ads Woven in Pix

New York, Sept. 10.—British Broadcasting television, despite talk that it is going commercial, probably will continue along present lines under strict government control, according to John Royal, NBC tele chief. Royal, returned from a 4½-week tour of Europe, said Rank is keeping ears to the ground so far as television is concerned. He has already formulated definite programming plans for theatre claims. Unlike American film toppers, Rank has no fear or prejudices regarding television's hurting his film business.

SORRELL DENIES CASEY ACCORD AT NLRB TRIAL

Flatly contradicting earlier testimony by producers labor rep Pat Casey, Herbert Sorrell yesterday testified at the NLRB trial of 10 major film companies that he never made any agreement with Casey over the machinists dispute at the July 2 strike settlement meeting.

"The reason why the IAM and the CSU had not gone to the NLRB and asked for a bargaining election for the machinists," Sorrell said on the stand, "was that the IAM had a contract with the producers since 1937. The machinists went back to work after the 1945 strike under the same agreement they had before the strike began."

Sorrell emphatically denied making any agreement with Casey and declared that Ernie White, IAM international rep, had done the talking for the machinists.

Other witnesses yesterday were Harry Shiffman, business agent for Cinetechnicians Local 23968, D. T. Wayne, business agent for IAM Local 1185 and Fred Pelton, producers' labor administrator.

Trial resumes today with Sorrell slated to take the stand for cross examination by reps for producers and contesting unions.

ALLEE WITH TWO TRIKES ON HIM, WINGS WELL

No performer of Rudy Vallee's proessional stature ever moved within icrophone range with a greater ental hazard than that which beset im on last night's takeoff for Philip orris. For weeks NBC refused aceptance of his recorded audition and ss than a week ago accepted the how but with reservations. Knowing ull well that he was being close abbed by the network, and agency, oo, for that matter, and that his raio career was at the crossroads, he onetheless submerged the thoughts hat bedeviled him and in true troup-r fashion came through with a comendable performance.

GOOD COLLEGE TRY

It wasn't a sock show nor did it uffer by comparison with many anther of the same genre. The script wasn't of high voltage and the premise none too fertile but for a good old college try at a new situation format it seemed rewarding enough for those who turned their dials his way. Vallee was given lustrous support by his two guestars, Hal Peary and Lina Romay. They were woven into the slender thread of story and bounced the banter around with him. Miss Romay also gave a spirited lilt to a Latin number and Peary remained in his "Gildersleeve" character throughout. Vallee apportioned to himself three numbers and came through handily, both he and Miss Romay being given excellent backup by Benny Kreuger's melody merchants.

SHOW UP TO WRITERS

Once Vallee's writers develop a character for him within consistent range of his talents and the budget allows for guestars of better than middlin' quality he should shape the spot to NBC and Biow's satisfaction. Bob Marko, Don Johnson and Phil Shukin fashioned the opening script with an adequate flair for story line and interpolated laugh lines. Commercials, as on most cigaret shows, were boastful and frequent. Next week's guests are Tommy Dorsey and Bert Gordon.

Nelsons in Atlanta

Donald M. Nelson and Mrs. Nelson will arrive in Atlanta, Ga., tomorrow to participate in activities concerned with release of Nelson's book, "Arsenal of Democracy." Following three-day stay Nelson will return to his SIMPP office early next week.

LIGHT AND AIRY

By JACK HELLMAN

It begins to look like John Q. Public and the home folks are not leaping to their sets at the return of their favorites. The warm-up process is slow on the uptake as reflected in the first Hooper returns on the first teams. Let's take a few forinstances. Lux, which rates in the high 20's when the season is well along took 11.5 on the breaker while Screen Guild Players picked up 2.8 for 13.1. "Ozzie and Harriet" (and you name a better situation show) pulled up with a limp 4.8; Walter Winchell was clocked at 12.9 (he'll easily double that in season); Cavalcade of America was checked off at 4.7.

Just what Jimmie Fidler had on the broadcast caught by the Hooper checkers must have had an explosive quality or how else can his 5.1 hop to 7.8 be explained. Tommy Dorsey moved with the upbeat and bounced up to 8.6 via 2.1 spiral. "Gregory Hood" slumped 2.8 and was tagged at 2.6. "Charlie McCarthy's" 14.1 was a fairly good jump-off figure. The others hit the boards thusly:

"Blondie" 7.6, up .2; "Corliss Archer" 5.7, off 1.2; Frank Morgan 5.4, off 1.4; Ford Music Festival 2.1, off .4; Jan Savitt 5.2, off .2; Louella Parsons 6.6, up 2.6; Lum and Abner 4.2, up .3; Carmen Cavallaro 5.9, off .2; "Darts for Dough" 5.2, up 3.2; One Man's Family 6.6, off 1.2; Summer Electric Hour 3, up .4; "Singing Sweethearts" 1.3, up .5. Pro football failed to excite dialer interest and NY Giants-Chicago Bears game polled an even three.

Chain breaks . . . Z. Wayne Griffin, who produced the successful Eddie Bracken audition, doubles over from his duties as radio director for Berg-Allenberg to sit at the controls of the Texaco airer. Paul J. Smith, who was Leigh Harline's arranger on the Bracken show last season, draws the baton . . . Pierson Mapes, radio head of the Hutchins agency, in town for the first set of B. Crosby recordings for Philco which will have a story line . . . Sanford Barnett, scripter of the Lux adaptations, fathered a son yesterday . . . Who called what agency "Rat Race & Ruin?" . . . George Duning, former arranger for Kay Kyser, is getting up his own band for radio . . . Music bill for 39 men on the Borge-Goodman show will run better than $4,000 a week . . . Carroll Carroll, Don Quinn and Larry Burns collabed on a comedy yarn for pictures and Ed Gardner gets first refusal being that it's an all-radio product.

Hitch hikes . . . The pendulum of fate swings either way tomorrow for "Hollywood Star Time." Time has been renewed by Frigidaire but no decision has been reached on retention or rejection of the show. Some talk that another show may be bought for the spot . . . "Those Websters" are moving out here permanently Oct. 6 . . . Don Lee goes off the swing shift Sept. 16 and transmitter will be silenced from 1 to 6 a.m. . . . San Diego's new station, KSDJ, links up with CBS Oct. 1 as the 159th affiliate . . . Ernie Martin due back at Columbia Square from NY tomorrow.

SKELTON SHAKES USUAL HOWLS FROM GAGS

Any comic who can take a limp gag or pun and shake it into a howl must be apart from the mine run of radio clowns. Such a one is Red Skelton, who teed up last night for the season under the clientship of Raleigh cigarettes and pipe filler. Some of the material handed him would have thrown a less facile manipulator of the sodden quip but in his deft hands he had the sitters howling and the home guard must have caught the spirit, too.

Skelton still flits around in the characters that endeared his antics to millions. He plays himself with rubbery, physical flourish, slips into the delineation of Clem, which has the familiar ring of Edgar Bergen's Mortimer, and tops it off with the kiddies' delight, the mean little kid. His Scrapbook had a vacation theme that was funnier in its delivery than what he actually had on paper. A sample gag: "Put your shirt on, Junior." "I want to ride bareback." Give that line to some other comic and you'll hear a cue drop. He's one of the few clowns who can kick around a gag and make it register a laugh without breakup or mugging. And Red kicks around plenty. It was a shaky first show for the Skeltons but with a couple of more away they'll be right up there with the leaders.

Show had its musical moments with Anita Ellis warbling a ballad in slow tempo, and Davey Forrester's band of tooters delivering a symphonic arrangement of "I Got Rhythm."

Dear Frank:

Welcome back on the air and good luck for the new season!

Gosh, I sure had a good time on your vacation.

Thanks for letting me pinch hit for you for Old Gold this Summer.

WASHINGTON HULLABALOO

By FLORENCE S. LOWE

Washington, Sept. 10.—Labor Day is past and business is getting into the fall groove and looking ahead to its tax future. What about the admissions tax? Hullabaloo huddled a day or so with one of the top tax experts for Congress and this is what it looks like: The Joint Congressional Tax Study Committee is mulling over several things, principally individual income and excise rates. The committee experts think it is a good idea to hang on to the wartime excises for the time being and let them expire only when Congress or the President proclaims the official end of hostilities. This probably will be some time in 1947, but nobody knows just when.

Under no condition will the Tax Study Committee advocate that old pet of Supreme Court Justice Fred M. Vinson (former Secretary of the Treasury) who wanted to abolish most excises, including the admissions tax. Thus, the best that will happen will be a drop of the admissions tax from 20 to 10 per cent some time next year.

So far as you big income earners are concerned, forget about any reductions to be made later this year and affecting your 1947 earnings. The experts see no chance of this. They claim that the earliest Congress will probably get a new tax bill will be next March, so that the tax cut will not benefit anybody before 1948. While there probably will be some reductions in the upper brackets, the big drive is expected to increase individual exemptions from the present low $500 rate to perhaps $1000.

Here is a summary of most of the Government's film activities, as reported by the Department of Agriculture.

Seven new information pix for veterans have been turned out, ranging from 1½ minute trailers on National Service Life Insurance and how to write to the Veterans Administration, to the 28-minute-long "Medical Service Second to None," which is a film to recruit doctors for VA hospitals.

Then, of course, there have been several famine films, nearly all designed exclusively for the 16m non-theatrical circuits. Not long before Congress adjourned it passed a law which, among other things, calls for the drawing of plans to remodel the Senate and House Office Bldg. caucus rooms to provide for "the presentation of motion picture or other visual displays on matters of national interest."

In connection with the above, the American Association of Agricultural College Editors has on its agenda for the Sept. 18-20 meeting in Alabama, the topic "Is It Practical for States to Produce Their Own Movies?" Quite a few have already been made by State Agricultural colleges and extension services.

There seems to be a good chance to make a little money by producing 16m special films for the individual states. The states all have fat bankrolls now and the idea is to sell them on spending it on galloping celluloid.

Hollywood, which went all out for the British loan, will begin to get a fairly clear picture this October of whether the promised benefits in freer trade in films will be forthcoming. Some 14 nations have already accepted the bid of the U.S. for the fall meeting to lay the groundwork for a 1947 session on expansion of world trade, lower tariffs, etc.

Washington's terrific box office of recent months should begin to be hit by the end of this year due to the scheduled lay-offs of Federal employes. After all, this is a one-industry town and the industry is Government . . . George Canty, motion picture specialist for the State Dept., back from vacation . . . The current drive of foreign nations to improve their hotels and attractions as a lure for American tourists must not be overlooked in connection with the future of the American box office. Billions will be drained from this country in the next few years and spent for vacation and travel abroad . . . Howard Hughes' "The Outlaw" due to open in D.C. shortly. The town has been waiting a long time for a peek at the penny shocker, although there are some here who guess that it will not have the outstanding financial success which has marked it in most situations to date . . . Ingrid Bergman begins a three-week engagement here Oct. 28 in Maxwell Anderson's new play "Joan of Lorraine." Oddly enough, play will not be staged at the National, town's one legit, but at the Lisner Auditorium of George Washington University — a good-sized mid-town hall. Looks like a sell-out.

Hullabaloo is just back from spending considerable time up and down New Jersey's busy vacation beaches and begs to report they have been raking in bonanzas at everything from the smallest film houses to the new Atlantic City race track . . . Not the least interesting of the sights was the promotion by the majors. Metro had an ex-Navy dirigible cruising up and down the shore with huge signs painted on its flanks advertising "The Yearling." And Warners had a couple of planes over the Atlantic City areas to beat the drums for the preem of "Cloak and Dagger" . . . What we particularly enjoyed last week at the Atlantic City Beauty Pageant was the cornfed Miss Indiana, who devoted her share of the talent test to a plea for financial support for better secondary education. That is one that not even a Hollywood p.a. could dream up. And the little gal garnered plenty of press space as a result.

Merman Forms His Own Film Outfit

Doc Merman, recently resigned production manager for Pine-Thomas, has formed a new production company with William B. David. Firm will be known as Merman-David Pictures, Inc. Initial film will start lensing Oct. 7 in Cinecolor. Two films of forthcoming slate will be made in tint.

RKO Latin Meet

Buenos Aires, Sept. 10.—First RKO South American convention will be held here Sept. 23-26. Jack Osserman will act as chairman and delegates will attend from Chile, Peru, Brazil and the Argentine.

ECONOMY DRIVE LAUNCHED AT METRO MEET

watch on production expenditures. Economy move fits in with changed product selling picture, another subject up for much discussion during the huddles here.

Plans for streamlining production activities, elimination of waste, will be in the hands of a committee headed by Al Lichtman, J. J. Cohn, M. J. Siegel and Sam Katz. Latter was added to the executive trio, which has charge of all producers turning out product on the lot.

ORDERS TO SAVE

During the lush war years studios paid little attention to production extravagances, but Metro producers now have orders to slash shooting time on films, cut out overfootage and spend more time on preparation of features before they reach the cameras. Economy orders come as a direct result of selling problems faced by Metro and other major companies under the consent decree now being prepared in the government's anti-trust suit. Similar waste-elimination is expected to become the order of the day at other studios where high costs sky-rocketed during the war.

Two-week executive here was the third such huddle on economy. First news of the Metro drive on waste was printed some months ago in Daily Variety. Louis B. Mayer had previously advanced ideas for holding costs down at a studio session and at a meeting in New York with Loew's executives. At one of the huddles he held up another studio's film as a prime example of the results that can be obtained without an overloaded budget. The picture was "The Bandit of Sherwood Forest," produced at Columbia.

30 FEATURES READY

Metro now has 30 features ready for release or being edited and another five before the cameras. Another 12 are now in preparation for production and will be among the first to feel vigilante costs-scrutiny of the four-man executive commitee. These films are "Birds and the Bees," "3 o'Clock Dinner," "Green Dolphin Street," "Rich Full Life," "Song of Love," "Cass Timberlane," "The Pirate," "The Kissing Bandit," "The Nutmeg Tree," "Song of Thin Man," "Green Mansions" and "Robinson Crusoe."

Nicholas M. Schenck, Loew's prexy, returned to New York following the meetings with Mayer, the Metro executive staff and William Rodgers, general sales manager.

Back To Work

Leo Sulky, veteran character player, yesterday landed his 545th film role. Actor, whose film career dates back to the early silents, yesterday was signed by producer George Jessel for a featured role in "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now."

VAN STRIKE NOW HITTING SHOW BIZ

New York, Sept. 10.—With the New York truck strike going into its second week, show business here is beginning to feel the pinch of dwindling supplies.

Dropping of amusement ads by a number of dailies, in a move to conserve waning newsprint, is hurting film and legit houses most. Film deliveries have been unaffected thus far, because shipments are handled by Film Drivers and Helpers Union, operating under separate contract from the general haulers.

Production and distribution of sheet music and recordings came to a dead stop during latter part of last week.

Show Biz Big in NY Despite Wall St. Eggs

New York, Sept. 10.—In the face of the violent Wall Street upheaval of recent days, New York amusement operators have had the biggest week in months. High employment level is reported to be chief factor behind the strong legit, film and cafe business.

London Critic Coming

New York, Sept. 10.—Reginald Whitley, drama and film critic for the London Mirror, leaves for Hollywood Thursday. He is currently surveying all fields of entertainment in the United States. Whitley is slated to return to England on November 14.

At the same time, Paramount execs stated they "did not know" how many pictures they would make during the coming year, indicating that studio also has abandoned set schedule.

Even in the case of majors such as Universal, RKO, Republic, and Eagle-Lion, which have stated they would make a certain number of films during the coming year, it is

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

"TUNE-O," musical version of "Bingo," has been revived as stimulant for lagging ballroom grosses. Game was introduced at the Aragon in 1943 but terp-palace operators didn't need gimmick to help business during the war years. First revival was at the Santa Monica ballroom Sunday night, with Spade Cooley and his western music playing out the tunes needed to fill a row and grab a prize. It goes into the Aragon tonight for eight-week tryout with Jan Garber's orchestra. Game, a takeoff of Keeno or Lotto, dishes out prizes donated by local merchants to the first three to five persons who recognize and mark four tunes in a row. Game can be played while patrons dance or drink. It is being franchised to ballrooms at $25 weekly for complete setup by Harry Schooler, who plans to market nationally.

THEY started to tear down Tara Hall yesterday, Scarlett O'Hara's home in "Gone with the Wind." Landmark has been standing as a permanent structure on Pathe's 40 Acres since 1938, when David O. Selznick put it up as a plantation home Vivien Leigh was to occupy for picture. On Tara's foundation will be raised another permanent set, the Laurence home for Selznick's "Little Women," which Mervyn LeRoy will put before Technicolor cameras for producer Oct. 1. An entire New England village, representing Concord, Mass., will be erected around structure, on same site that formerly housed Peachtree Street and buildings which lined it for "Wind." Complete setting will be aged for picture, which has last century period, and is expected to exceed quarter of a million dollar mark.

HOLLYWOOD is improving its technical standards of dubbing and narration in a move to meet competition of native producers in foreign markets. Major studios are widening the use of the expensive process of lip synchronization dubbing of films in most important foreign languages. Films are currently being lip-dubbed into French, Italian, Spanish, with Arabic as the next tongue on the agenda. Process of dubbing is so accurate as to be a perfect simulation of a performer speaking in the native tongue of the foreign market at which the film is aimed.

IN line with economy announcement by Metro, it is expected that company will effect considerable trimming of contract lists where cuts will not react against top talent demands. Contract lists of producers, directors, players and writers are understood to be facing scrutiny for tightening up. Already a number of option periods on players have been passed up by studio and more will be lopped off as the renewal dates come up.

PASADENA BARS GARDENS SHOTS

Even if they are Cary Grant, Shirley Temple and Myrna Loy, city of Pasadena doesn't want actors cluttering up its streets and parks. City Manager Harold Hines yesterday withdrew permit of RKO to film scenes of "The Bachelor And The Bobby-Soxer" in famed Busch Gardens.

The city fathers, it was learned, will not issue any more permits until residents of the exclusive district near the gardens have had a "rest." Nearly all the major studios have utilized the gardens as location sites through the years.

NASSOUR LENSES START IN 1946

Edward Nassour, who is constructing Nassour studios at Sunset Blvd. and Van Ness, will enter motion picture production some time next year, he announced yesterday. Before any active plans are made for setting up production unit, however, he will complete studios. Two stages are due for occupancy late next month, with remaining three to be finished by first of March.

Nassour, who is making his new studio a rental lot particularly for indies, already has acquired several properties and is searching for others. Plan is to make high-budget features for major release.

As It Looks to FLANNERY

(Famous CBS Commentator)

We may be in for it now in the domestic labor situation. With the War Stabilization Board refusing to accede to the demands of the AFL maritime workers, the AFL strategy committee and the CIO may call that threatened 24-hour general nationwide sympathy walkout. We now have Labor, which was the strongest supporter of the government's wage and price stabilization policy, now demanding a break in the line. Labor, even though it is bucking a different part of the line, has now joined that sector of business which has been against the OPA. In each case, the move is one dictated by self-interest, not without reasonable argument, especially since there are already great bulges in the line, but the effect can easily be that we will have to abandon all pretenses of trying to hold wages and prices. Some will argue that is a good thing, that it is time to get back to a more free operation of our system, while others fear that the threats of the presen situation are still too serious. That was the reasoning behind the board's decision. But it is only one episode in a story that we hope is not a tragedy.

Retakes

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

Martin Mooney, producing a Sa Quentin picture at RKO, called u the studio research department of th studio to learn the full name of former warden of Sing Sing priso and was told to wait until the r searchers had researched the stud archives. Wanting an immedia reply, the kind he used to get whe he was calling up the old city des on the New York American, an didn't get it either, Martin called u Joe the Barber's. Without hesita tion four voices responded: "Lew Edward Lawes." Showing that tor sorial parlors have not changed sinc the days of Richard K. Fox and hi Police Gazette.

Which brings up the old tale abou Maurice Barrymore, who had a feu with the said Richard K. Fox. The met in a club one night and Fox said "Did you see the story about you i the Police Gazette this week?" Barrymore answered: "No, I shave myself."

That yarn has been going on fo three generations and the youngsters can't get it. The modern kids have never had the pleasure of venturing into an oldtime barbershop and getting a haircut while looking at a mauve publication showing Mlle. De Leon, in tights, on the front page and Tom Sharkey, with a full-rigged ship tatooed on his chest, training to fight Jim Jeffries. Meanwhile the barber in the third chair tinkled a mandolin and sang "Solo Mio" when not busy with the clippers. And you could always get into an argument about the relative merits of Terry McGovern and Young Corbett.

And now it all comes back with puns about "The Razor's Edge" and "The Big Haircut."

When you have about 186 double marquees ready to print, in comes Tom Breneman and swears he saw this on a film marquee back east:

"Tom Breneman in Breakfast in Hollywood."

"It Shouldn't Happen to a Dog."

Strangely enough, the glib fellow on the radio who tells you all about the virtues of his sponsor's brand of coffee, forgets to tell you that the price is going up.

From Barney Oldfield comes the tidings, relayed by radar from Burbank: "Gigantic grosses everywhere indicate that 'The Big Sleep' is turning out to be The Big Sleeper."

Which brings up the question: What was Hollywood's biggest sleeper? If any sleeper can outsleep "Going My Way," it will set a new Olympic record for somnambulism—and good old coin at the gate.

As an old baseball traveler, you are startled when you hear about the new legit play, "George," which has nothing to do with a Pullman porter.

When everything is soaring high
And eggs and butter prowl the sky
And Metro is economizing
You find it quite a bit surprising.

Fabian Opens Drive to Unite 16,000 Houses Against Auctions

American Theatres Association has started drive to enlist exhibitor support for its fight against so-called "auction selling" of films under the proposed consent decree. ATA, in a message to 16,000 theatres, asks that exhibs supply organization with reactions to fight and make suggestions.

In announcing details of letter sent out, S. H. Fabian, ATA prexy, said: "There is no group other than the exhibitors themselves who can be depended upon to paint a realistic picture of the effect of autcion selling. We hope that exhibitors regardless of association affiliation will give us the benefit of their views on this subject."

Fabian and Robert W. Coyne, ATA executive director, are now attending convention of the West Virginia Theatre Managers Association at Charleston and will participate in a full discussion of auction selling and the effect of the proposed consent decree in its present form.

Southern California Theatre Owners Association, a leader in the fight against auction selling, has joined with ATA to seek permission to intervene in the suit so exhibitors' side can be presented. Data is being collected from exhibs around the country in support of intervention move. Top exhib organizations feel that if court can be given a clear picture on auction selling inequities it will be more ready to listen to the exhibitors' case and not put them under a decree in which they had no part of forming.

ATA letter to exhibitors told of how organization is prepared to oppose by all legal means possible inauguration of auction selling. Letter declared that "distinguished counsel are preparing to fight this matter to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary in order to assure that exhibitors in the conduct of their business may not be bound by rules that they had no voice in formulating and that may well place in jeopardy their ability to continue in business."

Goldman Wins 410G in Philly Suit Against Warner Brothers

Philadelphia, Sept. 11.—Judge William H. Kirkpatrick today handed down a decision awarding William Goldman damages of $125,000 trebled plus interest in his damage suit filed in 1942 against Warner Brothers and major distributors in behalf of his Erlanger theatre.

The total damages, it was estimated, total about $410,000 for period from September 1941 to December 1942. The decision also granted Goldman "injunctive relief."

Kirkpatrick's action left the door open for Goldman to file suit for period from December 1942 to the present, inasmuch as the Erlanger is still shuttered. The judge used the business at the Mastbaum, operated by Warners, as a "yardstick" in determining the damages. The Mastbaum is located one block from the Erlanger.

Goldman had originally sued for $1,250,000 trebled in charging that defendants had violated the Federal anti-trust suits in "freezing" him out of first run product at the Erlanger.

James C. Petrillo's strike orders would affect Chick Floyd's orchestra at the Town House, and the Tony Arreta combo at the Hilton Hotel in Long Beach. Floyd's orchestra was working at the Town House late last night, and when queried by Daily Variety, the orchestra leader stated he had had no official word of the strike action.

MPA LIFTS ITS BAN ON DRUG TRAFFIC FILMS

New York, Sept. 11.—Amendment to the Production Code liberalizing screen treatment of the illegal drug traffic was adopted today by directors of the Motion Picture Association. Formerly entirely tabu, films may now touch on the shady use of dope if scripting is properly handled. Amendment also will allow the production of films showing government efforts to smash the dope traffic. Action was precipitated by Columbia's plan to turn out such a picture.

Code section reading "Illegal drug traffic must never be presented" was struck out and the following substituted: "The illegal drug traffic must not be portrayed in such a way as to stimulate curiosity concerning the use of, or traffic in, such drugs; nor shall scenes be approved which show the use of illegal drugs, or their effects, in detail."

Eric Johnston, prexy, presided over the regular quarterly session, attended by presidents or vice presidents of seven member companies. Byron Price was in from his West Coast headquarters to attend.

THE GRAPEVINE: Paramount can get ready to weep. Billy Wilder intends to check out on completion of his contract. He plans to freelance. Such a move would break up his long-standing collaboration with Charles Brackett . . . En route to Europe, Ned Depinet let drop a startling statement in New York. Said RKO will NOT drop its B product . . . . Macdonald Carey had an odd accident on his way to attend the preem of "Suddenly It's Spring," his first picture in several years. He stopped for dinner in a Bevhills cafe and a glass candle lamp exploded. He was cut under the right eye and on the neck, given first aid by a medico on the spot and proceeded to the theatre . . . Faith Bacon, one of the pioneer strip-teasers, hit Hollywood yesterday. Hopes to land a picture contract like Ann Corio's, whose low-budget films have been cleaning up . . . Hal Wallis tore up Robert Rossen's writer-director contract after viewing a rough cut of "Johnny O'Clock," which Rossen directed on loanout to the Eddie Nealis-Milt Holmes-Jerry Giesler combination at Columbia. Wallis just about tripled Rossen's salary with the comment, "Money's cheap but talent is hard to get."

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Here's a note on the flora and fauna of the Hollywood Hills, contributed by Edward Sedgwick between takes on Metro's "Life's for the Living." In 1923 he was directing a picture at Universal starring Patsy Ruth Miller and Norman Kerry called "Lorraine of the Lions." Film needed some animals for atmosphere so Sedgwick had a monkey island built inside a moat filled with water. Four hundred monkeys were transported to the island. Before a camera could turn, the monkeys scampered over the moat, undeterred by the moat, and headed for the hills behind what is now known as Providencia ranch. A few were retrieved, but most of them weren't and their descendants are still frolicking in the hills back of Warners . . . Susan Hayward showed up on RKO's "They Won't Believe Me" with a bathing suit that could have been packed in a small envelope. Producer Joan Harrison decided the Johnston office would reach for the shears after one look, so Miss Hayward will play all her beach scenes with bathing suit plus a robe . . . There's a miniature Barnard reunion in progress on the "My Empty Heart" at Columbia. Former Barnard scholars include the star, Rosalind Russell; Helen Deutsch, the producer, and Helen Gahagan Douglas, wife of leading man, Melvyn Douglas. The comic, Sid Caesar, insists he's a fellow alumni, only it was spelled with a "y" when he attended.

CALL SHEET: ROBERT RYAN, injured in falling from a horse last week during a scene for "Trail Street," appeared in a wheel chair to resume his riding scenes on the RKO film yesterday. He made it, too . . . BEN FREEDMAN, writer on the Red Skelton airshow, is having his book "Mrs. Mike" published by Coward-McCann in February . . . JANE GREER had a birthday yesterday. She shook her head at two questions—how old she is, where she got that diamond-crusted wrist watch . . . JACK CARSON was beefing about the heat on the Warner lot. "If I had any brains," he groaned, "I'd faint" . . . CONNIE GILCHRIST, now in "Merton of the Movies," received a wire from her daughter Dorothy yesterday advising the latter had been cast in the inguene lead of "Mr. Peebles and Mr. Hooker" on Broadway . . . PRESTON STURGES relaxed his no visitor's role on "Vendetta" yesterday. Visitor was one Joseph Tarantino of New York City. Inquiry by the assistant director disclosed that the latter was Sturges' pre-Hollywood barber . . . SIDNEY SKOLSKY has received acceptances from Frank Sinatra, Bette Davis, Mickey Rooney, Jimmy Durante, Glenn Ford, Dick Powell, Laraine Day, Joan Caulfield, Lou Costello, and many others to attend the Schwab premiere of his production, "The Jolson Story" . . . ANGNA ENTERS' paintings and sculptures will be exhibited Oct. 1 at Francis Taylor galleries before being shipped to exhibitions in San Francisco, Chicago and Philadelphia.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Harry Rapf is bursting with ideas on exploitation of "Gallant Bess," his latest production for Metro, though he's still convalescing from a heart attack. Metro execs say he's showing so much enthusiasm you'd never know Gallant Bess is his 422nd production since entering films 20-odd years ago! . . . Frank Gallagher takes over as vocalist with Carmen Cavallaro starting next week . . . Bob Hope scoots back to Monterey tonight to be best man at the Vic Hunter-Gloria Blondell wedding . . . Catherine McLeod looked forward to her first visit to New York when she took off recently for personal appearances and interviews in connection with the opening of "I've Always Loved You. So when she arrived in the Big Town, she came down with flu, had a 103-degree fever, had her appointments canceled and couldn't attend the opening of her first picture . . . Jack Pulaski took off via American Airlines yesterday for New York and his aisle seat at Broadway openings for Weekly Variety . . . Also airlining eastward were Belita and Barry Sullivan, for "Suspense" p.a.'s . . . Herbert J. Yates, William Saal and Roy Rogers take off today . . . Janis Paige described the decor of a horse in the Hollywood Hills, which a real estate agent was trying to peddle to the Warner actress, as "Early Halloween."—D.D.T.

Chertok has just wound up producer stint on second of two pictures he made with Hedy Lamarr starring, "Dishonored Lady." FRANKIE CROONS SAME WAY AS SOCKERS SIGH

Frank Sinatra still has the bobby sockers eating out of his paw and hanging on to his every word if the shrieking reception he got from the studio audience yesterday is indicative of the general sentiment around the country. For a time it seemed that the swoon idol had given the kids a talking-to but later in the program they gave out with unrestrained whinnying that rode over the stop cues.

There's little change in the format over last season. Sinatra swung into one number, slowed down for the next and tagged off with his favorite, "Begin the Beguine," which was also the beginning of a wave of childish sighs and wild shrieks. In between the Pied Pipers took a tune with brassy accompaniment by Alex Stordahl, and the 17-year-old piano genius, Andre Previn, did a fast take of "Man I Love," with plenty of ginger-bready flourish. Best spot of the show was the romantic bit between Sinatra and Janet Waldo against the theme of "The Girl I Marry." It's a take-off on the boy-meets-girl routine but proved a good device to break up the solid run of music.

Cigarette plugs for Old Gold are amusing in that they take a fall out of slogans of other pill rollers, ethical or no. After kicking the others around they come up with "If you want a treat—instead of a treatment—treat yourself to OG." Oh, gosh, what will they think of next.

By JACK HELLMAN

The question before the house is: Who should take the rap for a bad show? The writer, naturally, is the most vulnerable and therefore must absorb most of the shock. After that the buck gets passed silly. The scribe blames the comic who "murdered my best lines;" the director or producer is not entirely without sin; the agency or client gets wrist-slapped for being too squeamish and the network censor should hear some of the things they say about him. And more often than not the network itself is the heavy for insisting on "good taste and quality."

A vicious circle, yes, but one that strangles initiative as it completes the final arc. It gets so awesome that some chappie with a fresh idea is afraid to stick his neck out. Play it safe and the sponsor will "love it" seems the credo in the commission houses. Not that anyone asked us but we'll chip in our two cents worth and hang the blame for a dooley on the one who master minds the entire works where the show is put together. He's the agency radio director, the headman past whom all blessing flow so he should take the bitter with the sweet. He was placed at the head of the table because he should know the racket better than any of the others. He should pass on every show before it's exposed to the ether just as the networks do. If a show clicks big so do his underlings with their heels in dutiful obeisance but when the air around him gets a little stenched, run for cover men. This holds true especially on first shows and even more importantly on new ones. So put the blame where it belongs and let the buck cool.

The returns are in on two new Hollywood shows and the dialing was not at all disappointing. "Hollywood Players," the new Cresta Blanca entry, made its first bid at 10.5 and Colgate's Mel Blanc comedy exhibit was caught at 7.5. It'll be no sinecure for "Players" to hold what it has once "The McGee's" swing into action. Blanc may even build a bigger audience once the writers find his groove and the show hits its stride. "Sad Sack," which strawhatted for Frank Sinatra and in our book one of the better summer standbys, was closed out at 7.7 on 1.9 pickup. Dollar for dollar it did a better job than most of seersucker tribe. Now for a go at some of the other Tuesday and Wednesday ratings: Academy Award Theatre 6.4, off 1.3; "Dr. Christian" 10.9, up 3.5; "Holiday for Music" 5.3, off .7; Kay Kyser sub 8.4-9, off .5, up .3; Lum and Abner 3.9, off .8; "Date with Judy" 7, up 1.5; Evening with Romberg 10, up 3; "Man Called X" 10, off .1; "Rogues Gallery (Sun) 6.7, up .5.

Chain breaks . . . Fanny Brice has been moved out of 6000 Sunset and will broadcast from two sites. Eastern show originates at the El Capitan theatre and repeat comes out of Columbia Square . . . Bob Hope goes to Dallas Sunday to pick a singer for his first show from audition talent . . . Eddie Cantor will be Pabst's "calendar boy" on the new year. More than 150,000 copies of the arty almanac with Cantor on each turn of the month will be mailed out . . . Studio audiences will be taboo when Hoagy Carmichael tees up his new quarter-hour series Nov. 3 on CBS for Luden's . . . For eighth straight year Mutual-Don Lee carries the world series exclusively with Gillette again taking up the tab . . . Corraling clients was a pipe for Sullivan, Stauffer, Colwell & Bayles compared to landing NY quarters. As a last resort agency leased 14 rooms in the Marguery hotel and took their phone calls through network switchboards. Jack Van Nostrand fared little better in Hollywood and took refuge in a revamped residence . . . Survey discloses that 89 per cent of patients in military hospitals listen to the radio from three to eight hours a day. Favored are musical and comedy-variety programs . . . Buchanan agency will pour for its radio director, Martin Jones, and Eddie Bracken tomorrow at the Beverly Hills Club.

If you went out and bought all the stars on a network, tossed them into one show and had your choice of time, where would you slot it? Surely not in the afternoon, you say? Well, one of you is wrong. NBC and CBS are rounding up such dream shows, each in two sections, and three of the programs will be airing before the sun goes down. Star roundup is the network promotion campaign for the stars who will twinkle on your set this season. CBS has set up its "Stars in the Afternoon" from 11 to 12:30 our time on Sept. 22 and from 12 to 1:30 the following Sunday. NBC's "Parade of Stars" airs from 1 to 3 our time on Oct. 13 and next day from 7:30 to 9 p.m., which is plenty late for the east. Newspapers and magazines would promote themselves with greater regard for readership but the chains apparently don't like to disturb their commercial billing. Spotting such gigantics in the afternoon is comparable to the dailies shoving their biggest campaign back in the want ad section.

'GILDERSLEEVE' OF SLOWLY DUE TO SCRIPT HOLES

Hal Peary is airing his family troubles and romantic didoes on a ne time this season after five years i the Sunday spot. Last night's takeof wasn't as laugh-packed as generall flows from the scripts of Sam Moor and John Whedon but it can be excused on the grounds of any firs night performance. Not nervousnes in this instance but the slow wearing off of accumulated rust in the writing joints. They've given "Gildersleeve" many a solid script and they'll give him many more. Here's one show that doesn't have to fret over the writing department.

The old gang is back with Perry and that means he won't be lacking in sound back-up. Leila Ransome gets a fine character etching from Shirley Mitchell, Walter Tetley makes Leroy a believable imp, and the others come up to par for the show. Like many another first the vacation theme was utilized with moderate results in the chuckle department. Peary's giggly e-e-e-e and the rippling chuckle are still his stock in trade and never fail to generate a laugh where other means fail. Production is also in good hands with Frank Pittman backing up Fran van Hartesveldt in the control booth.

The move from Sunday to Wednesday should be beneficial ratingwise to "Gildy" considering the opposition. Commercials are given over to Parkay and Pabstette cheese with light touches by John Laing and John Wald.

MPEA APPROVES CONTRACT WITH DUTCH OUTFIT

Motion Picture Export Association this afternoon okayed pact made with Dutch Bioscoop Bond to end the impasse that kept American films out of Holland since the end of the war. New agreement, worked out by Francis Harmon, MPEA vice prexy and his aide, Gerald Mayer, in a month's trip to Holland recently, permits approximately 100 pictures yearly into Holland, starting Jan. 1, 1947. Probably some dates will be accepted before that time, also.

MPEA also adopted recommendation that no company join the Bond independently, but that MPEA becomes a member as representative of all. In that way American companies get the same privileges as Dutch Bond members. As a token of good faith, the Bond also gave a permit to Loew's International to erect a new theatre and agreed that the country is under-seated and that a study should be made of how many additional theatres and seats are needed to give American pictures a fair break in playing time.

BILTMORE GRABS MILLION

Biltmore theatre copped honors for mightiest gross of a single house, with finale figure of $1,181,000. Boffo breakdown gives "Oklahoma" most of the credit for this, with the Theatre Guild show taking out $444,000 for 12 weeks.

Philharmonic Auditorium came in third place after El Capitan in the theatre records, snagging $606,800 of the citizens' coin, all of it, with the exception of $18,000, from the Civic Light Opera season, which grossed $598,800. SORRELL DENIES STRIKE OVER MACHINISTS

Current machinists' dispute will not result in a Conference of Studio Unions strike, it was brought out yesterday as Herbert Sorrell underwent cross examination at the NLRB trial of 10 major film companies charged with unfair labor practices.

"At the time of the July 2nd strike settlement," Sorrell testified, "I made an agreement that we would not strike to enforce anything concerning the machinists, but we did not waive any rights.

"We agreed to go to work and let the NLRB settle the machinists case rather than strike to settle it. I was not authorized to speak for the machinists, but I spoke for the people who would support the machinists in any economic action."

Carpenters-IA Row Puts 30,000 Jobs in Jeopard

reached the boiling point last night when Joseph Cambiano, the carpenters' international representative, handed an ultimatum to the producers which, when condensed, stated that beginning at six this morning carpenters would insist on building all sets made on stages. If any other workers did this work, the carpenters would refuse to work with them. And it was stated that the painters likewise would refuse to handle such work.

The ultimatum was based on the interpretation rendered Aug. 16 by the executive committee of the American Federation of Labor setting forth what constituted the work of the carpenters under the decision of the same committee rendered Dec. 26, 1945, ending the studio strike which had been in effect for months.

SESSION LASTS HOURS

Following receipt of the ultimatum, the producers' committee, headed by B. B. Kahane, Edward Mannix, Pat Casey, Fred Pelton and Cliff Work, after a session lasting hours replied.

The reply accepted the ultimatum of the carpenters and in effect told that union and the rival IATSE to wash their own dirty linen by solving their jurisdictional squabbles.

A statement of the producers committee signed by Pat Casey, was delivered to Cambiano. In effect the statement told the carpenters that the producers accepted as "final and binding" the "directive of Dec. 26, 1945" which apportioned the labor to various unions and added that "we believe we have no choice but to follow its provisions as we agreed to do."

GO BACK TO DIRECTIVE

The producers' statement, again commenting on the 1946 directive said: "such directive sets forth that the IATSE should have jurisdiction over the erection of sets on stages except trim and mill work which should be performed by members of your (carpenters) union. It was on that the division of labor was put into effect and strictly adhered to."

Then the producers called attention to the interpretation made by the same AFL committee last Aug. 16 "in which it was stated that 'the word erection is construed to mean assemblage of sets' with construction work on such sets coming within the purview of the carpenters."

The producers then added that Richard A. Walsh, prexy of the IATSE, declared that this so-called clarification was issued without authority and in violation of the "Cincinnati Agreement." Then Walsh added this threatening statement:

"If this decision as originally rendered is not fully complied with this International Alliance will take such action as may be necessary to protect its interests."

WARNING SENT

After declaring its intention of standing by the December, 1945 directive without any changes, the producers issued this warning to the carpenters:

"The enforcement of your demands may result in throwing approximately 30,000 employes in Hollywood out of work. We deplore this situation and its gravity and trust that you and the other unions i volved may find a means of settli your differences which we are po erless to determine."

To this a spokesman for Cambiar said:

"The carpenters will go to wo as usual today. They will insist doing all erection work. We dor care who does the assembling. anybody else does the erection, will refuse to work with them."

Play Review

THE BAT

"The Bat," perennial whodun die-hard, returned to Los Angeles las night at the Musart theatre with a all-sepia cast. As an experiment i Negro theatre for the Coast, ther probably are better subjects to worl with than the Rinehart-Hopwoo script, which shows its voting ag and then some. What is wrong besides the talky play, with its offstag noises and lighting gimmicks, is typical little theatre direction and acting. Everyone in the cast performs as though speaking were a new and difficult feat. Dickson Morgan's direction is as wooden as the dialog and the performing. Jack Present and Harry Zevin deserve credit for this attempt in a new field of production locally, but the little house will need meatier plays and stronger acting and direction before audiences will pay to see such shows, black and tan or otherwise.

Maria Montez Says Yes To 'Atlantida'

Maria Montez yesterday was announced by Seymour Nebenzal as star of "Atlantida," book by Pierre Benoit, which producer has just purchased for picture to follow his forthcoming "Heaven Only Knows." Book is story of a lost city in the Sahara. Star will follow Nebenzal picture with Charles R. Rogers commitment, dualing with her husband, Pierre Aumont, in "Scarlet Feather."

robable that production will actually e geared to meet possible changing onditions. Change in sales policies nder the decree, elimination of "B" roduct and other factors. The 20th-Fox output will be only top budgeted ictures, according to statement nade by Darryl Zanuck in New York.

A similar policy is also indicated or Warners, Metro and Paramount.

Zanuck, in discussing the 20th-Fox situation, refused to predict the number of pictures the studio will make because it is impossible to tell how much shooting time the top budgeters will require. He said exhibs all along the line will have to help carry the load during the forthcoming interim period, while new sales policies are being outlined under the decision. This means longer playing time, since less product will be forthcoming. Exhibs will have to milk each film for all there is in it.

The emphasis on top quality is not expected to stymie talent because studios will be forced to find new talent in experiments for better pix.

Exhibs Warned to Watch Steps in Decree Case

Washington, Sept. 12.—Two of the major exhibitor groups—Allied States and MPTOA—have reportedly been warned by their attorneys to be very careful about the nature of the intervention they make in the big New York motion picture case.

The indie exhibitors have been anxious to dash in opposing single picture auction selling, but their counsel have warned them they are liable to find themselves on the same side as the defendants in the case and subject to some of the provisions affecting the defendant companies.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

PLANS of National Theatres to build a prefabricated theatre chain in Mexico are reported much up in the air. Immediate barriers are regulations imposed on outsiders by the Mexican government, it is understood, which do not encourage foreign capital investments unless management and 50 per cent interest are in the hands of natives. High film rentals asked by companies operating below the border—a straight 50 per cent—is another obstacle to type of operation NT would want. If pre-fab chain does materialize it will be some time in the distant future at any rate as circuit hasn't yet arrived at manufacturing methods, etc., on units needed to bring costs below more conventional type construction. The Crest at Long Beach, first of the pre-fab models, is nearing completion. After it is finished mass production of units will be figured to see if costs will justify innovations.

SUCCESSOR to hand-made waves as formerly utilized by studios is a mechanical gadget which operates by compressed air and generates real life watery undulations. Gig is first used on set of Warners' "Possessed," and was designed by Elmer Smith, a mechanical engineer who doped it out in drafting room. Machine racks an eight-foot long, three-foot in diameter cylinder on a pair of inclined tracks and it is caused to plunge up and down by a piston working from a compression chamber. Each downsweep of cylinder displaces 2,000 pounds of water, and sends it across the Warner lake. Real storms make too much noise for accompanying filming with dialog, so new invention takes care of this, allowing as much dialog as is needed.

REPORTS at Metro yesterday were that the contract roster of something more than 100 producers, including the supervisors of shorts, 160 or so writers and the heavy role of directors would be in for an early pruning as a result of the recent economy conference attended by the local executive committee of four, Louis B. Mayer and Nicholas Schenck. It is understood that the junior writers will be trimmed down to the absolute minimum required. In the case of some on the contract list, it is slated their options will be allowed to lapse and they will be re-eployed only as needed on specific chores.

INDIE producers who had hoped to avail themselves of stage space at Charles Chaplin studio, now that comedian last week finished his new picture "Monsieur Verdoux," will have to wait couple of months at least, with possibility this period may stretch out to three or four. Previous to Chaplin starting his picture, he had let out stage space both to majors, who used it for overflow from their own studios, and to certain indies. It was assumed this practice would resume. Chaplin, however, will not talk any rental deals until he completes cutting his film, and way he works this is certain to cover long period of time.

BATTLE for titles apparently won't be restricted to the motion picture and dancehall business with two Copacabanas slated to bow here. According to signs posted along Sunset boulevard, "Hollywood's Copacabana" now occupies the site formerly held by the Hollywood Canteen. Out where the tradewinds blow by the erstwhile Trocadero is a sign stating "Monte Proser's Copacabana will open here before January 1, 1947." Simple way to solve the problem might be to follow those other Gotham niteries and label the two plush lusheries Copacabana Upstrip and Copacabana Downstrip.

WHEN Warner Bros.' new short, "The Last Bomb," is screened, it will carry a credit for Frank Lloyd as the army coordinator on the project which brings the blast of Hiroshima and Nagasaki to audiences in Technicolor. This is another aftermath of the war which shows how busy Hollywood technicians were to make a camera record of the historic moments of World War II. It was under (then Col.) Frank Lloyd that the battery of lensers were rigged not to miss any of the details of the blasts, and the results.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

What goes now in our foreign policy? Is Jimmy Byrnes to be kicked out? What does Truman mean when he says he's read and approved the speech that Henry Wallace made last night? The speech by the unpredictable Secretary of Commerce is amazing. As Byrnes is declaring he will not compromise, that he stands for the principles of the Atlantic Charter and the United Nations everywhere, whether in Poland, Romania or Timbuctoo, Wallace comes out and says we have no business in Europe. He proposes spheres of influence, dividing the world on the lines of power politics—the sort of thing we had hoped were to have been thrown out forever. While Byrnes is trying to stand up against Russia, and the Romanian commission has even voted in a court of human rights, Wallace denounces the "get tough with Russia" policy—the one we have just decided is the only way to get along with the Soviet. Wallace proposes we get back to the idea of trying to get along with Russia by compromising. If Truman's saying he approves this speech means he backs the Wallace policy against that of Byrnes, the repercussions will be atomic in the party, the nation and the world.

Ambush Trail

PRC RELEASE. Produced by Arthur Alexander. Directed by Harry Fraser. Original screenplay by Elmer Clifton. Musical director, Lee Zahler. Photographed by Jack Greenhalgh. Sound engineer, Glen Glenn. Settings by E. H. Reif. Film editor, Roy Livingston. Assistant director, Seymour Roth.

CAST—Bob Steele, Syd Saylor, I. Stanford Jolley, Lorraine Miller, Charles King, Bob Cason, Budd Buster, Kermit Maynard, Frank Ellis and Edward Cassidy.

REVIEWED at the Hitching Post theatre, Sept. 12, 1946. Running time: 58 MINS.

When Bob Steele sets out to get something you know he is going to get it, even though he is playing the role of Curley Thompson and is riding in alone to turn a lousy town into a hive of honest endeavor.

Bob has bought a ranch thereabouts and all of a sudden he runs into his old sidekick, Syd Saylor. Syd is one of those westerners who can't ride a hoss but manages to hang around and help the hero to foil the grab on the acres which a grain gang from Chicago is trying to put across.

You know there is dirty work when the sheriff is wounded, but you know that the gal is on the square, Lorraine Miller, a nice looking gal who does a good job of hanging around and waiting for the boys to do something, as they eventually do in all westerns.

It all winds up with Curley Thompson, played by Bob Steele, galloping into town and beating the sap out of the villain, while Lorraine Miller and her boy friend go into a clinch and everything is okay.

Bonanova To Mexico

Fortunio Bonanova and Pedro Cavaro plane for Mexico City today, where Bonanova will star in "Hernan Cortez." Cavaro is producing his own screenplay with Dolores del Rio as co-star.

'Lighthouse' Lensing

"Lighthouse" has started lensing on location at San Pedro with Frank Gilbert producing and Frank Wisbar directing. June Lang, Don Castle and John Litel head cast of the PRC film.

KEATON TO MAKE 2ND MEXICO PIC

Buster Keaton, now starring in Spanish-language picture in Mexico City for Alexander Salkind, Mexican producer, yesterday was set for top role in second film for same producer. Salkind talked with Leo Morrison, Keaton's manager, via long-distance telephone, and deal was closed.

Comedian, appearing in a Mexican farce, winds up present stint within two weeks and returns to Hollywood. He is slated then to go back to Mexico City in February. Deal calls for salary and percentage of profits.

Mexico will throw a definite pitch for American film production at the end of this year, according to Paul Kohner, who has just returned from a six-week stay below the border. Kohner predicates his statement on a recent interview with President-elect Aleman, who revealed he wants to encourage U.S. business and capital in Mexico and plans to take steps to protect foreign investments in his country.

Kohner stated that, at the moment, there are three big new studios near Mexico City which are virtually completed but are lying idle. New lots, with stages equal to the largest ones in Hollywood, are almost at a standstill in production, because of Mexican banks turning down loans to many Mexican producers.

WHY LOAN FAILED

Reason behind the loan nixing, according to Kohner, is that many of those "who were not capable or should not have produced" turned out films which folded at the boxoffice or are still resting on studio shelves. Hiatus period, however, is expected to end with lure of excellent facilities and friendly cooperation of Mexican government for Yankee production in Mexico. Studios near Mexico City are Churubusco, Tepeyac and General Cinematografícia. Two former lots are virtually completed, while the GC studios are about 75 per cent finished although shooting is possible on the lot.

American films are smashing records in Mexico, Kohner stated. He pointed to "Gilda" as the most recent import and stated the audiences were turning out in droves for it.

MISS TOVAR IN FILM DEAL

Kohner combined business with pleasure on his semi-vacation jaunt and visit to see his wife, Lupita Tovar, Mexican film star. The agent and Miss Tovar arranged a deal with Mauricio Delaserna and Dolores del Rio for Miss Tovar to join as one-third partner in Mercurio Films. Company plans to organize along similar lines to United Artists original setup with stars owning and performing for their own firm. Kohner also sold Pan American Films the re-make rights to "Blue Angel," which will be filmed with Maria Felix in the star role.

LeRoy Says 'The Robe' Will Require 11 of RKO Stages

Nearly half the RKO stage space will be required for production of "The Robe," scheduled to start next April 1, Mervyn Le Roy, director, disclosed yesterday. Studio, it is understood, probably will have to curtail its "B" production to make room for the Frank Ross biggie.

Le Roy said he will need 11 sound stages for the filming of "The Robe." There are 15 stages on the RKO Gower street lot and 12 on the RKO-Pathe lot in Culver City. At least six of the Gower street stages are too small for use for "The Robe" and it is understood a large portion of the picture will be filmed at the Culver City studio.

RKO execs said the studio will stick to its production schedule calling for 36 high-budgeters and that these can be accommodated despite requirements of "The Robe." Studio is committed to Dick Tracy series and the Zane Grey Westerns, but other "B's" can be shelved if necessary.

GOVERNMENT ASKS SCOPHONY CASE RULING

New York, Sept. 12.—Government, moving for an early settlement of the presently stalemated Scophony anti-trust case, has sent a letter to Federal Judge Edward Conger, asking him to render a decision on the motion of Scophony, Ltd., for dismissal of the charges against it on the grounds it is a foreign corporation and not subject to the jurisdiction of American courts.

Letter to Judge Conger, signed by Assistant Attorney-General Wendell Berge and James C. Wilson, chief of the New York anti-trust division, stated "inasmuch as it now appears there are no prospects of the case being settled and the government is anxious to bring the matter to issue and let the case proceed, we respectively request that decision be rendered."

RKO Spots Martin In 'Chito' Series

Because the character and the actor who played him clicked so well with audiences, RKO is spotting Richard Martin in a series of Zane Grey westerns, beginning with "To the Last Man." Martin created the role of Chito Rafferty, a smooth Irish - Mexican, in "Bombardier." Chito clicked (as did Martin) so the actor will move over to the outdoors gallopers.

STARS GUZZLE POP AT SCHWABS TO HONOR SKOLSKY

Sun arcs, stars, crowds and ice cream sodas spiked with strawberry or pineapple—take your pick—highlighted Schwab brothers soiree last eve for leaping Sid Skolsky, as aftermath of press review of columnist's first producer chore, Columbia's "The Jolson Story."

Over 150 acceptances poured into brothers Schwab, whose drug store on Sunset Blvd. is referred to as Schwabadero by Skolsky, and who staged event which was broadcast from 11:30 p.m. to midnight over station KLAC, with Irwin Allen at mike. From press of famous faces blending with haggard phizzes belonging to Fifth Estate, it appeared all acceptances showed up, with overflow on street.

In midst of all this, Ralph Staub was there with his camera crew, for scenes for his "Screen Snapshots." The Schwabs, just to be on safe side, announced happily they had blanket insurance against anybody or everybody falling through their glass showcases. Soda and choc malt spree, all ladled out gratis and in clean glasses, kept fountaineers busy.

Among those present to lap up refreshments, which put modern curve on old-fashioned strawberry festival, were Larry Parks, Evelyn Keyes, William Demarest, Bill Goodwin, in reception line with Sid, and such other dunkers as Mickey Rooney, Frank Sinatra, Bette Davis, Lucille Ball, Ann Miller, John Garfield, Dick Powell, Sylvia Sidney and host of others.

THE GRAPEVINE: Fall book crop won't prove much of a harvest for the studios. Much of the publishers' lists, and precious supply of paper, is being given to non-fiction, and the quality of fiction being written now is none too promising anyway, according to the story editors. Metro grabbed the prize literary property of the new season, "East River," by Sholem Asch, which is getting salvos of publicity from its publishers. One of the more frequent moans in the book business is one-shot authors. They turn out a best-seller, which nowadays nets them a terrific bundle of cash, and they can afford to take it easy. Formerly a writer, even a successful one, had to keep producing a book or two a year . . . RKO is willing to pay Audrey Long a bonus if she will return to the fold. Actress was under contract for two years but has been freelancing recently. Studio became enthused over her work in "Deadlier than the Male," her first freelance chore . . . Darryl Zanuck and family are planing back to Hollywood today . . . Ann Richards trained to San Francisco to meet her mother, arriving today from Australia for a long visit . . . Laraine Day, who'll play the Katharine Hepburn role in a remake of "Alice Adams," is going to stress straight drama for the next year or two. Front office at RKO agrees after catching her performance in "The Locket" . . . Viola Essen has moved into Jean Parker's house while the latter is in New York.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Here's another one for the "good old days" file. Universal years ago had a trained lion named Ethel and a trainer named Charley Murphy. One day Ethel strolled out of her cage and off the lot. All the farmers in the surrounding country were warned not to shoot Ethel as she was fairly harmless. The studio said she might munch on a few chickens but all damages would be paid; all they asked was that the studio be advised. All through the day Ethel was missing and worry mounted at the studio. Five o'clock came and still no Ethel. At 5:30, her feeding time, Ethel strolled up to the main gate with all the nonchalance of a lady returning from her constitutional. She walked into her cage and demanded dinner, and the countryside breathed easy again . . . James Wong Howe will hop the Clipper for Shanghai and Chungking when "Pursued" is completed. He will oversee the modernization of the Chinese film industry . . . This was Jerry Wald's comment on Sidney Skolsky's preem of "The Jolson Story" at Schwab's: "Zanuck will re-issue 'Alexander Graham Bell,' the Don Ameche picture, any day now so he'll have an excuse to hold a premiere in a phone booth" . . . Double-features-at-the-source: Henry Blanke plans to start "Deep Valley" and "Woman in White" the same day at Warners.

CALL SHEET: VAN HEFLIN, who had his face slapped by Joan Crawford in "Possessed," did not find out until she almost loosened his molars that she had taken some lessons from Lou Nova, who once took some lessons from Joe Louis . . . AGNES MOORHEAD now tops the CBS fanmail list with her portrayal of Marilly in "Mayor of the Town" . . . FREEMAN GOSDENS (he's the Amos of "Amos 'n' Andy") are vacationing in Santa Barbara . . . LUCILLE BALL is huddling with Metro execs this week and her next film assignment will be announced shortly. She has four stories to choose from for her next picture . . . CHARLEY FOY is taking off for New York this weekend to visit his ailing brother, Eddie . . . PAUL HENREID'S novel "Many Are Called" will be published Nov. 20 by Polimer Publishing Co. . . . BEPO ACHINELLI, commodore in the Argentine Navy, and his wife were guests of Dorothy Lamour on the set of "My Favorite Brunette" at Paramount . . . CASS DALEY and her husband, Frank Kinsella returned from a hunting trip to Lake Elizabeth with a bag of 20 doves . . . DENNIS MORGAN'S nine-year-old daughter Kristin will make her debut in "My Wild Irish Rose" with her father.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Billy Wilder declares via telegraph: "Am amazed to read that I am leaving Paramount and Brackett, the two people I love. Where do you get such hot scoops? For heaven's sake please check before you spread such rumors again. Brackett went to Providence last week, not to Reno. He's stuck with me. We both plan to keep honeymooning at Paramount" . . . Since all the beauties who come to Phil Friedman's casting office at Warners must parade the length of the windows looking out from the flackery, he sometimes phones over and asks: "What about the one at 11:55 with red hair?" . . . Viveca Lindfors' husband arrives from Sweden over the weekend . . . Susan Douglas, the young actress imported from Broadway for "The Private Affairs of Bel Ami," received her final citizenship papers yesterday. She's a native of Czechoslovakia, got her first legit break in "He Who Gets Slapped" . . . Having no servants or nurse for her baby, Maureen O'Hara's family came to the rescue. Her sisters are doing the domestic chores while Maureen works in "The Homestretch" . . . Lyle Griffin, president of Atomic Records and publisher of "A Place to Hang My Hat," returned from a two-month record distribution swing to find he didn't have a place to hang his hat . . . his landlady had given him the heave-ho!—D.D.T.

Melville Cooper is Constance Collier's newest tennant at 157 West 57th Street—the same apartment that has been sublet to the Burgess Merediths, Gene Kellys, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Jan Clayton and the Ralph Blums. If only those walls could talk!

ITEMS DROPPED BY THE BROADWAYSIDE: Geraldine Fitzgerald and her groom, Stuart Schestell, have leased an apartment at the River Club, where Geraldine, undaunted by her great disappointment over "Portrait in Black," will continue her search for another script to bring her back to Broadway . . . All the feuds in Washington this week are not confined to Congress. Brock Pemberton, producer of "The Magnificent Heel," currently in its tryout at the National, and his star, Peggy Wood, are holding their own with Rankin and Celler . . . Leo G. Carroll, after a strenuous summer of touring "The Late George Apley" and "Angel Street," on the strawhat circuit, is planing back to the quiet and seclusion of his hilltop home on Outpost Drive—but it won't be for long, if Charlie Einfeld has his way. Charlie has his "enterprising" eyes on him for the role of Dr. Verber in "Arch of Triumph" . . . Larry Tibbett is taking over the third floor of "21" today for 100 of his most intimate friends to help celebrate his swell Jane's natal day . . . The Actors' Fund is $500 richer because Vinton Freedley is Lord Calvert's "Man of Distinction" this month. Incidentally, the only celeb who posed for this ad and didn't turn over the gratuity to his pet charity was a w.k. Hollywood producer-director who claimed that his pet charity was himself!

QUEEN ANN AND CATHERINE: Two arrivals now paying first visit to NY who have entirely captured the town are Ann Todd, of London, England, and Catherine McLeod, of Alhambra, California. Both gals are so completely unaffected and ingenuous in their delight at the hospitality extended them everywhere and the recognition of the clautograph hounds. The other p.m., when Ann emerged from "Carousel," there were over 300 fans mobbing the entrance of the Majestic. I strolled down Fifth Avenue with Catherine McLeod—at least I atempted to, but we were impeded at every step by an onslaught of worshippers armed not only with pencils and books, but their latest weapons—cameras! Of course, when they had time to see Catherine's screen debut in "I've Always Loved You," which had just opened at the Criterion, I wouldn't know. And yet, all of them recognized her immediately and most of them had stills from the picture. Catherine, who commutes to Republic from the unpretentious little house she still lives in, in Alhambra, and has the sanest approach to her career of any youngster I've met in a long time, had all the wolves howling at her Gotham door. But she didn't open it even a crack for any of them because her heart belongs to a young intern back in Alhambra.

For Ann Todd, a cosmopolite who has traveled all over the continent, New York is not as bewildering as for Catherine. But it is nonetheless so exciting that she keeps putting off her trek to Hollywood every day—and now that her boss, David O. Selznick, has joined her here, she will tarry on until his departure. When she does return, she'll find a lovely house off Laurel Canyon waiting for her, where the piece de resistance is a Baby Grand piano for her husband, Nigel Tangye, the brilliant composer who has just completed the musical score for her last picture, "Daybreak."

ADD MORE BARRYMORE: Diana Barrymore, who makes her return to Broadway in "Hidden Horizon" next week, seems to have an unhappy faculty for getting herself disliked by her co-workers. Her recent unpopularity at Bucks County recalls the time that she tried the patience of her father, John, to such a degree that he called his sister, Ethel, long distance to NY and bellowed through the phone, "Who does she think she is anyway—a Barrymore?"

CHRISTMAS PREEM ARRANGED FOR 'RAZOR'S EDGE'

New York, Sept. 12. — Darryl Zanuck started back to the Coast today after a week in New York discussing release plans for "The Razor's Edge" with 20th-Fox home office execs. Decision on Zanuck's plan for Roxy preem a month before the film's day-date release in 200 key spots on Christmas Day probably will be announced Monday. If the preem is held Zanuck plans to return to New York with Tyrone Power and Gene Tierney and possibly Somerset Maugham, author of the book, will be here from England.

Producers and Carpenters Plan Finish Fight

SAG MAY QUIT AFL

The Screen Actors Guild may leave the AFL unless jurisdictional disputes are permanently controlled by union toppers, it was reliably reported last night. Industry's newest labor crisis will be thoroughly discussed at the SAG annual membership meeting Sunday night at the Academy Award theatre. It is understood a growing faction within the actors' union is disgusted with the AFL executives' inability to deal decisively with the jurisdictional disputes among the unions. SAG yesterday sponsored a sharp telegram to AFL prexy William Green, demanding current labor crisis be "settled in some intelligent manner."

Conference of Studio Unions.

"If the producers bring in scab carpenters and painters," Sorrell said last night, "we will throw picket lines around the studios to protect the jurisdictions."

Initial day in film industry's newest labor crisis, highlighted by the discharge of 46 carpenters from five major studios, gave every indication that all concerned—producers, IATSE and the CSU—were headed for a showdown in the dynamite-laden carpenters-set erectionists dispute.

Reliable report points to the big crisis coming by Monday. By that time it is expected the producers will have reached the decision whether or not to call upon the IATSE to keep the studios running by supplying men to do the carpentering and painting work. Picket lines were forecast to start week.

CONFERENCE PLANS POLICY

It was learned that following an all-day meeting yesterday, producers' labor committee failed to arrive at any decision, one way or the other, on its procedure in the labor crisis. The one major result learned about yesterday's producers' meet, however, was that the studios are determined to remain open and fight the issue through.

James N. Skelton, business agent for the Carpenters Local 946, presided at a meeting yesterday afternoon of the CSU executive board. Parley was called to create a general policy for the 12-member unions of the conference in the dispute.

"As far as we are concerned, no studio strike is imminent," Skelton told the board. "The carpenters are embarked on a definite policy of refusing to work with men who are non-carpenters doing construction work.

"Any carpenters who are dismissed will eventually go to the NLRB and file unfair labor charges. There will be no picket lines and there will be no strike. We insist upon working in accordance with the AFL executive council directive and want the studios and other unions to do the same."

As lines were forming yesterday for the anticipated fight to the finish, various labor factions appealed to AFL prexy William Green for assistance in solving the dispute.

The Screen Actors Guild drew up a telegram to Green, sponsored, in addition, by the Hotel & Restaurant Employes, Local 399 Teamsters Union, Screen Extras Guild and the Musicians Union. The wire, also sent to individual members of the AFL executive council, John L. Lewis, William Hutcheson, Daniel Tobin, Felix Knight, David Dubinsky, Mathew Woll, and secretary George Meaney, stated:

"To the national shame and disgrace of the AFL and the labor movement in the U.S., the motion picture industry is again faced with a shutdown by reason of a jurisdictional dispute between two AFL internationals, the carpenters and IATSE. Over a quarrel as to jurisdiction approximating 300 jobs, 30,000 men and women are to be thrown out of work.

"We understand this situation to arise over a quarrel as to the meaning of the Aug. 16, 1946 addendum to the decision of the three arbitrators which purported to settle this very argument last December. This situation has apparently arisen with the full knowledge of the AFL executive council.

"We demand that this dispute be settled in some intelligent manner, either by arbitration, by the executive council, or by the AFL convention, without further embarrassment to the local labor movement and continued disruption of our industry or work, and our community, and that no strike be permitted to exist in the meantime."

In a wire to Prexy Green late last night, Herb Sorrell stated:

"AFL workers in the motion picture industry are faced with a lockout by producers because of refusal of President Walsh of the IATSE to abide by the Aug. 16 directive of the AFL executive council. Urge you to immediately wire Walsh, the Los Angeles Central Labor Council and the producers that the directive be put into effect immediately."

21 FIRED AT RKO

Although all other CSU unions uniformly remained at work yesterday, all carpenters and painters refused to work "hot sets" handled by the IATSE set erectionists. Only break in the pattern was the report that Local 40 electricians at Warner Bros. yesterday served notice on the studio that they would not place work lights on stages where IATSE set erectionists were doing carpentering work.

As the carpenters refused to work they were discharged by the studios. Breakdown of the 46 dismissals disclosed a total of 21 at RKO and RKO-Pathe, 12 at Metro, five at 20th-Fox, four at Columbia and four at Universal-International. Not a sin-

THE PRODUCERS' POSITION

Mr. Joseph L. Cambiano, International Representative of United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America;

Mr. C. A. Sproul, President of Local 946 of the Brotherhood;

Mr. J. W. Vance, Recording Secretary of Local 946

Gentlemen:

Today, we, as representatives of the major picture producing studios in Hollywood, met with you and other representatives of the above unions pursuant to your telegraphic request. At that meeting you advised us that, unless commencing with 6 o'clock A.M., on September 12, 1946, all construction and erection of sets in our studios be performed by members of Local 946, all such sets would be declared "hot" and would not be further handled or processed.

The basis of your request was stated to be a clarification order issued by a three-man committee appointed by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, the contents of which are hereafter referred to.

Our reply, which we promised to make promptly to your demands, is as follows:

At a meeting of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor held in Cincinnati in October 1945, in settlement of the then existing strike, it was agreed that if the unions involved could not settle existing jurisdictional questions between themselves, a committee of three members of the Executive Council should investigate and determine all such questions, that all parties concerned, including the producers, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employees of the United States and Canada, would accept, as final and binding, the determination of the Committee.

In carrying out the above, the Executive Committee of the American Federation of Labor appointed a three-man committee composed of three International Vice Presidents. According to the language of the Committee, after exhaustive hearings and investigation in Hollywood they on December 26th issued a directive to be final and binding on all parties. Such directive set forth that the IATSE should have jurisdiction over the erection of sets on stages except trim and mill work, which latter work should be performed by members of your union. The directive specifically required that erection of sets on stages be under the jurisdiction of the IATSE, and only trim and mill work be given to carpenters. It was based upon this directive that the division of work was put into effect and has since been strictly adhered to.

Thereafter, under date of August 16, 1946, the same Committee issued an interpretation of its previous decision without notice to the parties to the former dispute, in which it stated that "the word erection is construed to mean assemblage of such sets on stages or locations. It is to be clearly understood that the Committee recognizes the jurisdiction of construction work on such sets as coming within the purview of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners' jurisdiction."

We have been advised by Mr. Richard A. Walsh, President of the IATSE, that it is the contention of the IATSE "that this so-called 'clarification' was issued without authority and in violation of the Cincinnati agreement to which this International Alliance, yourselves, and the other international unions involved were all parties . . . If the Committee's decision as originally rendered is not fully complied with by you, this International Alliance will take such action as may be necessary to protect its interests."

As a result of these conflicting demands made by you and by the representatives of the IATSE, we, as employers, are placed in a position of having to determine a jurisdictional question that can only be settled by the unions involved. In view of the fact that the directive of December 26, 1946, was stated to be final and binding upon all parties concerned and that this position was reiterated to us by representatives of the American Federation of Labor at subsequent conferences, we believe that we have no choice but to follow its provisions as we agreed to do.

The enforcement of your demands may result in throwing approximately 30,000 employees in Hollywood out of work. We deplore this situation and its gravity and we trust that you and the other unions involved may find a means of settling your differences which we are powerless to determine.

Yours truly,

Pat Casey,
Chairman,
Producers Labor Committee

EXPECT DECISION TODAY ON STRIKE IN NY NITERIES

New York, Sept. 12.—Decision is expected today on whether Local 802, AFM, will call a strike against New York niteries. Allied Restaurant and Entertainment Industries have asked for additional week's time on the Sept. 16 deadline for contract completion, in an effort to reach an agreement with cafe men.

Cafes are offering 12½% increase which, since it is on top of the 15 per cent recently granted, is the limit they say they can pay. Union lowered 25 per cent demand to 20 per cent and is reported to have nixed arbitration suggestion.

gle dismissal was reported at Warner Bros., Paramount, Republic, Goldwyn Studios and Hal Roach Studio.

It was reported that RKO, following its discharge of 21 carpenters, put in a call for 28 carpenters. According to Sorrell, the 21 dismissed carpenters plus an additional seven were dispatched to the studio. Of the total, 16 were put back to work on the Gower street lot and 12 were placed on the payrolls of company's Culver City lots.

Carpenters' business agent Skelton is slated to deliver a union demand today to Joe Gilpin, studio manager of Enterprise, and I. E. Chadwick, prexy of the indie producers setup. Demands will be the same as the ultimatum issued by the union to the producers Wednesday, precipitating the current crisis.

—By JACK HELLMAN—

So the writers are finally forcing a showdown on the ownership of material—if need be, a STRIKE!

It's not within the province of this or any other outsider to tell the lads what they can or can't do but it strikes this pillar filler as unwise, this talk and perhaps action to suit it, of pulling a walkout if the agencies resist their demands of "leasing for one show only." Should a strike be called by Radio Writers Guild would big time radio be badly crippled, you may ask. In a way, yes, but not seriously. How come?

Oddly enough, the device to fight a strike would be the very crux of the dispute — repeating a script. Those comics who don't contribute to their own show other than the performance could dig deep into their trunks for oldies. The agency storerooms are piled high with shows of other years and with a slight touching up could be made to serve an emergency purpose without the public being the wiser. For more than a year now the agencies have held out against the writer demands which would indicate a standpat attitude. The Guild is equally stubborn and will use its Sunday punch to win a victory. The impasse is at hand and the executive council of the Guild meets today in a solemn conclave to break the deadlock. A compromise seems out of the question so a final ultimatum will likely be delivered to the four A's and a time limit set for acquiescence.

It's hard to imagine creative writers, drawing better than $1,000 a week for collaborative effort with three or four other scribes, chucking it all for a flimsy premise that wouldn't compensate them for the loss of three weeks salary in a year's time.

Czechs, Danes Deal for U.S. Pix Paid for in Cash

DENMARK, TOO

Washington, Sept. 12.—Denmark has offered a one-year deal on the import of U.S. pix which will permit their unlimited entry into that country and provide full exchange for the film rentals, it was announced today by George Canty, motion picture specialist for the State Department. The deal has been put up to MPEA and, although it has a few gimmicks, State Department officials indicated that in their opinion it was a satisfactory arrangement. Word from the American Legation in Copenhagen was that some of the worst wrinkles of the offer might be smoothed out a little later.

This is the Danish proposition:

A one-year agreement beginning Sept. 1, 1946, with no restrictions on the number of films to be admitted to Denmark.

DANES TO MAKE TITLES

Danish language sub-titles would be cut into the films in Denmark, except that pix made before the liberation of Denmark may be titled in the United States.

Danish authorities would okay the free transfer of dollars on pix screened during the year, except that for the small number of films released in Denmark prior to Sept. 1, 1946, the rental fees would be released for transmittal to the U.S. over a three-year period.

The ceiling of 30 per cent rental charge on grosses, which prevailed before the war would continue, although the U.S. delegation sought to get this knocked out. The Danes who have been worried about their ability to make dollar exchange available for export feared to permit the rentals to go too high. There was also objection from Danish exhibitors.

10% TAX ON PAYOFF

There would be a 10 per cent ad valorem duty on the remittances in accordance with Danish tariff laws.

No later than June 15, 1947, the Danes will sit down to discuss a deal for the following year.

Our legation notified Canty that it might not be impossible, later on, to ease up somewhat the 30 per cent rental ceiling and 10 per cent duty figures which our exporters do not like at all.

If and when the industry accepts the offer, Denmark will be the last of the Scandinavian block to be lined up on a U.S. film import deal.

The Simple Truth About The Current

STUDIO CRISIS

We respectfully call the attention of all studio employees to an important American Federation of Labor directive that follows. This directive is a simple review or clarification of an earlier one handed down by the same three signers, all AFL vice-Presidents. It calls for compliance by all affected parties to the 1945 strike—studios, the IATSE and this union.

Last Wednesday, satisfied that producers had received their copy of the directive from AFL President William Green, this union told producers our members would begin to comply the following morning. We asked studios to assign work accordingly. We further said our members would no longer work on those sets where any part of construction was done by non-members.

You will clearly see that all such construction work was given this union.

We now repeat that request. Yesterday several of our men were laid off for refusing to go counter to the directive. This union has no desire to see studios close. We see no reason for their closing. We do insist, however, on compliance with an AFL work division which, if followed, would permit production to go ahead normally.

Judge for yourself:

"Chicago, Illinois, August 16, 1946

"Pursuant to instructions handed down by the Executive Council at its session held on August 15, 1946, the Hollywood Jurisdictional Committee reviewed the work division applicable to the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America as set forth in the Committee's decision dated December 26, 1945, and reaffirmed its previous decision.

"The Committee took cognizance of the allegations contained in a report submitted to President Green by Organizer Daniel V. Flannagan under date of August 9, 1946. According to a brief embodied therein Studio Carpenters Local 946, U. B. of C. & J. of A., alleges that certain violations have taken place whereby the Carpenters jurisdiction set forth in the directive has been encroached upon.

"Jurisdiction over the erection of sets on stages was awarded to the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Moving Picture Operators of the United States and Canada under the provisions set forth in Section 8 of the decision which specifically excluded trim and mill work on said sets and stages.

"The word erection is construed to mean assemblege of such sets on stages or locations. It is to be clearly understood that the Committee recognizes the jurisdiction over construction work on such sets as coming within the purview of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners jurisdiction.

"Section 2 to 5 inclusive recognized the rightful jurisdiction of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America on all mill work and Carpenter work in connection with studios, all work in carpenter shops, all permanent construction and all construction work on exterior sets.

"In view of the alleged violations, the Committee hereby directs that all participants in he Hollywood Motion Picture Studio dispute strictly adhere to the provisions of the directive handed down on December 16, 1945.

EXHIBS WARNED TO WATCH STEPS IN DECREE CASE

would tie them to the provision that the "defendants may not acquire additional theatres." If the indie associations should come up as defendants bucking the New York decree, even their small members might be barred from acquiring additional theatres, it is claimed.

The understanding here is that Allied and MPTOA will be very careful about the type of briefs they submit within the next month to the New York trial court.

Nevertheless one exhibitor group — ATA — is planning to intervene openly in the case. The Justice Department did not comment on this possible development today.

MAJORS ASK DELAY

New York, Sept. 12.—Special Assistant Attorney General Robert Wright is opposing Big Five application for a two-week extension on time called for filing the final draft of film industry consent - decree proposals. Date now is Monday and Wright is demanding at least a rough draft by that date.

Federal Judge John Bright will probably deny the request for two-week delay unless compliance with government demands are met. Decision one way or the other is expected from day to day.

Court OK's $250 Pay Tilt For Peggy Garner

The weekly salary of Peggy Ann Garner, young player at 20th Century, was increased $250 to $1250 yesterday when Superior Judge Alfred E. Paonessa approved her new contract. Mother, Mrs. Virginia Craig Garner, said daughter needed more money for living expenses; father, William H. Garner, said savings account should be increased. Salary disposition now: 70 per cent for living and withholding tax, 12½ per cent for savings and rest for administrative expense.

Toombes for 'Hoppy'

Andrew Toombes was set yesterday for top character role in "Hoppy's Holiday," fifth of the current William Boyd Hopalong Cassidy series.

Down Mexico Way

By LUISA MARIA ALVAREZ

Mexico City, Sept. 12.—Cantinflas with a cane at French Embassy reception in his honor. Not a pose. The star was gored by a bull at border arena recently. He still carried the cane when he left yesterday for New York, from where he will continue his trip to France, as Mexican cinema industry's representative to International Motion Picture Festival to be held at Cannes. Jack Gelman and Santiago Reachi will join Cantinflas in France.

Count Sforza and his secretary Prince Guido Colonna are a great attraction at the Reforma hotel, although they are here on very serious business and certainly have nothing to do with entertaining, but the count is a direct descendent of the wife of French King Louis XII, and also of Valentina de Milan, who was Leonardo da Vinci's protecting angel. And everyone has heard of the princely House of Colonna. So, naturally, heads turn and whispered comments ripple when the two Italians appear.

Theodore Gildred offered luncheon at Tepeyac Studios to visiting bankers from Spanish American countries. Cinematographers, newspapermen, a sprinkling of diplomats, and decorative actresses.

Bankers and diplomats visited the new magnificent studios and a lot was said about good relations between banks and the motion picture industry.

However, a number of our independent producers are running around in circles and sending out SOS calls. The Bank, they say, helps the larger companies and keeps investing in bankrupt Clasa, but there is no money available for the little men.

"Hora Nacional" broadcast by Radio Gobernacion is in its ninth year. Begun by head of government propaganda department which has since been closed, "Hora Nacional" continues to broadcast official doings, plans, speeches, etc., plus good music. Among guest artists have been: Heifetz, Kleiber, Iturbi, Cugat, Lily Pons and Miliss Korgus; guest speakers: the presidents of the republics of Chile, Ecuador, Bolivia, Paraguay and Costa Rica.

The concert piano at Radio Gobernacion is said to be one of the finest in the world. Its twin can be found at the Vatican.

The Jewish play "Mirra Efros" opened at the Fabregas theatre with our two veteran and distinguished actresses Virginia Fabragas and Maria Teresa Montoya.

From Carnegie Hall the Spanish dancers Rosario and Antonio have come back to Mexico and are now appearing at the Bellas Artes.

Carmelita Lopez (danced or was it ice-skated in "Wintertime") having cocktails at the Reforma bar. The blonde dancer is visiting the city with her father, Columbia cameraman, and may remain to work in our pix . . . Blue - blooded Archibaldo Burns Lujan will have role in next Dolores del Rio film . . . Mike Sokol welcomed back with a party.

Pons Before Cameras

New York, Sept. 12—Lily Pons performed before the cameras to the accompaniment of play-backs recorded earlier for "Carnegie Hall," which William LeBaron and Boris Morros are producing for Federal Films, Inc. Miss Pons re-enacted her first appearance in the famous auditorium where much of the picture is being shot.

HOT NIGHTS GIVE BOWL 104G WEEK

Initial week of "Up In Central Park" snagged a mighty $104,000 at Hollywood Bowl. Warm weather brought out the ticket buyers to the first production of its kind in the big open air spot. Show is geared with hefty nut well into $70,000 per week, but hot nights are taking it well above that margin for neat profit.

Col Says Single Sales Will Require New Coin

New York, Sept. 15.—Simultaneously attacking the court ban on block booking and asking a further delay in start of single picture selling, Columbia yesterday served an 18-page brief and proposed findings in the Government anti-trust suit on the Department of Justice. Brief asks for a delay until July 1, 1947 to readjust for single selling, stating that government currently will only consent to postponement until January 1, 1947. Columbia stated it needed the extra time to give itself an adequate supply of pictures, create an inventory and if necessary, refinance itself.

FINANCE CHANGE NEEDED

Columbia maintained that single selling would require a change of entire financial base of the company

Actors Ask Tax Law, Charging Lean Years Off Against Fat

Legislation for the new income tax structure for actors, based on the average income over a four-year period, was asked for at last night's 13th annual membership meeting of the Screen Actors Guild.

Taxation plan, designed to alleviate an "inequitable" income tax situation as it applies jointly to actors, was one of 10 submitted. Although all the resolutions are subject to a mail referendum of SAG membership, indications last night pointed to an almost unanimous support of taxation plan.

The resolution by William Holden points out that income of actors fluctuates greatly from year to year, unlike the annual income of other salaried groups. Present tax format is inequitable to actors, it was stated, because

PAGES were flipped back 18 years by soundman Francis Scheid who had to reach almost inaccessible players, Robert Mitchum and Teresa Wright, for some scenes in U.S. Pictures' "Pursued" on location at Gallup, N.M. Regular sound-boom couldn't do it, and he resorted to suspending a small lapel mike at the end of a trout rod over the heads of the players. This was Hugh Herbert's suggestion 18 years back, when "Lights of New York," the first all-talkie, was being made at Warner Bros., in order to permit the mike to follow movement. It worked for Scheid, just as it worked for Herbert.

STORY behind Paramount's signing of Robert Harms, 22-year-old cowboy-sailor, has an interesting background. A Paramount sales rep first saw him act in a Navy Training school play at Dickinson, N.D. He talked to the youth and suggested that he contact the studio upon his discharge. That was nearly three years ago. Harms, who was discharged from the Navy last April, did as he was told. He hit out for Hollywood and studio gave him a test, resulting in the term ticket signed over the weekend.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The opinion that reporters have of you can make or break you. Instance, Charles Lindbergh, Ed Stettinius, Calvin Coolidge, or Franklin Roosevelt. From now on, Harry Truman is tagged in the minds of the men at the White House. They were not satisfied by that statement Saturday. They know that even if the President does say he was misunderstood, that he merely intended to say he approved Wallace's right to talk, that he nevertheless said Thursday that he had read and approved the speech as representing the policy of the administration. They therefore continue to think Truman is an honest, sincere, hard-working man, but their estimate of his judgment on foreign policy is —shall we say—not high. And what they write about him in that regard will unconsciously, among the reporters, and deliberately among the columnists, be affected by this incident. The man who gained most is Jimmy Byrnes; the man who will lose most is Truman. Whether it will lose him the 1948 elections is a question. It's a long time until then. More important to the people, however, is that Truman did—in the face of the storm—withdraw his sponsorship of Wallace's compromising zone-of-influence plan.

Night shades descend on Hollywood and all is calm and quiet
Nor can you hear a highball clink, not any sound of riot.
The boys and girls in social whirls no longer guzzle rye
Nor mix in alcoholic brawls beneath the starry sky.
They used to slap each other down in fights on balconies
But now the peaceful folks indulge in ice cream soda sprees.
No longer do they hang around in bars until they drop,
But spend the balmy night in yon apothecary shop.

PAR STREAMLINING FLACKING FOR SINGLE SALES

New York, Sept. 15.—Reorganization of Paramount's entire advertising, exploitation and publicity format to meet changing conditions under new auction selling plan, will be undertaken at a special four-day meeting opening here September 30. Home office and studio department heads, together with company's special field reps will participate at the conclave.

Curtis Mitchell, director of advertising, publicity and exploitation, will preside at the meeting. George Brown, studio head of publicity, will head a contingent of his staff to the meet, including Teet Carle, Martin Lewis, Rufus Blair, and James Sarno.

New exploitation program decided upon at the parley will be immediately put into operation on promotion campaigns for "Two Years Before The Mast" and "Blue Skies." The two campaigns are expected to set the pattern for exploitation programs on other immediate Paramount releases.

Program of expediting company's exploitation program for more advantageous use by its field reps will be mapped at the meet. Tentative plans call for Paramount to supply special material for the field reps adapted for their respective territories. Development is expected to aid materially pre-selling of company's product.

GEORGE

"George," which opened a week's run at the Laguna Beach Playhouse Saturday night, is one of those efforts that crops up practically every summer in some strawhat house. Lightweight in every department, the show suffices for warm weather and uncritical vacationers but definitely will wither and die with the first autumnal blast of professional theatre.

John Meredyth Lucas' play is an episodic and spasmodic representation of a spoiled weakling who thinks he can write the great American novel. George, his older sacrificing brother, his wife, his stupid little mistress . . . they're all stock characters out of a stock drama with nothing new to recommend them as entertainment. The play opens with George's funeral services and proceeds from there to unravel the course of the scoundrel's life. Much of it is influenced by Oscar Wilde and Noel Coward, minus the spark of either.

Signe Hasso and Frank Sundstrom did rather well by the lead roles with John Newland in the title spot. Sammy Hill showed up advantageously as the youthful mistress. Robert Milton's staging was not overly encouraging to the script, although Hugo Melchione's sets were definitely on the credit side of the ledger.

PREVIEWED at studio, Sept. 12, 1946. Running time: 126 MINS.

Headed for terrific grosses, "The Jolson Story," based on life of the mammy-singer, is smash entertainment of type which elevates it to position of one of top musicals of the screen. Film catches the spirit of the man Jolson and what he stands for in world of entertainment, and is a solid hit for all concerned with its making. For Sidney Skolsky, who produced, and Alfred E. Green, handling direction, picture is well-nigh perfect job of showmanship. For Larry Parks, glimpsed in Jolson role, it marks entry of a new star, who unquestionably will win an Academy nomination for his delineation of the character.

"Story" is produced lavishly and with consummate taste. Its story line is simple. Topping all else, however, is the Jolson voice, singing many of his most famous melodies, which is an exploitation point and point of interest few films can acknowledge. The voice timbre of the old mammy-singer is still there to enthrall the theatre-goer and listener, and dubbed in for Larry Parks to sing, it comes out for boffo effect.

Story picks up Jolson as a lad in Washington, D.C., where his father, played by Ludwig Donath, is a cantor and he himself sings in the synagogue. He loves to sing, his whole life is wound up in this vocal expression, and when he gets a taste of the theatre, singing in the gallery when William Demarest, as a ham comedian, calls for audience to accompany his bass-fiddling, he knows this is his destiny. Plot thereafter follows him as he grows up with Demarest on the road, gets his first chance on Broadway, becomes the greatest star of them all.

As scripted by Stephen Longstreet and adapted from Jolson's own story by Harry Chandlee and Andrew Solt, plot is kept in a direct and moving line, providing splendid showcase for airing of Jolson's songs. Such favorites of the past as "Mammy," "I'm Sitting On Top of the World," "You Made Me Love You," "Swanee," "April Showers," "California, Here I Come," "Liza" and "About a Quarter to Nine" are only a few of the vocal numbers which get over. One of most effective moments in picture is singing of "Anniversary Song," an old Russian chant.

Parks is ideal choice for actor to portray Jolson and wraps part up in what is acknowledgedly one of season's top characterizations. He has all of Jolson's movements down pat, both while singing and in his acting, with never a moment of unnaturalness to mar his impersonation.

Evelyn Keyes, co-starred with him, plays under character name of Julie Benson, Broadway dancing star, actually Ruby Keeler. She enters picture when footage is nearly half unreeled, but more than makes up for her earlier absence by a lovely presence and convincing performance, her coloring particularly highlighted by film's tints.

Cast without exception is tops, with Demarest, Donath, Bill Goodwin, Tamara Shayne and Scotty Beckett outstanding. Demarest gives another of his sterling roughshod delineations, Donath and Miss Shayne particularly fine as Jolson's parents and Scotty enacting Jolson as a boy. Goodwin plays theatre director responsible for Jolson's big chance on Broadway.

Color photography by Joseph Walker is exquisite. Gordon S. Griffith lent an expert hand to Skolsky as associate producer, and the many technical credits are uniformly of the highest order.

The Devil's Playground

(Western Melodrama)

UNITED ARTISTS RELEASE. Producer, Lewis J. Rachmil. Director, George Archainbaud. Original story and screenplay by Ted Wilson. Based on characters created by Clarence Mulford. Photography, Mack Stengler. Production designer, Harvey T. Gillett. Set decorator, George Mitchell. Assistant director, George Tobin. Musical supervisor, David Chudnow. Sound, Frank Hansen. Film editor, Fred W. Berger.

CAST—William Boyd, Andy Clyde, Rand Brooks, Elaine Riley, Robert Elliott, Joseph J. Greene, Francis McDonald, Ned Young, Earle Hodgins, George Eldredge, Everett Shields, John George.

PREVIEWED at General Service Studios, Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 13, 1946. Running time: 65 MINS.

The new Hopalong Cassidy series gets off to a good start in "The Devil's Playground." William Boyd, as Hopalong, is the same upstanding cowpoke as ever . . . genial and good natured to all honest folks, but a stern, unyielding menace to the evil doer. He rides and shoots spectacularly in a picture that sets a high standard of production and direction for the new Hopalongs.

Director George Archainbaud keeps things moving with thrills in a yarn that runs more to complicated plot and less to action than the average sagebrush drama. Settings, mostly exteriors, have been fortunately chosen and "the devil's playground," rock-studded waste from which the story takes its title, quite lives up to its name. Producer Lewis J. Rachmil has got full production value out of his materials.

Andy Clyde is successful as Boyd's comedy cowboy pal, Joseph J. Greene can take a bow as the comic sheriff who prefers poker to crime detection, Elaine Riley does well all that is asked of a Western heroine, and balance of cast puts on good, even performance.

Story provides for usual thrilling chases, with a lot of gunplay, intrigue and jail house comedy tossed in for good measure. Hopalong Cassidy fans will welcome his return to screen in a show that offers plenty of the kind of entertainment Hopalong has always given them.

Angel On My Shoulder

(Comedy-Drama)

UNITED ARTISTS RELEASE of a Charles R. Rogers production. Associate producer, David W. Siegel. Director, Archie Mayo. Assistant directors, Clarence Eurist, Jack Sullivan. Photography, James Van Trees. Screenplay, Harry Segall, Roland Kibbee. Original story, Harry Segall. Music composed and directed by Dimitri Tiomkin. Art direction, Bernard Herzbrun. Set decorations, Edward G. Boyle. Editing, George Arthur, Asa Clark. Sound, Frank Webster. Special effects, Harry Redmond, Jr. Costumes, Maria Donovan, Robert Martien. Photographic effects, Howard Anderson.

CAST—Stars Paul Muni, Anne Baxter, Claude Rains. Supporting players, Onslow Stevens, George Cleveland, Hardie Albright, James Flavin, Erskine Sanford, Marion Martin, Jonathan Hale, Murray Alper, Joan Blair, Fritz Leiber, Kurt Katch, Sarah Padden, Addison Richards, Ben Welden, George Meeker, Lee Shumway, Russ Whitman, James Dundee, Mike Lally, Saul Gross, Duke Taylor, Edward Keane, Chester Clute.

PREVIEWED at Four Star Theatre, Los Angeles, Calif., Sept. 13, 1946. Running time: 95 MINS.

"Angel On My Shoulder" carries strictly adult appeal, but of this it abounds for what probably will be neat returns at box office. Star names of Paul Muni, Claude Rains, Anne Baxter should draw them in to catch this imaginative fantasy as contrived in Harry Segall's novel original story. Film is overlong in its first sequences, and at times action slows down to snail-pace, but sufficient interest accrues from story after audience gets into it to constitute first-class comedy-drama, producer Charles R. Rogers and his associate, David W. Siegel, hitting upon a new story approach which touches on the spiritual.

This is the story of a murdered gangster, Muni, whose soul goes to Hades. There, Satan, Rains, recognizes in him the exact counterpart of a certain judge on earth who has been diverting customers from him, causing him much loss of business, and he strikes up a bargain with mobster, who wants to get back to earth to rub out his double-crossing henchman, Hardie Albright, who knocked him off with his own gun. Agreement is that if Muni will do him a favor, he—Satan—will help him get back at Albright. Gangster doesn't know who Satan is, believing him to be a trusty named Nick—Rains has told him one of his names is Mephistopheles—but he's willing to do anything for a brief return to upper world.

Once up above again, Rains fuses Muni's spirit into the sleeping judge's body, and complications immediately begin, none of judge's associates, and his fiance, Miss Baxter, able to understand sudden change in his manner, speech and thinking. Narrative sets up amusing and interesting premise from here in, with gangster returning to nether world with Satan a changed and somewhat righteous soul.

Idea has been handled delicately and with finesse by Segall and Roland Kibbee, in their screenplay, and Archie Mayo has directed for best effect. Film is a quality piece throughout. Particularly interesting are special effects, as devised by Harry Redmond, Jr., and Howard Anderson's photographic effects, Dimitri Tiomkin's musical score, too, contributing materially to excellence of production. For his first associate producer stint, Siegel does notable job, picture being Rogers' finest effort to date. Photography of James Van Trees likewise is outstanding.

THE GRAPEVINE: Mary Pickford and Gradwell Sears are on their way to that United Artists meeting in New York tomorrow. There was a lot of talk about a big row being stirred up there by Pickford and Charles Chaplin over David O. Selznick's turning his talent and story material over to RKO for "Notorious" instead of making the picture and releasing it through UA. But that's not on the agenda with release of "Duel in the Sun" set for late autumn. With all the dineros that are expected to roll in the two UA owners can't see any real reason for churning up a scrap at this time. Later, mebbe . . . This professional football is getting just like a radio show with a brewery sponsoring the latest gigantic here . . . Roz Russell's "Sister Kenny" is getting two reviews in Time next week . . . The Andrews Sisters are wondering how they should spend that $5,000 bonus the Chicago theatre handed 'em for their two record breaking weeks . . . Jack Haley nursing a big head after that Schwab party tossed by Sidney Skolsky for the preview of his "Jolson Story." Jack mixed the flavors of his sodas. And as for Sidney, he's going to New York Wednesday to be sure to be on time for the opening of the picture there. The debut is slated for some time in early October. He's taking daughter Nida with him to carry his pills, and those three new suits which are the talk of the town. The old brown sport coat and the burlap pants in their off shade of green which have draped the Skolsky figure these last 10 years are being left behind. A producer has to dress the part.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: The boys in the front rooms are talking abut the 100G that producer is reported to be owing in the friendly poker game which became a habit with him till he got in too deep. Now he's laying off the acey deuceys till he gets some sheckles out of the next picture to pick up the IOU's. The front office lads say they're not worried but you can't blame 'em for being a bit nervous . . . Charley Chaplin's new picture is reported as his answer to the women's clubs of America for their thumbing of his affairs d'amour. In fact the picture is aimed right at them and shows what he might have done by having him bump off a few of his wives in the picture. But the last one, Martha Raye, gets away. He tries to drown her and she just won't sink. Instead she saves Charlie's life when he's about to slip down for the last time . . . We hear the exhibitors of the middle west are a bit worried over a threatened school kid strike up Wisconsin way over the admish price of films which the youngsters think are a bit high for their limited allowances . . . If you were going to pick 10 pictures which best expressed the technical, historical, artistic and sociological implications of the films, what would they be? The Beverly Hills Great Film Society has made its picks and will start showing the pix at the Horace Mann school Oct. 3 with one film a week. The 10 are: "The Freshman," "The Last Laugh," "Robin Hood," "Way Down East," "The Navigators," "Greed," "M," "Madechen in Uniform," "Grass and "Camille."

CALL SHEET: They must be raising a new breed of actors on Broadway. Wendell Corey, brought out to play a top role in "Desert Town" after scoring as the male lead in "Dream Girl" in New York, has been named horseshoe pitching champion of Arizona. The closest the oldtime Broadway actor came to athletics, generally, was flipping a cigaret butt . . . Anne Baxter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Baxter, are visiting the actress and her new husband, John Hodiak . . . People say it comes as a bit of a shock when the phone rings and a girl says, "Just a moment, Mummy wants to talk to you"—and Marlene Dietrich's voice vibrates over the wires. The girl is her daughter, Maria, who is acting as her secretary . . . Metro has installed a special line between the studio and the Santa Cruz location of "The Yankee." Between 12:30 and 1:30 p.m., the locationers can talk to the studio simply by lifting the receiver and ringing the bell on the old fashioned phone box . . . Alfred Linder, stage actor, was flown from New York for a role in "The Brasher Doubloon." It's his third motion picture role but his first trip to Hollywood. He appeared in "13 Rue Madeleine" and "The House on 92nd Street" but did his acting in both pictures in New York . . . Annabella returns over the weekend from a two-week vacation in Bermuda and New York.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: A well known columnist is still red in the face over his faux pas at the Schwab preem—he took the Red Skelton writer, John Murray, for Bob Hope . . . Favorite pastime of Andy Devine now on the Fessier-Pagano "Slave Girl" set is greeting Arthur Treacher, British born but a perfectly good naturalized citizen of the United States long since, as "damned Yank" and "you Yankee." Which recalled to Treacher the other day his experience with a somewhat officiously inclined examiner when he was being examined for citizenship. The actor mentioned something about its being a Federal Government matter and the examiner demanded: "What do you know about the Federal Government?" Treacher asked: "Do you want to hear all I know about the Federal Government?" Answered in the affirmative the actor started in. After the first five or ten minutes the examiner tried to beg off but Treacher insisted: "You said you wanted to hear all I knew about the Federal Government." He finally let up but not until the official had had more than ample proof that the applicant for citizenship was qualified . . . Trigger is getting jealous—Roy Rogers and Dale Evans ride away from Republic every night on a motorcycle, of all things . . . Speaking of singing cowboys and horses, Gene Autry's fan mail since release of his first two postwar pix has jumped to 40,000 letters per month . . . Eddie Albert, after hearing Woody Herman and ork recording for Republic's "Hit Parade of 1947," cracked: "You have to listen to that kind of music with your hormones instead of your ears."—D.D.T.

PARKYAKARKUS PARKS TOO LONG ON AIR RETURN

Once again Parkyakarkus is back and once again he's very much in evidence throughout his "Meet Me At Parky's" on NBC for Old Gold. Net result is feeling that he tries too much to be around and to be it all, hogging show and leaving space for little but his sometimes confused dialect.

Familiar format of restaurant and Greco proprietor now features Patty Bolton in the vocal break-up section. Her meagre portion is, as usual, capably handled. Musical efforts of Opie Cates, and occasional uses as straight, are acceptable. But that's about where it ends as running story is doggedly pursued, situations are telegraphed, material is stretched and apparently much goes on to drag chuckles from studio sitters.

As often as not Parky's pseudo Hellenic accent comes out like Sam Hearn's, nearer approaching a Brownsville bagel mauler's. It may, however, escape detection by unitiated. And when it's not mistaken, it's too pressed, just as gags, largely word mis-pronunciations, misuses and over heavy play on same are virtually ironed out. It must, as is reported, be designed for young, ciggy-minded, minds. The very young, in fact. So, too, are repetitious commercials.

ENT CANCELS ITS LITVAK DEAL

Enterprise is passing up services of Anatole Litvak, who was slated to check in on producer-director deal to make "Coup de Grace." Understood company could get no satisfaction from Litvak as to when he would be available for pact, so cancelled out on deal.

"Coup de Grace" property will revert to director, it is reported, for same figure Enterprise paid for it. Enterprise purchased it specially for Litvak, and will turn over all development on work.

DURANTE, MOORE STILL GET YUKS IN AIR RETURN

Some comics make a studied effort at fluffing lines with the attendant breakup to wangle a vagrant laugh. No student of such psychology is Jimmy Durante. When he kicks around a line he's just doin' what comes natcherly. But solid showman that he is, the unforced naturalness of his fluffs sparks the risibilities without any extraneous devices on his part. He takes it all in stride: "I blew the line, so what?"

Durante and his partner in mime, Garry Moore, must have given their writers some uneasy moments on the kick-off of their fourth season as a team and second for Rexall-United. Some of their choicest lines were batted around but the laughs rolled with them. The funny business supplied by Jack Douglas, Bud Pierson, Les White, Stanley Davis and Elon Packard was more sock than sluff and hit the studio sounding board with a zing. Producer Phil Cohan must have enjoyed the rollicking frolic as much as the sitters, knowing the free wheeling style of his two charges.

For a joke show, and it couldn't qualify for anything else, it had its mad moments and rational interludes. On the latter score there was the singing of Suzanne Eller, a young lady who has improved vastly since last heard on the air. She displayed good control and has a nice tonal quality. Commercials were never allowed to get too serious and ran the gamut from the alphabet to the sing-song pitch, with both Durante and Announcer Howard Petrie officiating for the payroller. New catch-line is "unhappy breath."

What clowns are to the Big Top, Durante and Moore are to radio. They're a fool-proof combo that makes life a little more cheerful for all of us.

LIGHT AND AIRY

By JACK HELLMAN

Men achieve greatness in many ways. To George Washington Hill it came after death. When little people, those who knew him only as a legendary figure, mourn his passing in their own detached but sincere way the man has made his mark in this life. On street corners, in agencies and at the watering places of the tradesmen the talk gravitated to the greatest showman radio has even known. Secretaries, script girls and phone operators were stunned at the news; like they had lost one of their own. Of the hundreds in Hollywood who knew of the man not a half dozen had ever seen or met him. To most he was a mythical character, a legendary figure who made a giant industry throb with his creative genius.

That George Hill was an eccentric does not detract from his greatness. He was a super salesman and used odd means to demonstrate this characteristic. Domineering he was, and at times irascible, but he was a kind man, too. That we get from three of the men who knew him distantly—few reposed in his confidence. Ed Cashman, who for more than a year was the account exec on Luckies which brought him into close contact with him, almost choked up when he said, "He was a great inspiration to me and his inventive genius is lost to a business that needs it so sorely." Another executive on the Luckies account, Jim Wright, who was with Mr. Hill (he was Mr. even to his sons) almost daily in the two years he serviced the business, said "he was the most stimulating personality I ever met in the advertising game." Hal Hackett, radio director of MCA, eulogized Mr. Hill as one of the greatest figures in radio, a dynamic personality whose passing is a stunning blow.

An inventor of slogans, he got his inspiration in odd corners. It was a cabbie who suggested "king size" for Pall Malls and the germ of many another of his catch phrases was incubated away from his sphere of influence. The coinage he favored most was his own—"the air is the ear"—and he never missed an opportunity to impress it on his corps of assistants and agency men. Mr. Hill had a knack for picking talent but he also had a quirk that made them forbidden to him. Many a star who insisted on seeing "the old man" were sorry for it afterward. It was the kiss of death to demand a personal audience and those who are still working for Luckies have never seen the man in person. Those who became obstreperous, in a remote way, were told off with such a memo as, "You've got to live with the public for a life time, we have to live with you only 13 weeks." Those who didn't get the point got the air.

Yes, Mr. Hill will be sorely missed. To give you an idea of the gaping void his passing created, just you try to name anyone in the business who even closely approximates his creative genius and colorful showmanship. And we're not just praising the man because this column was placed on his desk every morning. We have the word of the men who knew Mr. Hill best, that it will be a long time before his like appears on the radio scene.

So much for sentimentality; now to the cold, hard facts of Mr. Hill's successor and the changing tide of a shifting account for this is a cold hard business and as a segment of the show world the act must go on. Best guess for the presidency of American Tobacco is Paul Hahn, closest business associate of Mr. Hill and prez of American Cigarette Co. (Pall Mall). Choice of board of directors may be another bower of the departed chief, Vincent Riggio, v.p. and sales manager of American. George Washington Hill, Jr., has long been groomed for the top spot but whether the family succession carries on is speculative. Mr. Hill succeeded his father, Percival, as prexy. Mr. Hill's other son, Percival (who prefers to be called Val) is learning the business from the agency end and is in the employ of Foote, Cone & Belding on accounts other than American Tobacco.

Which turn American's business takes can only be conjectured. A story grapevines in from the east that Mr. Hill, sensing his numbered days of life, ordered the billing on Jack Benny and Frank Morgan returned to FCB in discharge of a promise made some time ago to A. D. Lasker, then prez of the now extinct Lord & Thomas agency and greatly admired by Mr. Hill. On Saturday night's "Hit Parade" the passing of its benefactor went unobserved, the tobacco firm's radio epitaph to the man who thought it out, believed in it and made it a national listening habit.

Chain breaks . . . Merritt "Pete" Barnum flew in from the east for confabs with Frank Morgan in a last ditch attempt to forestall transfer of the Pall Mall account from Ruthrauff & Ryan to Foote, Cone & Belding, which doesn't become effective until Sept. 28 . . . There being a sharp difference of opinion in the matter of questionable taste between this pillar pounder and Nelson Pringle, KNX newscaster, the trade at large is hereby called in to render its verdict. On the death of Mr. Hill, Pringle broadcast the early bulletin this way: "George Washington Hill is dead; yes, George Washington Hill is dead." Pringle contends it was in good taste; we say it's bad. What do you think? . . . J. Savington Crampton, veteran agency exec, here for Hutchins to whip up the commercials for B. Crosby's Philco spinners .

Hitch hikes . . . Bing Crosby cuts his first two discs for Philco at NBC Thursday. Bob Hope is the first guest and others flanking The Groaner are Lina Romay, Charioteers, Skitch Henderson, John Scott Trotter's music and Ken Carpenter. Bill Morrow writes and produces . . . Owen Vinson produces "Let George Do It" on Don Lee for Chevron gas stations . . . "Those Websters" will pick up a producer and most of the cast when show pitches at KHJ . . . Kay Kyser signals his return to the air Wednesday by playing the score from "The Jolson Story."

MR. D.A. KEEPS SLIGHT EDGE IN HOOPER LIST

Some of the biggies are back and rated but No. 1 in Hooper's Handicap is still "Mr. D. A.", a scant half point in the van of Charlie McCarthy who pulled up at 14.1. The remaining 13 fall into this sequence: Screen Guild Players, 13.1; Walter Winchell, 12.9; Burns and Allen, 11.9; Judy Canova, 11.6; Lux, 11.5; "Dr. Christian," 10.9; Hollywood Players, 10.5; "Suspense," 10.3; Grand Ole Opry, 10.2; Evening With Romberg, 10; "Man Called X," 10; "Dr. I. Q.", 9.8; Album Familiar Music, 9.7; Hit Parade, 9.7.

Saturday niters in the Hooper set got away to a flying start with Judy Canova taking the highest hurdle. Caught at 11.6, the comedienne's return had a stimulating effect on "Grand Ole Opry," which took a 3.8 leap to 10.2. "Life of Riley" polled 9.2; "Truth or Conseqeunces," 8.5, and "Mayor of the Town," 7.6. "Hollywood Star Time" checked in at 6.6 on 2.5 rise and Tony Martin skidded .5 to 4.9. Fanny Brice came back to head the Friday list, tabbed at 9.3. Tagging along after her are "Sam Spade," 4.6, up .8; "Maisie," 6.5, up .1; Tommy Riggs, 4.6, up 1.

Saturday's matinee children fared thusly: Billie Burke, 5.4, off .3; Smiling Ed McConnell, 1.9, off .4; Stars Over Hollywood, 6.6, up .7.

Goldwyn Identities Told in Testimony

Samuel Goldwyn Productions, Inc., and Samuel Goldwyn Studios are two separate corporations and in no way linked, Marvin A. Ezzell, exec of both organizations, testified in NLRB hearing. Former firm was named in NLRB charges of unfair labor practices against 10 film producers. Ezzell said only connection lay in former making films in latter studio.

20th Renews Deal With Dave Rose

David Rose, composer of "Holiday for Strings" and many other popular hits, who has been under contract at Twentieth Century-Fox Studios for the past year as a composer, has just been optioned for the second year on his four-year contract. He has recently completed the score for "Ramona."

SHUT-DOWN? WHY?

With a lockout in progress, with a shut-down of the entire industry a distinct possibility, and with Walsh working day and night to build a strike-breaking force for the Producers, we say:

THE ISSUE IS STILL WAGES, HOURS AND CONDITIONS

Jurisdiction? We, too, are sick of the bickering. It has gone on since the first of this year. The unions and the Producers agreed to abide by the A. F. of L. directive of last December on jurisdictional matters. Parts of that directive were not clear. On August 16, the top A. F. of L. authority defined jurisdiction between the carpenters and set erectors and stated it clearly so there could be no further misunderstanding. After 30 days the carpenters demanded that the directive be observed and stated they would work only in accordance with the terms of the directive. Whereupon the Producers started firing carpenters.

Now we are faced with a shut-down of the industry or further bitter strife. Is this to settle jurisdiction? No, like their other acts of recent months, the Producers seek to destroy those studio unions which are in a position to fight for wages, hours and conditions. Walsh has been the Producers' constant aid in that game. All spring the Producers evaded bargaining for wages, hours and conditions. Walsh helped them by keeping the jurisdictional pot boiling and by trying to force his unions to accept a paltry 10% increase. When the C.S.U. unions struck on July 1 for wages, hours and conditions, Walsh tried to break that strike. When the Producers violated the strike settlement and refused to recognize inequities, they were again supported by Walsh's lieutenant, Roy Brewer.

Now, with contracts still unsigned, Walsh and the Producers have cooked up a new diversion.

IATSE members repudiated Walsh on July 1 and refused to break the strike. The result was a minimum 25% increase for all. C.S.U. and IATSE negotiators fought for inequity adjustments at the same time. The result was additional raises for thousands of studio workers.

These gains and new union contracts which may be signed will not be worth a plugged nickel if the Producers and Walsh now succeed in setting the unions at each other's throats.

The unions can settle their differences amicably if Walsh and the Producers will not interfere. The Carpenters and the grips have demonstrated this.

IATSE and C.S.U. members alike know these facts. Walsh and the Producers have no power which can break the rank and file of studio unions if they will cooperate. Union leaders who play the Producers' game rob their members of wages, hours and conditions. Those who knuckle under to Producer stooges like Brewer, are simply job holders or cowards. We are confident that many leaders and most members of all studio unions will continue to stand together and say to the Producers:

STOP THIS SUBTERFUGE—SIGN THOSE CONTRACTS—ABANDON THE ATTEMPT TO DESTROY THE UNIONS WHICH CAN MAKE THOSE CONTRACTS MEAN SOMETHING.

AUTHORS LEAGUE PREXY DENIES COMMY TINGE

New York, Sept. 15.—Elmer Rice, president of the Authors League of America, categorically denied claims of the newly organized American Writers Association that the proposed American Authors Authority is "Communist" inspired or would lead to totalitarian control of the country's literary output.

Without committing himself for or against James M. Cain's plan for the AAA, Rice asserted Cain merely proposed further protection for writers in matters of copyright disposal. The Authors League, according to Rice, favors the discontinuance of outright sale of literary works to films, radio and publishing houses. He denounced the AWA, comprised of more than 50 prominent authors, for dragging a red herring into the picture.

A representative of AWA asked and was granted permission to attend Authors League council meeting scheduel for Wednesday.

Among the new AWA are Louis Bromfield, Katharine Brush, John Erskine and Clarence Kelland.

James M. Cain, credited with the proposal for the American Authors Authority, put a label of "pure nonsense" on charges of the American Writers Association that AAA is a Communist-inspired plan.

Welles' Mouth Was

Orson Welles, devout champion of Shakespeare, sprang tc the defense of The Bard at CBS last Friday night and finished a bad second. When the network censor banned a naughty five-letter word denoting a woman of easy virtue on his final broadcast for Pabst he stormed and ranted for two hours. He questioned the network's right to censor such immortal literature as "King Lear" and insisted on using the Shakespearean passage verbatim. CBS wouldn't even let him hint at it.

REPUBLIC MAKE INITIAL CARTOON

Republic entered the short subje field over the weekend with start production of the initial carto short, "It's A Grand Old Nag," the Bob Clampett Cartoon Studio.

Development marks another st in rounding out studio's program f 1946-47, with slate of six Trucol cartoons to be released on this year schedule. Studio plans a gradual expanded number of cartoon short as well as possible novelty sequence in some of its top-budgeted music features.

SAG Appeals to AFL for End of Inter-Union Rows

earheading a drive by a number of unions and guilds to have AFL tional conclave in Chicago Oct. 7 t up permanent arbitration machin- y for settlement of jurisdictional sputes.

LINDELOF BACKS PAINTERS

2. General prexy L. P. Lindelof of e painters brotherhood promised e whole and unqualified support of e executive board and the entire otherhood in behalf of painters cal 644.

3. Roy Brewer, international rep of e IATSE, stated that IATSE unions re ready to do all work necessary to eep studios from closing.

4. Observers believe there will not e an immediate strike, with both e producers and the contending nions awaiting action by the AFL xecutive Council, which meets in hicago Sept. 30, week before the pening of union's national conven- ion.

MONTGOMERY'S PLEA

Particular significance was attached in the SAG appeal to AFL prexy William Green, since neither the IATSE nor the Conference of Studio Unions could win in a strike showdown without SAG support.

"One of the major problems and dangers which must be overcome by the American Federation of Labor," prexy Robert Montgomery told the SAG annual membership meeting last night, "and one which directly affects the livelihood of all of us, is the jurisdictional strike. We in Hollywood, perhaps more than in any part of the country, have seen what havoc can be wrought by jurisdictional disputes between AFL unions."

During the past year, Montgomery explained, SAG has contacted every international prexy in the AFL and every Central Labor Council throughout the country in an effort to obtain united action in SAG plan on ending jurisdictional strife.

"We have received written assurances of support for our proposal from a number of potent sources in the AFL," Montgomery disclosed.

DULLZELL TO MEET

A SAG initiated resolution, dealing with jurisdictional strike problem, will be presented to the AFL national convention in Chicago October 7 by Paul Dullzell, prexy of the Associated Actors and Artistes of America, the AFL international parent of SAG, AFRA, Equity, AGMA and AGVA.

Lindelof addressed a membership meeting of the five studio unions of painters brotherhood at the Hollywood Women's Club. He predicted there would be no strike because "the studios have a too healthy respect for the prowess of the unions which fought them for eight months last year."

"I can promise you the whole and unqualified support of the executive board and the entire brotherhood in this situation," Lindelof told the painters after reminding them the brotherhood has a membership of over 200,000.

IA LOCALS MEET

Entire labor crisis was reviewed at a meeting over the weekend, chairmanned by Roy Brewer, of all the IATSE unions and lot stewards. Meeting voted to support the International's stand in the jurisdictional dispute.

Throwing its support behind the carpenters and painters, screen set designers last night called upon the producers to end the dispute by abiding by the AFL directive of August 16, 1946. Union declared current dispute is a smoke screen cooked up by producers and IATSE in order to withhold signing new contracts.

Studios, for the first time in the labor dispute, began discharging painters over the weekend for refusing to work on "hot sets." Of the number, 10 were discharged at Warner Bros., 11 at Paramount and 5 at Columbia. Additional carpenters laid off brought total of 99 men already dismissed by studios since last Thursday.

INDIE PRODUCERS CLOSE WITH E-L ON DISTRIBUTION

'PRELUDE' NO. 1 FILM

PA's initial film will be "Prelude To Night," from the Dayton Stoddard novel. Film goes before the cameras November 1, with William Dieterle directing. Cast is headed by Zachary Scott, Louis Hayward and Sydney Greenstreet.

Second film slated on the program will be "Imperial Venus," the Edgar Maass story dealing with life of Pauline Bonaparte.

The PA deal with E-L also includes a lend-lease arrangement, with each company making available to the other its line-up of stars, directors, top talent in all departments, as well as working crews and studio facilities.

USING NEW STUDIO

PA will produce its program at its new $3,500,000 studio currently nearing construction on Cahuenga Blvd., across from the Technicolor lot. However, facilities of Eagle-Lion are immediately being made available to Lyons to get latter's production slate going. The indie outfit was originally formed three years ago but was recently reorganized with Lyons as head and Joseph Justman as veepee.

Lyons, an agency topper, has many stars under personal contract who figure to be starred in his program. Group includes Dorothy Lamour, Jennifer Jones, Ida Lupino, Barry Fitzgerald, Zachary Scott, Sydney Greenstreet, Louis Hayward and Diana Lynn.

ire financial base of the company. Development would force Columbia o obtain cash by refinancing or stock ssue for its inventory, if forced to sell pictures singly.

Brief further pointed out that single sales would freeze company capital, which under block booking has been turned over rapidly. Besides, company declared, overhead expenses would be boosted since it would have to go through many sales campaigns each year and also increase its personnel.

Columbia assailed plan of policing the industry and at same time asked for reduction of cancellation privileges from the 25 per cent suggested by the court to a 20 per cent figure.

Universal and United Artists' findings will be filed during middle of next week. The Big Five findings submission date is still in doubt.

INDIE COUNSEL AT ODDS

Washington, Sept. 15. — Wide open split between attorneys for indie exhibitors on the proper approach in the New York decree case was indicated yesterday. Thurman Arnold, counsel for ATA, and Paul Williams fo the Southern California MPTO declared in effect that screwball advice was being given to some independent associations by their lawyers.

What riled Arnold and Williams was the disclosure that Allied States and MPTOA have been advised by their counsel to be careful about the kind of intervention they make in the New York suit. These associations were warned that too much intervention might leave theatre owner members in the position of defendants and not able to acquire further theatres.

Arnold, former head of the Justice Department anti-trust division and the man who launched the original suit against the Big Five, is now working on a petition for intervention with Williams. This will be a limited intervention attacking the single picture selling provision of the decree.

In their statement yesterday Arnold and Williams said in part:

"Both Mr. Williams and Mr. Arnold denied that any such legal consequence was possible. They pointed out first that the interveners would appear not as defendants but rather in the position of plaintiffs seeking to protect their own interests. Their sole and limited purpose is to object to the distribution of pictures by competitive bidding.

"They further pointed out that it would be impossible even if the Government desired to pursue such a course for it to reopen the decree and reintroduce proof against the independent intervenors as defendants. Finally the attorney said that there is no conceivable relief which the Government desires against independents."

PIED PIPERS QUIT CAPITOL FOR STANDARD

Pied Pipers, vet Capitol Records artists, have been signed by Standard Radio for transcriptions, upsetting what had become a standard procedure within Capitol of its artists working both record and transcription ends. Deal also lends possibility that Standard has started raiding practices.

Unlike other transcriberies, Cap has been signing its talent to exclusive contracts. Switch of Pipers to Standard marks first known instance of Cap talent signing with an opposition firm.

Cap would make no comment on deal except to say that terms could not be reached with Pipers.

Muni turns in a new type of characterization and does bang-up job with it, gradual transition in his character being fine example of acting. Rains' portrayal of boss of Hades who finds too much resistance from heavens above is one of his smoothest impersonations, and he scores solidly, his performance a delight. Miss Baxter enacts straight dramatic role but does so with charm. Albright delivers soundly, too, as racketeer Muni is out to get, George Cleveland as judge's confused valet gives good account of himself, and Kurt Katch has clever brief moment. Other players stack up correspondingly.

Stewart's 'Outlaws'

Peggy Stewart signed for Republic's "Outlaws of Sioux City." Film rolls Wednesday.

DORSEY BROTHERS MAKE UP

Dorsey brothers opened their precedental double-barreled stand at brother Tommy's Casino Gardens, Ocean Park, Friday night to a moderately light attendance of approximately 4,000 payees. Event marked first time in 11 years the film-fabled freres have played together—or even within horn-hearing distance of each other as a standing feud kept them apart. That is until Charles D. Rogers decided to immortalize them in celluloid, now producing under tag of "Fabulous Dorseys."

Deal was probably sparked more from desire to hypo their "A" picture than any attempt at garnering heft dance hall dough. With Tommy now being sole owner of hoofery, Jimmy is probably in on salary and percentage. Latter opened at spot four weeks ago and Tommy's band joins in, sharing bandstand, for fortnight.

Frank Sinatra, who once vocaled for T. D., put in guest appearance and sang with the two bands—and on the air. He also announced some tunes.

U-I Adds to British Touch By Bringing Directors Here

Universal-International lot is going British in big way, with current deals bringing in not only J. Arthur Rank stars but also directors from England.

Compton Bennett, who directed "The Seventh Veil," British film currently on release in this country, checks in at Universal-International today or tomorrow. Bennett has been assigned to direct "Assigned to Syria," Ronald Colman starrer, which is to be put before the cameras some time in November by Producer Joseph Sistrom.

Arrived here last week and now huddling with Jack Skirball on "Portrait in Black" which he is to direct for Skirball-Manning for Universal-International release is Carol Reed.

The Rank deal with Universal before the U-I merger called for an exchange of players between Hollywood and London and Phyllis Calvert is now in New York en route to Hollywood under similar arrangement. She will be starred in Jane Murfin's "Time Out of Mind."

Employment of British directors, however, is new angle to set up. It was also recently announced that Gabriel Pascal would produce three George Bernard Shaw pictures in this country using facilities of Rank American affiliates—which is taken to mean the Universal-International lot. Prospect now is that U-I will make use of production, directing and acting talent from Britain.

CBS Unveils New Live Color Tele With Stills and Action

New York, Sept. 15.—Still pitching for ultra-high frequency video, Columbia Broadcasting System yesterday unveiled new live color television at studios here. Demonstration was first in series for press, trade, etc., and was 15-minute affair consisting of both still and action shots. It demonstrated high-definition tints with notable result, which was considered improvement over color film demonstration of last winter.

System, however, is still mechanical, comprising color filter in both camera and receiver and requiring perfect synchronization at all times. Question still remains in many minds whether system is commercially feasible. Adrian Murphy, exec v-p in charge of television, said tele industry committee presently working on high-frequency standards hopes to present them to Federal Communications Commission by year's end for approval.

PLANNED 18 MOS. AHEAD FOR CAMERAS

Seymour Nebenzal has completed plans for a $5,500,000 production program. With four story properties in work, producer has mapped a production schedule which will keep his pictures before the cameras for the next 18 months.

Producer currently has Ernest Pascal writing the screenplay of "Heaven Only Knows," which will be directed by Albert S. Rogell. Film rolls early next month. Scripts of two other films have already been written. "Mayerling," for which Nebenzal has been offered a six figure sum as a package deal by three major studios, and "The Tempest," which will star Jorja Curtright, are ready to go.

In addition, Nebenzal has just purchased the Pierre Benoit yarn, "Atlantida," which will star Maria Montez, and which will follow "Heaven Only Knows" on producer's slate.

Michel L. Michelet starts recording tomorrow on his score for "The Chase," recently completed Nebenzal production starring Robert Cummings. Film editor Edward Mann expects to complete editing the picture by the end of next week. Film will be released by United Artists.

RADIO DIRECTORS-CBS MEET TODAY

Radio Directors Guild here enters into its first contractual negotiations today with reps of Columbia Broadcasting System. Following refusal of National Broadcasting Co., to enter into joint negotiations, Guild set up individual dickers and CBS came up as ice breaker, pair having agreed on today.

NBC has requested Guild to set up a date for talks, and American Broadcasting Co., wants similar deal. Latter will likely be postponed until end of month due to Don Searle, v-p, being out of town until then. Mutual Broadcasting System will be left until last.

Bill Robson, CBS director-producer, will function as chairman of negotiating committee in initial instance, and, depending on commitments, may continue in that capacity on other nets, with assistance of men concerned in each instance.

DeCamp's 'Night'

Rosemary DeCamp has been set for a top role in Warners "Night Unto Night," Ronald Reagan-Viveca Lindfors co-starrer.

UA DEMAND LLOYD FILM BY NOV. 15

Producer starts final scoring of "Diddlebock" on Sept. 28.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

WIRE from New York to Daily Variety last week stated that Darryl Zanuck had achieved a profit of $4,000,000 by exercising an option on 20th-Fox stock during July. Producer, on return from east, took occasion to deny that he had sold any stock in his studio during the past two years and added that he doesn't intend to sell any. In fact, he said he's going to buy some more. Evidently the New York wire was talking about paper profits which a lot of the boys in the film biz had before the market took its recent nose dive. The fact, according to Zanuck, is that he exercised an option for the purchase, not the sale, of 20th stock during July. Hence he could not have made any profit. The option, he said, was voted him seven years ago by the company stockholders.

ENTERPRISE expects particularly big grosses from "Arch of Triumph," which co-stars Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer. "Arch" will be last picture with Miss Bergman to reach public for at least 18 months, with possibility this may be stretched out to two years. Actress flies to New York on Oct. 4 to start rehearsals for lead in Maxwell Anderson play, "Joan of Lorraine," and is committed to eight-month run, with likelihood play will run longer. If she returned to Hollywood immediately after this minimum period to make picture, new film could not be finished and released for at least another 10 months, it is figured, which gives Enterprise added playing time for "Arch."

THEATRE Guild has taken Dick Beavers, formerly known in films as Bruce Langley, and thereby hangs another tale of undetected talent. He will be spotted in Chicago company of "Oklahoma" until acquiring stage polish and will be groomed in understudying singing role of "Curley," central figure of musical. He had been under contract to Metro once and later to Republic. Though signed for his voice, he didn't get to sing. On return from Army, and after appearing in couple of very minor roles in westerns, he was released by Rep. When Guild scout Queenie Smith heard him on KGFJ program she grabbed him for Guild. He leaves sometime next week to join road company.

PREVIEW audiences are getting to be a headache for reviewers, what with invited studio personnel, friends of everyone mentioned in the credits and the general components of a claque. At some recent trade showings the enthusiasm with which the guest fans applauded everything from the title to the appearance of each bit player was only equaled by the noisy buzz of conversation. The general idea of previewing in theatres is to get the audience reaction, according to studio execs. But when the audience reaction drowns out the dialogue through a good portion of the screening the working press is frequently left with nothing but a hatchet to use in the review.

WARNER Bros.' current publicity, advertising and exploitation format is in better condition than most in face of industry's change to single-picture selling. Company voluntarily launched a single-picture selling program at the time of the consent decree, some years back. At that time, the entire exploitation structure was revamped to meet requirements of the changed sales policy. Other studios continued to have their ad-publicity departments geared to needs of block-booking. Only change likely is in direction of exhibitor relations, with a hypoed program geared for auction-selling phases of recent court ruling.

SUCCESSFUL song plugging of tune, "To Each His Own" that has reflected unusually good boxoffice for Paramount picture of same title, has made Par brass do some just as unusual reflecting on possibilities of continuing practice. Forthcoming ad-publicity-promotion meeting in New York, Sept. 30 to Oct. 3, will treat heavily on music-radio angles. Formerly left pretty much on their own, two Par publishing subsids, Paramount Music and Famous Music, may now expect strong support of studio, including guestings of stars, particularly musical talented, as Par goes all out on song plugging.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

Maybe Molotov has scored one when he says the German-Polish borders were agreed upon at Potsdam, and instanced that arrangements were made for removing Germans from eastern Silesia, and their transfer has taken place. That contradicts Byrnes' statement that the borders were set only tentatively. Of course it may well be that the formalization is yet to take place, but issue is no longer a means of appealing to the Germans. That's true, even if we consider Russian opposition only. The Russians were careful not to make a formal promise to the Germans to revise these borders. Through Zhukov and Wilhelm Pieck they told the Germans in their zone they "might" get a revision of their eastern frontiers. That was before and during the elections. The last election was Sunday. So on Monday Molotov turns from winning friends and influencing Germans to wooing Poles. But all that aside, more important in the long run is the War Department staff report that there's no evidence of a war with Russia within one year or five years. The open nature of our present dealings, as compared with the old secret diplomacy, and the bold policy of the Russians, has aroused unjustified anxiety. Actually the best reports are that the Soviet, although it blusters to keep the Russian peoples' nose to the grindstone, will be in no position to wage a war for at least 10 years, more likely 15.

Retakes

By GEORGE E. PHAIR

Not long ago, when costs ran high,
Producers didn't mind.
They roared a cheerful battlecry:
"Let waste be unconfined."

A million dollars, more or less,
In motion picture making
Occasioned not the least distress
And caused no bellyaching

Expenses mounted to the skies
When pictures were in clover,
But now the boys economize—
The honeymoon is over.

Sharpshooters about town predict that Clark Gable will play "The Hucksters," on the theory that an actor who played "Adventure" will play anything.

He failed to click in motion pix
And film producers answered "Nix,"
And coldly scorned to meet him.
The guy went east to play legit
And grabbed himself a solid hit.
Although he hadn't changed a bit,

Along about the seventh or eighth inning, when a pitcher is threatening to achieve a no-hit game, nobody in the press coop mentions it. Among the scribes it is considered a jinx, even to whisper it. There is no such superstition in the film business when a picture has even a remote chance of winning an Academy Award. Along about September or October dozens of studio flacks draw their trusty megaphones and yell "Oscar."

'Make Mine Music' Hangs Up New 52G Record for 3 Houses

"Make Mine Music," Walt Disney feature being released by RKO, gave the Orpheum, Vogue, El Rey first run unit a smash new record of approximately $52,000 with its first week in the trio. Film, going into second week today, passed previous record holder, "The Stranger," by nearly $8,000 to set new high.

Outside of "Music," first runs are all playing holdover bills on the current week, making for mild overall total gross of estimated $310,000 in the 28 houses. "Notorious," in fourth frame at the Hillsetreet and Pantages, is still very hefty at estimated $36,000. Third week of "Holiday in Mexico" at the Belmont, Egyptian, Los Angeles and Wilshire, is coming through with smart $49,000 or near. "Caesar and Cleopatra" clipped near $34,000 for its third week in the four Music Halls. Second week of "Claudia and David" is sighting slow $30,000 at the Chinese, Loew State and Uptown. Final five days of "Two Guys From Milwaukee" at the three Warner theatres is shaping up to near $27,000. "The Big Sleep" opens in the trio of day-daters tomorrow for a run.

Fourth and final frame for "Monsieur Beaucaire" at the two Paramounts is clocking okay $26,000 estimate and makes way Thursday for "Strange Loves of Martha Ivers." Second week of "White Tie and Tails" and "The Wife of Monte Cristo" is giving the Guild, Ritz and United Artists estimated $20,000.

"Henry V" is continuing steady in roadshow run at the Laurel, with $6,000 in sight on the 14th week. "They Were Sisters" also paying off at the Four Star with likely $4,500 coming up for third frame.

Marshall Acts

George Marshall, who was an actor prior to time he took up directing 30 years ago, returns to emoting for sequence in Paramount's "Variety Girl," with Daniel Dare to direct his scenes. Work is extra-curricular for both, since Marshall is director of picture and Dare the producer. Marshall will portray a director in action before camera.

REP STARTING THREE MORE PIX

Republic will green light three films this week, in an accelerated rate of production. Slated for lensing starts are "Outlaws of Sioux City," "Jesse James Rides Again" and "Web of Danger."

Studio will begin shooting on four other films in the next month, starting with "Gallant Man," followed by "Will Tomorrow Ever Come," "Along the Oregon Trail," and "Virginia City Raiders."

WB's Doing 'Trilby'

"Trilby" has been placed on William Jacobs' production slate at Warners. Film, based on the George DuMaurier classic, was made over 15 years ago by Warners with John Barrymore in the role of Svengali.

'Cagliostro' Bi-Lingual

"Cagliostro," Edward Small's forthcoming picture, will be filmed partly in Italy and both English and French casts will be used.

Maude Eburne Back

Maude Eburne comes out of retirement for featured comedy role in 20th-Fox's "Mother Wore Tights."

ROSALIE

One of the weakest offerings presented at the Greek theatre all season, "Rosalie," which opened last night, had only few assets. Joe Sullivan, Lee Dixon, and smart dance ensembles by Val Raset and costuming supervised by Ernest Schraps were the goodies presented in this otherwise bleak, dated and loosely jointed musical. Dixon pulled the stops and probably most of the dialogue, and substituted corn-on-the-rib in place of it. Sullivan sang as usual with hearty enthusiasm.

As for the rest of the show, it was deadly dull and weak on the score, even with Romberg, Gershwin and Porter supplying the cleffings. The rest of the cast and director Edward Lilly seemed affected by this crippled show. "Rosalie," fortunately, closes the initial season at the Greek theatre for the Hollywood Starlight Association. It is to be hoped they'll return again next year with better shows than this one.

Allied Protests Metro Grading Cities on Population Basis

Boston, Sept. 16.—Gripes over Metro's new national clearance system featured opening day of the Allied Exhibitors Association convention here today. System, disclosed for the first time, according to Nate Yamins, New England exhibitor, grades cities on population and pushes down smaller towns which formerly, because of distance from big cities, had national release dates a few weeks after key first runs.

After Yamins said he understood RKO and another company was planning to follow suit in allocating smaller towns to an inferior position, a number of delegates warned of the danger that all majors would adopt the plan.

Colonel H. Cole, Texas Allied leader, claimed Metro backed down on imposing system in Texas after he threatened Federal Court action. Metro plan is the result of an Audience Research survey which indicated more money could be garnered from pictures under new system. Delegates expressed their intention of fighting the plan.

Second major beef aired was use of local checkers. Delegates uniformly complained that everyone in town knew their business because Confidential Reports, representing all majors but Metro, employed local people to check grosses.

At the end of a long discussion, Jack Kirsch, Allied national president, told members "there is no need for a resolution on the subject. The job of getting rid of local checkers is going to be done. Have confidence in your leaders."

It was learned from other sources that Attorney General Tom Clark is currently investigating uniform contract provisos which require exhibitors to submit to local checkers.

UA Board Due to Talk Release Deal for Enterprise Today

New York, Sept. 16.—United Artists will release Enterprise product, it is reported here. UA board meets tomorrow and is expected to okay a proposal with David Loew and Charles Einfeld that Gradwell Sears brought from the Coast over the weekend. Board meeting, slated for last Tuesday, was postponed a week to await the outcome of Sears' negotiations with Enterprise. Deal is understood to be less favorable than the one Enterprise had with Universal.

A spokesman for Enterprise stated last night that conversations had been held with UA but no deal had been made.

Prez Krim NY's After Ten Days in H'wood

Arthur Krim, prexy of Eagle-Lion, planed back to New York yesterday, following 10 days of studio huddles here with A. W. Schwalberg, sales chief, and Bryan Foy, production head. While here, Krim set general policy of E-L. Schwalberg follows him east tomorrow.

RALPH PEER TO BE NEW ARA PREXY

Ralph Peer will be new president and principal creditor of ARA. That fact was revealed yesterday at creditors meeting held by Morton Garbus, attorney and acting prexy of ARA, in attempt to influence creditors into permitting continued operation.

Wire was read from Peer, now in Mexico, reportedly lining up Latin talent for ARA, acquiring a pressing plant there and arranging for release of ARA discs. John Beck, of Universal-International, and Charles Washburn were described as associated with Peer in deal, though Beck pointedly made it clear that UI was not itself involved in matter.

Garbus, revealing that ARA had $600,000 in assets, as compared to a disputed $900,000 in liabilities which creditors said was too low an estimate, asked that creditors go along with new management group in effort to put ARA back in profitable motion. Of total, Peer group is reportedly owed $500,000, acquired when they bought up personal notes held by Mark Leff, former ARA head. Government was listed as being owed $200,000 in taxes, and remainder of debt is split between other firms and talent. Phil Harris was logged as largest artist creditor. Others included Hoagy Carmichael, Ginny Simms, Judy Canova, Chu Chu Martinez, et al.

Garbus is said to have stated that unless others went along with new management foreclosure would result in said management credit of $500,000 being dissolved first. Creditors are to appoint a committee to study plan and return with verdict.

LARRIMORE SHOW FALLS SHORT OF B'WAY CLASS

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 16. — Despite fair share of laughs and attractive performances by Francine Larrimore, Mischa Auer and Millard Mitchell, "The Temporary Mrs. Smith" fails to impress as a Broadway entry. Plot gets nowhere until the second act and the complications are light-weight with humor spread pretty thin at times.

Because the show is clean, it could be made into an o.k. film with emphasis on screwball characters and situations. Plot deals with Mrs. Smith's efforts to snare husband No. 5 and to ward off threatened bankruptcy by snagging a dog fancier. Ex-husbands complicate matters for her and she switches to a bird-fancier at the end. Aside from the leads, supporting cast does very well. Billy Gilbert's direction puts emphasis on comedy. Vinton Freedley presents the show by Jacqueline Susann-Beatrice Cole which will need plenty of attention before braving the Main Stem competition.

Tomack Does 'Walk'

Sid Tomack has been handed comedy lead in "They Walk Alone" at Columbia. Chore is Tomack's second at the studio.

PRC GETS RANCH FOR 'STALLION' PIC

PRC has closed deal for use of 1700-acre Brown-Shasta Ranch, on western slope of Mount Shasta in Northern California, for shooting of "The Red Stallion." Picture will go before Cinecolor cameras on Oct. 1, with troupe headed by director Lesley Selander slated to remain seven weeks. Twenty-acre site is being cleared for use as landing field, and company has made arrangements to keep specially-chartered plane on location during entire shooting period to expedite swift communication with Hollywood.

THE GRAPEVINE: The terms of that peace treaty between Barbara Stanwyck and Hal Wallis were being talked about the lots yesterday. Understood femme star laid down the conditions under which she will do a picture for producer. And the ultimatum was something like this: Miss Stanwysk is to have ok of the script line for line and shot for shot, before and after cutting. Understood that she was peeved by the way "Martha Ivers" was changed in the final cutting . . . The insiders are telling that Everett Riskin is likely to be seeking pastures other than those of Metro. This in the face of his very recent assignment to producer Greer Garson's next starring vehicle, "Nutmeg Tree," for Leo . . . Bryan Foy learned yesterday that brother Eddie, Jr., is withdrawing from the cast of "The Red Mill" in NY . . . Alan Ladd is reported leading fan mail league, with some 20,000 pictures being mailed out each month by Paramount. Cornel Wilde is the fan topper at 20th . . . Terry Austin Eagle-Lion femme threw the flack department for a loss when she offered the grounds of her home one of Bel-Air's show places as setting for publicity pic for other gals on the lot. They're telling this one on Nelson Eddy over at Republic. Singer believes in doing as the Romans do when in Rome, so he wore a cowboy regalia when he went over there to confer about "Will Tomorrow Ever Come?" but when a flack tried to get him on a horse, he said neigh, neigh.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: There have been some fast debuts and exits in Hollywood but the speediest career of all seems to have been that of David Hanna. He was on the payroll out at Selznick's just 90 minutes. Hanna was wooed from the Daily News drama desk on a part-time basis, given an overfed salary, an assistant and a secretary and told to do some flacking for "Little Women." He arrived bright and early. For one hour and a half he chatted with his aide and secretary. Then he left for the Daily News. Next day the critic phoned the studio that he wouldn't be back because, he said, he wasn't happy . . . It's the old story with Lou Parker. He tried to break into pictures here in Hollywood with no luck. Then to NY and a spot in "Front Page." You guessed it, the film companies are casting bait at him now . . . Joy Lewis, Joyce Reynolds' seven-week-old daughter, gave mama a lesson in space stealing. She put on one of those so-tired yawns for the photog and the print found its way into 482 newspapers . . . Lenore Lombard, Hollywood's youngest grandma at 31, is going to marry a fellow dress extra, Freddie Fisher . . . Skitch Henderson is gathering $10,000 for his multiple chore in Benedict Bogeaus' "A Miracle Can Happen" and all he has to do is pen the score, conduct, write an original tune and thump the ivories for Jimmy Stewart . . . Mort Thompson is cutting his two-year-old Do Dah Day more ways than Frank Sinatra. He's offering 10th interests for $750.

CALL SHEET: They're still buying the Citizen News of last Wednesday for a peep at the caption under the pictures of Carey Grant and Ingrid Bergman . . . Veronica Lake is taking flying lessons from that champion Paul Mantz who first thing made Veronica drop that over-the-eye hair do . . . Mona Freeman and Pat Nerney celebrated their first wedding anniversary past weekend . . . Joe Medina, Pine-Thomas transportation manager, turns actor in "Adventure Island," portraying the role of captain and crew of a small ship . . . Mary Astor is spending all her time away from Hal Wallis' "Desert Town" with her mother Mrs. Helen Langhanke, who's seriously ill . . . An aged musician, apparently a lover of pure art, went a bit berserk at the opening of D'Varga at new Casbah club. It took four waiters to subdue the purist when pianist jazzed Chopin's "Fantasy Impromptu" . . . Charles Wagenheim has devised a new racing game. Instead of dogs chasing a mechanical rabbit Nat has autos pursuing a mechanical pedestrian . . . And Ethel Meglin observes that in the camera hog quite appropriately is found the most ham.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: "Johnny O'Clock" is in the final cutting right now. The scoring will come in a few days and a preview in about three weeks . . . The picture, for Columbia release, has brought Dick Powell doubled pay for his next film on the Gower St. lot, "Assigned to the Treasury," and Robert Rosson, who did the screenplay and direction, a new deal with Hal Wallis. Now it has developed that Milton Holmes, who served as associate producer and wrote the original story, has been handed a big offer by one of the majors. But he's going to take the okay film to New York in the near future and stay there for six months or so before making any new deal . . . Jeanette MacDonald tossed a shower yesterday for her French maid, Rose Coen, who's leaving her after 17 years . . . The whole universe moves in circles and so has the life of Chester Conklin. After 30 years in the fillums, Chester is right back where he started, playing a Keystone Kop in "Merton of the Movies" out at Metro . . . And if anybody thinks lack of a releasing deal is keeping Enterprise from going ahead on its schedule, he has another guess coming. Loew-Einfeld combo will start shooting its third picture, "The Other Love," Barbara Stanwyck starrer, Sept. 30—D.D.T.

KAYE EXPECTED TO TOP SINATRA MARK IN CHI

Chicago, Sept. 16.—With a $25,000 guarantee plus 50 per cent of the gross over $60,000, Danny Kaye, who has been signed to head the stage show celebrating the 25th anniversary of B & K's Chicago theatre, is expected to top the $41,000 take of Frank Sinatra some weeks ago. Advance ballyhoo for Kaye's appearance plus the world preem of Paramount's "Blue Skies" is reason given. Sinatra's record week grossed $92,000 with MGM's "Up Goes Maisie" on the screen.

Flying Spotters

Paul Mantz is flying a group of 20th-Fox executives to Mexico on a three to four weeks trip seeking locations for "The Captain From Castile." Passengers include Henry King, Robert Webb, Lamar Trotti, Joe LaShelle, Bill Eckhart and James Basevi.

WB GIVES CREDIT TO HUMANE ASSN.

Warner Bros. studio has completed arrangements with the American Humane Association in which latter organization will be given screen credit for films in which sequences involve animals.

Credit line will read: "Produced with the cooperation of the American Humane Assn." Initial screen credit will be on "Stallion Road." Richard C. Craven is local director of the AHA. He, and his two assistants, will be allowed free range in the studio or on its locations to supervise all animal participation.

SEARS UPSETS 'TRESPASSING' BALLYHOO

"No Trespassing," Sol Lesser filming of the George Agnew Chamberlain book, "The Red House," was giving Lesser both a glow and a headache yesterday. Lesser had figured the film as a good show that would gross satisfactorily. But Grad Sears, United Artists veepee in charge of distribution, got excited about the film after seeing a rough cut last week, pronounced it a sleeper with big grossing possibilities and calling for the full ballyhoo treatment as one of United Artists' 1947 biggies.

Sears insisted, though, on a title change, feeling that "No Trespassing" doesn't lend itself to top exploitation. Demand for a new title brought a wail yesterday from Jerry Hoffman, Lesser publicity director, who has already publicized the picture under the "No Trespassing" tag in 40 mags and numerous newspapers.

Studio is now scouting for a title that will meet UA approval.

BROADWAY RUNAROUND

By RADIE HARRIS

The temperature between Leonora Corbett and Arthur Margetson is so frigid that George S. Kaufman stopped rehearsal the other day to remind them, "The billing on this musical reads Leonora Corbett and Arthur Margetson in 'Park Avenue'—not Leonora Corbett versus Arthur Margetson!" . . . If Gail Patrick's "Enchanted Cottage" is full of enchantment for the Xmas holidays, it's because she's here now on a shopping orgy, exhausting all the NY wholesalers—and herself . . . Larry Tibbett, Jr., has caught romantic fever from his recently married mother, Grace, and is purswooing delovely Dorothy Crosby . . . Freddie March and Florence Eldridge, posing for publicity stills at their Conn. farm, allowed their children, Penny and Tony, to be included for the first time . . . Now that Peter Lind Hayes has nothing to do but make a picture for International—do the comedy spot on the Dinah Shore etherizer—and organize a repertory stock company in Van Nuys, he will " kill time" by recording a kiddies' album for Decca . . . Isn't it an ironic twist of fate that Jimmy Savo and Eddie Foy, Jr., who after years of knocking around, and finally coming into their own, are now suffering such set-backs? Savo is progressing nicely at the Roosevelt hospital but it will be many months before he can entertain "Cafe Society" again—and although Foy will be returning to "The Red Mill," his medicos have advised him that he'll never be able to do any of his comedy falls again . . . Billy Rose's wedding gift to his sister, Polly, who becomes Mrs. Alex Gottlieb next week, is $10,000 to splurge on a trousseau. Ho hum, I wouldn't mind being a sister for that kind of "Bill"!

UNIVERSALLY YOURS: While Universal was hosting a press shindig for Phyllis Calvert in the third floor bar at "21," Howard Benedict, a floor below, was having his own soiree to celebrate his ex marks the U turn in his association. And with Louis Kronenberger, Richard Watts, Jr., Ward Morehouse, Mark Barron and Harry Evans among his guests, he certainly proved that his pals are still the same fourth estaters who liked him when he was a p.a. with Lynn Farnol, and don't give a damn now whether he's a Hollywood producer or a guy without a job—which he frankly admits he is. He has no plans at the moment other than heading for a holiday in Mexico (no relation to Walter Pidgeon or Jose Iturbi!), where he is looking forward to blowing in all his piled up shekels, through the courtesy of Universal!

As for Phyllis Calvert, her plans are as definite as her personality. She Chiefs into Hollywood today, where a bungalow at the Chateau Marmont is waiting to welcome her and her groom, Peter Murray Hill. As a matter of fact, in order to hold this reservation for them, Universal has been paying rent on it since June. No wonder that Miss Calvert agrees with Ann Todd, Rex Harrison, David Niven, Greer Garson and the rest of the English colony when they say falling in love with America is wonderful!

CUFFO NOTES: Uta Hagen and Jose Ferrer, who tried to warm over their cold romance for the sake of their youngster, found it no go, and this time their separation is permanent . . . If Gertrude Lawrence can snare Basil Rathbone as Prof. Higgins in "Pygmalion," she'll re-open it in NY and forego the road tour . . . Samson Raphaelson has shelved his playwriting for a while to concentrate on short stories for the national mags, which he is selling hot off the typewriter . . . Roger Pryor will combine his emceeing of the Theatre Guild of the Air with the male lead in Mary Orr and Reggie Denham's mystery melo, "Blood on the Snow," just as soon as they can find a theatre—the optimists! . . . Wesley Ruggles spent his first few days in town trying to track down Wes, Jr., with no luck, because Arline Judge's Bel-Air phone kept giving a "no answer" signal. He predicts that his comedy find, Sid Field, under personal contract, will have Hollywood beckoning . . . Virginia Peine, who was in Moss Hart's last play, "Lady in the Dark," will be in his next, "The World of Christopher Blake" . . . Add now I've heard everything dept.: Virginia Field's mother, Esme, who recently arrived from London to join "Ginny" in Las Vegas, stopped off in NY, where she was the houseguest of Paul Douglas, her ex son-in-law! . . . The Sardi set is making book that Ralph Bellamy's divorce from Ethel Smith will mean his re-marriage to Catherine Willard . . . Bill Johnson, who sang Alan Lerner and Frederick Loewi's words and music for "Day Before Spring," will ditto for their "Brigadoon," first on the Billy Rose schedule.

HATS OFF! To Paul Muni for coming back to Broadway, sans any salary, and giving such an inspiring performance for the worthy cause symbolized by Ben Hecht's thrilling propaganda piece, "A Flag Is Born." I'm sure the applause that shakes the rafters of the Alvin every night is far more gratifying to him than any Hollywood fan mail or pay envelope. As for Ben Hecht, I even forgive him "Spectre de la Rose" for his contribution to an evening in the theatre that should be seen by Jew and Gentile alike. Too bad it can't be seen by the British Foreign Office!

FILM BO HOLDS OWN IN STEADY CHICAGO WEEK

Chicago, Sept. 16.—Film box office is experiencing good week here, aided by five new bills and a strong holdover. Latter is "Monsieur Beaucaire," with Andrews Sisters on stage at the Chicago, which is shooting for large $63,000.

"Bad Bascomb," plus Eddy Howard's orch on stage, is shoving the Oriental up to very good $65,000. "Centennial Summer" opened at the Roosevelt with prospects for nifty $28,000. Fifth frame of "Caesar and Cleopatra" at the Grand is still doing good business at $23,000. "The Stranger" bowed at the Woods with $31,000 estimate.

Long-termers holding their own include "To Each His Own" at the Garrick with $15,000; "Henry V" at the Civic with $16,000; "Night and Day," State-Lake, $32,000; and "I've Always Loved You" at the Apollo with $17,000. The United Artists is doing terrific $35,000 with "Easy to Wed."

proposals which he tried out on the defendants some weeks ago.

Wright then recommended a ban on the affiliate theatres of one defendant's obtaining pictures of the other defendant producer-exhibitors. The indies universally hailed this cross-licensing ban, while the majors did not like the idea at all.

Meantime, proposals for decree changes by the majors were sent here today to the justice department. Contents of the proposals were not disclosed, but it was learned they are only partial and do not represent the views of all the defendant companies.

AHERN RETURNS WITH B'GROUNDS

May, and remained to line up camera crew for necessary footage which will be used in Gregory Peck starrer.

Food shortages in England, and lack of any variety in poor quality produce available, was cause of exec's ailment. Ahern declared upon his arrival that the British have far less food now and for past year than at any time during blitz, and when England was hemmed in by Nazi subs.

Footage that Ahern brought back was filmed in and around London and in Cumberland lake district near Scottish border.

There is still a lack of sufficient technical talent in England, Ahern stated, due to fact that many technicians have not yet been released by Army and Navy. What talent there is in most instances already employed by booming British film industry.

Metro, Ahern said, will have the most complete and up-to-date studio in England when project is completed. It is one which is going ahead fairly rapidly, and already is a model example of studio building.

LIGHT AND AIRY

By JACK HELLMAN

It's a crazy business. You've heard it time and again and it was never truer than in recent weeks when a pair of producer deals were closed that must have sent a shudder through old line companies. It would have been unthinkable for the head of one agency to run a show for a competitive firm. But it has happened and right in our very midst—not once but twice.

It brought a gasp of surprise from the tradesmen when Glenhall Taylor moved over from Young & Rubicam to head up the Coast operation for N. W. Ayer and before you could turn the page he was signed to direct the Frank Morgan show, which goes over to Foote, Cone & Belding Sept. 28. Few days later the gasp crescendoed into an eyebrow-raising "well-whaddya-know" when Bob Ballin, slated to head up the Hollywood office for Ruthrauff & Ryan, received a bid to continue as producer of the Jack Benny show and was given permission by R & H to accept. Odd angle here is that American Tobacco moved Benny out of R & R to FCB and here their headman goes along with it while still maintaining his high executive post with the wounded competitor.

It all makes sense even though the commission houses might take it with tongue-in-cheek and a smirk on the lips. Both the Benny and Morgan shows are package-wrapped and that takes control out of the house, as the saying goes. Benny wanted Ballin to go along and the Morgan crowd held out for Taylor. That the affected agencies allow their headmen to work for a competitor is just one of the things that makes it a crazy business.

SINATRA TO QUIT BARTON, FORM OWN DISCERY

Despite previous denials of partners, Frank Sinatra will definitely sever connection with Barton Music with actual formation of his own new company, Sinatra Songs. In exiting from firm he helped to found, Sinatra will set up new outfit as a trust fund for his children, with family being actual sole owners.

Dissociation with Barton will be worked out sans exchange of coin. In lieu of money settlement, Sinatra will acquire ownership of some of copyrights now in Barton catalog. They will augment six songs taken from score of Metro picture now in works, "It Happened in Brooklyn." Thereafter, Metro and Sinatra will alternate on acquisition of scores with Robbins, Feist and Miller, three Metro music subsids, having crack at scores from every other film.

ACTORS, BREWER HOLD SECRET PEACE MEET

plished towards settling the situation. The actors are concerned in keeping the studios open, for it means their jobs. The carpenters and painters, in the advent of a studio shutdown, can always obtain employment elsewhere."

It was further learned that union leaders and producers fear that unless IATSE prexy Richard Walsh or the carpenters international head, William Hutcheson, backs down, the studios will begin to close down by end of the week.

IA WILL DEFY AFL

Brewer was reported to have taken the stand that the situation must be settled here instead of by the American Federation of Labor Executive Council, slated to meet in Chicago, Sept. 30. Brewer holds that Hutcheson controls the AFL executive council. Should the council rule against the IATSE in the current dispute, the IATSE would, it is believed, defy the ruling.

Yesterday's meet was the second secret parley undertaken by the SAG. The Guild met early in the controversy with Joseph F. Cambiano, carpenters international rep, and James N. Skelton, business agent of carpenters local 946.

A delegation of carpenters, headed by Cambiano, appeared before the executive board of the Los Angeles Central Labor Council yesterday. Group called attention to the AFL Executive Council directive of Aug. 14, 1946, basis of current dispute, and solicited council's understanding and support.

51 CARPENTERS REHIRED

As studios continued policy of discharging carpenters for refusing to work asserted "hot sets," Skelton reiterated his carpenters will stand pat on their ultimatum of last Thursday. Firing of one carpenter at Hal Roach studios and four at Universal-International yesterday, brought the total of men fired to 78 carpenters and 26 painters. However, studios have re-hired total of 51 carpenters to date, leaving 27 carpenters still out.

Producers made no new declaration on their position in the controversy. Eddie Mannix presided over a producers meeting, which included the producers labor committee, studio execs and industrial labor relations reps of the individual studios. Group is slated to meet again this morning and it is reported a definite statement of policy will be forthcoming.

THEATRES BATTLE 10 PER CENT TAX ON D.C. DUCATS

Washington, Sept. 16.—Proposed 10 per cent admission tax for District of Columbia was met with stiff opposition today at a hearing to consider new forms of taxation to step up Washington's municipal income.

Carter T. Barron, Loew's regional manager, and Julian Brylawski, of Warner theatres, head of D.C.'s Motion Picture Theatre Owners, led the scrap. They argued an admissions tax would be discriminatory and vicious and would up to 30 per cent amount of taxes placed on box office purchases.

Industry spokesmen made no objection, however, when matter of increasing license fee for theatres was broached. Washington film houses now pay an annual license bite of $30.00 apiece, which is considered low.

Julius Tannen and Eddie Bracken in a scene from Preston Sturges' Paramount picture, "The Miracle of Morgan's Creek"

BECAUSE of the unfortunate war-time habit, still more unfortunately still retained, of dropping the cast list from films, many splendid actors have worked incognito, their names unknown, their talents unappreciated. One of the finest character actors I know, adept at any portrayal and the master of all dialects finds himself, I am sure because of the above circumstance, unswamped with work. That he helped "The Miracle of Morgan's Creek" to its very large gross is not known. It should be. Purely as an admirer of his work and as he has no agent I take great pleasure in offering and unconditionally guaranteeing the services of that fine actor, Julius Tannen.

JUKE BOX OPS BOOST TAKE TO FAVOR SELVES

Local organized music machine operators have changed name of organization, have altered gross sharing with locations in favor of themselves and, simultaneously, effected precedental deal with teamsters union. Via latter deal they drop affiliation with International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and with teamsters effect virtual monopoly and control of all locations with direct control juke boxes.

Under reorganization, what was formerly Music Operators Association becomes Southern California Automatic Music Operators Association; what was former province of IBEW is now exclusive bailiwick of local 396 of American Federation of Labor teamsters, and switch in percentages has operators collecting 70 per cent of gross, as compared to former 50-50 split with location owners. Though, for present, patron costs will be kept at five cents per playing, it's possible that eventually fees will be hiked to 10 cents or three per quarter.

Deal with union will, in effect, be a kind of closed shop, forcing now encroaching outsiders who have been price cutting, etc., into reorganized association. Via new union, which controls all shipments in bars, etc., where machines are located, association can control placement of machines. Teamsters will not deliver anything to non-association spots nor will association place machines in any non-union location.

After struggling with problems for over year, Association figured tying in with union was only step left which would help solve reportedly persistent haggling with IBEW, and intermittent difficulties with various operators.

ATOM to Meet

Plans for its drive on Fox West Coast for recognition will be discussed at general membership meeting of Associated Theatre Operating Managers late tonight. Session, to be held in Projectionists Local 150 Hall, has been called for 1 a.m., so managers and assistant managers will be clear of theatre duties.

ATOM leaders will give picture on its affiliation with the Teamsters and subsequent ouster from that union and report on successful negotiations of New York RKO managers and assistants. Expected latter will serve as pattern for steps to be taken by ATOM here.

Other delegates, seconding Kirsch's

New York, Sept. 17.—Walter Wanger and Hal Roach today returned to the United Artists banner. Distribution deal on the Wanger and Roach product was approved at today's meeting of the UA board of directors. Wanger, however, is committed to produce three more films for Universal-International release. Wanger will utilize one-half of the Roach studios in Culver City and is expected to set up production offices there shortly. Latest progress on current distribution talks with the Charles Einfeld-David Loew combo on the Enterprise product, were reported to the board by Gradwell Sears.

100 TAKEN IN BY ACADEMY

More than 100 new members were voted into the Academy last night, at a meeting of directors. Additions give Academy all time high membership of 1145. It was also agreed that each of the 11 branches would individually set up own nominating machinery for awards. Only actual Academy members will be able to vote. An international award also will be made for first time next year.

International Film Congress, to be held in Hollywood immediately before 1947 achievement awards next month, came up for detailed discussion. Directors voted to send Margaret Herrick to Cannes, France, to act as observer at similar congress there early next month.

Sealing Wax

First cash payoff on yanking of the Production Code seal from "The Outlaw" accrued to Howard Hughes this week. Daily reports from theatre show grosses that much ahead since news was flashed of seal lifting.

'Gypsy Lady' Wins Plaudits With Victor Herbert's Tunes

New York, Sept. 17.—Edwin Lester's production of "Gypsy Lady" which preemed at Century theatre tonight at $6 top, may draw a divided press on the merits of Henry Myer's book, but the Victor Herbert melodies were salvoed as seldom before by a first night audience. A lavish production, colorful costuming and splendid performances should set it for a moderate run.

It would have a beter chance if moved to a downtown house. Composite of composer's operettas, "The Fortune Teller" and "The Serenade" jells well way musically. Book occasionally creaks but it also has its moments of bright dialogue and situations meriting laughs. Particularly good are Helen Bliss, John Tyers, George Britton, Joseph MacAuley, Hugert Russell, Clarence Derwent and Dorine Wilson. Val Valentinoff's ballet terps are standouts.

STUDIOS TO FILL ALL VACANCIES

Major studios served notice on carpenters yesterday either to return to work immediately or their duties will be taken over by other employes. Notice, sent to Joseph L. Cambiano, Carpenters International representative, and to Local 644 of the Brotherhood of Painters, re-iterated producers intention of keeping studios operating, even if it means accepting VARIOUS studio flackeries can brag about the thousands of copies printed of their recent best-seller book properties. But Mervyn LeRoy, directing "Little Women" for David O. Selznick, quietly points out that the Louisa M. Alcott oldie still is selling 1,000,000 copies yearly. And thousands of persons who have never read the book know something of the story or at least the names of the chief characters. It is 14 years since the previous filming with Katharine Hepburn and Joan Bennett featured. There's a new generation going to pictures since then and Selznick and LeRoy are ready to back the property as a current best seller even if it was first published in 1868. The new film version is being given lavish production in Technicolor, with George Jenkens assigned as art director and Elizabeth Montgomery as costume designer.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

LOCAL first run theatres are up against greatest help shortage in their history, exhibs claiming it's even tougher now to obtain ushers, usherettes, etc., than during the war when war industry jobs offered theatres plenty of competition. Many have been running ads in daily papers trying to locate help but rarely does a house receive an answer. Example of how tough things are to keep a complete staff is incident that happened in Glendale recently. New cashier at the Alex theatre took an hour's relief and went to a drug store for a snack. Drugstore boss offered gal a job and she went to work on the spot, not even bothering to return to theatre and take off uniform. High earning power of girls working driveins and other eating spots is helping to keep theatre usherette uniforms empty, as does unemployment insurance paying off $20 weekly to those between jobs.

INVASION of Santa Barbara by radio hotshots, Harry Butcher and Fox Case with new station and National Broadcasting Co., affiliate, KIST, has other radio interests there looking to laurels. Imminence of KIST operation has particularly hypoed long-dominant KTMS, American Broadcasting Co., outlet, and latter is out scouting executive talent to add to staff to combat threat of serious competition in field that heretofore was taken for granted. KTMS is seeking new sales manager, post long vacant, promotional aid and may, it's reported, effect other changes in staff. Paul Raymer, station reps locally for KTSM, are assisting the News-Press owned station, which, incidentally, is also seeking help for new sister station soon to be opened in Santa Maria.

NEW sound-proofing plaster known as Porosite has been developed to line walls of Enterprise's new sound stage, to make it 13 per cent more soundproof than stages lined with conventional felt wadding. Location of stage on studio's Melrose Avenue frontage, with constant heavy traffic roaring by, made it necessary to devise some new type of soundproofing which would completely eliminate all noise. Secret of the substance's unusual sound-shielding properties is a yeasty component which forms a myriad of air pockets that block passage of unwanted sounds, simultaneously preventing reverberation.

TIE-UP between Eagle-Lion and J. Arthur Rank in England is expediting production on "His Bridal Night," Dennis O'Keefe starrer. Instead of sending camera crews overseas to get special footage needed on Soho district in London, the film is being shot by lensers already in England for the English film company. The London scenes will depict the changed skyline since the buzz-bombing of the metropolis. Film will be airmailed from London upon completion of shooting, saving Eagle-Lion more than a month's work and considerable travel.

IT started with having Roy Rogers and Monte Hale do songs with both English and Spanish lyrics to please their Latin American fans. But now Republic has ordered that all future musicals, beginning with "Hit Parade of 1947" now in production, carry at least one song geared especially for the Latin American trade. Reason is that the stunt of selling a song in both English and Spanish has stirred widespread enthusiasm among movie-goers south of the border.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The Wallace letter makes it plain—although it was evident enough beforehand to those who know Wallace—that his public criticism of our foreign policy, is based on his fear of a war with Russia. He therefore thinks it essential, as a means of obtaining international agreement on atomic energy control, that we forget about the veto's effect, and give Russia whatever she deems "reasonably" necessary as a zone of security. Recent occurrences would make it apparent that this not only would include Romania, Bulgaria, Poland, Yugoslavia, and Hungary, but also Austria, Greece, Iran, the Dardanelles, and Manchuria. But supposing even that Russia did not also demand her way in the governments of Greece, Iran, Austria and Manchuria, would it be wise or right to sacrifice the people in these countries? Is not such an idea contrary even to Wallace's former ideals? Is it not Munich-like expediency? The basis of the whole idea is the fear of war, and every competent observer—not the sensationalists or the surface thinkers—says there is no fear of immediate war, that the bluster in the Russian press is to steel the people there for a lack of housing and consumer goods during the operation of the first five-year plan.

U.S. PROBES CR OUTFIT

Rumor of the impending anti-trust suit has been circulating for some time and was definitely hinted by Nathan R. Legion of Decency is aroused over action by Motion Picture Association's board of directors lifting ban on production of films dealing with subject of illegal drugs. In statement issued by Very Reverend Monsignor John J. McClafferty, executive secretary of the National Legion of Decency, organization said:

"It is to be deeply regretted that the Motion Picture Association has taken such a backward step. It is to be hoped that the Association for the sake of the moral and physical integrity of the people of these United States, will rescind the amendment and reinstate the original provision."

Fearing a "narcotic cycle may be in the offing," Legion declared that reports indicate several companies are planning "dope" films and that such pictures will have unwholesome effects morally and physically. MPA board's amendment stated that "illegal drug traffic must not be portrayed in such a way as to stimulate either curiosity or interest concerning the use of, or traffic in such drugs," nor are any scenes to be shown of drugs in detail.

Cut in U.S. Film Production Opens Way to Foreign Pix

New York, Sept. 17.—Proposed cuts in American picture production are expected to open playing time on the world market to foreign producers, British in particular. Because of concentration on top budgeters and the resultant volume drop, distributors are expected to ask increased domestic playing time for product. Same goes for foreign, but foreign countries never played films for more than one week at a time. The demand for product turnover is expected to open the way for foreign films.

Exceptions are those markets closed to American films during the war, where a big enough back-log has been built to supply them for some time to come. Also, Motion Picture Export Association serviced countries will not feel the bite, because only a limited number are accepted, anyway. Grosses are not expected to be hurt, however.

THE GRAPEVINE: Southpaws are popular come the fall of the year and world's series time. But not these autumnal days in Hollywood. While the lefties here are carrying the ball for Stalin and his pals, the commies in other lands are whetting their harpoons for Hollywood and its film business. Producers are worried by reports from Italy, France and South America where the boys who do their thinking far to the left of center of the cerebrum are trying to impose drastic quotas on American pictures—restrictions which would whittle our exports of screen material down close to the vanishing point. But pals will be pals . . . Peggy Cummins is nothing if not prepared. She'll furnish the wedding ring when the right man comes along. She bought an antique band at Salisbury England before U.S.ing . . . Warners reported planning telecast of NY premiere of "Humoresque" in December . . . Lana Turner is transformed into a brunette for Metro's "Green Dolphin Street" and Donna Reed who plays Lana's sister switches the other way to a blonde . . . Daily News is setting a good example for the other dailies by devoting two pages to markets and finance . . . And while on the subject of stocks, Walter Winchell's upswing slipped into reverse after a one-day spin . . . At the Cabana Club the other day, Bonita Granville walked onto the beach in an abbreviated bathing suit which brought from Red Skelton: "I bet the guy who designed that came from Missouri."

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Pauline Betz, national tennis champion, will display her court skill on the screen if negotiations between her and Enterprise for the "40-love" gal to do a role in "The Other Love" jell. Studio wants the champ for the Yvonne part . . . Larry Blake is wearing a watch which Ginger Rogers gave him for teaching her the Polish dialect for "The Magnificent Doll" . . . Here's an example of "good taste" as practiced by one press agent. And we quote verbatim: "Sue Carroll, wife of Alan Ladd, expects her baby in January. Expecting just about the same time is one of Ladd's mares, and it's anybody's guess whether the baby or the foal will arrive first" . . . Richard Webb is carrying a stiff neck, result of a bit of footballing with the El Segundo team . . . Twosomes: Nancy Guild and Bob Scott, who colleged together at the University of Arizona, seen at Actor's Lab, presentation of "Home of the Brave." That hot romance reported between Joan Crawford and Fred de Cordova, we're told is just a warm friendship. Bob Waterfield and Jane Russell are not divorcing as rumored but instead are building a new ranch home.

CALL SHEET: HOLLYWOOD can expect a blast from IRMA KRAFT, staff writer of New York Herald-Tribune, when she returns to Big City from our hamlet. Weeks ago, definite arrangements were made for her to remain six to eight weeks in one of colony's top hostelries, but after five days she had to move. Same happened at two other inns, with result newswoman in high dudgeon is about to head east with fire in her eye, cutting her stay to a minimum and without material she came west to glean . . . ANN DVORAK has been working for past week on set of Hakim-Litvak's "A Time to Kill," with a doctor standing by, to watch effects of penicillin treatment . . . PIA BERGMAN, seven-year-old daughter of INGRID, had her picture taken yesterday in sitting with her ma, but only for family perusal. Mag editors, who've been frothing at the mouth for pictorial combo, will have to wait . . . Saturday Review of Literature reports Life is about to inaugurate a new book review section . . . LIZA WILSON is penning story on ENTERPRISE for Liberty . . . WALLACE FORD to New York for talks with Yip Harburg on part in "Finnian's Rainbow" . . . GWYNNE PICKFORD is en route to Guadalajara to join her husband, BUD ORNSTEIN, in United Artists' foreign sales department. After several weeks with him there, she will continue on for stay in Mexico City.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Actors who shudder at working a picture with a dog can really get jittery over this one—they used more than 100 pooch extras from Earl Johnson's Dog Rancho in the final scene of "The Return of Rin Tin Tin" . . . Remember when the solid citizens were horrified because high-wage workers were paying $10 and $12 apiece for silk shirts? Well, Hollywood custom shirt maker is putting out special orders in cotton shirtings now for $15 a copy to people who have enough influence. And he will explain emphatically that he can't possibly make more than three for a customer. Unless, of course, the customer would be interested in a couple of extra ones of heavy, Chinese silk at $35 each . . . High brackets note: Republic made its first best seller purchase last week, buying the Garland Roark novel, "Wake of the Red Witch," for $100,000 . . . Director Arthur Lubin has made Collier's with article on origin of jazz, titled "It's Hot on Basin Street" . . . Authoress Marty Holland is vacationing in Laguna in two-room auto trailer purchased for the occasion . . . Winifred Shank, Sol Wurtzel talent director, was cast herself by director Eugene Forde as a baseball-playing mother in "Backlash" . . . Terse description of the week, overheard in the Universal commissary—"I've seen better faces made out of fruit by a drunken bartender."—D.D.T.

By FLORENCE S. LOWE

Washington, Sept. 17.—The muddled European situation, so far as films are concerned, continues to be in its own small way as much of a worry source for the State Department as the overall European political situation. Even with such bright spots as the recent Danish pix proposals, the growing nationalism following on the heels of peace is bound to have an adverse effect upon our film export biz, according to the consensus of experts here.

One qualified observer, just back from abroad, points out that the growth of nationalism is largely psychological. The theme song for Europe seems to be right out of Irving Berlin—"We Can Do Anything You Can Do, Better." And one of the art forms in which these countries can come back quickest, and attempt to prove their superiority, is films.

Our observer friend says that in every European country he visited, the local film product was being loudly plugged as better than any import. Helping this along is the fact that in a number of countries the resistance movements produced dozens of pix during the war. There is now a clamor for open distribution of these pictures and it is considered the better part of patriotism to get them shown first. Another part of this nationalism is due to the need of providing employment in a native industry, plus the tremendous drive to use scarce exchange for necessities rather than such luxury items as films.

All of which is why the State Department is so eager to get film export affairs in order in such countries as Belgium, Holland, Norway, Denmark and Switzerland, where there is only a minimum of production and no real interest in protecting the nation's own films. The sooner we get re-established in these countries, the better it will be, it is believed here. State, by the way, heaved an almost audible sigh of relief when MPEA promptly accepted the import deal offered by Denmark.

Government officials recall ruefully what happened with Spain. There our industry procrastinated about accepting an agreement, quibbling and stalling over details. When our industry finally decided that maybe it would accept the proposition the Spanish political scene had once more shifted and the offer was withdrawn. Result is that to this day we are not getting pix in and money out of Spain.

Eric Johnston will address the Federal Bar Association, composed of government lawyers, Friday . . . . Medal of Merit has been awarded to Frank L. McNamee, Pennsylvania exhibitor, for his wartime activity as Deputy Chairman of the War Manpower Commission. McNamee is now regional director of the War Assets Administration for Eastern Pennsylvania . . . Incidentally, Stanley Adams, who once wielded the raw stock whip over the studios when he was head of the WPB consumer durable goods division, has just been appointed regional head of WAA in Chicago . . . Now that the 4½ minute Government short on famine has been approved by all exhibitor groups, the $64 question seems to be, "Who will distribute?" Question is in Si Fabian's hands, but it is no secret that the government would like more action and less deliberation.

Probably the greatest flurry in this town's theatrical history has been created by the announcement that Ingrid Bergman would preem "Joan of Lorraine" here. Dramatic Department of George Washington University, handling the ticket sale, has been snowed under by requests reminiscent of those for the World Series and Army-Navy football games . . . Hollywood names seem destined to shine brightly on legit marquees in these parts this season. Only saving grace in the Brock Pemberton flop, "Magnificent Heel," which shuttered last week, were the performances of Peggy Wood and Bert Lytell. Mae West arrives next week with "Come On Up"; and Clifton Webb follows up in the new Noel Coward play, "Present Laughter".

John Begg, now in Holland on behalf of the State Department's cultural film program, reports a tremendous enthusiasm for American cultural films in all the countries he has visited. Distribution of these pictures is being handicapped by lack of field workers and new subjects. One of the things which would further hypo demand for our cultural pix abroad would be to ease the price for American documentaries and educational subjects for groups interested in distributing them. Duties and taxes, for example, raise to $50 the price which a school in England has to pay for a $10 rental American educational film. If the State Department would present these pictures without cost, the duties and taxes would not apply.

Press interest in 20th's "Smoky" hypoed here by fact that producer Robert Bassler is another local boy who made good in Hollywood. Bassler entered films when his father, head curator of the National Museum, and retired George Washington U. science professor, was approached by Cecil B. De Mille. Latter wanted help with geological details for "Adam's Rib". Later, son Bob Bassler was able to land a job at Paramount through the help of De Mille.

Arch Mercey, the Government's official liaison to the film industry, authors the motion picture article in the coming communications issue of the Annals of the American Society of Political Science . . . Douglas Leigh, tycoon of illuminated advertising, guest of honor at the 19th birthday party of Loew's Capitol. His latest brain child, Metro's advertising dirigible, with neon advertising sign, brightened the skies over the capital . . . Harry Anger, ex-production manager for Warner's showcase, Earle, here, and at one time with Paramount theatres, opens a class nitery Friday, the new Club Cairo.

SHOW BIZ HONORS JOLSON IN AIR SALUTE OCT. 1

All branches of show business will participate in the "Salute to Al Jolson," to be highlighted by an award presentation by American Veterans Committee for his war service overseas and an hour broadcast over the Mutual-Don Lee network Oct. 1. Stars of the stage, radio and pictures are being assembled for the airing, which is to be produced by Ed Cashman and written by Carroll Carroll for broadcast here at 7:30 p.m. Jimmy Walker acts as toastmaster of the presentation banquet in New York, and George Jessel emcees the Hollywood portion. Jolson, after accepting the kudos, will sing some of the numbers from his picture, "The Jolson Story."

Among the stars tentatively set for the radio show are Bob Hope, Eddie Cantor, Fanny Brice, Dinah Shore, Frank Sinatra, George Burns and Gracie Allen. Every phase of show business will be represented in the sponsorship of the Columbia Pictures promotion colossal.

Capra Wins Point In Columbia Suit

Columbia yesterday was given 30 days to answer the complaint of Frank Capra that its "Song to Remember" was based on a story he wrote while under contract to the studio. The order to answer was issued by Federal Judge Peirson Hall after he had denied a motion to dismiss Capra's suit for 25 per cent of the net income from the picture. Capra, now producer-director and prexy of Liberty Films, contends he prepped story for Columbia before he went into the service under a contract that provided 25 per cent of the net.

Bing Crosby will be a busy little bee this weekend and the hive will be a mass of honey by the time he oils up his shootin' irons for a go at the deer and pheasant in the general vicinity of his Elko, Nevada, ranch. Philco series takes its first trial spin tomorrow afternoon at NBC and before the last groove in the disc is cut Sunday night he will have canned six shows. Guestars will be used only on two of the pancakes, the lead-offer being Bob Hope followed by Spike Jones.

There has been a change of heart on a story line for the wax works and the first will likely be a name-calling session between Bob and Bing. Musical novelties will be interspersed on the second as might be divined from the booking of Spike and his Merry Men. Aside from the guestars "Cros" will be flanked by Lina Romay, Skitch Henderson with his pianistics, Charioteers and John Scott Trotter's Local 47 crew. Tomorrow's sessions are timed for 2:30 and 6:30 p.m. Crosby is fortunate in having the dual services of Bill Morrow as writer-producer, bowing as a cue-thrower but long one of the top comedy minds in the business.

HOULGATE TO PICK GRID WINNERS FOR VARIETY

Deke Houlgate, historian and statistician of collegiate football, returns to Daily Variety tomorrow to give its readers the benefit of his long experience in picking the logical winners of weekly battles in the gridiron campaign of 1946.

Deke does not pick them out of a hat, like a stage magician. He picks them out of a vast array of statistics, painstakingly compiled and covering the records of 700 college teams, ranging from Coast to Coast. Of these teams, about 100 are rated in the major leagues. For the sake of Daily Variety readers, Deke will deal only with the important games, or "A" productions, as they say in the film studios.

Major elevens will be picked in five geographical sections, Pacific Coast, Midwest, East, South and Southwest, until the intersectional battles open later in the season.

Meanwhile Historian Houlgate is winding up more than 20 years of research in a book titled "Football Thesaurus," to be published late this year and sold at $10 the copy. It contains complete records of 280 college teams.

Starting tomorrow, you can read Deke Houlgate's predictions every Thursday in Daily Variety until the end of the 1946 football wars.

WB SHORT GIVES HORSE PLAYERS LAMENTATIONS

That widespread ailment known as "horse-players' distress," endemic among the suckers of the nation is shown to comedy advantage in the Warner Bros. short, "So You Want to Play the Horses," trade shown at the studio yesterday. Pic is one of a series being produced by Gordon Hollingshead and is a neat, well-executed job of picture making.

The cameraman, Ted McCord, and narrator, Art Gilmore, take Joe McDoakes, who is in every way a standard horse-fly, through a morning of stable and paddock snooping for info, an afternoon of betting them at the track, a night of arduous handicapping, using everything from form sheets and astrological charts to a sextant, and a final sequence of following the horses with shovel and broom.

Joe is the guy who just can't beat them and even when he finally gets a century on a 99-to-one shot the bookie runs out on him. George O'Hanlon gets plenty of laughs out of the role of Joe, Clifton Young is dramatic as a race announcer and Jane Harky shows to advantage in brief femme role.

Script and direction are snappily handled by Richard L. Dare and other credits include Rex Steele, film editor; Everett A. Brown, sound; William Lava, music, and Roland Hill, art director. Horseplaying gags used are mostly old stuff, but still funny.

Harry Billheimer manages to new house.

'Bedfellows' Dubbed

attitude on subject of high rentals and charging creation of an artificially scarce picture market by producers, advised shuttering theatres several days weekly rather than submit to demands of distribs in a sellers market.

Attacking arbitrary distributors' sales contracts, Nathan Yamins, convention chairman, offered resolution that board of directors seek to draft equitable contract and force it through, if necessary, either by legislation or litigation. Yamins told delegates distribs had evaded consent decree terms by refusing in many cases to sell block of five where exhibs had turned down previous block. Shorts also had been forced down exhibs' throats, in violation of decree, he added.

Yamins stated he recently had personal interview with Spyros Skouras, 20th-Fox prexy, and taxed him and others with these practices. "We'll continue to fight until you and others restore confidence in the industry by deeds, not by words," he told exec.

Kirsch further disclosed Allied's production plans by announcing "Before very long we will have four stories for pictures, and stars tied up under contract to appear in them." He also declared company's plans have been very well worked out, "without any Allied member being required to put up any money."

Night Club Review

New entertainment bill at Slapsy Maxie's is not only the best to play the Wilshire boulevard spot — it's also the cleanest. Dominating talent is Rose Marie, former baby star of films and now a grownup lady. Showwise and talented, she walked off with opening night honors to score a smash success.

The "All in Fun" show being presented by Sam Lewis has Jerry Lester in top comedy slot, his gags and antics fitting into the rowdy flavor that has always featured Slapsy Maxie presentations. Reception songs, poems, and general tomfoolery rated good reception but he found Rose Marie a tough act to follow. She grabbed complete customer attention with "I'm a Big Girl Now," switched pace to the ballad, "Remember Me," came back with boff Durante impersonation tagged "Dream Man," and encored "Tain't Smart" and an Italian folk song, both novelties.

Patti Moore and Ben Lessey, nitery regulars, hit a high spot, Jerry Seelen's very clever parody on "Oklahoma," California style. Pair also work with Ben Blue, master of the top stage blackouts in a series of hilarious skits. Blue's "Niagara Falls" blackout isn't new but is still a sock piece of business, Professor Melonhead (Sid Fields) doing his part to make it so. The Dancing Sherwoods, terp trio do okay tap work in between the fun.

Matty Malneck, just recovering from pneumonia, and his band furnish able musical backing for acts and for dancing. Crew, with Milton DeLugg, also rates feature spot among turns with smooth medley of old numbers.

CHARLES HENRY COOPER

Judge Charles Henry Cooper died yesterday at Hollywood hospital following an illness of more than a year. He was the father of Gary Cooper. A native of England, he spent most of his years in Montana where he served two terms on that state's Supreme Court. He moved his family to Los Angeles in 1924. Surviving, besides his actor-son, are his widow, Mrs. Alice Cooper, and another son, Arthur Cooper. Funeral arrangements are to be announced today.

CRAWFORD PIC IN RACE FOR '46 DEADLINE

For some time now, Joan Crawford has been urging from many quarters to get "Humoresque" out during 1946 because she wants it eligible for Academy Award consideration since it might conceivably be able to win her another Oscar to match last year's for "Mildred Pierce." She reportedly burned when during the recent sales meeting of the Warner flock in Atlantic City, "Humoresque" was left out of announcement ads. Indications were that it was having some influence on her decision to sign a new long time deal with WB.

Bette Davis' "Deception" being spotted in the New York Hollywood on Oct. 17 is for a run, and it will stay as long as it's in the gravy. It is being rushed from final shooting this week, through the cutting rooms, and into the cans in time to make this engagement. On the other hand, Crawford's "Humoresque" has been sitting on the shelf, completed, for months.

Since the WB announcement commits the studio only to "follow" "Deception" with the Crawford starrer, latter film may only come in under the wire in 1946. Everything hinges on the "Deception" stamina at the wicket.

Hanmer has gone East to appear in a Broadway production.

offer of carpenter replacements from the IATSE.

Studios, already hampered by work slowdown as result of refusal by carpenters and painters to take work handled by IA erectionists, face almost total shutdown by the end of the week unless set construction is resumed immediately.

Producers wire resulted from session of the labor committee yesterday, at which necessity for immediate action on work resumption and the IA's offer of replacements were top subjects for decision. Telegram to Cambiano followed.

Cambiano will reply to the producers work demands after a meeting of the Conference of Studio Unions executive board set for 11 a.m. today. Cambiano will talk via long distance to William Hutcheson, international president, in Indianapolis prior to the CSU meeting today. He will report on talk with Hutcheson at the 11 a.m. meeting, then a reply to producers will be framed.

Hollywood Legion Stadium has been engaged for a mass meeting of all studio workers for Sunday night, starting at 8 p.m. when status of the jurisdictional fight will be given and plans for action outlined.

SAG PREPARES ACTION

Disturbing labor picture had other unions that would be involved in the event of a strike and picket lines discussing policy they would follow. All are reluctant to reveal their positions until carpenters and painters announce their course in the jurisdictional fight. It is believed that Screen Actors Guild will shortly announce position its members will take in event lines are established at studios. SAG has already moved to have carpenters and IA settle jurisdictional dispute without a strike.

No new layoffs of carpenters or painters were reported yesterday. Score now stands at 27 carpenters and 26 painters still fired, remainder of those let go having been re-employed by studios.

PRODUCERS EDICT

Producers telegram, which clearly stated studios position in the labor rift, was as follows:

"In the afternoon of September 11, 1946, you notified us that unless, commencing at 6 o'clock a.m. on the following day, all construction and erection of sets should be performed by members of your union you would declare such sets 'hot' and refuse to allow your members to perform work upon them. On the day we received this notice from you we sent you a letter through Pat Casey, chairman of our labor committee, setting forth the reason why we could not accede to your ultimatum. Since receiving our letter your union has authorized that certain sets erected, other than in accordance with your demands, be declared hot and your members have refused to perform the work that we have justifiably required them to do thereon.

ASK CARPENTERS TO RECEDE

"As stated to you, we deplore the situation which you have thus created and we desire to continue the operation of our studios and the employment of those who have heretofore performed services for us. We hope that to avoid the strife and conflict which will otherwise result you will recede from the position that you have taken, and we also hope that you and the other unions involved in this jurisdictional dispute may settle your differences which we are powerless to determine.

"However, unless your members resume the performance of their work immediately the undersigned will use every legal and reasonable means to have such work performed by other employes."

Wire was signed by Columbia, Samuel Goldwyn, Loew's, Paramount, RKO, Republic, 20th-Fox, Universal, Warners and Hal E. Roach Studios.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

INDIE producers currently negotiating with high-priced stars and talent are asking for "strike" clauses to be written into contracts. With the indies shelling out fancy coin for the few free lance stars available, the loners are taking steps to protect themselves in case of strikes. Based on past experience and with another strike possible, indie producers naturally don't want high priced people on their payrolls during possible long periods of production shut-down. It was learned yesterday that several deals, involving big names, are being held up, pending negotiations with agents on inclusion of the "strike" clause in the contracts.

AN airlines clerk did a fast read on label of a can of film and did the Vogue theatre, Glendale, out of a scheduled Sunday show. Theatre had booked the Paramount re-issue, "New York Town," to open Sunday and print was placed on plane in San Diego, where picture closed Saturday, so it would arrive in time for new date. Sunday came but no print, so Par exchange hastily substituted "Typhoon" for Sunday show. Monday exchange received word that "New York Town" print had arrived in New York. A film title doesn't always mean its destination, the airways clerk found out.

IN EFFECTING 10 cent cost hike per disc which started Tuesday, Capitol Records reportedly won strong favor of its independent dealers by virtue of ample notice. Price hopped from 50 to 60 cents but dealers had ample notice if desiring to load up under old scale. Instead of antagonizing dealers with usual wire notice shortly beforehand, Cap bulletined dealers 10 days in advance. Result has generated considerable good will, according to reports, with plattery receiving thanks and compliments of retailers.

WHATEVER shortages the French may be suffering from they still have plenty of words for movie titles. Warner Bros. learned yesterday that "Old Acquaintance" goes on the French screens as "That Very Impossible Love." "Conflict" comes up as "Death Was Not at the Rendezvous." Only title they skimped on was "All This, and Heaven, Too." That is being shown as "The Stranger."

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The name of Roosevelt is being invoked by the Wallace backers. Of course we can't tell what a man who is now dead would do or so if he were still alive. But regarding the eastern European states, Roosevelt did sign Yalta and so did Stalin, along with the British. This agreement invoked the Atlantic Charter—"the right of all peoples to choose their own form of government under which they shall live," and promised "mutual agreement to concert . . . the policies of their three governments" in these former "Axis satellite and liberated states." Roosevelt, in his report on Yalta, talked of applying the freedoms to these states as "a joint responsibility of all three governments." He stressed that we cannot avoid such responsibilities, and attacked the idea of "spheres of influence." In the time between now and the end of the Conference of Paris, Wallace and Truman might re-read the Yalta agreement and the speech of Roosevelt reporting on that conference. The decision that Wallace will continue in the cabinet and not speak until after the Conference of Paris is indefinite. That would mean that the principle that a cabinet head of another department should not criticize publicly the policies of another has not been recognized. And the Conference of Paris is not the only international meeting. After it's over, there's one of the foreign ministers, the United Nations assembly, and the Security Council has been in almost continuous session. What's more, there has not even been mention that there also are Far Eastern peace talks.

One Big Union of Indie Exhibs Demanded of Allied by Brandt

Boston, Sept. 18.—Establishment of one embrasive national indie exhibitors association was proposed today by Harry Brandt, prexy of Independent Theatre Owners Association of New York, at open forum on anti-trust suit staged on third day of Allied Exhibitors Association's national conclave.

Brandt, whose organization is not a member of Allied, said he "would be willing for all independent groups to join with Allied, providing proper meetings can be arranged."

Nathan Yamins, Allied convention chairman, declared Allied Board of Directors will consider suggestion at a meeting tomorrow.

Brandt, in fiery speech which attacked distributors, stated he previously had fought Allied, but now "we recognize that problems of Allied are problems of all independent exhibitors." He said exhibs had weakened their case by submitting 30 different versions of decree proposals from 30 different organizations to Department of Justice.

BRANDT SEES B's SUFFER

Anti-trust decision, Brandt declared, would increase distribs' profits at expense of the exhibs. Trial auction selling, he said, had been so gratifying to distribs that "they are now wondering why they didn't think of gimmick themselves."

Five resolutions were passed by delegates at final day of convention. First two charged producers with artificially creating product shortage and empowered Allied officials to take matter up with majors, asking Department of Justice to bring legal action, if necessary.

Third attacked local checkers and asked discontinuance of practice, with further proviso recommending filing test suit if necessary. Fourth demanded new uniform sales contract prepared by exhibs, and fifth lambasted high rentals.

Abraham Myers, Allied general counsel, opened day's forum with lecture of effects of anti-trust decision. He declared because current sales contracts involve block booking, price fixing, and concertedly created runs and clearance, they were illegal and unenforceable. He explained this by saying both distribs and exhibs could call off any existing contract.

POKES AUCTION SELLING

Myers poked at auction selling but supported other features of decision excepting partial divorcement, which he attacked because court permits majors to buy out partners. This was just another means of permitting theatre expansion by majors, he said. Auction selling is inappropriate and unworkable, according to Myers.

Allied still favors total divorcement as only assurance of breaking up monopoly, Myers disclosed. He also announced leave to file brief in Supreme Court when question is argued will be requested by Allied.

At banquet following closing session, Eric Johnston, guest speaker, appealed for voluntary settlement of exhib-distrib problems outside the courts, also making plea for greater adherance to Production Code.

Crowd That Came to Lunch; A Farce in Several Reels

Several studio fashion editors and wardrobe department execs were doing a slow burn last night. Numerous visiting fashion editors, currently conventioning at the Huntington Hotel were trying to figure what the confusion was all about. And a bunch of folks who have nothing in particular to do with fashion editing are treasuring happy memories of an accidental tour of the studios.

It's all due to one of the prize mix-ups of the year, which resulted when representatives of Foote, Cone and Belding, who have the fashion editors in tow, arranged for the gals to lunch at the studios as guests of studio fashion departments. Set-up with the studios was all carefully worked out.

CAME THE CARS

Each one of the majors was to send cars to the Huntington Hotel to pick up a stated number of guests.

Elaborate preparations were made to entertain the gals and the cars were sent for them on schedule. But, apparently the agency representatives handling the stunt made no provision for steering the guests.

Complete box score for the affair shows:

Universal sent two cars and got no load at all.

Warners sent out transportation for 30, got one lone fashion editor and about a dozen other convention visitors, such as fabric manufacturers, etc.

Paramount sent two cars, expecting fourteen guests and got none. Wardrobe department there had made special preparations to entertain the visitors.

GUESTS SHRINK, EXPAND

Twentieth-Fox collected 12 guests after making preparations to entertain more than 20, but report is that the visiting delegation there was mostly non-fashion editor.

Metro, where 15 were expected gave royal entertainment to an overflow that totalled 25.

RKO expected 11 and entertained 24.

Attempts to reach Foote, Cone and Belding representative for a possible explanation of the mix-up failed last night.

Old Race Story

20th-Fox has added 10 days to the shooting schedule of "The Homestretch," expanding the original time to 84 shooting days and bringing up the budget by $75,000. Added love scenes between Cornel Wilde and Maureen O'Hara necessitated the extension of lensing to Oct. 12.

MPEA-BIOSCOOP DEAL AFFECTS OLD DISTRIB.

Washington, Sept. 18. — Recent announcement that MPEA would affiliate with the Netherlands Bioscoop Bond in order to get our pix into Holland has raised question here of what would become of the concessionaires. Prior to the war, Columbia, Universal and United Artists had contracts with concessionaires to distribute their pix. This differed from the position of the Big Five who did their own distributing.

The Little Three contracts are still in effect, although the firms are members of the MPEA. Whether the contracts are nullified by the new agreement remains to be clarified. State Department, incidentally, approves of the MPEA working out its deal with the Bond.

ATOM PETITIONS LABOR BOARD FOR DEALING RIGHTS

Associated Theatre Operating Managers yesterday filed petition with the National Labor Relations Board asking for an election and certification as collective bargaining agent for theatre managers and assistants in Los Angeles County.

Petition filing followed mass meeting of managers held early yesterday morning and attended by more than 200. Review of union's activities to date was given by Henry Pines, president, plus outline of organization's aims. Pines placed emphasis on fact that ATOM is an association of professional workers and that union will make every effort to elevate professional pride in performance of duties.

ATOM also has written to American Federation of Labor asking permission to apply for a Federal Charter "as a labor union with the privilege of extending the organization throughout the west." Letter to AFL stated that ATOM will work in full accord with New York managers union, headed by George Dunn, which has made similar application for a federal charter. Prior to yesterday's meeting, Pines talked long distance with Dunn and worked out arrangements for cooperation between the two organizations.

Managers will also apply for entry into the Los Angeles Central Labor Council.

To date, ATOM has received no reply from Fox West Coast on its request for recognition and an early meeting for the opening of negotiations. While executive board has been empowered to take strike action against the circuit if necessary to gain its objectives, it is not likely union will rush into any such drastic measure until F-WC has been given full opportunity to meet with managers and discuss demands.

Wald To Produce WB's 'The Unfaithful'

"The Unfaithful," story of veteran readjustment, succeeds "Serenade" as Ann Sheridan's next star vehicle at Warners. Film will be produced by Jerry Wald and directed by Vincent Sherman. David Goodis currently is scripting. Switch was made when it was found Dennis Morgan, set to co-star with femme in "Serenade," would be tied up for next few months in "My Wild Irish Rose," and co-star film would have to be postponed until after first of year.

PRC Flacks Move

PRC publicity department yesterday moved to make its permanent quarters at PRC exec offices, at 6066 Sunset Blvd.

BENNETT TELLS OF FILMING AMID BUZZ BOMBS

Compton Bennett, British director, checked in at Universal-International yesterday to start work on "Assigned to Syria," which he is making on reciprocity deal between UI and J. Arthur Rank interests to whom he is under contract.

Bennett revealed that he directed his first feature, "The Seventh Veil," during the buzz-bomb attacks on London and that cast and crew would duck out into the shelter every time one flew over. Another element in the British film's making was the fact that the picture also was the first feature for Sydney Fox, it's producer; the first starrer for Ann Todd and the first feature for the cameraman and film editor.

Bennett also revealed that the picture interiors were shot in a reconverted motor factory, which had the size equivalent to about one and one-half average American sound stages.

THE GRAPEVINE: Oscar lives. He has escaped a plot to rub him out. The scheme was revealed in whispering at the meeting of the Academy board Tuesday night. There was no formal effort to bump off the great democratic adjunct of the annual awards society but somebody broached a plan to reshape and rename the world wide symbol of supremacy during cloak room conversations. The name, it was suggested, lacked dignity; the figure, artistic perfection. Well the idea got no further. The protests of those who heard the suggestions were so strongly that any chance of changing Oscar's name to Reginald or Percival, for a matter of dignity or of doing anything else to him died right at the first whispering . . . Don Ameche belives "a little learning is a dangerous thing" so the Drene show star points to the fact that he studied at Marquette, Georgetown, Iowa and Wisconsin but offers no explanation why he moved so often and so rapidly . . . HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: We hear that Dave Lewis went into a drive-in the other day and came out with a new actress all wrapped up and marked for delivery to "Arch of Triumph" at Enterprise. The gal's Mary Roderick of Colton who the story continues, recently was named America's most beautiful car-hop . . . Then we mustn't forget about Miss Rexall. L. W. Marriott joins Universal Oct. 7 as manager of the Los Angeles branch office. Marriott comes over from similar spot with Republic. Following meeting Feldman will cover territory of both Blake and Rose for product and sales discussions.

NEW FORD SHOW HAS GOOD PICKUP IN FIRST AIRING

There may or may not be a Ford in your future but there definitely is a big question mark on the auto maker's new program which slipped into gear last night over CBS. The unknown quantity is Peter Lind Hayes, who is making his big time radio debut after laying them in the aisles in New York's Copacabana. Just how vast or varied is his repertoire of mimicry will be the deciding factor. On the getaway he exhausted a few delineations and after the others have been exposed to public hearing the burden of proof will fall on Abe Burrows, who has a gag bag bigger than the one Ford may be holding if Hayes goes the way of most nitery comics.

Which is no reflection on the quality of the first show. It shed its newness early and skipped blithely into the business at hand. Dinah Shore, who switched from last year's frosted foods to the warm purr of the new Ford models, is the star of the piece and rightly so. She has suffered no ill effects from her vocal breakdown and to this corner she's still the style queen of the chanteuses. With no effort at all she skimmed over the scale from the soothing "Way the Wind Blows" to the lively, staccato "Doing What Comes Naturally." She's also a first rate line reader and gets the most out of comedy lines. Seldom was she out of mike range which was tribute enough to her artistry.

To get away from his earlier typed impersonations, Hayes played the comedy character rather than the stereotyped mimic with rollicking results. Some of Burrows' gags rocked the sitters but for the main part the risibilities were only jostled. Hollywood treatment of the toast operas so taken up by the east between Dinah and her husband, George Montgomery, was overdrawn and too broadly satirical to be plausible. Bobby Dolan's musical crew of 38 gave solid backup and accompaniment. Ford plugs were in good taste but went dramatically hammy in a spot called the "Ford Rave Revue." After everyone thanked everyone else for being so swell, next week's guest was announced as Burl Ives.

By JACK HELLMAN

It's an old trick that has worked so well in the past it's getting an overtime play from comics who can beat their breasts with the best of them. The dodge works percentage-wise and therein lies its only salvation. The pitch works thisaway: a comedy script is tossed to continuity acceptance (censor to us muggs) at the network and the lad with the blue pencil has a go at it. It's loaded with blue gags and drips with double entendre and the custodian of the public's morals is really having himself a field day.

What the censor should know by now is that many of the queasy quips were dropped into the script purposeful and that the comic or his writers knew beforehand they wouldn't be acceptable. Script comes back chopped and slashed from here to Hoboken and the brest-beating begins. It is pointed out to the censor that upteen gags were deleted and that's pouring it on too heavy for such a fine and clean comic as the protesting Joe Blow. By now the censor has taken a stiff beating and he begins to "ease off." He finally condescends to reinstate a few border-line cases but the more overt flagrancies must go the way of all dirty linen, he decrees. The comic begins to pull his punches and grudgingly submits to the remaining deletions. He feels he has scored a moral victory at least and chuckles to himself that he got away with it. But has he? Around the home sets are wielded mental blue pencils and many a show that deals in smut finds the dial spinning away from the offending program. No show was ever penalized for being clean.

Just now the audience measurement field is all to the Hooper but if things work out as planned by Audience Research, Inc. (Gallup) there'll be a revolutionary development in the rating of radio shows. New device works on the radar principle and samples are taken without tape. Actual operation of the device is closely guarded but it's rumored that the initial national sample will be taken from 20,000 homes. Receiving set attachments can be installed at one-fifth the cost of the Nielsen meter, according to reports, and each turn of the dial is recorded and transmitted over wires to a central control. If it comes up to expectations and performs all the functions claimed for it, ARI will give Hooper and Nielsen some rough competition.

Chain breaks . . . Sentiment in the trade is preponderantly against Nelson Pringle in the matter of questionable taste on his broadcast of George Washington Hill's passing. Two letters from outsiders sided with "Pete" . . . Billy May is scoring the Crosby tunes for John Scott Trotter's orchestra in the Philco wax works . . . Hal Hackett hors du combat with the flu with 10 per cent off for good behavior . . . Les Mitchel's "Theatre of Famous Radio Players" offers proof postive that an AFRA cast without picture names is acceptable to advertisers if the production and material are on a high plane. Two 50-kilowatt stations in the east and scads of other smaller watters are spinning the disks . . . Bob's brother, George Hope, has a book coming out in December about a comic who wanted to play Hamlet and a crooner who letched for a career in opera. It's called "Two Bows—Fast" . . . Guest stars with name draught will be used on "Take It or Leave It" when Phil Baker barges into town Oct. 6 for a minimum of nine weeks.

It's not just accidental that top shows have incubated the only new talent that will venture forth on their own this season. Previously the only double was scored by "The McGee's," who nurtured along to their own aegis Hal Peary ("Gildersleeve") and the late Marlin Hurt ("Beulah"). A third, Bill Thompson ("Old Timer") almost made the grade but not quite. This season's double comes off the Jack Benny show in the persons but not characters of Phil Harris and Dennis Day. Fred Allen's contribution is Kenny Delmar ("Senator Claghorn") and Burns and Allen are sharing Meredith Willson with Canada Dry. Success begets success and those it rubs off on find it flecked with gold.

Taking an airshow out of town for a breakin after the manner of legit tryouts has been talked up since radio became big time but it never got past the conversational stage. At least not until fortnight ago when Raymond R. Morgan, pioneer and successful developer of the audience participation, took the innovational flier. He persuaded Don Lee to pipe into two small out-of-town affiliates the trial airing of "Heart's Desire" before it was spread over the network. Nature of the show dictated such a procedure since the ones who call in their lifetime wishes are rewarded with the giveaways. Trial broadcast produced the desired results and within the next few days 1,500 letters were received. That gave the show something to go on and the series was initiated successfully.

Hitch hikes . . . Frigidaire pulled a surprise out of the hat yesterday and renewed "Hollywood Star Time" for another cycle. "Man Called X" looked all but set, with Arthur Godfrey and Monty Woolley very much in the running . . . How come Ozzie Nelson, Harriet Hilliard and John Guedel will be on Sunday's "Speak Up, Listener" program on the Palm Springs station . . . Carmen Miranda warms the guest spot on Ed Gardner's "Tavern" takeoff Oct. 2 . . . Paul Price, who's a spittin' image of Eddie Bracken, will flack the comic's Texaco series . . . Charles Vanda of CBS, Howard Wiley of NBC, ABC's Norman Ostby and Bob Forward of Mutual will be at the production controls of the Community Chest gala in Hollywood Bowl Oct. 12 . . . Joan Lorring subs for the ailing Anne Baxter on Academy Award's "Guest in the House" . . . Hastings Piston Ring bought "Michael Shayne" and keeps it on Mutual-Don Lee. Union Oil stays on Don Lee with a mystery show of its own creation.

KAY KYSER SHOW UP TO PAR AS IT HITS ETHER

In format, flavor and favor Kay Kyser's 'steenth seasonal return to the kilocycles remains the same. And that, except for still being a longish hour, is good, naturally. With the same material content it should be an even more successful half hour when show is chopped two weeks hence and airs a half hour later (6:30 to 7). It can only be hoped that sponsor and agency will not attempt to squeeze in six commercials, four of them betwixt opening and closing plugs—in addition to script runners-in—into that brief space.

"Prof" Kyser continues to be the showman his tenure bespeaks. Fatherhood and new sugar daddy, Colgate-Palmolive, have not lessened his talent to keep an audience and, more important, keep them entertained. Only infrequently does the humor, in hands of Ish Kabibble, become strained. Supporters are all the word implies including, as usual, his radio-smart band, which remains in upper classes, and not excluding vocalists. All hands deserve a nod for noticeable effort in producing an hour full, if not completely full hour's worth.

E-L JOINS WAR ON B'S WITH HI BUDGETERS

next half-year, made it clear that studio plans a "higher type of product able to compete at the box office with anything turned out in the industry."

Company has programmed seven major feature films budgeted at $1,000,000 or over, will also release two $2,000,000 pictures for Producing Artists, Inc., and several J. Arthur Rank British-made features.

SOME FOR PRC

Eagle-Lion also will make a total of six to 12 pictures for PRC. Of these, "The Red Stallion," Cinecolor production, will probably cost around $750,000 and the others are to be budgeted at from $350,000 to $650,000.

Physical facilities of PRC exchanges will be used in distribution, with Schwalberg organizing separate sales force for Eagle-Lion. Schwalberg, sales manager for International on its product released through RKO, said that the sales organization set up for that job will serve as nucleus for the Eagle-Lion sales department. He is now picking sales experts for various key spots.

Foy said that the executive production staff is not yet complete and that he will make additions in writing, directing and producing departments.

HAND PICKED RANK PIX

The Rank product for Eagle-Lion release will be hand-picked, Schwalberg said, for pictures likely to meet demand of the American market. Company will release at least five Rank films during the current season.

Producing-releasing schedule as outlined, follows:

"It's A Joke, Son," release Jan. 1, 1947; "His Bridal Night," production start Oct. 7; "Prelude to Night," Producing Artists production, starts shooting Nov. 1; "Repeat Performance," production start Nov. 15; "Mr. Jow," Eagle-Lion $1,800,000 budgeter, starts shooting Dec. 20; "Bedelia," J. Arthur Rank mystery, scheduled for December release; "Love From A Stranger," starts production Jan. 15, 1947; "Kenny," Eagle-Lion $2,000,000 budgeter based on Louis Bromfield novel, starts shooting Feb. 15, 1947; "Imperial Venus," Producing Artists production, scheduled to start Feb. 20, 1947; "Clementine," Eagle-Lion $1,600,000 budgeter, starts late February; "The Adventuress," J. Arthur Rank production, February release.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE SCREEN ACTORS GUILD:

Your Officers and Board of Directors have investigated fully all aspects of the dispute between the IATSE and the Carpenters Union and have examined the official A. F. of L. position therein. We have made every possible effort to aid in a settlement of this dispute but to no avail.

We find that the present dispute is a jurisdictional one and is so designated by the American Federation of Labor.

No A. F. of L. union is required to take sides and respect picket lines in a jurisdictional dispute between other A. F. of L. unions.

In the best interests of all actors, you are instructed as follows:

If picket lines are established in this controversy, members of the Screen Actors Guild will pass through the picket lines and live up to their contract.

A letter will be sent immediately to each member of the Guild, discussing the matter in greater detail.

that "In the best interests of all actors, you are instructed as follows: If picket lines are established in this controversy, members of the Screen Actors Guild will pass through the picket lines and live up to their contract."

30,000 JOBS PERILED BY 350

SAG declared that it could "see no merit in allowing 30,000 people to be thrown out of work in a union controversy over 350 jobs." Point was made clear that principal actor interest should be in keeping the studios and their jobs open and not to become involved in a purely jurisdictional fight. SAG board pointed out that closed studios would not work economic hardship on other crafts as they could find ample work outside the industry. A strike would seriously affect actors' livelihood and, in addition, hamper forthcoming negotiations for a new contract with producers.

'GO THROUGH PICKETS'

SAG pledged continued efforts to have the AFL set up permanent machinery for "the orderly settlement of jurisdictional disputes before they result in work stoppages" and concluded notice to members with instructions: "In the meantime, and until further notice, you are instructed to proceed through any picket lines that may be established in this controversy."

Wire from Carpenters, and a similar one sent to majors by Painters, said in part:

"We repeat our position that we stand ready to do all work assigned to us in conformity with the December 26, 1945 directive of the American Federation of Labor Executive Council, as reaffirmed on August 16, 1946. This directive is binding on all parties. We will not work on any set constructed in violation of the American Federation of Labor's directive.

"We can only interpret your threatened action as a deliberate attempt to continue to stall meeting legitimate wage demands and signing contracts."

PASS BUCK TO PRODS

"Unless you face your own responsibilities and commitments in relation to the American Federation of Labor's directive and refrain from further provocative action, you alone will bear the responsibility for creating any possible loss of work among the 30,000 workers in the industry."

Wire was signed by Joseph F. Cambiano, Carpenters International representative, C. A. Sproul, prexy of Local 946, and J. W. Vance, recording secretary.

Authors' Prez Frowns on AAA

A general discussion of the AAA plan was held by the AL council but because of the far-reaching legal, financial and administrative complexities involved, it was decided to organize a committee to study the plan. Committee will consist of Rice, Richard Rodgers, president of the Dramatists Guild; Christopher LaFarge, prexy of Authors Guild; Peter Lyon, vice prexy of Radio Writers Guild. Representative of SWG on the committee is to be named by Emmet Lavery, SWG president, and probably will be Marc Connelly. Committee has been instructed to hold meetings at which all members could have the opportunity to sound off on the plan.

It was during an interview following the meeting that Rice cast a shadow over the possibility of adopting the AAA plan, declaring, "In my opinion it is extremely unlikely that the League or any of its guilds which have always been vigilant in protecting the freedom of writers, will adopt any plan which would entail a surrender by authors of their copyrights, or the setting up of any administrative official or board who would have arbitrary or dictatorial powers."

Meanwhile, AWA is continuing its drive to enlist prominent literati for the fight against the proposals in the plan drawn up by James M. Cain. Recent names added to the AWA committee list include Dorothy Thompson, Lin Yutang, James Truslow Adams, Rex Beach, Dale Carnegie and W. L. White.

PRODUCERS STRIKE

AMERICAN FEDERATION of LABOR

Yes, producers. Walsh too. They openly flout and defy an AFL directive, hoping to produce a chaos in which Walsh can fatten his power and producers can stall further in signing contracts and meeting wage demands.

Yes, it is that simple.

Last Dec. 26 the AFL executive council headed by William Green handed down a ruling on carpenter work. Parts of the ruling weren't clear. Regardless, carpenters obeyed.

On Aug. 16 last the council reviewed its ruling and drew a clear ring around carpenter work. Carpenters again obeyed. Also painters. But studios refuse to assign work accordingly.

Walsh, too, refuses and even offers to supply scabs to take our jobs.

Thus these Siamese twins are up again to their old act, but this time flouting the highest authority in American labor.

To the producers' demand that we join them in this defiance we yesterday replied:

"We repeat our position that we stand ready to do all work assigned to us in conformity with the Dec. 26, 1945 directive of the AFL executive council, as reaffirmed on Aug. 16, 1946.

"This directive is binding on all parties. We will not work on any set constructed in violation of the AFL's directive.

"We can only interpret your threatened action (to use scabs) as a deliberate attempt to continue to stall meeting legitimate wage demands and signing contracts.

"Unless you face your own responsibilities and commitments in relation to the AFL's directive and refrain from further provocative action, you alone will bear the responsibility for creating any possible loss of work among the 30,000 workers in this industry."

It is impossible to predict what will happen, but this is clear: Producers are trying to force us to strike. That would further delay pay raises due thousands of studio workers, many in Walsh's own unions.

Several of Walsh's unions have asked for permission to strike to get this money, plus contracts and union security. Walsh refuses. If the union acts on its own he will take over. Thus the Browne-Bioff pattern returns—if it ever went away.

The policy of our unions is never to strike for anything which can be won by honest arbitration. Any industry dispute involving carpenters has been fully arbitrated by the AFL, we feel. We comply. We demand that others comply.

We also ask the whole-hearted support of every AFL studio union and all studio workers, to the end of keeping Hollywood a decent, well-paid, honestly-unionized place to work.

AFRA TO PRESS COAST PAY RISE AT NY CONFAB

Claude McCue, executive secretary of American Federation of Radio Artists, leaves for New York next Wednesday to sit in with other union reps on national wage negotiations with networks and agencies. Confabs start Oct. 1, with McCue assisting George Heller, national exec secretary, Ray Jones, latter's assistant, and Henry Jaffe, legal counsel, in what promises to be hottest contest in AFRA's history due to Coast agitation for special concessions.

Two hot Coast chestnuts will be demand for establishment of local commercial fees for staff announcers, tasks that entail extra income in East but which are staff duty here, plus pitches for increase in basic staffer wage here, and elimination of special regional net scale and substitution of transcontinental rate for programs airing over more than two stations. Both staff station pay and regional rates here are considerably lower than Eastern scales and Coasters want to pare differential.

Local here has decided that unless more headway can be made with net divisional heads on the staff problems of commercial fees and basic increases, it will toss matter into national negotiation and have decision made in East by network brass. Union has met with divisional heads three times, it's reported, without success and two remain as far apart on coin as poles. All three local issues will, it's said, be staunchly clung to and no national deal concluded until matters are straightened out.

DEALERS TO GET TELE RECEIVERS THIS AUTUMN

Washington, Sept. 18.—Ray Cosgrove, prexy of Radio Manufacturers Association, said today television sets will begin to appear in dealer showrooms this Fall. While development of video may be slow, he added, it is likely to become "greatest unit in radio industry" within a few years.

Meanwhile, under greatly expanded capacity, radio industry in 1946 will surpass its best pre-war production year, he predicted. In August, more than 1,500,000 receivers were produced—a figure far ahead of pre-war levels. However, it was stated, making of FM sets dropped below the July figure.

This Time It Is DIFFERENT!

The Producers have apparently decided to have one last fling at breaking the free and democratic studio unions. Their reason for doing so should be obvious, their method clear to all.

Unable otherwise to stop the drive of studio workers for wages in line with today's living costs, the Producers again use Richard Walsh and the strike-breakers he has harbored in his boss-controlled unions to attempt the smashing of all free and democratic organizations.

This time the Producers' method is clumsy, for they stand in direct violation of an order of the top authority of the American Federation of Labor. For eight months the Studio Carpenters have been patient—despite the firing of 500 as a result of Producer-Walsh connivance and encroachment last winter. They waited to have the jurisdictional award clarified and then demanded observance. THE PRODUCERS FIRED CARPENTERS INSTEAD OF THE VIOLATORS OF THE DIRECTIVE!

It is no secret to Set Designers, Illustrators and Decorators that the Producers and Walsh have kept the jurisdictional pot boiling. 1421 has suffered five different infringements by another Walsh stooge-operated local—44. And these were violations of as clear an order as was ever handed down. Both the NLRB and the A.F. of L. jurisdictional committee said the Set Decorators belonged in 1421—leaving no shadow of a doubt.

So we know what the carpenters are up against.

We believe that the Producers and Walsh have guessed wrong again. The Conference unions, and many others as well, will fight. And win. The victory, again, will be not for the C.S.U. members alone.

Signed contracts will be won this time. For all.

Wage inequities will be adjusted this time. For all.

And what is more—much more important in the long run—the workers of this industry will repudiate Walsh and all he stands for. And they will thus free their unions of employer control—and be rid of the incessant jurisdictional bickering and get along with each other like decent citizens in this industry.

This is the fight for proper living standards and job security.

This is the fight for self-respect—for all.

LET'S ALL WIN IT TOGETHER!

Taxi! Taxi!

Jose Tuason, number one exhib in the Philippine Islands whose Capitol theatre is the Warner Bros. showcase in Manila, almost lived a piece out of the "Two Guys From Milwaukee" script. He set out Sunday from Buffalo for Hollywood in a taxi, because he could get no reservations on a train or plane. First hack turned back at Chicago and Tuason engaged another which made the rest of the trip. Meter went so high it broke on last taxi and total cost of the junket was $978.40 with a $57 tip to the first driver and $82 gratuity to second.

CSU DEMANDS PARLEY ON PAY

Five major studios started hiring IATSE carpenter replacements yesterday as 12 locals in the Conference of Studio Unions served notice on producers for immediate negotiations on new contracts.

CSU locals' wire to major studios repeated charge that producers are stalling on contracts and pay increases and threatened to "take whatever action is necessary to bring negotiations to a conclusion" if an immediate answer to demands is not made.

'Hidden Horizons' Whodunit Brings Laughs Out of Step

New York, Sept. 19.—"Hidden Horizons," first new straight play of autum at Plymouth tonight, is whodunit with only mild chance for limited engagement.

One off stage homicide and another in view punctuate first nighter's talky drama. Audience was inclined to giggle at wrong times but there was no real comedy during evening.

Diana Barrymore, the villainess, doesn't seem to believe herself but is most decorative femme in cast of one-setter. Halliwell Hobbes as clerical inspector looks the part but is on stage too much. Joy Page, stepdaughter of Jack Warner, does fairly well in debut here. Barbara Joyce is bumped off

Included are RKO, Columbia, Universal, Paramount, with other studios either already having followed suit or about to do so, making it an industry-wide procedure.

In some instances, communique is very definite, with only extreme or emergency cases being granted vacations at this time. In others, any candidate for vacation must check with business office, to get official okay. Move is understood to be in line with current labor situation, if and when studios close down.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

TOKYO datelined yarn in yesterday's papers finally put to rest some of the wondering which has been going on for several years by record magnates concerning master discs of German wax firms. Germany's two major platter firms, Telefunken and Polydor, were rated as tops in the classical recording field during pre-war days with many priceless recordings stashed away in their libraries. Particularly valuable, especially after the batering of Berlin, were the waxes which had been cut in the Berlin State Opera House. With discovery of some of Telefunken's originals in Tokyo, chances are possible for U. S. releasing deals for the longhair specialties. Whether there are any masters left in Germany is problematical. Telefunken moved many of its masters to Japan in 1938, while the war clouds gathered, and ran pressings into this country almost up to Pearl Harbor. However, Japanese materials and pressings were so poor that Telefunken label dropped in prestige with collectors, even though the artists and selections were top quality. Deals now possibly will be hot with U. S. authorities in all likelihood parcelling out the discs to various U. S. firms.

AFTER a period of three years in retirement, the once child prodigy Ruth Slenczynski will return to the concert stage. Sam Rosey, MCA concert director, inked the pianist two weeks ago in San Francisco and immediately put out queries with satisfactory results. For some time there has been a great deal of curiosity in the concert world as to what happened to the now married and 21 year old artist, who started in as a concert star at the age of eight. She had dropped out of sight for no particular reason, according to most longhair fans. However, concert directors had been scrapping with her father who also managed her. With inking by MCA, the girl will go outside the family for management.

ATTEMPTED pressuring of ballrooms into establishing regular pay scale for announcers handling remote pickup broadcasts has been temporarily abandoned by American Federation of Radio Artists. With operators complaining that under AFRA presentation ballroom gabbers would be making more than staff announcers on stations actually carrying events, union figured going would be too tough. Plan now is to wait until new contracts are made this Fall with stations upping staffer pay. Ballrooms had threatened gratis use of regular stations staffers or releasing of gabbers altogether. With staffer pay increase equalizing situation AFRA will resume with idea.

MAESTRO of first rank is offering his services to various pop platteries on a strange arrengement, since his windup of contract with one wax firm. Deal being presented is demand for an immediate $150,000 on a loan basis, non collectable for three years. At the end of that time firm may start taking payments, but with accurued royalties mitigating some part of the loan. Although stickwaver is a "name" and disc draw, the flat handover of 150G's is not exactly to the taste of most platter pundits. Reason for the hunk of cash is that batoneer likes to live sumptuously and he needs the moola pretty badly right now.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

A development with important potentialities for world peace is the State Department proposal for an international trade organization of the United Nations. The basis of most wars is economic, and this draft charter would attempt to remove some of the economic causes of war—unemployment, tariff and cartel barriers, trade wars, and the effect of excess production in a commodity. It would try to bring some order into international trade, be the Bretton Woods of commerce. Its appeal should be considerable to Joseph Stalin, who might be reminded that, in his Feb. speech, he said: "Perhaps military catastrophes might be avoided if it were possible for a raw materials and markets to be periodically redistributed among the various countries in accordance with their economic importance, by agreement and peaceable settlement. But that is impossible to do under present capitalist conditions of the development of world economy." Is this, Uncle Joe, a better "capitalist condition of the development of world economy?" At any rate that's what we're trying to effect. Its success will depend upon the cooperation of the leading nations of the world, including Russia.

Bad Men Of The Border

(Western with Music)

UNIVERSAL RELEASE. Produced and directed by Wallace Fox. Original screenplay, Adele Buffington. Photography, Maury Gertsman. Film editor, Phillip Cahn. Musical director, Mark Levant. Art direction, John B. Goodman and Abraham Grossman. Sound direction, Bernard B. Brown. Technician, Jack A. Bolger. Set decorations, Russell A. Gausman and Ralph Sylos.

CAST—Kirby Grant, Fuzzy Knight, Armida, John Eldredge, Barbara Sears, Francis McDonald, Soledad Jiminez, Edward M. Howard, Edmund Cobb, Pierce Lyden, Gene Stutenroth and Roy Brent.

REVIEWED at Hitching Post theatre, Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 19, 1946. Running time: 60 MINS.

It starts out with a lone bandit robbing a stage coach near El Paso on the Mexican border and you think it is going to be the same old story, but you change your mind all of a sudden when you discover that Fuzzy Knight is a pal of the lone bandit, played by Kirby Grant. You know Fuzzy wouldn't hang around a baddie.

There is not a rancho, nor a cow, nor a gambling joint in the picture, which makes it different. Instead of the customary western backgrounds you find an undeground counterfeiting outfit led by a blonde, Barbara Sears, a tunnel under the border, and a femme detective, Armida, who doubles as an entertainer in the cantina.

Kirby is a U.S. marshal and pulls the phony holdup so he can muscle in and get the lowdown on the counterfeiters. He also falls for Armida, which is something a western hero seldom does while pursuing his duty on the trail of crime.

While he is fooling around with Armida, the gangsters learn that Kirby is John Law in person, and set out to frame him with the Mexican police and bump him off on the way to the calaboose, but Kirby is too slick and escapes through Armida's dressing room in the cantina.

Meanwhile the Mexican gal goes snooping around and gets herself captured in the underground counterfeiting parlor but the hero comes to the rescue as the gangsters escape through the tunnel.

Comes the chase, with John Eldredge, the bandit chief, and his blonde pal, riding away with the loot in a buckboard. Naturally, speed and justice prevail.

Instead of riding away into the sunset alone, Kirby climbs into a coach with Armida and rides to church, intent on marriage.

Bogeaus Seeking Cary-Gary Team

Benedict Bogeaus is negotiating with Gary Cooper and Cary Grant to team up in one of sequences for his "A Miracle Can Happen." If UA producer can sign them, he will add a fifth sequence to picture. James Stewart and Henry Fonda are set for final sequence as matters now stand, with Fred MacMurray currently appearing in third.

Radio exploitation coverage in the international market will be tried for first time by David Selznick on record publicity-budgeted "Duel in the Sun." Attempt will be made to blanket entire foreign market via placement of specially prepared transcriptions on virtually every radio station in world.

Deal is being worked with Howard Brown, radio producer and exporter, who will spot materials and handle shipments. In non-English speaking countries straight musical platters will be employed, along with script material which may be translated by native announcers. For English speaking countries additional platters, featuring stars of film, will be included on interview, and possibly dramatic basis. Platters will be so made as to make it appear that they are actually interviewing stars via cue-ins.

Platters will be distributed free to stations and presumably time will be free in exchange, with Selznick paying freighting, production and all other costs.

Alexander Carr Dies at 68; On Stage and Screen 51 Years

Alexander Carr, who achieved stardom with role of Mawruss Perlmutter in stage and screen team of "Potash and Perlmutter," died yesterday in Cedars of Lebanon Hospital. He was 68 years of age.

Carr was born in Rumni, Russia on March 7, 1878 and came to this country as a child. He made his stage debut in 1895 in a St. Paul music Hall. For several years, Carr toured key cities in stock companies.

The veteran actor created a sensation in his Broadway bow in 1904 at the Circle Theatre, with an imitation of David Warfield in "Wine, Woman And Song." Based upon that performance, the Shuberts signed him for the role of Montgomery Bernstein Brewster in "The Gay White Way," opening at the Casino Theatre, Oct. 7, 1907. Actor made his London bow at the Palace Theatre, August 9, 1909 as Abraham Levy in "Toplitzky."

After a succession of plays for the Shuberts, Carr first appeared in 1913 in famed role of Perlmutter in "Potash And Perlmutter" at the George M. Cohan theatre. George Signey was Potash of the famed team. His other stage successes included "An April Shower," "Business Before Pleasure," "The Dreamer," "Partners Again," "Mendel Inc.," and "The Wooden Soldier." Carr also authored latter play.

Carr first came to Hollywood in 1924 for filmization of "Potash And Perlmutter." He appeared in numerous films including "Partners Again," "The Beautiful Cheat," "The End Of The World," "Dame Chance," "April Fool," "Divine Love," "Hypnotized," "The Death Kiss," "Out All Night," "Her Splendid Folly," and "I Hate Women."

Carr's domestic life was highlighted by rifts from two wives, film actress Mary Carr, and onetime Follies girl Helen Cressman. Funeral arrangements are to be announced today.

Justice Dept. Ready to Drop Confidential Inquiry Reports

Washington, Sept. 19.—Justice Department has not been able to prove that confidential reports supplied secret information for distributors to the detriment of exhibitor and may drop its investigation, according to some reports here. Justice Dept. began the probe when exhibitors complained CR had made secret information available to individual distributors. One government attorney claimed that the information purportedly supplied by CR could be obtained by a distributor by a simple phone call to another distributor, without involving confidential reports. Up to this point, there seems little prospect here of making out a case against the checking agency.

LEGIT OPENING

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 19.—"Park Avenue," which Max Gordon has produced sumptuously, registered the first step with what should ultimately shape up as smart entertainment in its premiere at Schubert tonight. Show has a number of features to commend it and has cast who know what to do with rich satire of the two acts.

Being a rib at the modern divorce setup among modern ultra sophisticates, script carries bright dialogue that brings frequent laughs. Lyrics complement spoken chuckle-rousers. Score has singable tunes which get their heaviest vocal lift from Martha Stewart on solos and duets.

Leonora Corbett and Arthur Margetson make ace leads. They get good support from Raymond Walburs, Jed Prouty, Mary Wickes, Robert Chisholm, Marthe Errolle, Charles Purcell and Ruth Matteson. Ray McDonald goes big on hoofing and intimate ballet registers nicely. Can use this theme in expanded form.

Gentleman Joe Palooka

(Comedy)

MONOGRAM RELEASE. Producer, Hal E. Chester. Associate producer, Bernard W. Burton. Director Cyril Endfield. Screenplay by Cyril Endfield. Photography, William Sickner. Art direction, Dave Milton. Musical direction, Edward J. Kay. Assistant director, William Calihan. Production supervisor, Glenn Cook. Stylist, Lorraine MacLean. Makeup, Harry Ross. Prize fights staged by John Indrisano. Film editor, Ralph Dixon.

CAST—Leon Errol, Joe Kirkwood, Guy Kibbee, Elyse Knox, Lionel Stander, H. B. Warner, Stanley Prager, Warren Hymer, Richard Lane, Cliff Nazarro, Fritz Feld, Sarah Padden, Louis Jean Heydt, Freddie Steele, Tommy Harmon, Roy Atwell, Ian Wolfe, Sam McDaniel, Eddie Gribbon, Roger Daniel, Marie Blake, William Forrest, Dick Fishell, Jack Roper, John Indrisano.

PREVIEWED at Monogram Studios, Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 19, 1946. Running time: 70 MINS.

"Gentleman Joe Palooka," second of Hal Chester's series based on the Joe Palooka comic strip, is neatly produced comedy that tops the previous offering in entertainment value. Film has more general appeal than did the first of the series. It is plentifully supplied with sequences good for both chuckles and belly-laughs. It looks like a first class box office bet in its market.

Joe Kirkwood wins a bit of distinction in the title role and Leon Errol makes every point count for a laugh in the chief comedy chore. He is ably supported in this job by Lionel Stander and Warren Hymer. Elyse Knox gets across nicely as the principal femme, and Guy Kibbee contributes largely to the interest of the yarn as the jolly, genial mannered but actually villainous heavy conspirator. Others of the cast turn in a top supporting performance.

Joe goes civic minded in this yarn and the prize ring angles are backgrounded. There are a few fast flashes of ring action, however, and one climactic free-for-all rough-house that is a high spot of the action.

Chester and Bernard Burton have done a workmanlike, effective job with low budget materials and Cyril Endfield can take a bow for both his direction and the script. Camera work of William Sickner is generally above standard.

Lou Levy Forming New Theatre Group

Manager Lou Levy forming new legit group to be known as Circle Theatre and reps here are seeking site suitable for Greek arena-type presentation on intimate plan. Now in New York, Levy is expected back next month. Meanwhile talent is being rounded up by his office here to form a stock company.

ICE FOLLIES BOW COLORFULLY AS IN THE PAST

The 11th annual edition of the Shipstads and Johnson "Ice Follies" opened as spectacularly and colorfully as ever at the Pan-Pacific Auditorium last night. The show follows standard pattern for ice extravaganza, with blades, costumes, gals and specialties all sharp for the occasion.

The producers have been overgenerous in the program, putting on a series of ensemble numbers and feature acts that runs for about three and a half hours, exclusive of intermission. Shorter show probably would intensify the thrill for the audience. Still and all, the wonderment that skaters can do on ice stunts that would tax the skill of ballet dancers and acrobats on a board stage holds out pretty well. And variety of effect is achieved by elaborate and excellently handled lighting and sumptuously gay costuming.

The girls, besides being accomplished ice performers, all are pleasantly equipped with effective curves aside from those in the blades of skates.

Comedy and clowning is of the broad, pratt-fall type—a natural for the ice—and the comics include Les Hamilton, as Sis Hopkins; Ericsen and Hutchinson; McKellen Brothers. Most pretentious comedy production number is "Rehearsal at the Hippodrome," featuring Bill Cameron and Russ Tuckey.

Top featured skaters include Marshall Beard, Dick Salter and John Kinney; the Maxsons; Bobby Blake; Shirley and Ginger; Betty Schalow; Lillian McGuire; Hazel Franklin and Barry Green; Roy Shipstad; Mae Ross; the Miltons; Evelyn Chandler.

Harris Legg climaxes the thrills with his sensational speed and jumping act on the long blades.

Music for the show is furnished by orchestra conducted by Walter Rudolph and vocalizing of Paul Gannon who also acts as master of ceremonies.

THE GRAPEVINE: The jinx has hit "Forever Amber" again and Producer Bill Perlberg who has spent a good part of the summer realigning that picture after its false start has to do some more recasting before he can get the cameras clicking again. Cornel Wilde who was to play the male star role is definitely out of the cast. He has been under a doctor's care for some time and is calling on his reserve strength to finish "The Homestretch." "Amber" was due for a mid October start. Thus far no announcement of a postponement has been made . . . Everett Riskin has two of Metro's biggies under his wing "East River" and the "Nutmeg Tree" and the producer sez he expects to spend the rest of his life with Leo . . . According to latest reports Sidney Skolsky has surmounted the trip to New York that so terrified him that he took his personal physician with him on the plane . . . The Barry Sullivans are expecting their second child in early January . . . George Montgomery is working on a 250-foot golf range, tennis and badminton courts on his Encino ranch now that he's finished with "The Brasher Doubloon" . . . LeRoy Finster tells about the sign on the street cars which read: "Don't leave any arms in the doors after alighting" and adds "wonder what the results would be if Jane Russell stepped off backwards?"

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Another load of that oft publicized coal is going back to Newcastle. When Marlene Dietrich returns to Paris following the completion of "Golden Earrings," she's taking with her a complent Hollywood wardrobe which she bought the other day on her first big shopping spree since she went over there to join the Army . . . Anne Baxter, who was rushed to the hospital first of the week for an appendectomy is reported very much on the mend . . . Frank Sinatra almost swooning over the delivery of his Harco-40, a new type of cruiser . . . While filling out a personal history form for Metro, Red Skelton told all and if you don't know his full name is Richard Vincent Van Bernard Skelton, a nice fit for the ordinary marquee. . . . Andrea King has been cast in the role of the bosomy, hour glass figure of Lillian Russell in Warners "My Wild Irish Rose." She was selected by Jack L. Warner who liked her work in "Shadow of a Woman" . . . Robert Lowell has lived all his 24 years right here in Los Angeles but it was not till this week that he ever saw Catalina . . . Angela Green has had her 12th option lifted by Warners.

CALL SHEET: VINCENT PRICE is digging into ancient history to make it pay off handsomely. Actor, ever since he arrived from stage, has insisted upon driving a dilapidated 1928 Ford pickup truck as means of locomotion. Anatole Litvak, directing him in "A Time to Kill," caught a glimpse of battered vehicle and immediately asked Price to use it in picture, at $50 per day for its use. Thus far, actor has collected neat $350.00 for his steed . . . GALLANT BESS, the trained horse who stars in Metro picture of same tag, will make personal appearances in number of key cities immediately prior to opening of film, in mighty plug for equine's screen debut. . . . RICHARD NEY finally has attained pinnacle of fame—he's been selected by Men's Wear, national trade mag, as one of five best-dressed men in America . . . BORDEN CHASE, who authored Frank Borzage's "I've Always Loved You," will launch his daughter on screen career . . . BONITA GRANVILLE, judging by flood of recent fan mag pictures, has been discovered as having super de luxe grand prix glamour chassis . . . JAMES CRAIG, who was guest of Wyoming Governor Lester C. Hunt at opening of state's antelope hunting season, returned with a prize, plus pair of silver spurs, latter presented him by Governor for making most spectacular shot of event's "one-shot-hunt," bringing down antelope on run at distance of 278 yards.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Marilyn Buford, the new "Miss America," visits Republic this week—to meet all the stars she didn't meet when she was a show girl there in "Earl Carroll Vanities" . . . The B's may be out but Pine and Thomas haven't lost their touch in the matter of speeding production. They took cast and crew of "Adventure Island" to Catalina at the crack of dawn, made the 14 mile boat trip from Avalon to the Isthmus and had everything set up and were shooting scenes within four hours after landing at Avalon . . . Technical advisers on Hal Wallis' "Desert Town" include four professional card dealers and croupiers, brought in from Las Vegas to put the gimmicks in a gambling hall sequence . . . Comedy shows that got away to a shaky start are frantically combing the home scene for (1) writers and (2) fresh turns with a farcical twist. The first is a fruitless search as the good ones are tied down for the season. On the other score there's a fair amount of loose talent at large. Were we called on to suggest or commend our first choice would fall on two performers who did an estimable job at the head of their own shows. Jackie Coogan in a vignette on "The Kid" would dovetail snugly into many of the troubled programs and Herb Vigran's "Sad Sack" is too good to be completely ignored.

Stooges, so-called, such as Bert Gordon and many another rate better than occasional guest shots and could be fitted into shows that need a comedic spark. Regardless of their capacity for yucks to take the curse off the egg-roll they get the thumbs down treatment because they lack "freshness." The field will be swept clean by the time the ninth (option) week sets in and those whose Hoopers are dragging had best plug the weak spots or else take the call of the Phil Baker fans on the $32 question.

65 FM SPOTS ON AIR; 283 HAVE PERMITS

Washington, Sept. 19.—FCC reported today that 65 FM stations are on the air broadcasting at least six hours daily. In addition, 283 other companies hold construction permits and should be able to start regular broadcasts in the near future.

An additional 261 conditional grants for FM operation are outstanding. More than half of these awaiting filing of engineering and programming information with FCC, to get final okays.

FCC added that still another 224 bids are either tabbed for hearing or waiting for action based on hearings already held, with there remaining a final 190 applications on which there has been no action whatsoever. About 30 of these bids are from persons who have two FM grants already. Until Commission processes entire backlog of pending applications, they cannot expect a third FM permit.

CIRO'S

It is the same old story at Ciro's: Carmen Cavallaro equals a full house. Maestro returned to the Strip nitery Wednesday after a year's absence and drew a black tie crowd that all but draped from the rafters. Cavallaro's musicrew handled dance chores until mid-evening when the ''poet of the piano'' made his appearance to violent applause. Until the 88'er came on, it was just an ordinary musicrew but his fronting and playing sparked it into top form. At show time, Gloria Foster thrushed on a neat pair then turned over the stage to Cavallaro. Teeing off with ''Flamingo,'' keyboarder ran the gamut from Latin through semi-classical and back to boogie. He finally had to beg off, quite literally, because first-nighters wouldn't let him go. Top band attraction is booked for an indefinite stand at the spot.

SEG DIRECTORS VOTE TO ACCEPT MAJOR'S TERMS

Following reinstatement of clauses governing $8.50 work calls and rate increases according to rises in cost of living, Screen Extras Guild board of directors last night voted to recommend members accept contract offered by major studios. Ballots for membership to vote on proposed new pact will be sent out immediately.

Board also recommended that extras follow Screen Actors Guild formula in regards to possible studio picket lines. Extras were instructed to go through any lines that might be thrown up in current jurisdictional fight.

Proposed new contract is retroactive to Jan. 1, 1946, and provides that studios will not call $8.50 extras until after a set is using minimum of 65 larger scale extras. Also, studios will call only extras registered in that classification. Other scales provided in pact are $14 and $20.

Under the agreement Roach turns over approximately half of the facilities of his Culver City Studio to Wanger.

members of employers' association, approximating 10.

Neither musicians union nor performers group had been contacted previous to pulling of strike. In consequence, members of both AFM and AGVA continued to work where requested, after crossing picket lines. When contacted late yesterday J. K. Wallace, prexy of musicians union, stated that as far as his group was concerned strike was unauthorized and those who wanted to could continue working spots. There was no consultation or official notification of it, he added.

Among hotels, Plaza, Roosevelt, Knickerbocker, Beverly Hills, Beverly-Wilshire, Bel-Air, Biltmore, Town House and Chapman Park were hit. Some attempted to partially operate bars and with other light touches.

Among niteries only Florentine Gardens was hit, and it, too, was "faking" it with girls serving drinks, etc. Mocambo, Ciro's, Earl Carroll's, Slapsy Maxie's and Palladium, continued operation.

Only eateries in Hollywood were hit, apparently. Derbies, Musso-Frank's, Chi-Chi and Lyman's were affected, while Players, La Rue, Foy's, Chassen's, Club, Billingsley's, Romanoff's, Brittingham's, Perino's, Breneman's, Lucey's, House of Murphy and Crillon remained and thrived on shortage of oases.

PRODUCERS MUST MEET THEIR RESPONSIBILITIES

To put an end to long stalling by producers on contracts and pay raises for nearly all studio workers, a stalling punctuated by their frequently raising false issues, the following telegram was sent yesterday to Mr. Pat Casey, chairman, producers labor committee:

"The Conference of Studio Unions joins Studio Carpenters Local 946 in the opinion expressed in their telegram to you on September 18, 1946, that your actions are "a deliberate attempt to continue to stall meeting legitimate wage demands and signing contracts.

"We therefore demand immediate and continuous negotiations to conclude contracts with all Conference of Studio Unions locals as was pledged in the interim agreement of July 2, 1946.

"We expect an immediate answer to this demand, and if it is not forthcoming these locals will take whatever action is necessary to bring negotiations to a conclusion."

'CANYON PASSAGE' GETS KLIEG PREEM IN VALLEY

Walter Wanger's "Canyon Passage" preemed last night at Studio City Theatre in San Fernando Valley. Event, complete with klieg lights, bleachers and a milling crowd of tans, was the first preem ever staged in the valley. Civic organizations participated in the event, which was highlighted by floats entered by various groups.

Preem keynoted launching of Universal-International's five-theatre first-run showcase group. Film opens today in the group, which includes the Fox Ritz, Guild, Iris, Studio City and United Artists Theatres.

LINDFORS STARS IN 'NIGHT' AT WB

Warners put "Night Unto Night" before the lenses yesterday as the first film to gun in four starters slated for this coming week. Studios Hiring Subs As CSU Demands Pay Parley will have to try to find out what the telegram means."

Studios hiring IA replacements yesterday were Columbia, Metro, RKO, Universal and Warners. Total of 37 members of Studio Carpenters, Local 946, were given their closing checks yesterday at these lots after refusing work assignments on so-called "hot sets."

In addition, Universal let out five painters for same refusal. Procedure followed by lots was to ask carpenters to work on sets and when they refused were asked "to leave the premises." Five Universal carpenters, when handed their closing checks, sat down on the set until their work shift was scheduled to end.

Warners, which dropped two carpenters yesterday, re-hired approximately 10 for assignment on undisputed work. Studio has four pictures in work, one rolling at night. Three more are slated to start next week. Studios are experiencing gradual slow-down in production and face total shut-down unless sets needed for current productions can be put together within next few days. Mill work is still being performed but painting and erection is proving almost insurmountable barrier.

CSU's new demands on producers followed morning meeting yesterday and was signed by Herbert K. Sorrell, CSU prexy; Studio Carpenters, Painters, Local Union 40, I B E W, Screen Set Designers, Illustrators and Decorators, Screen Cartoonists, Publicists, Story Analysts, Special Officers and Guards, Building Service, Sheet Metal Workers, International Molders & Foundry Workers, and Cinema Lodge 1185, IAM.

Wire stated:

BIG UPSWING IN AUSTRALIAN PIC MAKING

Sydney, Sept. 19.—Giant upswing in Australian film production is expected next year, with newest addition to producers' ranks being Alexander Korda. Korda is sending a production unit here to make "Smiley." J. Arthur Rank, likewise, is expected to swing into production here next year. The Ealing film combo of England also has slated three films for production here. Columbia is reportedly planning to produce in this area, following success of its "Smithy," currently playing the Greater Union Theatres circuit.

What Price, MR. HUTCHESON ?

The jurisdictional trouble in the studios is the result of the power psychosis of one man—Wm. L. Hutcheson.

Hutcheson's unreasonable and unconscionable jurisdictional demands were responsible for prolonging the abortive Sorrell strike of March 12, 1945.

To settle that strike, all the unions involved—including Hutcheson's union—agreed to accept the Cincinnati directive, which provided for the arbitration of the jurisdictional disputes and which provided that the arbitration decision should be "final and binding."

The committee rules that the division of work agreement entered into between the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Moving Picture Machine Operators of the United States and Canada on February 5, 1925, and known as the "1926 Agreement" be placed in full force and effect immediately.

Division of work by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America.

Section 1. All trim and mill work on sets and stages.

Sec. 2. All mill work and carpenter work in connection with studios.

Sec. 3. All work in carpenter shops.

Sec. 4. All permanent construction.

Sec. 5. All construction work on exterior sets.

Division of work by the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Moving Picture Machine Operators of the United States and Canada:

Sec. 6. Miniature sets.

Sec. 7. Property building.

Sec. 8. Erection of sets on stages except as provided in Section 1.

Sec. 9. Wrecking all sets, exterior and interior.

Sec. 10. Erecting platforms for lamp operators and camera men on stages.

Because Hutcheson did not receive what he wanted from the decision, he refused to abide by it. He gave as his reason for such refusal, the fact that the 3-man committee did not discuss the matter with him before they rendered their decision.

Hutcheson attempted to influence the Executive Council of the A. F. of L., at Miami in February of this year, to set aside the decision.

The Executive Council refused Hutcheson's demand, stating that they had no power to set it aside and that the committee which rendered the decision had been discharged, and had no further authority in the matter.

Still refusing to accept the decision, Mr. Hutcheson applied political pressure on the Council and succeeded in getting them to issue an "interpretation" completely reversing their previous position.

On the basis of the confusing "interpretation", Mr. Hutcheson is now making new demands on the studios.

The 3-man Committee did not write the words they now purport to interpret. These words were written by representatives of the IATSE and the United Brotherhood of Carpenters back in 1925 (known as the "1926 Agreement") The 3-man Committee merely inserted the 1926 Agreement in the Directive.

The decision, with respect to the allocation of the work of set erection, is clear and concise. No honest person could misinterpret its meaning. (Exact wording of decision in above box).

You can plainly see that this gives the work of set erection on stages, with the exception of millwork and trim, to the IATSE. It gives the construction of exterior sets to the carpenters.

Now, Hutcheson contends that the word "erection" doesn't mean erection—that it means assemblage. So, on Wednesday September 11th, Mr. Cambiano, speaking for the Carpenters' Union, demanded all work of set erection on stages as a condition of continuing work in the studios.

If the Directive meant that Hutcheson's union should have all construction work on sets and stages—why then did it exclude millwork and trim. Millwork and trim is a part of construction.

If the Directive meant Hutcheson's union to have all construction on sets and stages—why then didn't it say so—as it does on exterior sets?

If Hutcheson's interpretation of the Directive is correct, all the Committee would have had to say was that the carpenters should do all construction on all sets—there would have been no need for a separate clause covering exterior construction on sets—there would have been no need to exclude only millwork and trim from IATSE jurisdiction on sets and stages.

Black does not mean white—even if Mr. Hutcheson says so.

Erection does not mean assemblage—even if Mr. Hutcheson says so . . . it means ERECTION.

Neither the A. F. of L., nor the 3-man Committee has said that Hutcheson's union has the erection of sets on stages—they have said just the contrary.

Hutcheson and his lieutenants are placing their own interpretation on what the committee's "interpretation" means in the way of work allocation in the studios.

Hutcheson has stated in his communication to the producers that he will expect them to obey "this interpretation, as well as future interpretations," which his political influence may be able to force through the Executive Council of the A. F. of L.

Thus, labor chaos can be created in the studios any time he, Hutcheson, wills it. The last strike cost deluded studio workers, $20,000,000. An eight-month shutdown today would cost them many times that.

WHAT PRICE, MR. HUTCHESON? What price your power psychosis?

BROADWAY RUNAROUND

By RADIE HARRIS

At "21" the other lunch hour, a visiting Hollywood star was discussing the leading lady in his last picture. Said lady is one actress who need never protest to Earl Wilson that "what God has forgotten, she stuffs with cotton!" Her natural good points are too obvious—and no one is more aware of them than she. Unfortunately, she also has personality that warms up to a cold icicle. Which explains why her vis-a-vis confided that all through the picture he kept bending backward to try to like her—while she, in her low-cut decollete, kept bending forward.

ITEMS DROPPED BY THE BROADWAYSIDE: Ingrid Bergman, accompanied by her faithful buffer, Joe Steele, is due here Oct. 5 to start rehearsals of "Joan of Lorraine," which couldn't be a further switch in characterization from the "Joan" of Remarque she is now winding up in "Arch of Triumph" (Enterprise). Wonder if she'll tackle Joan of Crawford next? . . . Ernie Martin is bringing Cy Howard back to the coast with him to be in charge of all comedy writers at CBS. In addition to this newly created job, he and his frau, Nan Wynn, are also lucky enough to go direct from the Pasadena Station to June Havoc's home in Brentwood Heights. She swapped it in return for their apt. at 993 Park Ave . . . Anna Sosenko, who as Hildeguardian of her career, has minted enough gold to float the national debt, is piling some of it into Elizabeth Bergner's "Duchess of Amalfi" . . . Although Roz Russell can't be on hand for the invitational preview of "Sister Kenny" at the Palace (27), her sister, Mrs. Chet La Roche, otherwise known as "The Duchess," will see to it that Everyone Who Is Anyone, my deah, will decorate the orchestra stalls to applaud her Academy Award Candidate. Before the opening, she and Chet will host a cocktail soiree at their apartment in the Waldorf Tower, and knowing Sister Clara's flair for organization, it will be an evening that Sister Roz can be proud of, along with Sister Kenny, who is coming on from Minneapolis to be guest of honor . . . Billy Rose confesses that, as a producer, he always knew how many enemies he had, but until he became a columnist, he never knew how many "friends" he had!

ADD ARRIVALS: Joseph Mankiewicz, Rose Stradner and Bill Perlberg at the Sherry-Netherland . . . Eddie Buzzell at the Waldorf . . . Katharine Hepburn is incommunicado, per usual, at the Hepburn family manse in Hartford, Conn. . . . Betty Rockwell has sublet Ruth Selwyn's apt. at 4 East 64th St.

"HALL OF FAME": To Carnegie Hall and the picture of the same name to hear Leopold Stokowski and the N.Y. Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra give me a private concert of Tschaikowski's Fifth. In all my visits to the Hollywood studios, I must confess I've never had such a thrill! "Stokie," no newcomer to the screen—or "Carnegie Hall"—was in excellent humor and conducted with as much showmanship as if the auditorium were packed with paying musical devotees instead of a few dress extras in the upper tiers and a technical crew in the wings. His bride, Gloria Vanderbilt, was listening too, hidden somewhere in the recesses of the 2800 seat auditorium. Earlier at lunch at the Casino Russe, I asked her if being around a movie set had inspired her to any screen ambition, and from her evasive answer I suspected it had. Later my feminine intuition was confirmed by Director Edgar Ulmer, who told me to call him up in two weeks and he'd give me a scoop. I don't have to wait that long. I know now that he is plotting to launch her on a career and I also have a hunch "Stokie" figures in the picture too. Unfortunately, I'm afraid that anyone who signs this couple will have a tough time selling them to the public, especially Gloria, who justifiably or not, has built up an antagonism against her that will be hard to over-ride. It's a shame because with her name, photogenic looks and quiet charm she could be potent b.o.

Getting back to "Carnegie Hall," Boris Morros and Bill Le Baron hope to have this $1,500,000 production wrapped up by mid-October and ready for a gala charity premiere at Carnegie Hall in December. It is a Herculean job they have done, corralling such artists as Jascha Heifitz, Bruno Walter, Lily Pons, Artur Rodzinski, Rise Stevens, Ezio Pinza, Artur Rubenstein and Gregor Piatigorsky—with no temperament from anyone—and their astuteness in bringing this allied musical talent to the masses, some of whom might never have the opportunity of hearing these famed artists, is a contribution to motion pictures, not only for this generation, but for posterity.

SCOOPING AROUND: Luba Malina is standing by in Washington waiting to see if Francine Larrimore accedes to Vinton Freedley's request to withdraw from the starring role of "The Temporary Mrs. Smith." Francine, with a run-of-the-play contract, has so far refused and the matter may have to be arbitrated before Equity, the first time in its history that any player won't relinquish a role when the management is dissatisfied and is willing to make full compensation . . . If Eddie Buzzell spends most of his Gotham holiday prowling the 52nd St. bistros, it's because he's on the search for authentic tunes to play in his forthcoming "The Song of the Thin Man" (Metro) which will include a number of sequences in the 52nd St. jive joints . . . Before Oscar Serlin left for London yesterday to launch a West End production of "Life With Father" with an all English cast, he got Raymond Massey's okay to direct his next Broadway venture, "Washington Square," an adaptation of Henry James novel laid in 1847. There's no acting part in it for Ray, but there is one for an [illegible] Bette Davis. In what play isn't there? . . . All those daily visits of Ethel Barrymore to the Medical Center are to coo over her first grandchild, the son of her daughter, Ethel Colt, and named, of course, after his great-uncle, John. It's quite a wrench for Grandma B. to tear herself away, but David O. Selznick is calling, Sperling, Bernhard Split After Row; 4 Pix by U.S.

New York, Sept. 22.—Milton Sperling's acquisition of 100 per cent control of United States Pictures last week was accomplished by way of a lump-sum payment-in-full to former partner Joseph Bernhard. Sperling obtained the coin on a personal loan from the New York Trust Company.

The former partners agreed on financial details of the parting and little else, it was learned, as indications pointed to the dissolution being based on considerable ill-feeling between them.

Sperling, prior to leaving for Hollywood over the weekend, stated that while Bernhard held no residual interest in USP's first two releases, "Cloak and Dagger" and "Pursued," former partner will handle their sales and handling by Warner Bros. without payment and strictly as a matter of friendship.

NOT SO, SAYS BERNHARD

Queried on Sperling's statement, Bernhard snapped to reporters:

"I will not. It's entirely untrue that I'll have anything further to do with United States Pictures whatsoever."

REPORT that Bing Crosby would dub some vocal-musical numbers from his new transcribed program onto records for sale via regular Decca release has been denied by Everett Crosby. Report persisted for week that Bing would conserve tonsils and, at same time, frequently obtain top-notch quality possible on transcription by such a precedental step. Fidelity and superior quality of transcriptions over usual platter session is often recognized. Such being case story was given some credence. When checked, musicians union stated it would, unionwise, be possible with payment of recording fees to cleffers working transcription-program date. Such move would involve assuring complete silence of audiences during vocal numbers or elimination of audiences.

LEWIS Milestone isn't going to over-sleep any more. When he arrived at Enterprise Saturday morning, late, he was met by his assistant at studio entrance and they hurried to stage door. Just as they were about to open portal, red light indicating that shooting had started flashed, and stayed on for full five minutes, with director of "Arch of Triumph" loudly wondering who had taken over his chore. As he was about to stalk off lot, door opened and Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer piled out, grinning broadly. Milestone himself vouchsafed information he was going to be on time after this—the old pump can't stand the shock.

MUSICRAFT'S waxing of "Autumn in New York" came about because the platter firm's veepee, Bobby Weiss, heard Tom Hanlon spinning a transcription of the song on his disc show night after night. Weiss checked with Hanlon, found there was no recent commercial waxing of the song, then sold Loanne Hogan on the idea of slicing it. Upshot is platter has clecked as first big fall seller for the record firm and Hanlon is giving it the air via his show, so much so, that other jockeys are now asking for the tune. Cleffing is well over 10 years of age, having first appeared in "Thumbs Up" on Broadway that long ago.

ENTERPRISE, before it will make commitment with any advertising agency to handle campaigns on its forthcoming product, is demanding submission of an entire merchandising program, same as that requested by commercial concerns. It is reported that nine concerns already have solicited new organization's accounts, five being tops in the field. Ordinarily, motion picture company accounts are handed out to advertising firms without any preparation of campaign.

That film will furnish the subject matter for his article.

HIGH grosses which Hal Wallis' "The Strange Love of Martha Ivers" has been piling up is attributable to heavy radio campaign which Paramount has put on for past two months. During this period, picture has been ballyed on 19 transcontinental shows, either with so-called plugs or appearances of one or more of cast. Campaign has been spread over the four national networks.

American Theatres Intervene In Pictures Anti-Trust Suit

New York, Sept. 22.—American Theatres Association has filed petition for intervention in the government's anti-trust suit against major film companies. Joining with ATA on plea were the Southern California Theatre Owners Association and 13 exhibitors representing a cross section of the exhibition field.

Petition specifically excluded any representation of affiliated theatres which may be members of ATA or SCTOA.

Response to ATA's inquiry addressed to 16,000 has been ''overwhelmingly in favor of organization's action in intervening,'' according to Si Fabian, ATA prexy. ''All exhibitors heard from to date, or approximately 96 per cent, were most strenuous in their expressions of opposition to auction selling and heartily in favor of the action by ATA and associates in this matter. I am confident this action will be the first step to assure exhibitors, who too long have been forced to stand on the side lines, that they will be finally assured a voice in the determination of their future.''

Among the intervenors are Gamble Enterprises, headed by Ted Gamble, ATA board chairman; Fanchon & Marco Srvice Corp., and Southern California Amusement.

Accomplice

(Mystery Melodrama)

PRC RELEASE. Producer, John K. Teaford. Director, Walter Colmes. Screenplay, Irving Elman, Frank Gruber, from the novel, "Simon Lash, Private Detective," by Frank Gruber. Photography, Jockey Feindel. Musical score, Alexander Laszlo. Film editor, Robert Jahns. Sound, Frank Webster. Set decorations, E. H. Reif. Art director, Frank Dexter.

CAST — Stars Richard Arlen. Features Veda Ann Borg, Tom Dugan, Michael Branden, Marjorie Manners, Earle Hodgins, Francis Ford, Edward Earle, Herbert Rawlinson, Sherry Hall.

PREVIEWED at PRC studio, Sept. 20, 1946. Running time: 66 MINS.

''Accomplice'' is lightweight program screen fare for secondary bookings. Uncertain direction of the whodunit keeps pace and interest at a minimum. Cast tries hard to put over the melodramatics without much success.

Richard Arlen appears as a private detective, called in to solve mystery of disappearance of a banker by latter's wife. It doesn't take the dick long to discover the disappearance is phony and just a plot to cover up banker's till-tapping but before Arlen can run the villains down there are four murders and sundry stock situations thrown in to keep the issue confused.

Footage is padded with repetitious scenes, including overlong auto chase, and could stand further editing. In addition to Arlen in the lead, other cast members doing best to get material over include Veda Ann Borg, femme heavy; Tom Dugan, Arlen's comic aide; Michael Branden, sheriff; Marjorie Manners, Earle Hodgins and Francis Ford. Hodgins comes through with best characterization as grafting western marshal.

Walter Colmes handled faltering direction of the John K. Teaford production. Jockey Feindel photographed.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

The decision against the great A & P food chain has important implications both domestically and internationally. The representatives of the company, which will appeal the decision that it violates the Sherman Anti-trust Act, plead that they have operated in a manner that has enabled people to get food for less. The judge, in reply, says the character of the operators was not questioned, but that the law does not permit monopolies which restrain trade, whether good or bad. The Sherman Act was made law in 1890 as a part of our theory that monopoly decreases opportunity for the ordinary man. Despite the law, the trend toward economic control by corporate giants has grown since the law was enacted—from ownership by the trusts in 1904 of 40 per cent of the manufacturing capital in the country, to ownership of almost 50 per cent of all corporate manufacturing assets by 205 corporations in 1942. Acting against this trend in 1946 has important potentialities for the consumer who buys, the youth who would try to start his own business—and it means further that one of the main objects of attack by Communists is thus removed.

LEGIT OPENINGS

HENRY THE EIGHTH

Philadelphia, Sept. 22. — Shakespeare fans will get a break here when American Repertory company opens with ''Henry the Eighth.'' Brilliant production was debuted in Princeton, N.J., for three nights with Victor Jory surpassing his best in title role. A truly human characterization.

Walter Hampden proved natural as Cardinal Wolsey with Eva LeGallienne doing amazing Katherine. Richard Waring and June Duprez, from Hollywood, handled small parts well, and Ernest Truex clicked as Lord Chamberlain.

Margaret Webster, who staged play, has given it pageantry and color. David Folkes' costumes are lavish and Lehman Engle has contributed brilliant musical score. Here, the group will add Barrie's ''What Every Wone Knows,'' playing it in repertory with ''Henry.''

THE DUCHESS OF MALFI

Providence, R.I., Sept. 22. — W. H. Auden's adaption of John Webster's play, ''The Duchess of Malfi,'' is too severely dated for present day consumption. Play would never gain the approval of the Catholic Church because of the lecherous behavior of a cardinal and the Legion of Decency would have a field day cleaning up the general theme.

Plot has the Duchess, a widow, taking her household steward as her secret lover and bearing him three children. Her brothers find out and there is a mass-slaughter of practically all the principals on stage in the final act.

Elizabeth Bergner is okay but her accent is too pronounced. John Carradine is excellent. Paul Czinner produced and Furse created the settings. Incidental musical is by Benjamin Britten.

Liberty Chief To View Frank Capra Film

Edward K. ''Ted'' O'Shea, general sales manager and world distribution head for Liberty Films, arrived over the weekend. O'Shea will view rough cut of outfit's initial production, Frank Capra's ''It's A Wonderful Life.'' Film has been set for national release January 30.

PLANET PIX HAS NEW BOARD IN 2ND SHAKEUP

Planet Pictures, 16m producers, are going through their second executive upheaval and reported refinancing within three months. Richard Talmadge, vet actor and former prexy, resigned, and new board has been elected in attempt at reorganization. Talmadge's resignation is reportedly result of differences with Jack Seman, also a former prexy, and major stockholder in Planet. He had been prexy three months and states he is now dickering with couple of majors to go into 16m operation of one or the other.

Creditors of Planet have been asked to grant six months credit extension on outstanding debts, and all have agreed on moratorium to permit reorganization. Statement presented to them by Planet is said to be very poor, but nonetheless all agreed to give outfit a chance at survival while new capital is sought.

THE GRAPEVINE: The historical romance cycle may be waning in Holly-wood's estimation, but the book publishing industry hasn't been informed. In almost every publishing house, the biggest ad campaigns are being allotted to historical novels, this winter and next spring, with pre-Civil War America the background for most of them . . . David Street wants time off from his 20th-Fox contract to accept a big offer to appear at a Las Vegas nitery . . . Stan Meyer, son of Fred Meyer and in charge of de luxe theatres for Fox West Coast, will marry Doris Blumberg, daughter of Nate Blumberg, in January. They've known each other since childhood in Wisconsin . . . The gambling fraternity which decamped from Malibu has turned up in the valley . . . An indie producer whose reputation for generosity is on par with Scrooge's attended a party thrown by the star for cast and crew of his latest picture. He was overheard to remark: "It's a lovely party and it doesn't cost me a cent!" . . . Paul Henreid's wife had to send the cook book back from Lake Arrowhead where his family is vacationing. Henreid developed a stomach disorder from his own efforts in the kitchen . . . Out of service finally is Emil Van Horn, who starred under a gorilla skin in "Ingagi" and other such films during the jungle cycle. He says he's typed and hopes the cycle will return.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: There's a story behind the signing of Nan Sunderland (Mrs. Walter Huston) for an important role in "Unconquered." After a successful stage career, including a role opposite Huston in "Dodsworth," she retired about ten years ago. Huston's agent recently visited the actor on his ranch, mentioned that C. B. DeMille was looking for an accomplished actress to play a frontierswoman who flees from the Indians to warn Fort Pitt the tribes are on the warpath. Huston and the agent talked her into testing for the part. And Mrs. Huston proved she's still a fine actress. After shooting the scene of her flight into the fort, DeMille, not usually given to enthusiasm, rushed over and embraced her . . . Frank Ryan, the NY moneybags, is in town and monopolizing all of Anita Colby's spare time, so Skitch Henderson is making a play for Nancy Guild . . . We thought Ralph Jordan, Metro flackery's sparkplug, was a big boy now. Last Thursday he went to his dentist with a swelling jaw but the latter could find no dental disorder. Over the weekend Jordan came down with the mumps! . . . Fred Astaire's last pair of dancing shoes will be auctioned off at the London preem of "Blue Skies," which he announced would be his last chore as a dancer, with proceeds going to the British Musicians Benevolent fund . . . All those films with Indiana background must have turned Dean Jagger's head. A native of Ohio, the actor is buying a farm in the Hoosier state.

CALL SHEET: ALBERT ROGELL came back from scouting locations in Montana for Seymour Nebenzal's "Heaven Only Knows," with story that when number of city officials in Helena took him to a gambling club to see the sights of the city place was knocked over by police for first time in five years . . . JUNE CLAYWORTH, who like any other femme enjoys talking about operations, is in unhappy position of not being able to show her injury of last week. She fell down flight of stairs at RKO . . . MARIE DARLING, pretty receptionist at General Service studio, will appear on Bride and Groom program Oct. 25 with the lucky guy, Chester Venable. Air show is chartering plane to send them to Salt Lake City on their honeymoon . . . HEDY LAMARR and JOHN LODER have moved into their new home, which formerly belonged to late MARK SANDRICH. HUMPHREY BOGART and LAUREN BACALL, in turn, have just moved into house vacated by HEDY and JOHN . . . MILDRED PIERCE is with us again. This time, she's an American Airlines stewardess, and getting pretty darn sick and tired of passengers making cracks about her name . . . ANDRE DE TOTH has gifted VERONICA LAKE with a new Mercury Town and Country car two months ahead of time, as a pre-birthday present . . . LOUIS CALHERN, who is backing two Broadway plays, won't be able to be there in time for their opening, due to his role in Enterprise's "Arch of Triumph" . . . BING CROSBY, knowing that BILLY DE WOLFE hails from Walliston, Mass., called up every De Wolfe in the phone book when he chanced to be back there recently, thinking he'd talk to some relatives and tell them what a great job Billy is doing in Hollywood. There was only one hitch—Billy's real name is JONES.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Larry Blake, who before he went in pix had an act in which he mimicked celebs and such, is now the butt of mimicry himself. Richard Benedict, playing with him on Sol Wurtzel's "Backlash," furnishes comedy between takes by doing imitations of Blake . . . Eagle-Lion in recent announcement not only changed their release-production schedule, but made a stab at changing the calendar—in typed statement put out one pic was slated as starting production Feb. 30 . . . Metro used astronomy, astrology, the Old Farmers Almanac and a little higher mathematics to time their location in Klamath Glen in advance to fit the sunshine for "Green Dolphin Street" shooting. Funny thing is that it worked and director Victor Saville completed a scheduled week's shooting in four days . . . Carl Berger, who learned about wild life shooting jungle stuff for the late Frank Buck's "Bring 'Em Back Alive," was the only one of the five-man camera crew who wasn't hurt when a wild bobcat broke loose and jumped them during filming of "The Return of Rin Tin Tin" on location. Cat leaped on Berger's shoulders but he didn't move a muscle till it leaped elsewhere and escaped without a scratch. Rest of the crew required hospital treatment at Solvang . . . George Murphy says he knows now why his home is such a popular meeting place for friends. Every night they drop in, he says, and "tell me to shush so they can hear my neighbor practice on the piano." His neighbor is Jose Iturbi.—D.D.T.

'EMPEROR WALTZ' HITS LAST BAR AT PARAMOUNT

Paramount's "The Emperor Waltz" wound over the weekend, with producer Charles Brackett and director Billy Wilder having filmed their original screenplay. Bing Crosby and Joan Fontaine headed the cast of more than 800, including 60 principals and featured players.

Production got under way May 31 and included a 2,000 mile location junket to Jasper National Park in Canada. With film chores over, cast scatters for other assignments. Lucile Watson and Harold Vermilyea train to New York for legit chores. Crosby shoves off on a brief vacation and Miss Fontaine planes to Bermuda early next month for brief second honeymoon with husband, William Dover. Roland Culver, British actor, leaves from New York Oct. 26 for England, and Richard Haydn plans an auto trip to New Orleans. Brackett and Wilder, following completion of cutting chore, will shove off for New York.

Cincinnati, Sept. 22.—Columbia Recording Corp.'s sales convention drew plenty of star power over the weekend, with Andre Kostelanetz, Rise Stevens, Helen Traubel, Les Brown, Gene Autry, Victor Borge and others attending. Formal dedication was made by prexy Edward Wallerstein of the Kings Mill pressing plant near here, expected to double Columbia's disc production.

We Couldn't Have Said It Better Ourselves!

TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE SCREEN EXTRAS GUILD:

Dear Fellow Member:

Once again we are faced with the probability of picket lines being thrown around the studios. In order that all of us may be fully conversant with the facts, your Officers and Board of Directors have investigated thoroughly the present dispute between the Carpenters' Union and the IATSE, and we wish to report our findings and to instruct you as to the official position of your Guild.

You are instructed as follows:

(1) The present dispute is a jurisdictional one and is so designated by the American Federation of Labor. Until such time as we are instructed otherwise by our International President, your Guild will continue to view this controversy as jurisdictional, and will not allow propaganda attempts by any of the parties in the dispute to distort the facts. This is not a wage-hour dispute. The Los Angeles Central Labor Council must sanction wage-hour strikes—and this dispute has not been submitted to the Council.

(2) The A. F. of L. does not require us to take sides and respect picket lines in a jurisdictional dispute between other A. F. of L. unions.

(3) It is to the best interests of the extra players that the studios remain open. If by not going to work we were to allow the studios to be closed each time a jurisdictional dispute arises, we, as extra players and actors, would suffer more than any other workers in the industry.

(4) IF PICKET LINES ARE ESTABLISHED IN THIS CONTROVERSY, MEMBERS OF THE SCREEN EXTRAS GUILD WILL PASS THROUGH THE PICKET LINES AND LIVE UP TO THEIR CONTRACTS.

We do not wish to enter into arguments concerning the merits of the present jurisdictional dispute. It is our basic position that at no time should a jurisdictional controversy be allowed to shut down the studios. However, as the Carpenters' Union, in paid ads in the trade papers, has attempted to give the impression that the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. has ordered other unions to support the Carpenters in their dispute with the IATSE, we wish to give you the other side of the question:

Last December, a three-man Arbitration Board handed down a binding and irrevocable jurisdictional award, giving control over approximately 350 set erector jobs to the IATSE. Mr. William Hutcheson, international president of the Carpenters, who is about the most powerful single individual in the A. F. of L., had agreed in advance to accept the decision of the Arbitration Board but when this decision went against him, he refused to accept it.

Despite Mr. Hutcheson's refusal to accept it, the A. F. of L. Executive Council confirmed the award in February of this year.

Mr. Hutcheson, whose union of 750,000 members controls the Building Trades Council, had publicly announced he intends to take away from the IATSE, which has about 60,000 members nationally, all work in the studios involving wood and wood substitutes. This indicates that Mr. Hutcheson also wants to seize the jurisdiction of the IA Props.

Using his political power within the A. F. of L. Executive Council, Mr. Hutcheson in August was able to force the Council to try to reverse the Arbitration Board's award which gave the 350 set erector jobs to the IATSE. Without any authority under the A. F. of L. constitution and bylaws, the Executive Council ordered the Arbitration Board to reverse its decision and to call the new findings a "clarification." Actually, the August directive is not a "clarification" but is an illegal "reversal" of a binding arbitration award.

If the powerful Hutcheson clique on the Executive Council is able to make the August 16 directive stick, there never can be an impartial arbitration of A. F. of L. jurisdictional disputes—for the Council would have precedent to overrule any arbitration award with which Mr. Hutcheson disagreed.

We wish to make clear that we are not attempting to judge who is right and who is wrong. We are guided solely by the fact that it is a jurisdictional dispute and that it is in the best interests of all of our members that the studios remain open.

ALAN YOUNG GETS BAD FORMAT IN NBC DEBUT

For weeks the trade was touted to the Alan Young show as the season's sleeper—the one to watch—largely because of the write brothers, Al and Sherwood Schwartz. That it failed to live up to the advance ballyhoopla was not wholly the fault of the Schwartzes but more the slapdash, haphazard format. If it was intended for situation comedy it missed the mark. The opener was a joke show pure and simple with a slender thread of continuous plot.

Young made quite a name for himself on ABC but was moved over to NBC where the company is fast and the competition a little rough. Just what kind of a character they're trying to make of Young didn't come off. His delivery is cold and clipped and if he's going to be kicked around by the other characters on the show there must be a sympathetic warmth created for him. Most of the lines tossed his way were more straight than punch and the lengthy garden routine was only funny in spots. Charlie Cantor proved a big help as Young's pal "Zero," and even Jimmy Wallington was cut in for a piece of funny business. Music of George Wyle and The Smart Set gave the other lads a needed rest from reaching. Commercials were not too intruding and Wallington's delivery lacked the clear, incisive quality of some of the newer and younger crop.

Ginny Simms Carries 'Danny Thomas Show'

Ginny Simms' pretty voice is good enough to carry the show that carries her name but, unfortunately, producers or sponsor haven't the faith or the foresight to let it stand—and let extra dressing be only such. So, it comes out like "The Danny Thomas Show"—and that ain't good. It's not musical, as anticipated, nor variety, as intended, but comically mediocre.

Given only two straight numbers in opener, Miss Simms handles them in customarily laudable manner. Remainder of time she sandwiched with hungry lines and studio hamming of Thomas. Latter can be funny, if given good material, or even left alone, but apparently relies strongly on visual shenanigans. For ears it was only giggles milked from a stretched situation. A fluff of usually infallible announcer Don Wilson, caused more real humor. Perhaps it stems from penners having too much to do to do much well.

Borden, sponsor, has good commercial tie-in with Miss Simms' recent intro to motherhood. Much could be done with it to obviate cow bells, singing commercials and two "regular" plugs. Frank De Vol's musicking rates a nod.

LIGHT AND AIRY

By JACK HELLMAN

Radio has been accused of a lot of things but the cruelest cut of all is the indictment that the business is going in the wrong direction—backward, to be precise. We are challenged to name something new that has come over the pike in the past few years. And if you want to make something of it they toss a Hooper pocket piece at you and you're dead—argumentatively, at least. They'll also point up that the hottest summer prospect from CBS was a throwback to the early glory of Maj. Bowes—a piece called "Talent Hunt" emceed by Arthur Godfrey. If you don't savvy by then they'll how-about-it with "Pot of Gold." All good and true but how come these self-appointed critics can only see the troubled side of radio and rarely have anything of a constructive nature to offer. It's easy enough to be destructive but the guy with a refreshing new idea gets our vote every time.

An E for effort, enterprise and effervescence should be tossed Columbia's way for yesterday's 90-minute promotion show, "Stars in the Afternoon." Put together with a novel freshness far removed from the old clambake device of "running 'em on," the acts were threaded together with breezy connectives and an airy touch. Half of the net's stars were on for specialties and next Sunday the remaining luminaries are vignetted for samples of their virtuosity. High point on the first promotion piece were the combined talents of the chain's whodunit characters called in to solve a death note and the running "plot" carried along by Frank Sinatra, Dinah Shore and Arthur Q. Bryan as "Mr. System" (CBS). Most of the turns were given flippant treatment, such as Sinatra mimicing the "Punchy Callahan" of Peter Lind Hayes and Hayes crooning a la Sinatra. With lines between Hollywood and New York kept open for the cross-country dialog and instantaneous pick-ups, the program was singularly free of hitches. For the new approach to an old problem-child, kudos to Ernie Martin, William N. Robson, Bob Shayon and Carroll Carroll, who supervised the scripting.

Chain breaks . . . "Queen for a Day" grand council chose Mrs. Anne Lehr as "Queen for a Year." An excellent choice that will be roundly cheered by 2,500,000 ex-GI's who always found a warm welcome awaiting them at her Hollywood Guild Canteen . . . Marvin Miller wheel-chaired out of the hospital to do his announcing chore with Louella Parsons and then returned to sick bay. Tom D'Andrea is not too happy about Peter Lind Hayes doing the "Punchy Callahan" character on the Ford show. He's been doing the punch drunk pug for years and may ask respect of his priority . . . We heard the story once and shrugged it off. It came to us again and we began to get interested. Over the weekend it bobbed up again so it can't be sluffed off as something out of whole cloth. It pertains to a network exec and an agency topper who conspired to put the squeeze on a performer to wring a good show out of him. The high huckster, so the tale unwinds, prevailed on the network topper to put the pressure on the actor, at the same time putting up a front that he'd fight any adverse action of the network. The tortured soul, caught unawares in the middle, had no way to turn so he did the best he could. Agency brassie solicited aid of the network to save face with the client on what looked like a questionable buy. With the agency and network plauging him on both sides he was at their not so tender mercies and took a financial beating to keep in their good graces.

Henry Morgan, the one man laugh riot, has finally been relieved of his amateur standing and joins the Biow stable under sponsorship of Schick razor. Lucky that Biow made his move when he did because Paul Warwick, on the sayso of Eddie Cantor, was all primed to let go with a firm offer for Philip Morris. Cantor sensed great possibilities in the comic and pitched high and hard to Warwick but the boat has sailed and the wary Cantor will come up with another hot prospect ere long. How well Morgan gets along with Biow is anyone's guess in view of the comic's insistence on passing on all commercial copy. He will be spotted in the old Pabst time over CBS on Fridays just head of "Maisie," giving Biow the full hour.

Hitch hikes . . . John Guedel and Art Linkletter found Henry Wallace's five-minute talk Friday night too dry and stuffy to follow with a knockabout comedy session so they canceled out the premiere of "People Are Funny." Ginny Simms show, however, clipped one spot and went through with the opener . . . What will Ralph Edwards think of next? His latest is a beachcomber fashion show on the "island" at Hollywood and LaBrea where one of his contestants is quartered at $3 an hour.

STANDARD'S NEW SHOW PROVES RUN-OF-AIR

Standard Oil's "Let George Do It," new comedy-mystery-drama series on Mutual, is strictly another run-of-the-air quickie that offers little in good listening (8 to 8:30 p.m.). Initialer was weak in story elements of comedy, mystery and drama, and acting will have to be perked, too, if it's to come to grips with listeners. It's just another among legion as is.

Story is of an eager-beaver ex-G.I. who becomes a kind of Mr. Fix-it, offering his services to all comers with a problem other than mechanical. For an opener he got a slight case of murder—but with a happy ending. He'll also mind babies. To be sure, few except those thus chained to a chair would bother to listen under inaugural conditions.

Situations as well as lines are telegraphed. Characters are overplayed, possibly in an effort to rush-establish them, by Bob Bailey, Eddie Firestone, Jr., and Frances Robinson. Latter plays the heart interest-big sis of office boy, Firestone. Owens Vinson, director, apparently did what he could with script of his frau and partner in writer-director combination, Pauline Hopkins. However, it wasn't enough.

Charles Hoffman has had three more properties added to his production slate at Warners. New tasks include "The Hasty Heart," "For Sentimental Reasons" and "A Kiss in the Dark." Previously put on Hoffman's slate were "Ships in the Rivers" and "The Unsuspected."

MEXICO'S 1947 BIGGIE PLANS MAY BE CUT

Mexico City, Sept. 22.—Mexico's expanded production plans for 1947 will have to be curtailed unless its product receives greater response at the country's b.o., an industry topper said over the weekend.

The Mexican film topper pointed out that only 50 to 55 per cent of production costs was realized through distribution in Mexican theatres. Balance, he explained, came from releases in southern areas of the United States and in Latin-America.

It was pointed out, in contrast, that film producers in the United States, Argentina and Spain, earned much more than original production costs through distribution in their respective countries. Major share of films currently screened in Mexico is Hollywood product.

A Rumor is Born

This is the biography of a Hollywood rumor. Saturday it was broadcast by rumor-mongers that Columbia studios was buying up ammunition in case of strike trouble. Yesterday it was learned that inserts were being made for "Johnny O'-Clock" at the studio Saturday in which live ammo was used. Same ran out and studio employe was dispatched to buy Luger bullets. And that's how a rumor was born.

Unions Demand Parley Today

"never strike" for a jurisdictional gain.

Conference, in wire to producers demanding continuous contract meeting starting today, declared that it recognizes no dispute over carpenters and repeated that "any jurisdictional differences pertaining to carpenters were settled by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor Dec. 26, 1945." Wire stated that "settlement was reaffirmed by the council Aug. 16, 1946 and we demand that you and other obligated parties live up to it, just as you have insisted in the past that we abide by such awards."

PRODUCERS ACCUSED

Producers are charged with dragging in jurisdictional points in order to pit one group of studio workers against another. In the wire, CSU said: "We have repeatedly said we will never seek such gain. We have also said we will gladly submit such differences to arbitration." Conference declared producers have failed to institute necessary machinery to handle arbitration and now "flagrantly defy an arbitration award handed down by the nation's foremost labor authority, the American Federation of Labor."

Herbert Sorrell, CSU prexy, has wired the 15 members of the AFL executive council for confirmation of its Aug. 16 order. Wire also asks that council ask William Green to notify Los Angeles Central Labor Council and all film unions of the council's order.

DECORATORS AVOID HEAT

Set decorators Local 1421, joined with carpenters and painters in refusing to perform work on sets handled by IA men. Announcement was made at last night's mass meeting at the Hollywood Legion Stadium that Local 1421 members will refuse to decorate any so-called "hot" sets. Members refused such assignments on two sets at Metro Saturday and one each at Universal and Columbia.

Anticipating picket lines today, some major lots started notifying key men to report for duty at 5 a.m. so picket lines could be avoided.

FALSE ISSUE CHARGED

Replying to Conference of Studio Unions locals' wage and contract issue, brought into current dispute last Thursday, Pat Casey, chairman of producers' labor committee, charged that locals are "attempting to create a false issue of wages and hours to cover up a jurisdictional dispute."

Casey's reply, sent to Herbert Sorrell and the individual locals Saturday, declared "the present controversy is purely jurisdictional." "We have at no time refused to negotiate with you. We have lived up to the interim agreement we made with you July 2. The 25 per cent increase agreed upon is being paid and you have received pay retroactively to last January 1st."

Casey further said: "All that remains to be considered are certain inequities that are claimed by you and some working conditions not fully settled. We negotiated with you on these matters for weeks, and there has been no request for a further meeting from any of your crafts for several weeks. We are still ready and willing to resume meetings to negotiate on the few items remaining unsettled. I suggest that you arrange with me Monday, September 23, for our next meetings."

EXTRAS TOLD TO WORK

Screen Extras Guild issued instructions over the weekend to its members to pass through any picket lines and live up to their contracts.

Special meeting of IATSE, Actors, Musicians, Teamsters and Laborers local unions was held yesterday at the Filmarte to discuss jurisdictional fight. At the session, Roy Brewer, IA International representative, and other AFL studio union leaders said they were determined to keep the studios open and "protect the rights of 30,000 studio workers to make their own decisions for themselves." Brewer declared, "we will not stand for a shutdown."

Members of IATSE, SAG, Musicians, Teamsters, Laborers and other non-CSU unions were instructed to refuse to honor picket lines if a strike is called.

Majority of studios have made plans to care for employes who might want to stay on the lots in case mass picketing is started. Friday and Saturday IA set erectors and other studio employes were doing carpenter work at RKO, 20th-Fox, Warners, Columbia, Metro and Universal-International, in an effort to keep pictures before the cameras with minimum delays.

For YOUR INFORMATION

On September 21st

PAT CASEY, IN BEHALF OF THE MAJOR PRODUCERS, WIRED THE FOLLOWING REPLY TO AN ULTIMATUM FROM THE CONFERENCE OF STUDIO UNIONS RECEIVED SEPT. 20.

Your telegram of September 19 can only mean that you are attempting to create a false issue of wages and hours to cover up a jurisdictional dispute.

The present controversy is purely jurisdictional. The Facts are that on September 11, 1946 at approximately 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the Producers were notified that commencing at 6 o'clock the following morning the carpenters would refuse to work upon any sets where their JURISDICTIONAL DEMANDS were not met.

Pursuant to that ultimatum, carpenters, painters and others have refused on jurisdictional grounds, AND ON NO OTHER GROUNDS, to perform work assigned to them. This work must be done, therefore, by other employees if production is to be continued and employment provided for the thousands of employees who are in no way involved in the controversy.

WE HAVE AT NO TIME REFUSED TO NEGOTIATE WITH YOU.

We have lived up to the interim agreement we made with you on July 2nd. The 25% increase agreed upon is being paid and you have received pay retroactively to last January 1st.

All that remains to be considered are certain inequities that are claimed by you to exist and some working conditions not fully settled in some cases. We negotiated with you on these matters for weeks and there has been no request for a further meeting from any of your crafts for several weeks.

You now, 48 hours before a mass meeting called for Sunday night, make a sudden demand upon us for a meeting, coupled with a threat. We cannot consider such request as being made in good faith but rather to befuddle the jurisdictional issue.

We are still ready and willing to resume meetings to negotiate on the few items remaining unsettld. I suggest that you arrange with me Monday, September 23rd, for our next meetings.

BRILL HEADS EAST FOR HELEN HAYES LEGITER CHORE

Leighton Brill planed East Saturday to take over chores as production assistant for Rodgers-Hammerstein production of "Happy Birthday," starring Helen Hayes. Brill, while East also will spend some time on the production layout of the newest Rodgers and Hammerstein musical "Allegro," which is due for early Spring presentation. Latter show is latest cleffing chore by the producer composers and is an original book, unlike their "Carousel" and "Oklahoma" efforts.

INDIES MAY QUIT PRODUDUCTION OF SHOW CARTOONS

Indie cartoon producers are seriously considering dropping entertainment cartoons entirely and switching to commercial turnout, as result of high cost of cartoon-making.

During past five years, costs of cartoons have been upped 165 per cent, with revenue during this same period only up 10½ per cent. Labor costs alone have gone up 25 per cent this year, apart from all other production costs, and Technicolor prints, process in which many cartoons are released, recently went up another 25 per cent.

Members of Cartoon Producers Association, of which Walter Lantz is prexy, are highly concerned in situation which is developing more in their disfavor every day. Six-minute cartoon, with 550 feet of animation, which formerly cost $25,000, now runs any where from $25,000 to $65,000, without producers being able to derive any greater profits from this added expenditure.

All cartoons are sold on flat rental basis, with individual bookings averaging $3.75 over period of a year. Approximately one year and one-half is required to get back negative cost. While features draw higher rentals, shorts remain practically where they were five years ago. At this rate, producers maintain they can't continue to make pictures and come out on credit side of ledger, with number of them planning to coast remainder of year until association decides what to do.

On other hand, commercial cartoons pay off heavily and there is a steady and growing demand for them. These films are turned out as a rule on a cost plus basis, which assures a nice profit.

Melchior To Tour

Lauritz Melchior leaves Hollywood Nov. 17, upon completion of his role in Metro's "This Time for Keeps," on three-months national concert tour which will include appearances in 52 cities.

was relieved of the production post after differences with Vidor.

Miss Deutsch, just signed to a Columbia producer-writer contract, was assigned the job of re-writing portions of the script and taking over as producer.

After spending two weeks on the re-write job, shooting resumed under the new tag, but last week production on the picture, starring Rosalind Russell and Melvyn Douglas, was shut down again. Differences had developed between Vidor and Miss Deutsch over his following her supervision.

While shooting was suspended for one day, the matter was laid before Harry Cohn for decision. Result was Vidor's elevation to full command.

Miss Deutsch is resuming her search for a story property to be adapted for her first Columbia production.

RADIO DIRECTORS READY TO HOLD NATIONAL VOTE

George Zachary, Kenyon & Eckhart producer, and acting president of newly consolidated Radio Directors Guild, leaves for New York today to help set Guild's reorganization on national basis.

First step will be to set nominations for national elections, causing a re-shuffling of local chapters and possible necessity of appointing temporary new local heads. That will be followed with ratification of new national constitution which, it's reported, has been virtually approved with each chapter making concessions in desired clauses. It's likely that the national office will be set up in New York.

Drive to secure expanded membership and recognition by ad agencies probably will follow.

20th Mulls Wilde Sub for 'Amber'

William Perlberg is due back from New York today or tomorrow, and will immediately huddle with Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl Zanuck on successor to Cornel Wilde for "Forever Amber." Expected Wilde will leave for rest in Hawaii upon completion of "The Home Stretch."

'Horizon' Hides

MAYER DENIES HE'S ABOUT TO LEAVE MGM

water tossed from all directions.

Mayer said there "isn't a shred, or particle, or iota—or whatever is smaller than that—of truth in that report. As long as Nicholas Schenck is in New York, and as long as God grants me the privilege, I will be in my present position at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

"Recently we reorganized certain functions at the studio and Sam Katz took over certain additional duties. But I haven't the slightest intention of leaving the studio now or in the foreseeable future. I wonder who starts these rumors and for what purpose?"

In New York, Nicholas Schenck and Al Lichtman came up with equally vigorous denials.

"There's not the slightest truth in the rumor. Relations were never better between Metro and Mayer. I can only laugh at the idea," declared Schenck.

Lichtman labeled the reports as "so much applesauce," adding "Someone apparently took a shot with a needle. I know nothing about it and don't believe it at all."

CREDITORS BEAT PADLOCK IN ARA RECEIVERSHIP

ARA was tossed into receivership Friday a.m. by creditors who beat government padlock on properties by minutes when tax men sought to seize assets. Francis Quitner was appointed receiver and meets with creditors today or tomorrow to decide on course of liquidation and satisfaction of debtors, or continued operation, if latter appears feasible.

Plattery has assets totaling some $560,000, according to creditor estimate. Assets include $160,000 in shellac, $50,000 in other materials, $100,000 in completed discs, $90,000 worth of plant and equipment, a library estimated to be worth another $100,000, $30,000 in accounts receivable and another $30,000 in miscellaneous assets. Stacked against that is $110,000 owed to the government in taxes, $62,000 owed to Union Bank and Trust, payroll default and general creditors demands totaling $350,000, plus notes held by Mark Leff and family for $490,000.

General creditors will ask court to subordinate Leff claims to theirs in any liquidation. Government, bank and employes must be paid off first, and creditor group will seek second position.

Government had already seized ARA warehouse with raw stocks and slapped a lien on it when creditors beat Feds to the plant and office with necessary papers. Creditor Phil Harris had a sheriff's deputy posted at latter with an attachment to preclude escape of any assets from that end when receiver took over.

BANDS GO BACK TO NY ROOMS

New York, Sept. 22.—Members of New York Musicians Local 802 officially ratified scale deal negotiated by executives last week with New York hotels calling for 20 per cent increase for all Class A jobs. Meanwhile hotels themselves are busy getting name bands and small combos back into various rooms and jockeying so that numerous openings do not conflict.

Les Elgart band hurriedly booked into New Yorker Hotel last Wednesday will have opening tomorrow, while Claude Thornhill hurriedly extricated from theatre and one night bookings by Morris Agency in time for opening same night will have trade debut delayed until Wednesday. Agencies are having tough time with hotel operators in resuming small bands in small rooms and in some cases with names. Operators are seeking to compensate for salary boosts by revising hours downward and cutting number of musicians.

BERNHARD SPLITS WITH SPERLING AFTER ROW

wood tomorrow, stated he had no definite plans for immediate future, but might have something to announce on his return to New York within a few weeks. He refused to amplify further the cause of the split with Sperling, stating "I always try to be a gentleman.'

FOUR PIX A YEAR

Sperling, in the meantime, outlined expanded production plans for USP. The indie unit, currently under contract to turn out a minimum of two films a year for Warner Bros. release, will step up production to four films annually. He pointed out that USP has made two films since first going into production last March 15 and will have two more finished by March 15, 1947.

Sperling further disclosed plans for issuing 250,000 shares of stock in USP, which he will hold personally until necessary to dispose of them to increase company's working capital. In the offing, he revealed, were projected plans for company's own studio and possibly distribution company. USP currently utilizes facilities of Warner Bros. studios and also releases through the company. Observers believe that Sperling's large-scale production plans, in contrast to Bernhard's more conservative outlook, was one of the factors contributing to the split-up.

SIX PCT. SUITS BY 6 MAJORS

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Six separate percentage chiseling suits were filed today in Federal Court against Van Nomikos and a number of different corporations owning 10 Illinois theatres managed by Nomikos. The suits charge conspiracy to defraud distributors by making false statements on grosses.

RKO, 20th-Fox, Paramount, Metro, United Artists and Warners, plaintiffs in the suit, demand both regular and punitive damages. The alleged false returns, the complaint said, not only induced distributors to accept an amount of money less than was actually due, but also to grant cheaper terms on licenses for later pictures.

Wurtzel Sets Fowley

LOCKOUT CLAIMED WHEN PRODS CUT

CSU executive board, taking action to plan next steps as result of studios' move, named a strategy committee chairmanned by James N. Skelton to formulate plans. A mass meeting has been scheduled for the Hollywood Legion Stadium tomorrow night at which it is expected CSU members will be given their instructions for action in the fight. Santa Anita Sees Some Speed; One Zebra Brings Many Tales

You can't blame it all on press agents. Yesterday one zebra ran away from the "Tarzan and the Huntress" location near Santa Anita and was finally captured circling the outside of the racetrack. When a Sol Lesser publicist got there to check the story he heard from eye witnesses: That a herd of 15 zebras has escaped. That a cowboy lassoed one from horseback. That a fleet of station wagons chased six zebras. That someone tackled the zebra barehanded and wrestled it to a stop. The only touch of realism was from a bug-eyed, mournful individual who complained: "Nothin' I bet on ever circled the track that fast!"

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

SECOND winter following V-J Day will find most localities bringing out their rusty tuxedos and black ties for practically every function of any note. Start of the social season here has occasioned plenty of formal wear, not only in house parties but at the swankier niteries and big theatre openings. Both bistro and theatre managers see the gala first nights returning with the distaffers getting more clothes conscious with less and less clothes draped around them. Kicker, however, is that dress shirts are still as hard to find as dinosaur eggs, with result that ordinary white shirts have become acceptable with dinner jackets, much to the gratification of the long-suffering male.

BUDDY Rogers and Ralph Cohn, nearing completion of the initial Comet program of six features, will shortly announce a new slate of the streamlined films for United Artists release. The new organization, composed nearly entirely of former G.I.'s has functioned like a slick running team during the initial few months of its existence. Because its finished product has been well received by exhibs, Rogers and Cohn are going to keep the organization together for a new production program. Understood that the combo has already acquired new story properties for the projected slate, which will include a continuation of the "Little Iodine" series.

CAPITOL Transcriptions reportedly upping its sights on artists fees following loss of Pied Pipers group to rival Standard Radio. Group is on Capitol Records talent roster but was lost to Standard when latter outbid Cap on battery biscuits. As It Looks to FLANNERY

(Famous CBS Commentator)

Averill Harriman comes into office as Secretary of Commerce with a fanfare that's unusual—varying from the tones that come from the NAM president, Wason, to those that come from Senator Pepper. That's because Harriman has the advantage of once having been a Republican, which appeals to a lot of big business men; of being a man who has had experience in business, and at the same time has liberal views about improving the way our system operates. Unusually, of course, it doesn't matter much what a Secretary of Commerce thinks about foreign affairs, but it is obviously pertinent now. And Harriman wins applause on that point, too. He may even have had a lot to do with what is called by its opponents "the get tough with Russia" policy, and which he, Byrnes, Truman, Vandenberg and the rest would rather term "the get firm with Russia" policy. Harriman was back from Russia at the time we put this new policy into effect. That was at the Iran time. Then we had come to believe that our efforts to compromise were one-sided, and that we found the Atlantic Charter principles were, as a result, not being observed. The "get firm" idea was hoped to revive the Charter and those persons who had been victimized while we were trying out the pal method. What Harriman has been able to see at first hand abroad also will aid him in his new job—one of great importance in these days of ideological differences.

TRADESHOWN at studio, Sept. 20, 1946. Running time: 100 MINS.

"Nobody Lives Forever" is a melodramatic story of the rackets which gets by mainly through draw of its two stars, John Garfield and Geraldine Fitzgerald. Action is moving but doesn't always live up to exciting promise of its premise, group of con artists out to bleed a wealthy widow. Film has been accorded plenty of production values, however, by Robert Buckner, directed effectively by Jean Negulesco, and acting is at high-pitch, with result it should chalk up heavy grosses at box office.

Garfield is pictured as a former con man who is honorably discharged from Army because of wounds, after heroic action on Italian front. He meets his buddy, George Tobias, who wants him to return immediately to the racket, but Garfield insists upon vacation for several months and they go to Los Angeles from New York. No sooner do they arrive than Garfield is prevailed upon to take over job of working on widow, Geraldine Fitzgerald, who has $2,000,000 fortune. Since deal involves slice for George Coulouris, who lined it up, Garfield finds himself in spot when he falls in love with femme, and she with him, when he tries to bow out. Climax, in which Coulouris and henchmen kidnap Miss Fitzgerald, misses in suspense but simultaneously provides certain amount of thrills.

Garfield delivers strongly in role of Nick Blake, but Miss Fitzgerald isn't too happily cast. She appears attractively, though, and does nice job with what she has to work with. Walter Brennan, in role of broken-down mobsman, who lines up proposition for Garfield, carries less interest than usually marks his characters. Tobias makes most of his role, and Faye Emerson is in briefly as moll who tried to do Garfield out of $50,000 he left for her to keep for him when he went to war. Coulouris plays part of doublecrossing has-been con-man with his customary finesse.

Original screenplay by W. R. Burnett is strongly motivated but doesn't always maintain high degree of interest it should have carried. Camera work of Arthur Edeson is uniformly excellent, other technical departments matching up.

Hefty $375,000 overall gross is in sight for Los Angeles first runs on the current week. Pacing de luxers are three new bills with plenty of pulling power that is helping to keep total outlook high. Top coin is going to "The Big Sleep" with prospects for near $90,000 on its first week in the three Warner houses.

"Canyon Passage," initial bill in the new five-theatre outlet for Universal-International, is shaping up to very fancy $56,000. Iris and Studio City, the two theatres joined with Guild, United Artists and Ritz for the unit, will bring in approximately $16,500 of the total. "Strange Love of Martha Ivers" at the two Paramounts is pointing for very good $50,000 or slightly better.

Fourth new bill, "If I'm Lucky" and "Strange Triangle" at the Chinese, State and Uptown is very light at estimated $43,000 and plays only one week.

Among holdovers "Holiday in Mexico" is still good at estimated $38,000 for a fourth week and stays over at the Los Angeles, Egyptian, Wilshire and Belmont until Oct. 1, when "Three Wise Fools" debuts. Fifth and final frame for "Notorious" is nifty $30,000 or near at the Hillstreet and Pantages. Same figure was hit by "Make Mine Music" for a second week at the Orpheum, Vogue and El Rey. "Caesar and Cleopatra" closed four-week run at the four Music Halls last night with near $20,000. Revival of "Rebecca" opens four showcases today.

H'wood Gearing Its Product To Meet World Competition

In the face of mounting competition from abroad, Hollywood is aiming its product at the foreign markets in a determined effort to retain its world film leadership.

With most of the majors now geared to production of top-budgeted product almost exclusively, the industry plans to meet foreign competition in the respective countries with a powerful slate of A-product loaded with top b.o. names.

Trend of dropping the low-budgeters, first started by Universal, has now caught up with Metro, Warner Bros. and Paramount. Columbia and RKO are currently studying prospects of eliminating the cheapies and Republic's Herbert Yates recently stated his company may also do likewise.

In line with its general program for the foreign markets, nearly all the studios have sent reps out for first hand reports on film conditions throughout the world. Latest of them to come back have been Wolfe Cohen of Warner Bros. and Luigi Luraschi of Paramount. Ned Depinet is currently in Europe on a similar survey for RKO.

Studios which heretofore turned out 60 to 75 films annually, with some specially earmarked for exclusively domestic or foreign distribution are discontinuing the procedure. Films will be turned out with one objective in mind: "For distribution in the world markets."

Jack Davis yesterday was signed to play the lead in "Bachelor's Women," which opens at the Belasco Theatre Oct. 9. Robert Sheban authored the legiter, which will go to San Francisco following the local run.

PRODUCERS GIVE CLASS TO TIRED OLD 'FAN' PLAY

Oscar Wilde is credited with writing "Lady Windermere's Fan" but the presentation credits at the Biltmore last night are entirely due to Homer Curran, Russell Lewis and Howard Young, the producers. In their maiden effort for the Theatre Guild, the producers have given the Wilde opus everything desirable in the way of production. Cast, costumes, settings, etc., are all tributes to the glowing touches of the producing triumvirates. If the play fails to rise even more than merely a few times to this lavish endeavor, it is due more to its dated qualities and its stilted prose than to anything else. And even then, Wilde's epigrams and saucy verbal nose-thumbings do much to relieve the obvious plot.

Cornelia Otis Skinner and Henry Daniell star in the "Fan' with stellar rating for Miss Skinner more than deserved. Daniell, on the other hand, gave only a reading of the part rather than a performance. For great showmanship there is the brilliant work of Estelle Windwood, Penelope Ward and John Buckmaster. Cecil Beaton, who designed the scenery, costumes and lighting with exquisite taste, also delivers himself of the role of Cecil Graham, with a grace to fit his designing work.

Jack Minster directed the show and did his best with the antiquated play handed to him, even making some of the asides almost, but not quite, believable.

LEGIT OPENING

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 23. — "Mr. Peebles and Mr. Hooker" has moments of power and dramatic fire but it doesn't live up to early promise, which gives indication of rough sledding on Broadway. Factor in its favor, however, is novelty of treatment in the form of a modern morality play. It is definitely not for films, because it presents God and Satan as earthly mortals, waging battle for souls of the citizens of a Tennessee town. Its message is a timely plea for the brotherhood of man and at times it is a stirring preachment against evil and hatred.

Second act meeting of God and Satan fails to carry the desired punch and from then on symbolism, which brightened early scenes, gets dimmer. Character of the Stranger (symbolizing Christ) is well presented. Love and patience doctrine of the Nazarene contrasts with the God of Wrath, personified by the elderly Jehovah. Latter loses his temper when the town rejects his teachings, so he sends a flood, wiping out the community. Two are spared: a young preacher, who repented after sinning with the wife of the industrialist, and his sweetheart.

Hyde Back After Organizing in NY

Donald Hyde has returned from the East after completing organizational setup of New York offices for United States Pictures. Hyde, who is executive assistant to Milton Sperling, also conferred with latter on plans to open offices for USP in London, Paris and Vienna.

INDIES IN KEEN COMPETISH FOR NEW FACES

Competition for young players is getting increasingly tougher as indie producers endeavor to build up their own talent rosters. The loner setups are sending their talent scouts out through the nation, right on the heels of major studio reps.

Not only are the indies like Samuel Goldwyn, Enterprise, Walter Wanger, Sol Lesser, Seymour Nebenzal and others, stepping up the intensity of their talent hunts, but they are investing considerably more coin than ever before in developing players after they sign them.

Tutors, coaches, noses fixed, teeth straightened and dozens of other gimmicks that keep a young player on the payroll for months before he or she is ready for even a minor role is a combo that means a heavy investment for the studio.

Talent agencies are helping in the hunt for young talent, although the immediate financial returns for their efforts are small. Latter are always hoping to discover the longshot destined to hit stardom and the big coin.

ATA SEZ MAJORS CAN OUTBID ALL INDIES

New York, Sept. 23.—The American Theatres Association today claimed that majors, with resources far greater than indie exhibs, can outbid all opposition for pictures and "strengthen their monopolistic control."

Claim was included in application made today by the ATA to Federal Statutory Court Oct. 1 for permission to intervene in the anti-trust suit. The ATA petition to the court further stated:

1. Best competitive bid must depend not only on price, but also on theatre location, reputation of the exhib, clearance, and length of run.
2. That judgment as to which is the highest responsible bid must necessarily be entrusted to meaningless limits.
3. Auction selling would legitimatize domination of the market already condemned by this court.

THOSE B FILMS HAVE MORE LIVES THAN 9 CATS

Despite all the various announcements from major studios and some independents that they wouldn't even think in terms of B pictures from now on, various indie producers are predicting big increase in low-budget production for the coming year. Nobody will submit to being quoted directly but they point out that the spots that used B pictures still want them and that where there's a market there'll be someone to supply it.

It is pointed out that much so-called B product of Hollywood gets top billing in many spots and that a good portion of the B's are good entertainment despite their low cost and absence of marquee names.

WURTZEL SET FOR MORE

Right now, Sol Wurtzel has arranged for stage space to do another batch of low budgeters during the next year. He has already turned out six on releasing deal with 20th-Fox. Latter studio was one of the first to formally and publicly toss the B product overboard, so far as its own studio production is concerned, but has been a ready releasing outlet for low-budget product of indies.

Screen Guild Productions has 28 of the B-class pix coming up or already on release. PRC is understood to be committed to a large batch. Republic hasn't abandoned its B's yet, and both Columbia and RKO have plenty on their production schedule for 1946-47.

POVERTY ROW AGAIN

Besides this several indies are understood to be considering ventures into the low-cost field. Good deal depends on just how the selling methods under the decree are going to work out, but there is a possibility of partial revival of the so-called "poverty-row" production of the old days.

WALLIS NOBEL SPEAKER FOR PIX

Hal Wallis will be film industry speaker at the 50th anniversary of death of Alfred Nobel, December 10 in New York, it was disclosed yesterday by Jacques F. BROADWAY RUNAROUND

By RADIE HARRIS

Eight years ago, when Mary Martin's heart belonged to Daddy and all of Broadway, her overnight acclaim in "Leave It To Me" was a bewildering miracle to this small town, unsophisticated miss from Weatherford, Texas. And so, when a complete stranger rushed into her dressing room opening night, kissed her effusively on both cheeks interspersed with a flood of superlatives and rushed out again, she asked in understandable amazement, "And who was that?" "That was Noel Coward," replied her dressing room neighbor—a gal who knows all the answers—Sophie Tucker.

Years pass, as they have a habit of doing, and three seasons ago, Mary was again playing at the Imperial Theatre, and this time in the star dressing room, where her "One Touch of Venus" was adding the Midas touch to the Wildberg-Crawford coffers. But this time being the toast of Broadway was no novelty to her, and so, when the same effusive gentleman of five years back, again tore into her dressing room and started to kiss her, Mary drew away. "Noel darling, I have a frightful cold and I don't want to give it to you," she warned him. "Nonsense", retorted Noel, "the only germ I can catch from you is the germ of an idea for a play I am going to write for you someday. It will be my first operetta since 'Bittersweet' and it will be ready for post-war London in autumn of 1946." Well, after that, you can hardly blame Mary for enveloping him with a hug of appreciation—and ALL her germs! Noel promptly came down with the flu and spent the rest of his N.Y. holiday exhaling an inhalator. When he got back to London, he was still in a fever—only this time to keep his promise to Mary.

In the beginning, there were several distractions—the war with Europe and Brooklyn—but he finally got around to it. He had every picture in which Mary had ever appeared run off for him again and again. He listened to all her Decca platters until he knew every nuance and shading of her vocal quality. And then he sat down and wrote "The Scarlet Lady" (working title), an operetta laid in 1860 with gorgeous period costumes and sets designed by Gladys Calthrop and with his own words and music to naughty songs, ballads, polkas—every sort of number to introduce Mary, the most enchanting musical comedy find since Marilyn Miller, to her English public at her American best.

Mary, accompanied by her husband-manager, Richard Halliday, and their six year old, Heller, sailed from Halifax on the Queen Mary this week, and will make their headquarters at the Savoy, where the Grill, at midnight supper, is once more beginning to look like a process shot of Romanoff's and "21". Mary's son, Larry, now in school in Vermont, will join them for the Xmas holidays. Their home in Norwalk, Conn. is closed—indefinitely. Mary says that it will just be for a season, but knowing the undemonstrative English demonstativeness when they like you, I doubt whether London will relinquish her to Broadway that soon.

SAUNDER-ING AHEAD: George Sanders Stork Cub-bing with Joan Castle spied J. Edgar Hoover at an opposite table and sent over a note with the warning, "Beware the Saint!" Sanders, just back from Paris, would have liked to tarry here longer, but he had to cut his trip short to be "King" on the 20th-Fox lot for "Forever Linda". He managed, however, to find time to show his N.Y. pals the beautiful pictures of Monaco he brought back. If he has his way, he'd like to quit Hollywood and make all his future films there. No, the exquisite scenery isn't the only attraction. In that God's country, you don't have to pay any income tax on your earnings!

ON THE CUFFO NOTES: Ava Gardner is continuing at El Morocco with Howard Hughes where Lana Turner left off . . . Katharine Cornell, still vacationing at her summer home at Martha's Vineyard, may have to leave for Buffalo any minute to be at the bedside of her medico father, whose critical illness has her disinterested in any plans for herself . . . the Sidney Carrolls (June Sillman) are anticipating another "Esquire" . . . Pat Reis, who has been Howard Dietz's "Girl Friday" for as long as anyone can remember has resigned—which to Howard is akin to losing both his arms . . . Gertrude Lawrence's timing of her road tour of "Pygmalion", tee-ing off in Wilmington, Oct. 17th, came right on cue for Ralph Forbes, who will play "Alfred Doolittle." That's the date he must vacate Irwin Shaw's East 74th St. apt.—for Irwin Shaw. Rafe's bride, Dora Sayres, will keep him from being lonely on the road by joining the company in a lesser role . . . Patsy Ruth Miller's divorce from John Lee Mahin comes up on the L.A. court calendar, today, so she is checking her youngster, Timothy, with friends in Westport, and planing back to Hollywood for the decree . . . Melville Cooper won't have to struggle much longer with the comedy relief(?) of "Gypsy Lady". By a prior arrangement, he'll hand in his notice within the month to play the straight role of a Leo G. Carroll detective in Dennis Hoey's mystery melo under the aegis of Violla Rubber . . . Selena Royale's ex husband, Earl Larrimore, just back from five years of a tubercular cure at Saranac, and completely well again, hasn't been forgotten by his most loyal friend, Eugene O'Neill. He's already been tagged for O'Neill's second Theatre Guild production, "The Moon is Misbegotten". It was after O'Neill came back from his own cure that he wrote one of his most poignant albeit least successful plays, "The Straw," which only ran three weeks . . . that luncheon huddle between Lew Kerner and Cedric Hardwicke was to discuss the possibility of Cedric playing Greg Peck's father-in-law in "Earth and High Heaven" even though Sam Goldwyn won't put it into production until next June! . . . capsule criticism of "High Horizons" which opened and closed at the Plymouth almost simultaneously: when one of the leading characters was murdered and the gendarme announced, "This is bad business", Jules Ziegler from his orchestra stall retorted, "You'll know even better Saturday night!"

FIGHT LOOMS FOR USE OF GOLDWYN, PICKFORD LOT

will be either "One Touch of Venus" or "Babylon Revisited," with production slated to start by January 1, 1947.

Until matter of studio facilities is settled, Miss Pickford will continue to headquarter on the Goldwyn lot and Cowan will maintain offices at Hal Roach studios.

HOW LOT'S DIVIDED

Indicating plan to film on the Goldwyn lot, Miss Pickford explained that she owns 51.25 per cent of latter studio, currently under lease to Samuel Goldwyn. Producer - actress stated that Goldwyn owns 23.75 per cent and Lady Stanley the remaining 25 per cent. Miss Pickford emphatically said that she had a "most favored clause" in the current Goldwyn lease, giving her space and terms equal to any other producer on the lot.

The combo's current capitalization was said by Cowan to be around $3,000,000, consisting chiefly of cash and properties. Cowan and Miss Pickford are the sole stockholders. Selmer "Sonny" Chalif, Miss Pickford's nephew and currently associated with her husband Buddy Rogers in Comet Productions, will be general manager of the new company. Miss Pickford will leave New York for Hollywood Saturday and Cowan expects to take off for the coast Wednesday.

LEASE RUNS 2 YEARS

Samuel Goldwyn's lease on the Goldwyn Studios still has around two years to go. Queried recently on the situation, Goldwyn said he owned a full 26 per cent of the lot and had leased Lady Stanley's 25 per cent holdings for a 20-year period, giving him in effect a 51 per cent claim on the lot. According to producer, Miss Pickford owned 49 per cent.

Light 'n' Airy

by JACK HELLMAN

Charlie McCarthy took a short spurt (.4) and pulled up at 14.5 to look down on the Sunday flock trailing in his wake. Only threat came from Walter Winchell who posted 13.5 on .6 pickup. Phil Baker's 3.3 rise spiraled him to 11.9. New programs failed to disturb the leaders and some were precariously low for the coin expended. Don Ameche opened with 6.4, "Parky" did little better with 6.7, and "Theatre Guild" could do no better than 6.5.

Others and their differentials: "Ozzie and Harriet" 6.4, up 1.6; "Blondie" 9.6, up 2; "Corliss Archer" 5.6, off .1; Frank Morgan 7.7, up 2.3; Ford Music Festival 3.2, up 1.1; Jimmie Fidler 6.7, off 1.1; Louella Parsons 8.9, up 2.3; Dick Powell 8.1, up 1.4; Tommy Dorsey 11.6, up 3; Carmen Cavallaro 6.1, up .2; "Darts For Dough" 4.5, off .7; "One Man's Family" 6, off .6. Drew Pearson took 5.1 hop to 8.7 for some inexplicable reason but proving, like Winchell, that those with "selling" power can hold an audience enthralled regardless of the broadcast content.

Chain breaks . . . Elgin's two holiday shows are taking shape and as in previous years the budget will groan under the weight of top names. Already set for the Thanksgiving opus are Jack Benny, Red Skelton, Jimmy Durante and Garry Moore, Lauritz Melchior, Don Ameche and Ken Carpenter, the latter two being held over for the Christmas day airing. Others in the yule lineup to date are Bob Hope, Edgar Bergen and Cass Daley. Fred MacKaye produces and Bud Paganucci scripts . . . Art Marquette in town with the missus. . . . Larry Berns was unjustly omitted from the production credits on Columbia's whopping "Stars in the Afternoon" promotional show. His comedy touches were amply evident and in the words of Ernie Martin, "he did a whale of a job" . . . Burl Ives will be Bing's guest on the next Philco recording session Oct 7. . . . Harry Witt showing the town to Charles Burkland, head of WTOP, Washington, and Richard Hess of CBS sales staff in NY.

Hitch hikes . . . Charlie Mc Carthy will be back in the Pasadena Playhouse Sunday with Joan Caulfield in the guest corner . . . Will Connolly, ad chief of Johnson wax, in town for takeoff of "The McGee's . . . On tonight's "Command Performance" recording will be Frank and Ray Sinatra, Joan Edwards and Gene Kelly . . . NBC will have a solid Wednesday night lineup to augment its Tuesday and Sunday phalanx. From 6 p.m. through to 9 (our time) they'll go mikeward in this sequence: "Duffy's Tavern," Mr. D.A.," Frank Morgan, Kay Kyser, "Gildersleeve" and Mr. and Mrs. North." . . . Alan Young guests on Friday's belated inaugural of "People Are Funny."

to meet tonight at Carpenters Hall for strategy discussions.

Expressing a determination to keep studios open under any circumstances, producers admitted that wholesale notices will handicap production seriously but will prove a means of bringing the trouble to a head. Commenting on situation, Byron Price, board chairman of Association of Motion Picture Producers, said:

"Today's developments in the studios are merely a continuation of a situation which has made it increasingly difficult for motion picture production to be carried on.

"The producers are desirous, as I believe most of the employes are, that production be continued.

"As the telegram sent by major studios last Saturday pointed out, when carpenters and others refuse to work, the work must be done 'by other employes if production is to be continued and employment provided for the thousands of employes who are in no way involved in the controversy'."

LOCKOUT, SAYS SORRELL

No meeting with CSU locals on wage and contract negotiations was set yesterday, nor have any been scheduled for later in the week. Herbert K. Sorrell, prexy of CSU, declared:

"The producers' answer to our demand for contract negotiations is the wholesale lockout of carpenters and painters which began early this morning.

"The mass firings started a few hours before we were to contact studios, at their suggestion, to set a meeting date.

"These men were locked out for following a directive of the American Federation of Labor. We demand that producers take them back, and at the same time live up to the AFL directive and conclude contracts with all their unions.

"Last week we publicly charged producers with trying to provoke a strike and said the responsibility would be theirs for any loss of work in this industry.

REPEAT CHARGES

"We repeat that. The answer rests with them. If they meet their obligations there will be no picket lines. If they refuse our only alternative is to fight for our jobs.

"It's up to them."

Technically, layoffs are not dismissals, according to studios, since carpenters and painters are assigned work on sets assembled by IATSE men and if assignments are refused they are asked to "leave the premises." Those being asked to leave, under these circumstances, would not be eligible for unemployment insurance, it is believed.

DEMAND DISMISSAL

A group of 101, made up of 69 carpenters and 32 painters, demanded dismissal slips when told to leave Universal yesterday, refusing to leave unless slips were forthcoming. Studio refused to give slips and group was escorted from the lot by studio police. Similar incident occurred at Republic, where 20 carpenters and 16 painters were let out.

Studios employ approximately 1,400 carpenters and 700 painters on an average, and if notices to "leave the premises" are continued today practically all of these two crafts employed at the 10 majors will have been ousted.

Industrial relations heads of the majors huddled yesterday with the producers labor committee for full discussion of situation and stand majors will take in bringing matter to a head.

PUPPETOONS HIT FEATURE FIELD

George Pal's Puppetoons for the first time will hit the feature length field in Paramount's lavish Technicolor production of "Variety Girl," soon to go before the cameras under the direction of George Marshall. Mary Hatcher and several other members of the all-star cast will share honors with the Puppetoon characters in a big sequence.

Should this experiment find popular response from the public, Pal will get the "Go Ahead" signal to produce and direct an entire feature length production in Technicolor with live actors and his Puppetoons.

SCOTT RESIGNS AS 'TARZAN' MEGGER

Ewing Scott, signed to direct Sol Lesser's "Tarzan and the Huntress," was released from his contract at his own request yesterday before he had started on the directing chore. Scott is understood to have insisted he have more time to prepare pic before shooting and the Lesser outfit felt they were unable to delay getting the film before the cameras, because of labor situation, etc.

Kurt Neumann, associate producer, and who directed the two previous Tarzans for Lesser, will take over the directing job in addition to his production duties.

New York, Sept. 23.—Tony Reddin, Paramount director of publicity, advertising and theatres in Great Britain, sailed from here for England via the Queen Mary after visiting home offices and the studios.

JACK HALEY SHOW HAS YUCKS BUT NEEDS ZING

Someone should take the hypo to the Jack Haley show and give it a good jab in its sprawling somnolent sector. Given a punchy script by Ray Singer and Dick Chevillat that bristled with yucks and strong productionally with Bob Redd at the helm, Haley, Eve Arden and sundry others in the cast merely loped through their chòres with a resultant lag and drag that made the laugh lines lifeless. Timing was off, action dragged and the comedy content suffered from the listlessness.

What the show needs more than anything else are a speeded up pace and greater enthusiasm by the line readers. Pauses were deadening and slowed down the tempo to a cat's crawl. Mebbe Haley or Arden aren't the most hep comics in the big time but if they'd pounce on their lines instead of taking them in slow stride it would help. "Village Store" premise has been practically discarded for the free-and-easy joke routine and it would work out if everyone pitched instead of waiting them out. Show has maintained a respectable rating in season, even after the departure of Joan Davis, but the dialers won't keep vigil at their sets with the type of show on this catching. Bob Stanton handled the vocals with an easy manner which may have infected the others. Occasional spotting of a guestar may be the show's salvation but more dash and spirit should be the first order of business.

BALLROOM OPS TO FORM OWN ASSOCIATION

Southern California ballroom operators gather at Los Angeles Athletic Club, Oct. 3 as nucleus to form Western Ballroom Operators Association. Terpery ops are uniting in effort to form common front in combatting abuses in trade and for mutual discussion of problems in industry. A. V. Bamford, head of Pacific Coast Amusement Co., and Oakland operator, and Barney McDevitt, manager of local Avodon ballroom, are temporary chairmen sparking organization.

Larry Gear, head of Midwest Ballroom Operators Association, will attend meet on invitation from those here and assist in forming group. Matters to be discussed, following election of officers, include unions, admission, band prices, ASCAP and BMI, band prices and contract relations with management and agencies, in addition to general operating policies.

Ops pointedly state they are not trying to form block booking or price control setup in opposition to bookers. However, they do want to correct contract and other abuses as they arise and be in a position to better protect themselves. Problem of ASCAP taxes and threat of BMI to soon inaugurate similar system here is high on agenda. In addition, managers want some relief from overnight cancellations of contracts, a privilege not mutual.

Down Mexico Way

By LUISA MARIA ALVAREZ

Mexico City, Sept. 23.—September celebrations began on the 13th and will run through to the 27th. On the fifteenth several of our Central American neighbor republics celebrate their independence, we join in, and begin commemorating our own a little before midnight. Military parades, profusion of electric lights, fireworks, flags. Those of the Spanish American countries, the Stars and Stripes, a few European ones, and of course, our red, white and green predominating. Oddly enough, Spain now furnishes us with two different flags, the monarquic red and yellow, and the Spanish republican emblem. One or the other wave from many a Mexican balcony.

The Long Beach Mounted Police are our guests this year. Their honey colored horses trot in friendly proximity to those of our charros. Shriners are here too, and thousands of tourists.

Festival in honor of Mexican Independence Day and to celebrate official announcement that Mr. Miguel Aleman will be our next president was organized by columnist Hesiquio Aguilar, with the collaboration of cinema lights Jorge Negrete, Hugo del Carril, Charito Granados, Emilia Guiu, Malu Gatica, Susana Cora, and radio artists Pedro Vargas, the Trio Calaveras and the Kenny Brothers.

Bruno Pagliai, President of the Hipodromo de las Americas, has received approvals of his plan for the naming of special turf classics and exchange of trophies. Good will policy between Mexican and other racing organizations. The Hipodromo has included in its stake program the Clasico Jockey Club of Buenos Aires to be run Dec. 8, the Clasico of Peru on January 8, and the Clasico Club Hipico of Chile on Feb. 23rd.

Another international good-will gesture was made by Major Ednyfed Williams announcing the award of a perpetual trophy to the horsemen of Mexico on behalf of the National Assn. of State Racing Commissioners of the United States. Race will be inaugurated this season as "Buen Vecino (Good Neighbor) Handicap."

Oscar Dancingers, Lupita Tovar, Julio and Diana Bracho at the 1-2-3, listening to the "Polonaise" . . . Lupita will stay for a while. Husband Paul Kohner has joined Mauricio de la Serna on the producing end.

Julio Bracho recently told local reporter that he has been accused of over and mis-spending money on pictures, thus ruining producers.

"I have been called the destroyer of our motion picture industry," said director Bracho, "but, did these people want us to produce only cheap films, to be shown at third rate theatres and small villages? The crisis of our industry is not due to high budget films, but to the very poor quality of the majority of pictures made in Mexico."

Directors called off threatened strike, and agreed to discuss their problems (demand for higher salaries) with producers, and outside of Labor Relations Board. However, directors insisted upon their demands.

It may be consoling to think of our magnificient studios, only that, not very many pictures are in production.

Theodore Gildred is building three motion picture theatres . . . or is it four? . . . Emilio Fernandez associate producer for John Fords "Power and Glory" to be filmed here . . . Grovas signed star Sofia Alvarez . . . Maria Elena Marques back from Europe . . . And Susana Guizar back from New York.

UA DENIES CHARGE OF MONOPOLY

New York, Sept. 24.—Claiming a lack of evidence of United Artists' participation in the monopoly conspiracy, the company today filed a proposed decree with the New York Federal Court which would exonerate it from all charges of restraining trade.

In 44 fact-findings submitted, UA pointed out the company's unique sales methods as a basis of its contention that the UA policy, subject to producer approval, couldn't be the means of furthering monopoly.

Universal, last of the little three, files its proposals tomorrow or Thursday.

Three-Way Bid for Jolson Radio Show

New York, Sept. 24.—Three-way bid for Al Jolson's radio return is expected to cue his early decision to wrap up sponsorship for a new season. Schenley, and Biow for Philip Morris, are both anxious to sew up the Jolson contract. The hottest deal at the moment, though, is Kraft Music Hall, with possibility that Jolson may step into the spot vacated by Crosby.

Johnston Fights U.S. Aid To Foreign Picture Biz

Washington, Sept. 24.—Eric Johnston struck a blow for the film industry today at the second session of a meeting of the U.S. National Commission on Education, scientific and cultural cooperation the group set up between the American citizen and UNESCO. Johnston, one of the speakers, fought hard against our supporting financial aid by UNESCO to help other countries get their picture industries on their feet.

The issue of whether UNESCO's aim "to promote the restoration of means of mass communication in the devastated areas" should include such financial aid was brought up. The question of competition with our own film industry was mentioned and Johnston insisted that the Unit-

OPA Lifts Camera Ceilings—So What?

Washington, Sept. 24.—OPA has lifted ceilings on imported cameras and photographic equipment, but this does not affect any domestic equipment on which ceilings are still in effect. Very little theatrical equipment is imported, so the order will not have much effect on the industry.

End of Compulsory Quota Pix By U.S. in Britain Forecast

New York, Sept. 24.—Major problem facing U. S. Film companies in foreign markets is what changes England may make in its existing quota law, according to Maurice Silverstone, 20th-Fox International prexy, who arrived from Europe today. The current English quota law comes up for re-negotiation in 1948. Silvertone predicted that England would boost present exhib quota and abolish distributors' quota. Forecast would result, he said, in termination of compulsory production in England by American companies.

DEADLINE IS SET FOR SIX TONITE

BULLETIN

Deadline of six p.m. today was set last night by Conference of Studio Unions for producers to rehire all of the 1100 dismissed carpenters and painters, resume contract negotiations and live up to AFL directive of Dec. 26, 1945, as interpreted last Aug. 16.

There will be no resumption of contract negotiations with Conference of Studio Unions until it decides to "deal and act in good faith." Notice to this effect was wired CSU yesterday by Pat Casey, chairman of the Producers' Committee, who charged that Conference's position in the present labor dispute "obviously makes such meetings, or attempt at meetings, futile."

Standing pat on decision to continue to ask carpenters and painters who refuse to accept work assignments to "leave the premises," major studios yesterday swelled discharged total to 1,121, of which 727 were carpenters and 394 painters. Paramount also added three air conditioning engineers, members of Local 40, IBEW, who refused to work on a "hot" set. Only additional fir-

PICKFORD CLAIMS CODE AIDS BIG 5

New York, Sept. 24.—Mary Pickford today charged that indie exhibs are hurt by current production code, which she asserted favors the Big Five. She revealed plan to canvass the indie exhibs to effect changes, giving latter an even break with the Big Five. Miss Pickford stated that the "Outlaw" situation had nothing to do with her views.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

TWENTIETH-FOX has a new gimmick to guarantee uniformity and high quality in film exposed on location. One of the chief handicaps of a location company is not knowing how good or bad the photography is until it's too late. So the "Boomerang" company, shooting in Stamford, Conn., is equipped with a small portable film laboratory. At the end of each day's shooting, the last six frames of film exposed are snipped off and developed. Within ten minutes cameraman Norbert Brodine knows if the quality of his photography is up to standard and matches other days shooting. If it is under par, he can reshoot the scene immediately.

MEMBERS of the RKO purchasing department, in charge of supplying food for location troupes, breathed a sigh of relief when Frank Capra's Liberty Films production, "It's a Wonderful Life," was brought in. Picture got three months location shooting on a four-acre town-site laid out at Encino and during that time the studio furnished a total of 28,800 meals for the 2000 players employed during the filming. Average was 400 meals a day for 90—which the purchasing department lists as its record food buying job to date.

KEY personnel on "Merton of the Movies" was herded into a projection room to be shown how they did it in the old days. "Merton" revolves around silent pictures, so the top technicians were shown such epics as "The Soul of the Beat," "Peggy Does Her Darnedest," "What Will People Say?" and "Pay Day." Prints had to be obtained from private collections. In search of props for the same picture, Metro uncovered a hoard of silent film cameras in a warehouse which had been used in shooting "Ben Hur."

RECEPTION of United States Pictures' first production, "Cloak And Dagger," on initial showing in Atlantic City is such that the Warner Bros. indie unit expects a $5,000,000 gross in the domestic market. Audience scentiment checked in the vacation city indicates that the touchy war subject is ducked well enough that it becomes more intrigue and romance, which is staple fare in film houses all the time and is not dated as is strictly war theme.

STEWART Granger, the rugged British matinee idol, who attracted Hollywood's eye especially by his appearance in "Caesar and Cleopatra," is on ice for awhile. As It Looks to FLANNERY

(Famous CBS Commentator)

Unrestrained optimism is not justified by the Stalin statement, but it is wonderfully good news. It does not mean that the Russian representatives will now cooperate with us like bosom pals, or that Russia will drop all her demands for the Dardanelles, the oil of the Middle East, a say in China and Japan, etc., but there will be a more cooperative and less obstructionist attitude in the conferences, and less violent name calling. Mostly it means, as most important of all, it seems to me, that the Russians are going to make real attempts now to reach agreement with us on control of atomic energy. Stalin's saying "the monopolist possession . . . cannot last long, and use of the atomic bomb will be prohibited," is an obvious definite instruction to Gromyko, and a commitment to the Russian people. Actually, the Politburo has wanted peace, if only to restore Russia and develop her economy, and she knows international cooperation diplomatically and economically is necessary to that end—the success of Communism in one country. She has worked up the war scare, told of the threats of reactionaries in the capitalist United States, more than intended, so that the Russian people were becoming isolationist and asking, if Great Britain and the United States were blocking all efforts to peace, why Russia did not withdraw from the United Nations and other conferences. She's worked up that attitude to make the people complain less about not getting consumer goods in the first years of the new Five Year Plan, but overshot the mark. Since Russia wants to continue international cooperation, she's therefore used Stalin to try to correct the attitude of the people in Russia. That, too, indirectly, is good news, and a testimonial to the effect of the Byrnes "get firm" policy.

Metro Denies Charge Clearances Are Scrapped for High Bidder

New York, Sept. 24.—Charges by Philadelphia exhibitors that Metro is planning to scrap all past clearance provisions in favor of selling product first to whatever exhibitor is willing to pay the most for it has been denied by William Rodgers, sales vice-prexy.

Rodgers said that all distributors sold products first to the first run situations earning the highest grosses, but declared that this had nothing to do with any change in the existing clearance provision.

Charges were voiced by Sidney Samuelson, general manager of Allied Eastern Pennsylvania, who claimed Metro bookers are currently checking every exchange to determine the number of prints required to service the territory adequately. Rodgers concluded the check is under way but said it had no bearing on the releasing schedule.

Exhibs Fight Checkers in War on Pet Pix is Claim

New York, Sept. 24.—Exhibitors' complaints over local checkers are a "smoke screen" to hide their fight against percentage pictures, a spokesman for Confidential Reports, company handling all major checking except Metro, said today. Spokesman said claim that the whole town knows the business when a checker is hired from a locality are senseless because anyone interested could find out the theatre man's business "by spending two bits to hire a boy to make a few checks on the house."

What's more, local cashiers, doormen and ushers are hired by the exhibitors and they do more talking than any checker. Confidential is discriminating in hiring checkers and would not take on the exhibitors' landlord as charged by several delegates at recent Allied Boston convention, the company official declared.

'Killers' Strong Stretch Run Wins Hellinger New Topper

Mark Hellinger, back from San Francisco after setting things up for opening of "The Killers" at the Orpheum there tonight, yesterday was the target for fan mail, radio offers and bids to speak at women's clubs. Sparking this sudden "star-is-born" sequence, apparently, was Hellinger's guest appearance on the Louella Parsons broadcast recently, which produced flood of write-ins.

"The Killers" is grossing heavily wherever it shows, according to Universal-International reports. Realism of the drama evidently gets across from the crime-doesn't-pay angle for the producer has received two requests to speak on the subject before women's clubs.

Hellinger has also been sounded out by several agencies on possibility of doing radio program.

Top smile of the week for Hellinger, however, was winning a new hat from another producer on the UI lot who had bet that his picture would outgross "The Killers" its first week in Chicago. The Hellinger opus was $5000 behind up to the last two days and then staged a stretch run to win by more than five grand.

Down Mexico Way

By LUISA MARIA ALVAREZ

Mexico City, Sept. 24.—Our motion picture producers have decided to discontinue production, because of soaring costs of same, they claim.

Decision was reached by Board and Special Committee, amongst members of which are Raul de Anda, Gregorio Wallerstein and J. Grovas, but decision may be overruled at meeting this week.

The industry does seem all tangled and one of our leading dailies came out yesterday with headline about Mexican cinema disaster.

A number of directors who have been fighting for salary increases claim that producers wanted the directors union to declare strike so as to temporarily stop production with no responsibility shouldered by producers. The truth is that production has been petering out, independents have not been able to obtain bank backing and some associated producers are bankrupt, however, there is no doubt that plans for future production have been going ahead, so that the whole situation is a puzzling question mark.

For the first time in Mexico's cinema history, a Brazilian star visits our studios. Cesar Ladeira, actor, linguist, playwright and director of radio station in Rio de Janeiro is Brazil's delegate to Inter-American Radio Conference here. We are male-movie-star poor, and perhaps the Brazilian would prove a good investment for our cinema, but, considering present situation of our industry and announced — or maybe only threatened—production stop, Ladeira will probably visit and fly back to Rio.

PREVIEWED at studio, Sept. 24, 1946. Running time: 65 MINS.

"Below the Deadline" offers neat package of fast-action entertainment which should stack up satisfactorily as strong supporter material. New star, Warren Douglas, is introduced, first-rate in this and a bet for future. Film reaps benefit of tight direction and plenty of production values, with a story okay for majority of audiences.

Douglas, teamed with Ramsay Ames, returns from war upon death of his brother, George Meeker, who operates gambling racket. He takes over, and immediately finds himself involved with Philip Van Zandt, gambling competitor who killed his brother. Newcomer is tough customer and intends to stick to rackets, but check he gives to his former colonel to start airport is used to finance election of new mayor opposed to rackets and he finds himself out on limb, with prospect of going into biz with colonel.

Story, while slight, suffices as showcase for a lot of melodramatic movement and keeps spectator interested for run of film. Miss Ames appears attractively, and so does Jan Wiley, as Meeker's gal who goes on make for his brother. Paul Maxey has fat role as gambler's attorney, balance of cast composed of good gangster types.

Lindsley Parsons made most of his budget from production standpoint and William Beaudine handled direction with expert touch. Screenplay was written by Harvey Gates and Forrest Judd, from original by Ivan Tors, and Harry Neumann's photography is on high level. Technical credits are correspondingly good.

Play Review

THE MERRY WIDOW

There were times at the Philharmonic last night when "The Merry Widow" gave the impression of being a good show. These times were primarily when Franz Lehar's score was given half a chance and when George Zoritch and Milada Mladova were dancing. Well over the better half of the evening, however, was spent in wading through some depressingly dull dialog and the fierce hamming of Jan Kiepura. Although Marta Eggerth, in the title role, is difficult to understand, she does sing pleasantly. Kiepura can't even do that without mugging and carrying on vocally in a manner that must have been overdone, even in the old country.

It would be difficult to write down the Lehar score as a loss, which it certainly isn't. But the performers gave it little chance to be heard, because of some strange idea producer Eugene Haskell and director Felix Brentano must have had that the new book by Sidney Sheldon and Ben Roberts was clever . . . which it even more certainly isn't. This, coupled with the most anachronistic costuming witnessed in a long time, and a tedious amount of blathering on stage resulted in a pretty morbid evening. Miss Eggerth's "Vilia" and the two great dancers were in the nature of the old college try, but not even they could save this not so very "Merry Widow."

SQUARE DANCES COMING TO FAVOR AGAIN IN FILMS

Looks as if they're going to have to jib the jive to fit the old time dance halls this coming winter, with the swing-your-partners rollicks likely to claim the ballroom floors again. Square dances have been getting so much play in pictures that they show signs of becoming a general fashion.

LeRoy Prinz, dance director on Warners' "Pursued," predicts a square dance revival, with the quadrille, reels and varsoviana coming back into popular favor. These particular old fashioned capers are being made important numbers in "Pursued." Seven national mags have scheduled articles on them.

The square dances have been getting a heavy play locally and the Screen Extras Guild has created a special classification for extras able to perform in them. This has made business for recently organized "square dance clubs" and is helping spread the vogue for the corn-tassel hoofing.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: Edward Arnold got a laugh he hadn't reckoned on yesterday on the "Dear Ruth" set at Paramount. He was appearing in a scene in which his daughter, Joan Caulfield, returns home on a date with an army officer while her civilian boyfriend is waiting for her. To tip her off, Arnold's dialogue ran, "Come out, come out, wherever you are." And just as the actor delivered the line a stray dog wandered on the set, wagging his tail . . . Warners' schoolhouse-on-the-lot opened yesterday and three moppets were hauled in for lessons, Patti Brady, Gerald Perreau and Ernest Severn . . . Sheilah Graham is outclassing the other Citizen-News columnists. She's been placed on a thrice-weekly basis and will be a daily feature once the paper shortage eases . . . Fine-old-Italian-hand dept.: Enterprise has added its tenth technical advisor, Dario Sabatello, to "Arch of Triumph." According to the studio's announcement, he will advise Miss Bergman on "the Italian phases of her death sequence" . . . Lesley Selander's predicament—finding a photogenic horse for "Red Stallion," which he will direct for PRC—gave him an opportunity for a quip. Namely, "After testing 25 horses and not getting the right one, I'm beginning to think I may have to dye a horse of another color."

THE GRAPEVINE: Fastest rising actress of the year seems to be Ruth Warrick. She's been around since "Citizen Kane," but got typed in a lot of drab roles, usually as the prim wife who was losing her husband to a glamour girl. Then Mark Hellinger spotted her as a siren in "Swell Guy" and Enterprise got interested and gave her the Kate Hegstrom in "Arch of Triumph." It's second lead, but half a dozen stars spilled tears over the role. Now Hellinger is trying to sign her for a one-picture-a-year deal, while Enterprise has already tagged her for two pictures annually . . . Incidentally, Hellinger was amazed, momentarily, when Peter Lorre poped into his office yesterday and inquired (in weary tones of the at liberty actor) "Any casting today, Mr. Hellinger? "The producer replied, "Nothing today, Mr. Greenstreet" . . . Brian Donlevy planes for New York today for a couple of radio shows and to take in the Broadway exhibits . . . Reconversion note: Dr. Ernest Golm, husband of character actress Liza Golm, leaves for Berlin soon to resume his post as superior court judge—which he held before Hitler came to power.

CALL SHEET: KIRK DOUGLAS appeared on his first radio shows since coming to Hollywood for "The Strange Love of Martha Ivers," a double chore in one day including Tom Breneman's airer and "Sunset and Vine." . . . COKE MILLER off to New York for three weeks on business for Enterprise . . . BRIAN AHERNE and his wife took a party of friends to the Laguna strawhatter to catch Signe Hasso in "George." Mrs. Aherne is a longtime friend of Miss Hasso's . . . FRANK CAPRA and his wife were guests of honor at a dinner attended by members of his wartime photographic unit at Saddle and Sirloin . . . PINKY LEE observes it is a great problem to get anything but company for dinner these days . . . THE PLAINSMEN play a benefit at Lewis' ballroom at Redondo Beach, proceeds to buy an iron lung for the Redondo hospital . . . JEANETTE MacDONALD spent three weeks in the sun to acquire a splendid tan, then was notified to lose it as fast as possible because her next picture at Metro, "The Birds and the Bees," will be filmed in Technicolor . . . SALLY WADSWORTH, ex-Stevens model, has been tagged by Republic for a choice role in "That's My Gal" . . . OTTO KRUGER'S daughter Ottilie starts rehearsals in "Naughty Naught," Broadway musical, this week . . . BILLY DE WOLFE is a saddened young man. Director William Russell has suggested that since De Wolfe is now playing a straight role in "Dear Ruth" he stop playing gags and cavorting around the set like a comedian.

ON THE SOUNDTRACK: Jerry Hoffman, Sol Lesser's chief publicist, is having lots of luck, nearly all of it bad. He was recently evicted from his house, has been forced to commute from Long Beach to Culver City, and yesterday was the victim of a traffic accident en route to the "Tarzan" location near Santa Anita. He wasn't hurt but his car was so thoroughly smashed that it's temporarily no good for commuting . . . There's a run on whalebone at Warners. One hundred and fifty extras must be corseted for scenes in "Pursued" and "My Wild Irish Rose," both pictures laid against turn of the century backgrounds when an hourglass figure was the acme of feminine beauty . . . Low-flying airplanes caused a stampede of 45 horses on "The Last of the Redmen" location, and Jon Hall got caught in the rush of flying hooves and suffered a broken toe in his right foot . . . An extra hired while "New Orleans" was on location in New Orleans asked director Arthur Lubin if it was all right to toss a party for the company. Lubin tried to dissuade her from blowing her inconsiderable earnings as an extra but she went ahead with the party. Lubin then learned that her name is Mrs. Nelson Whitney and she owns a string of banks in New Orleans . . . Most persistent pun making the rounds is the definition of a fatalist—"a dead stamp collector."

HOPE'S NEW GAG JAG GATHERS NEW GIGGLES

For going on nine years now, and for the same sponsor (Pepsodent), Bob Hope has been tossing gags across the kilocycles with progressive success. Each succeeding year has topped the one before in audience reception and the spiral is still shooting upward. On last night's season jump-off he gave fresh evidence that he's the one to be reckoned with among the Hooper set. It wasn't exactly boff or socko but plenty down the laugh line and the sitters at the El Capitan reveled in every quip.

That Hope is striving for a departure from the format of his army-camp years is patent from the general outline. His accomplices, Jerry Colonna and Vera Vague, are given punch lines to make him the patsy and that sounds like he's verging on a more sympathetic character. Toward the finish he brought in a new device, that of his conscience haunting him. It didn't come off any too well, but may yet be one of the show's new props. Hope played the dual role, skipping from straight mike to filter.

The horde of writers on the Hope payroll gave him plenty to toy with even though they doubled up on gagging "what comes naturally" and "to each his own." On the preview the show ran 40 minutes over and the cutting job overlooked the repetition. Bing Crosby was made the butt of many laughs, an old stock-in-trade, and the baseball investments of Bob and Bing offered fertile ground for the gagsters but not all dialers are ball fans.

There's a new touch to the music end, with Desi Arnaz both warbling and batoning his crew, and the femme canarying by Carol Richards, winner of a "Cinderella Girl" contest. Both justified their choice both musically and in line-reading. Vera Vague and Colonna prove good comedy foils and once the show gets rolling they'll be important cogs in the general assembly. The antics of Hope and his crew are fairly standard by now and that means he'll be up in blue chip society all the way.

By JACK HELLMAN

Water finds its level, so the savants tell us, and by the same token you can't keep a good show down. Lux Radio Theatre, king bee of the air dramaturgists, taking its seasonal bow with not too much hop to its Hooper, crashed through on the second report with a smacking gain of 4.7 to take the undoubted leadership at 16.2, which portends high 20's when the dials really get hot. Going along with the rise was Screen Players Guild, taking a stout 15.9 on a 2.6 pickup. Just what makes the commentators so ditherly feverish at this upbeat time of the year for the high budget boys is for you to divine. Gabe Heatter, no ball of fire since there has been no good news tonight from the war fronts, added 3.2 to what he had for 6.8. On Tuesday night he leaped to 8.5.

Among the returners, and as was to be expected, Red Skelton moved into the winner's circle with a fat 15.3. Rudy Vallee managed 6.8, Borge-Goodman posted 6.8, and Mel Blanc skidded 1.8 to 5.7. Others were flagged in this fashion, figuratively speaking: "Date With Judy" 7.9, up .9; Hollywood Players 12.8, up 2.3; Lum and Abner 2.6, up .1; "Man Called X" 11.3, up 1.3; "Gregory Hood" 5.3, up 2.7; Cavalcade of America 7.1, up 2.4.

FCC DECIDES IT CAN'T FIX PRICES IN ABC VERDICT

Washington, Sept. 24.—FCC declared today it had no authority to fix prices of radio stations, nor could it refuse a company the right to buy a standard broadcast station on the ground that an FM outlet would do a better job.

Points were made in Commission's majority opinion, supporting the action of July 17 when American Broadcasting Co.'s purchase of King-Trendle radio properties was approved. In a minority opinion, Commissioners Clifford, Durr and Paul Walker objected to the sale because the price paid for WXYZ, Detroit King-Trendle regional station, was the highest in history, including BTP, kw clear channel properties. They called for a halt on deciding other high priced deals until Congress determines whether FCC has authority to fix ceilings on station prices.

Durr and Walker also argued that the deal should have been nixed on the ground that an FM watter could do a better job. All six FCC members concurred in the opinion approving the ABC financing plan, whereby $14,000,000 worth of stock will go up for public sale.

Del Ruth Picture Moves To 20th

Roy Del Ruth yesterday moved his company to 20th Century-Fox Studios, where sets have been constructed on Stage 16 for his "It Happened On Fifth Avenue." This marks the first time an outside independent company has been permitted to use the facilities of the Westwood organization and stems from the friendly association of Darryl Zanuck and Del Ruth over a lengthy period.

MacMurray Ends 'Miracle' Sequence

WASHINGTON HULLABALOO

By FLORENCE S. LOWE

Washington, Sept. 24.—It has been generally accepted in the industry that the three-man court in New York which ruled in the big motion picture anti-trust case will not reverse itself on auction selling or any other major portion of the decision. Spokesman for the indie exhibitor groups are working on the theory that the matter of auction selling will have to go up to the Supreme Court before it is knocked out.

That is probably true; Hullabaloo will not quarrel with the experts. However, there is one thing to bear in mind. Three-man Federal courts, including even Courts of Appeals, do occasionally completely reverse themselves. Precedent shows that this generally happens when the court has ranged far beyond the arguments advanced by counsel for both sides—and has reached a decision not requested or suggested by either party to the case.

This is exactly what happened in this case. Nobody dreamed about single picture auction selling but the court itself. Nothing remotely like this was suggested by either the Government or the defendant companies.

So-o, Hullabaloo, just a weak little woman, ventures to hint that the experts might trip up on this one, and the New York court may knock out auction selling.

Apropos of the above suit and the direct intervention of ATA, there is some speculation here on whether the majors have lost control of ATA which has reportedly been their baby. While the Big Five, it is explained, have no part in the intervention, the fact is that the independents in the association have run away with the ball and have forced intervention in the suit against the majors.

Most film people look upon the Latin American market, where business is good and restrictions are few, as the white haired child of international picture trade. So different from the nasty situations in Europe, the pix people comment pleasantly.

However, experts here and South of the Rio Grande are beginning to issue warnings—mild as yet—that the wartime honeymoon with our good neighbors may soon be over.

Thus far there is no money problem in Latin America. Since money is assuredly the root of most of our worries in foreign fields, that means no immediate danger. But review the situation a moment.

During the war the Latin American countries, few of which had previously been affluent, found themselves an important world exporter of goods. With prosperity came plenty of cash, but no goods. Motion pictures were among the few items which could be imported. Now other articles of commerce are becoming increasingly available—goods of the kind that the world is hungry for. In addition, the world has suddenly stopped clamoring for goods from Latin America.

Common sense points out that South America will use its stockpile of cash to build up its commodity inventory. Simultaneously its money will be running low as its exports taper off. Naturally there will be some curtailment of the import of luxuries into those countries. And film is going to come under that heading.

All we can say to Hollywood is "get ready for it, boys. It is surely coming."

Jack Chertok, indie producer, here with William Buch, his NY rep, made hay with the local drama crix. Latter were greatly impressed by Chertok's plans for educational and industrial films for his new short subjects outfit, Apex.

Chertok, who did volunteer work along these lines for Navy and OIAA during the war, has just completed a postwar project of 18 health and education films for the State Department. One of the new irons he has in the fire is producing pix for television.

"Henry V" goes into the Little, D.C.'s smallest theatre (less than 300 seats) Nov. 7. UA has leased the house on a flat fee basis and takes over complete management for the run. The Little, town's art theatre, is strong on prestige, particularly with Embassy Row, because of the foreign films it screens. It will be the smallest theatre to play the Rank epic . . . Office of Alien Property Custodian, which still controls film and music rights for enemy countries, as well as some of the formerly occupied countries, becomes part of the Justice Department shortly . . . Nate Golden, Department of Commerce film expert, just back from vacation, has been recruited by President Truman to head the D.C. activities for "Employ the Physically Handicapped Week," starting Oct. 6 . . . Army reports 710 film houses now operating in the U.S. zone of occupation in Germany. Also 408 theatres and music halls . . . William Wells, just back from the UNRRA Council meeting at Geneva, set up a crew to make a film which is probably unique in picture annals. To meet the problem of displaced Poles who won't return to their native country, UNRRA is making a film following the process of repatriation from the reception center to the final disposition in Poland. This film will be shown at all Polish camps in Germany, after it is edited in England. . . . Wells also worked with the Rank people in England on a short about displaced persons to be produced by "Modern Age," Rank's new venture into the MOT field . . . The Italian feature, "Humanita;" which has an UNRRA background, is being offered for sale in this country.

Recent workshop on films for religious education, held at George Washington University here, drew an attendance of 500. Scale on which churches are now using film amazed many observers. Also of interest was the fact that there is tremendous interest in non-religious films for the church visual education programs.

One of the most widely circulated pictures in religious schools and classes, for example, is John Steinbeck's "Forgotten Village," which is used for missionary workers.

A strong point made at the conference was that films used for religious education in no way are meant to compete with entertainment films.

JOHNSTON FIGHTS U.S. HELP TO ALIEN PIX BIZ

ed States should not involve itself in financially supporting foreign industries. "I am opposed to playing wet nurse to these countries," he said. "We should encourage these countries to help themselves and establish their own industries if they are interested."

In view of the fact that he planes to Europe Oct. 1, the stand was important.

Johnston also said MPA is spending $150,000 this year for research in the field of educational films, with a much higher budget earmarked for 1947. He said MPA has an experimental program under way in Brazil, with preliminary tests under way of teaching by films. The industry, he explained, was already making films to become available to "the humblest school in this country" and to all foreign nations. MPA, he promised, will make these pictures available to UNESCO.

Present session here is to formulate the position of the U.S. delegation to the UNESCO November meeting in Paris.

'Notorious' Robs 'Jolson' Of Big Opening Break

New York, Sept. 24.—Fred Lynch, Music Hall press chief, was robbed of the biggest publicity tie-up of the year by the continuing strength of "Notorious." He was plugging for opening the Hall's next picture, "Jolson Story," on Thursday, Rosh Hashanah. Biography of a son of a cantor, labelled the Jewish "Going My Way," the "Story" would have been a natural preem on Jewish New Year.

Producers Call Off Pay Parley With Conference

ings yesterday over Monday were at Paramount, Warners, Metro and RKO.

Meanwhile both Motion Picture Stewards Council and Local 40 huddled last night, former on forthcoming action it will take in expected showdown, and latter because of dismissal of the three members by Paramount.

Local 40 voted unanimously to support carpenters and are joining carpenters 100 per cent in any picket lines formed.

Showdown plans are expected to be made public at the mass meeting called by CSU for tonight at the Hollywood Legion Stadium. Carpenters board will huddle just prior to the mass meeting. Both Cartoonists and Publicists Guilds have meetings scheduled for tomorrow night.

Screen Set Designers and Story Analysts voted yesterday to give full support to the Carpenters in the jurisdictional fight. Analysts also voted to assess members $10 a day for non-picketing. Joseph Cambiano, Carpenters International representative, was in telephone communication with William L. Hutcheson, International prexy yesterday and reported latter stated that confirmation of the Aug. 16 clarification on set work will be forthcoming from AFL executive council members within the next few days.

Casey's wire to Herbert K. Sorrell, CSU president, went into detail why producers have taken such a positive stand. It declared first, that CSU charged that "our reference to the jurisdictional conflict now taking place in our studios is an injection of extraneous issues which have no bearing on the consummation of contracts. This, of course, refers to our statement that your members, because of jurisdictional differences with members of other unions, have refused to perform work assigned to them. As a matter of fact, this jurisdictional quarrel is raging in each of our studios, is causing the shutting down of sets and pictures, and has been imposed upon us despite every effort we have made to prevent such situations."

Casey further said that: "You charge us with introducing these issues 'solely and deliberately to stall the granting of immediate pay raises and working conditions plus the security of signed union contracts for most studio workers.' You make this charge despite the fact that we have reached agreement with your unions on the basic matters of pay raises and working conditions. We refer, of course, to the agreement reached at the July 2nd meeting and subsequent meetings at which you were granted a 25 per cent pay raise."

Wire said that "in your statement that we have failed to give you 'the security of signed union contracts' you overlooked the fact that you have the security of interim agreements which were exchanged between us covering these matters."

Casey went on to detail producers position on the Dec. 26, 1945 AFL directive which was binding on all parties and to which studios must live up to. Concluding telegram, Casey said:

"In conclusion, we must advise you that in view of the charges you make in your telegram, of your deliberate misinterpretation of the facts of our negotiations, of the agreements we have reached, and the present situation between us, we feel that we are justified in deferring further negotiations until you have made clear to us your willingness to deal and act in good faith."

YOU PAYS YOUR MONEY AND YOU TAKES YOUR CHOICE

Current Hollywood labor fracas centers, to a great extent, around interpretation of the jurisdictional division set up by the words "erection" or "assemblage" and "construction" as used in the Aug. 16 decision of the AFL Hollywood Jurisdictional Committee. Mr. Webster's New International Dictionary has this to say about the three words:

ERECTION: act of erecting; act of raising upright; act of constructing, as a building or a wall, ERECT: to raise, as a building; to construct; set up; as, to erect a house or a fort.

CONSTRUCTION: process or art of constructing; act of building; erection; act of devising and forming; fabrication; composition; form or manner of building or putting together the parts of anything; structure; arrangement.

ASSEMBLAGE: the fitting together or uniting of parts and pieces, as of machinery, carpentry, and joinery.

CSU Strategy Committee Drafts Demand on Prods

Telegram notifying producers of today's six p.m. deadline for rehiring of carpenters and painters was drafted by Conference of Studio Unions strategy committee yesterday and was read last night at a meeting of Motion Picture Stewards Council by James Skelton, strategy committee chairman.

After reading the wire, Skelton said that to the best of his belief there are now only 16 carpenters working in major studios, eight at Goldwyn and eight at Republic, all of whom are employed on maintenance.

The deadline wire repeated a CSU claim of a "mass, unprovoked and indiscriminate lockout of carpenters and painters." Only a few hours before conferenced hoped to resume contract negotiations with majors.

Wire told of published statements and circulars which said:

"These men were locked out solely and simply for following a directive of the AFL dated Dec. 26, 1945, and reaffirmed Aug. 16, 1946. We further charged you with trying to provoke a strike and called upon you to rehire these employes, to live up to the directive and to consummate contracts with our unions. The alternative, we set, would be for our members to act to retain their jobs.

"Since making this statement and serving notice upon you more of our members have been locked out, all on the same grounds. We demand that this cease. We demand that you meet the three conditions outlined by us for restoring harmony within the industry.

"We further demand that you agree to meet these conditions not later than six p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 25, 1946. Otherwise responsibility for events that follow will be yours and solely yours."

UNRRA PIC CHIEF HITS H'D FILMS

Washington, Sept. 25.—An attack on the motion picture industry for its failure to produce films specifically designed to create international understanding and good will was made today by William Wells, UNRRA film chief, in an address before Government motion picture workers.

HOTEL, EATERY STRIKE ENDS

Week-old strike of hotel and restaurant workers, which tied up bar and food service in 12 major hotels and 72 restaurants and niteries, ended last night. Development followed a directive issued in Cincinnati by Hugo Ernst, acting prexy of Hotel and Restaurant Employes International Alliance and Bartenders League of America. The more than 6,000 striking workers will return to work this morning, pending negotiations of wage adjustments. Some rooms like the Zebra at Town House opened last night.

Carpenters Set 5 A.M. Studio Ban; 5 Locals, 6500 Men, Back Stand

Picket lines were scheduled to take over at seven major studios at 5 a.m. today as carpenters launched their fight to regain their film jobs and force acceptance of an AFL jurisdictional award on set erection. Heaviest concentration of militant pickets was slated to collect at Metro and Warners, but lines were to be maintained also at Paramount, RKO, Columbia, 20th-Fox and Universal.

Reinforcing carpenter lines are members of all locals in the Conference of Studio Unions. Five of these locals, the carpenters, painters, set decorators, story analysts and Local 40, IBEW, have voted compulsory picketing for members with penalties for those ducking duties on the lines. Total of approximately 6500 pickets will be available for six-hour shifts.

Of the 10 majors involved in the jurisdictional and job brawl, only three will escape picket action for the time being, Hal Roach, Republic and Goldwyn. There will be no pickets at Technicolor or any of the independent studios. Herbert K. Sor-

Wilde Keeps 'Amber' Role

20th-Fox last night announced that Cornel Wilde will resume co-starring chore of Bruce Carlton in "Forever Amber." Development followed a conference late yesterday afternoon of the actor, producer William Perlberg, director Otto Preminger and Darryl F. Zanuck.

Wilde previously had bowed out of the top-budgeted film on grounds of overwork and need of rest. While actor was out, studio attempted to sign Stewart Granger, British matinee idol, for the role. Deal fell through with the disclosure that Granger was committed for three British films in immediate future.

Yesterday's conference was called when Wilde's medics gave him green light to take on the chore. "Amber," with a lineup of b.o. names including Wilde, Linda Darnell, Richard Greene and Glenn Langan, will now go before the cameras October 21.

Times' Television Deal With Playhouse Up For FCC Airing

New York, Sept. 25.—Television activities of the Times-Mirror Co., Los Angeles, are due for an airing before the Federal Communications Commission on instigation of American Federation of Radio Artists. Union is taking exception to the newspaper's video acting tieup with the tyro Pasadena Playhouse and will ask the commish to investigate and determine restrictions to be imposed.

Union probably will not ask that FCC demand elimination of amateur talent, but will suggest that some control be exercised to preclude abuses and protect professionals. Times, it's reported, has not indicated to what ex-

CASTING of Osa Massen as sister of Viveca Lindfors in "Night Unto Night," in which Swedish actress makes her American screen bow, was set by Warners to avoid a mistake in early days of talkies which some persons still remember unkindly. Lupe Velez, who spouted as neat a Spanish dialect as any producer could want, was cast in picture as Nils Aster's sister, latter making most of his Swedish accent. Practically first quarter of that film had to be used in accounting for difference in dialects. Miss Massen and Miss Lindfors both come from Scandinavian countries, former from Denmark, latter from Sweden, and only one accomplished in detecting difference in accents can denote fact they both don't speak with same accent.

IF and when television may drive present-day unseen radio actors and actresses from the airwaves the growth of wax acting on recordings is seen by some observors as affording a new and rich field. Relatively new field has grown rapidly in past year. It's continued growth will lead to day when "names" are sought on labels much in manner of musical platters and fans and other results will develop another branch of show business from what was at first only an attempt at snagging a kiddie market with children's stories.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

Stalin has spoken out for peace, needed by Russia for reconstruction, but peace is still threatened by some of the dogs of war that were unleashed in the days gone by. Over zealous and ambitious Communists, especially in Yugoslavia and Albania, and aiding Communist elements in the mountains of northern Greece, present a current threat to the maintenance of peace. This fighting could involve the world. It also threatens the cause of western democracy in the Balkans with Greece, now likely to become a dictatorship. The cause of western democracy was not served by the vote to recall the king, even though a republic may continue under a king. But George was connected with a dictatorship during his previous regime, and it is likely that he was voted in this time, not so much because the people wanted a monarchy, as because they took this means of demonstrating their reaction against the Left. Now on the part of totalitarian elements, on the part of royalists, and even on the part of the ordinary citizen who is weary of the years of trouble, and who wants to live in peace, there is now pressure on the royalist cabinet to set up a dictatorship. That sort of development will be one more blot on the escutcheon of the western form of democracy—one made even darker because Greece is the country where western democracy was born, and the last stronghold of our form of life in the Balkans.

TRADESHOWN at studio, Sept. 19, 1946. Running time: 103 MINS.

"Blue Skies" is an extravaganza musical parade of Irving Berlin songs, a cinch for top grosses at box office and one of season's tops in entertainment. It enables Bing Crosby to sing at his best, Fred Astaire to return to type of dancing which won him top fame on screen, and Joan Caulfield to present further evidence of her star ability. More than 20 Berlin song hits are heard, projected against flashy backgrounds and in lush production numbers, to make picture a memorable musical experience.

Narrative is shown in flashback form, picture opening on Astaire as a Broadway columnist broadcasting the story of three persons, Crosby, Miss Caulfield and himself. Action immediately fades into "A Pretty Girl Is Like A Melody" number, in which Astaire is Broadway dancing star fallen hard for Miss Caulfield, member of the chorus. Taking her home that night after show, they drop by Crosby's supper club, and for femme it's love at first sight, same holding true for Crosby. She proposes later, Crosby, because he's a roamer, turns her down; then, they marry, only to separate when Crosby breaks his word to her by selling a nitery. Story windup occurs in radio station as Astaire is finishing their triple story.

Story line sometimes strikes a note of unreality, and reason for Caulfield-Crosby split is unconvincing, but when all is said and done narrative is merely a showcase for the Berlin songs. Majority of these are old favorites, such as "Blue Skies," "Say It Isn't So," "Puttin' on the Ritz," "The Little Things in Life," "You'd Be Surprised," "Always."

Title song is a top vocal number, as warbled by Crosby, and what probably will be regarded as outstanding Astaire number is his "Puttin' on the Ritz," which he uses both for song and dancing specialty. With Farciot Edouart's process photography, this takes spectator back to Astaire's most popular dancing days. Most spectacular number is his dancing in "Heat Wave" number, in which he is partnered by Olga San Juan. Crosby's songs and Astaire's dancing throughout picture offer remarkable entertainment. Their appearance in "A Couple of Song and Dance Men," written by Berlin specially for picture, is a treat. As for Miss Caulfield, she is glimpsed in a warmly sympathetic role which should win her new fans.

As Crosby's Pal, Billy De Wolfe is standout. He does one comedy number, that of a woman dropping by bar enroute home to celebrate her 18th wedding anniversary, which is wow. Offering seems somewhat out of place in picture, however, despite its high grade of comedy. Olga San Juan, also featured, makes spectator want to see more of her, and her singing is hot and luscious.

Picture is a spectacular success for Sol C. Siegel, who handled producer reins, as it is for all concerned with its making. Stuart Heisler scores with his direction, and screenplay by Arthur Sheekman was written from adaptation by Allan Scott from original idea by Irving Berlin. Particularly outstanding is color photography by Charles Lang, Jr., and William Snyder, sets by Hans Dreier and Hal Pereira being especially artistic.

Dances as staged by Hermes Pan are unusual, and Robert Emmett Dolan's musical direction, with vocal adaptations and arrangements by Joseph J. Lilley done for most popular effect. Edith Head's gowns are particularly worthy of attention, too, other credits stacking up comparatively.

Johnston Tells Pix Role In World Understanding

Washington, Sept. 25.—The motion picture's ability to help create better understanding in a world community was praised tonight over the NBC web by Eric Johnston. He spoke on a state department panel show which tied in with the current sessions of national commission on United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization. The U. S. group on UNESCO is currently in session here, formulating policy for the international conference to be held in France.

"We could call the motion picture just an instrument of entertainment, but that simple definition isn't enough," Johnston said on the air. "The motion picture is a mighty, growing power which transcends the limitations of language of race and of nation boundaries."

The UNESCO sessions endorsed establishment and operation of a world wide radio network. In the interim, it recommended use of all present radio facilities for international information purposes. The meeting also endorsed "free flow of educational and non-profit motion pictures." The report included a recommendation for free trade and elimination of barriers, which would open the way to our export of entertainment films.

Justice Dept. Opposes ATA Intervention in Trust Suit

Washington, Sept. 25.—Department of Justice, according to reports here, will oppose direct intervention of American Theatre Association in the big motion picture anti-trust suit, but has no objection to Independent Film Associations filing briefs as friends of the Court.

Stand against direct intervention such as Thurman Arnold is seeking to make with ATA is not new for the anti-trust division. Attitude of the division always has been against such intervention by indie theatres on the ground that it would tend to confuse the issues and complicate the case.

ATA plans a direct limited intervention against the single picture selling provision of the decree. MPTOA and Allied States Exhibitors will simply file briefs in the matter.

LOEW-LEWIN FINAL RELEASE IN JAN.

"The Private Affairs of Bel Ami," produced by Loew-Lewin, will be delivered to United Artists in December, it was announced yesterday. Film probably will be released late in January or early February of next year.

Meanwhile, Albert Lewin is prepping another De Maupassant story for production. His hook-up with David Loew ends with the "Bel Ami" pic, Loew being held exclusively to Enterprise.

KFI TO GET LOG TO PUBLIC DIRECT

Concurrent with return to standard time on Sept. 29, KFI will launch promotion campaign designed to bring its program log directly to hands of the public. Move is partially aimed at listener-promotion and to counteract usual confusion and error found in newspaper logs with time switch.

Car cards will be spotted in over 1,400 trolleys and buses with pocket containing up-to-minute printings of logs. Stunt will be carried through December, with fresh monthly logs being added each month.

Gordon Hollingshead Near Recovery

Gordon Hollingshead is sufficiently recovered from his burns to get out of bed and is expected back at work next week. Mrs. Hollingshead, who was trapped in the burning house at Balboa, has had complications of pneumonia and she is in St. Joseph's hospital in Santa Ana. Producer's wife, however, is expected to leave the hospital in about two weeks.

Keaton Planing Home

Buster Keaton tomorrow planes back from Mexico City, where he starred in bi-lingual picture for Mexican producers. He is slated to return there in February for second picture.

Poling Goes East

James W. Poling, recently appointed as eastern story editor for Universal-International, left yesterday for New York after week here, to take over new duties.

PREVIEWED at Universal studios, Universal City, Calif., Sept. 25, 1946. Running time: 90 MINS.

"I Know Where I'm Going!", J. Arthur Rank production distributed by Universal in this country, lacks the ingredients which go to make for populace acceptance in U.S. It is too typically British to stand much chance here for any more than mediocre reception, an aimless story meandering through long passages of useless action. Wendy Hiller, co-starred with Roger Livesay, is only name in cast known to American audiences, and her role for most part is unsympathetic. Only truly interesting portion of film lies in scenery, picture having been photographed in Western Isles of Scotland, and this isn't enough for box-office.

Narrative follows Miss Hillyer, a Manchester, England, girl who knows where she is going in life, as she leaves for Scotland to become bride of a fabulously wealthy industrialist. Ceremony is to take place on bleak island where prospective groom makes his temporary home, but femme isn't able to make final hop due to heavy fog. Next day a terrific gale blows up, and she's left at small hamlet with Livesay, a Scottish laird, with whom she finds herself falling in love. Events travel from there, through desperate effort to reach island in storm, which ends in failure.

Picture was written, produced and directed by Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger, who must take entire blame for purposeless film. Characters cannot be understood half the time, through their thick Scottish burr and English accents, and most of action anyway is meaningless. There is certain measure of suspense in storm sequence, as small boat tries to get through to island, and backgrounds are beautiful, but apart from these features picture is washout. Photography by Erwin Hiller and Cecil Cooney is particularly outstanding.

Miss Hillyer enacts a brittle character capably but no more. Livesay is difficult to understand sometimes. Other players move in and out of plot casually.

Dick Haymes drapes this session with those slick vocal glissandos that have catapulted him into the top-flight crooners' ranks. Beyond Haymes' heart-throb appeal, there's Helen Forrest, Gordon Jenkins' music and a well thought-out production. Intimately designed, the new format for the show is a judiiious mix of pop music, vest-pocket dramas, and miniature light opera with something for everybody.

As emcee, Haymes displays a smooth, easy, unaffected manner that's reminiscent, without being imitative, of Crosby's free-wheeling mike style. Haymes launched last Thursday night's stanza (13) with a rendition of "Five Minutes More," then neatly segued into a playlet with Lurene Tuttle. Scene was laid in a bawling baby's nursery and although the scripting wasn't highlighted with any yak-making lines, it was pleasantly palatable. This 10-minute area of the program is open for future exploration in the way of comic, sentimental or melodramatic material and no doubt will be varied from week to week.

Rest of the show rolled at a nice pace with Miss Forrest beating out "South America, Take It Away," and Haymes' second number, "I Guess I Expected Too Much." Program wound up on a sock upbeat with the orch, Haymes and Forrest combining into a showboat musical comedy themed by "Waitin' for the Robert E. Lee." Autolite took three bows at the usual breaks without intruding beyond good taste.

THE GRAPEVINE: New York critics blasted "I've Always Loved You," but Republic's boss, Herbert J. Yates, believes it will gross $5,000,000. LIGHT AND AIRY

By JACK HELLMAN

One of radio's most caustic critics is John Crosby, syndicated out of New York and very much the fair-haired lad with the space crowd. He sets himself up as the average listener yet turns critic in a devastating way and has found little to stimulate his enthusiasm. He knows little of the workings of a show and probably wouldn't know a kilocycle from a fraternity pin. He therefore isn't qualified to praise or condemn, in the professional sense. As just another listener he is entitled to be heard and read but once he goes off the deep end and smacks performers hip and thigh he's assuming the disguise of a critic who knows whereof he speaks and on that premise is wide open to criticism.

Just because he doesn't like a certain program he flails away across the keyboard with both fists. Reputable and accepted critics or reviewers, conditioned to the task, wield a fine-edged scalpel instead of whacking away with a dull axe. If he poses as a listener who knows what he likes and makes no pretense at a professional stance he must stand alone in his opinions—one against millions. On that score he shouldn't be taken too seriously in the trade.

When Joe Louis lets go with his leathery mayhem, the guy on the receiving end isn't the only one that takes a beating. Over on the kilocycles there's an innocent bystander named Kay Kyser, who takes it on the chain every time a Louis opponent does. On the Hooper catching of his seasonal opener he could post no better than 6.6 but on the second half almost doubled his audience with 3.2 rise. The Louis quickie was tabbed at 35.8. He who also got slapped around was Academy Award Theatre, skidding 2.5 to a season low of 3.9. "Gildersleeve" found a sizeable audience awaiting his return and broke the tape at 10.5. Frank Sinatra was half point behind and Dinah Shore took a nine to even-Steven with "Dr. Christian." "Holiday For Music" was caught at 5.7, up .4.

Chain breaks . . . Nate Tufts has resigned from Ruthrauff & Ryan after 12 years, preferring to remain here to taking an account executive berth with the agency in N.Y. He is studying several offers from other commission firms . . . Bing Crosby's first platter for Philco with Bob Hope as guestar was overlong and there was quite a hassel as to where the cuts would be made. James Carmine, Philco exec, settled it fast. Said he, very un-client-like, "We'll cut the commercial." . . . "Hollywood Star Time" gets the Lux treatment with Herbert Marshall acting as host, narrator and every fourth week star of the dramatized vehicle . . . C. P. MacGregor refused to commit "Hollywood Theatre" to Skippy peanut butter for the old figure and the Dec. 24 broadcast will be the 275th and last for that sponsor. Bids are already in from four other advertisers at practically double the old price tag . . . Jack Benny guests with Edgar Bergen Oct. 6 and the following Sunday the courtesy will be returned . . . In expiation for an error in the ad on Polan-Rosenberg, their phone numbers are CRestview 11800-64900. Okay, GR.

It would seem that everyone is getting the itch to spin with the wax rather than toil with the body now that youknowho threatens to set the fad. At this writing there is only one thing certain: if the Crosby discs approximate or better the Hooperatings of his live Kraft Music Hall (maximum 25) there may be a mad rush to the wax works. Should it go the other way there'll be a cooling-off period except for coast repeats. Naturally NBC and CBS will fight the canned craze tooth and nail for obvious reason that platters don't need networks and the whole system of broadcasting would be put through the wringer. So all the tall talk you hear about transcibing the big shows should be tempered with a rational approach to a problem that is vexing the skein chiefs no end. At the close of the first cycle of 13 weeks we should get an inkling of which way the cat will jump. Just now he's on the fence and just purring.

If industry and effort count for aught, a big, red apple should be polished up for Eddie Bracken. For a lad who is "beating back" after a rather sad experience in radio he certainly rates the plaudits of the trade not only for pluck and determination but a will to do something about his "rehabilitation," speaking strictly professionally on the radio side. We have the word of Martin Jones, radio director of the Buchanan agency, that during his long absence from radio Bracken just didn't sit it out. He was determined to get back into the big time and went to work on what would turn the trick. So plugging away he turned out 51 story lines and a week before he starts for Texaco had four completed scripts for Jones' inspection. A guy who tries so hard is entitled to his reward so here's hoping he recaptures some of last season's whopping first show and takes his rightful place in the Hooper set.

Hitch hikes . . . CBS is showcasing Fred Beck, the feller who writes that Farmers Market column in the Times, in a daily commentary on KNX at 8:15 a.m. He's also writing with Meredith Willson on the Canada Dry series coming up . . . Knox Manning, no grid oracle, relied on the picks of Daily Variety's Deke Houlgate to win second money in the KNX pool . . . Al Durante, press head for the Thompson agency, trained back to N.Y. . . . "Those Websters" will move here practically intact, deciding to keep what it's got . . . Jack Kirkwood goes on the Fanny Brice show tomorrow in a character part and may stay as a regular . . . Charlie Hamp, in radio since 1921, will be back with the old songs on KECA Saturday mornings. And sponsored if you please . . . Cy Howard in from N.Y. to join Ernie Martin's CBS staff as creater, writer and producer of comedy and variety shows . . . Commentators Hans Kaltenborn and Lowell Thomas will get a going-over as guests on the first Fred Allen show Oct. 6 . . . ABC is strengthening its Wednesday night block with Henry Morgan and Pot o' Gold in company with B. Crosby.

Hawaii Bids for Hi-Flying Bands

Possibility of name bands being booked on one nighters in Hawaiian Islands for first time looms with arrival here yesterday from Honolulu of Hope MacKenzie, island showman, on booking excursion.

ARA TO PEDDLE PROPERTIES NEXT WEEK

All that remains of ARA will go on the block next week. Decision was reached by receivers when it was ascertained that continued operation would not be profitable and would only burn up existing assets. Step marks end of what held promise of being new "fifth" plattery among majors, which position it contested with Musicraft and few other indies.

Inventory is being taken now, books are being brought up to date and complete audit of company's affairs is under way, according to Max Fink, attorney for creditor group. Lists of properties for sale will be published by first of next week. Settlement of claims against proceeds will be contested in Federal Court when assets are liquidated.

Morton Garbus, attorney for stockholder group, states that some of the latter, along with newcomers, are interested in buying up as much of ARA assets as possible to start company anew, probably under same label. Group reportedly composed of local motion picture and radio people. Ralph Peer, head of giant Southern Music, is said to be among group seeking purchase of firm's assets.

PRC MAKES DEAL FOR SUTHERLAND STUDIO LOT

Deal was closed yesterday by PRC to take over operation of Sutherland studio for at least eight months during 1947, to provide space for its indie producers. Belmont S. Gottlieb, West Coast rep of Harry Thomas, PRC prexy, worked out negotiations with John Sutherland, owner.

Agreement provides for PRC to share studio space with Sol Wurtzel and Comet Productions for balance of year, with Wurtzel set to shoot at studio for three months next year, and Comet one month. Sutherland, who will continue making his headquarters at studio, will function as landlord only. Sig Neufeld already has offices at Sutherland studio. PRC also has option to retain studio during 1948.

Sutherland also contracted with PRC to produce two features for PRC release next year. This will mark Sutherland's first efforts as feature producer, having confined his activities previously to cartoons for UA release and industrial and educational shorts.

DECISION

The members of 1421 have voted to support the Studio Carpenters in their struggle to enforce the AF of L arbitration directive and to protect their jobs threatened by the Producers' lockout.

1421 regrets that the Producers have chosen to force further strife in the industry rather than to sign union contracts, abide by a peaceful means of settlement of union differences, and settle down to harmonious production of motion pictures.

Our union has made its decision because:

1. We know there is an enormous difference between the kind of unions which the Producers favor and the autonomous and democratic unions of the C.S.U.
2. We firmly believe that the economic welfare of all studio workers, now and in the future, depends on the preservation of unions free to bargain and to strike, if necessary, for wages, hours and conditions of work.
3. We consider union contracts worthless which do not define and protect the work assignments of the members.
4. Distortion of truth and extreme measures of coercion and intimidation are being used by some union officials to line up their members on the employers' side. Members of those unions are not consulted, meetings are not allowed, conversation with pickets is placed under ban.

   These things convince us that these union officials dare not open the issue to real examination and consideration.
5. We have carefully examined the facts in the issue upon which the Producers have precipitated the current crisis and know that the carpenters' refusal to work hot sets (for which they were discharged) is based on an official award of the AF of L Executive Council. The Producers, the Carpenters and the IATSE have been notified accordingly by President William Green and all have admitted receipt of this notice.

We have made our decision. These are our reasons. Together with other union members we, too, will fight for our jobs and contracts.

PREXY GREEN SEZ AUG. 16 DIRECTIVE BY AFL STANDS

Confirmation of the AFL jurisdictional directive of Dec. 26, 1945 and its subsequent clarification on Aug. 16 was given yesterday by William Green, American Federation of Labor prexy, in a wire to W. J. Bassett, secretary of the Los Angeles Central Labor Council.

At same time, Bassett was advised by Green that CLC should hold to a neutral position in what he termed a "jurisdictional dispute" and, instead try to effect an acceptance of the decision. Green's confirmation of the directive strengthened carpenters' position, but at the same time removed all doubt that trouble is completely a jurisdictional fight.

Bassett in a letter to Roy Brewer, IA's International representative here, said: "In accordance with the communication from President Green, the Los Angeles Central Labor Council shall retain a neutral position in the event strike action is taken in the motion picture industry."

Brewer stated last night that Green's confirmation will make no difference to the IA stand on the Aug. 16 clarification, which had already been termed an "unwarranted, illegal and futile interpretation" by Richard F. Walsh, IA International president.

Carroll for 'Amber'

Leo G. Carroll has been inked for one of the key roles in "Forever Amber" at 20th-Fox. He will appear in the role of Matt Goodegroome in the picture.

Constant Reader

Suffering from a heart attack, Sam Arnow, agent, was ordered to Cedars of Lebanon hospital yesterday morning by his doctor. Enroute to hospital in an ambulance, Arnow ordered a stop-off at Schwab's drugstore where he had attendant pick up a copy of Daily Variety.

SAG OPENS DRIVE FOR INTER-UNION PEACE SETUP

Screen Actors Guild's move for permanent setup for the settlement of jurisdictional disputes will be pressed at coming national convention of the American Federation of Labor. Pat Somerset, assistant executive secretary, has been appointed by SAG board to carry move at the meetings.

Expected that either Robert Montgomery, SAG prexy, or Franchot Tone, first vice prexy, also will attend the sessions, opening in Chicago Oct. 7, to aid Guild's drive for AFL arbitration machinery that would prevent jurisdictional strikes.

Guild has been fighting for some time to have AFL establish such a policy for jurisdictional beefs on grounds that disputes between two AFL unions should not be allowed to close studios or jeopardize jobs of other industry workers.

PICKETS AT SEVEN LOTS; 6500 BACK CARPENTERS

rell, CSU prexy, speaking at last night's mass meeting in the Hollywood Legion Stadium, announced members of conference locals could still accept employment at the exempted studios for the time being, provided they were not asked to work on "hot sets."

'NOT ON STRIKE'

Announcement of picketing to the estimated 5500 studio workers at the Stadium last night specifically pointed out that "we are not on strike. We are picketing to get our jobs back." Hope was expressed that victory would be speedy, Carl Head predicting that it would be completed within three weeks at the longest.

GREEN BACKS DIRECTIVE

James Cambiano, carpenters international representative, read a communication sent by William Green, AFL president, to Central Labor Council, which affirmed the executive council's directive on type of set work that could be handled by IATSE men. Copies of Green's wire were also passed out to those attending the meeting.

While Green confirmed AFL directive, he also gave opinion that council should remain neutral in jurisdictional dispute and try to bring about acceptance of the executive council's decision by all parties.

ACTORS MAY PASS

Sorrell, in issuing picketing instructions, warned that pickets "are not to do anything to actors going through the lines." He said actors were not to be molested, at least until after their mass meeting scheduled for Wednesday night at the stadium. He put the finger on "hot-headed" talk of drafting plans to mess up thespian faces, saying that any one guilty of such actions would be turned over to the law.

He asked that all pickets "try to do as peaceful a job as possible" but not to stand for any pushing around, and predicted that if members stuck together the battle should not be a long one and would benefit all union members employed in the film industry.

SIX HOURS AS PICKETS

James Skelton, of carpenters, informed members of his local that they will be required to serve a six-hour day on the picket line or be assessed $6 for each day missed. Ed Gilbert, speaking for set decorators, told members they are to be limited to a six-hour work day at independent studios and must put in six hours each day on the line. Jack Stehr of International Association of Machinists, non-AFL, said that IAM members will respect carpenter lines until picketing is over.

STATEMENT BY PRICE

Studios to be picketed announced last night they plan to remain open as long as possible to give employment to those not participating in the jurisdictional squabble. Byron Price, board chairman of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, speaking for its members, last night said:

"This is another jurisdictional strike. The issue is so recognized by the American Federation of Labor.

"Phony talk about a lockout will not change the situation. Only a few hours ago the studios informed Sorrell that the carpenters and others could come back if they would do the work assigned to them which they had refused to do for purely jurisdictional reasons.

"This strike is the result of a dispute between two AFL unions over which union's members should do certain work in the studios. It is a dispute which the studios cannot settle and which a strike will not help to settle."

Reason for exemption of Roach, Republic and Goldwyn from picket lines for the present, according to Sorrell, is that there are still carpenters employed at these lots.

Casey Denies Lockout

Denying that carpenters and painters have been "locked out" as charged by Conference of Studio Unions, Pat Casey, chairman of the Producers Committee, yesterday made offer to rehire those discharged if they will perform work assigned them. Telegram to Herbert Sorrell and CSU locals, read:

"Answering your wire of Sept. 24, be advised that none of your members have been locked out. We certainly are not required to retain men, who, in violation of our agreement, engage in work stoppage, declaring sets to be 'hot' and refusing to do work assigned to them. If we receive acceptable assurances that the men will do the work assigned to them we will be glad to have them return to their jobs."

'Bums' in Par Pic Preemed Tonight

"Brooklyn I Love You," Paramount short, cast of which includes the Dodgers, Leo Durocher, "Red Barber and thousands of grandstand spectators, gets it preem in the Brooklyn Paramount Theatre tonight. Attending—on Oakleys—will be the boys from the City Hall, Greenpernt, Broadway and Forty-second, Park Row and Greenwich Village.

Frank With Agency

Jay Frank, midwest publicity director for 20th-Fox for the past five years, was signed yesterday by the McConkey agency. He will handle motion picture talent for the firm's Hollywood office.

ATOM TO MEET MONDAY WITH LABOR BOARD

National Labor Relations Board has called meeting of Associated Theatre Operating Managers and Fox West Coast executives for Monday. Hearing is in connection with ATOM's petition for certification as bargaining agent for all F-WC managers and assistant managers, filed Sept. 18.

NLRB notice was sent to Henry Pines, prexy of ATOM yesterday, as well as to circuit home office here. Advance hearing is to determine whether or not union represents a majority of managers and assistants and whether an election will be necessary before certification is issued.

RKO CREW GOES ALL OUT ON MORASS JOB

Crew who dressed the Georgia swamp set for RKO's "Banjo" were claiming yesterday that this stunt of making two blades of grass grow where one grew before is amateur stuff compared with their synthetic landscaping. They used a total of 135 tons of assorted vegetation, 230 tree trunks and saplings and 50 bales of moss from Louisiana in creating the swamp scene.

List included manzanita brush and juniper brush from the Mojave desert; grapevines and roots from Riverside; cattails from a San Fernando Valley lake! dune grass from Ventura; 30 aspens from Utah; round leaf eucalyptus from Redondo Beach; 100 oak saplings and 80 assorted pepper tree trunks. For the mud and bogs of the swamp 40 tons of top soil was mixed with 10 tons of sycamore leaves. Job was done by 16 men working 10 hours a day for 10 days.

'Feather' Date Set

Production start of "The Scarlet Feather" was set yesterday by Charles R. Rogers for early in January. Delay is due to fact that play stars Maria Montez and her husband, Jean Pierre Aumont, and Miss Montez has to complete role in Seymour Nebenzal film first.

service" to the promotion of understanding via pix.

"Our entertainment films," said Wells, "do not provide the kind of understanding and sympathy between the countries of the world that Eric Johnston speaks of. The basic idea of the industry appears to be this: If we make topnotch pictures they will be distributed throughout the world. They will accomplish the aim of international understanding.

"That is not so. Pictures must be specifically made for the purposes." Wells read the list of the 10 best films of the year and said that while they were good pictures they would not add to international understanding. He referred to "Mrs. Miniver" as a picture which was made specifically to create sympathy for Britain and said it had accomplished that.

He also mentioned "Our Vines Have Tender Grapes" as the only recent picture which would inspire international sympathy and understanding toward this country.

BIG PARIS NOISE BRINGS DELICATE STAGE CHORE

Toughest traffic problem around these parts where traffic problems are always tough, was being worked out yesterday at Enterprise studios. Job was to duplicate on the sound stage the traffic of the intersection of the Champs Elysees and Avenue George V in Paris for "Arch of Triumph," and studio technicians described it as the "most complex engineering operation in motion pictures since the burning of Atlanta in "Gone With the Wind."

The street intersection and stretches of both streets, with all their buildings, including an exact replica of Fouquet's restaurant, were reconstructed on the stage. Working in the scene are 100 automobiles and 600 extras under the direction of Lewis Milestone and seven assistant directors.

Floor level of the stage is 10 feet above the ground level and three banked ramps were built to get the cars on and off stage. To use one of the ramps it was necessary to remove an entire section of the sound-stage wall. Storage space for the cars is provided on two other stages.

TO THE ACTORS IN THE MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY

We, your fellow workers in the studios, have been told by your leaders that you intend to walk through any picket lines which the studio lockout may compel us to set up to protect our jobs and contracts.

Your Board says this is a jurisdictional fight which is no concern of yours. They even go so far as to publish a statement that this has officially been declared a jurisdictional fight by the A. F. of L.

WE CHALLENGE THIS STATEMENT. We challenge the Executive Board of the Screen Actors Guild and their President, Robert Montgomery, to produce evidence that this has been declared a jurisdictional fight by the A. F. of L.

WE DO NOT BELIEVE that the union-wrecking attitude expressed by your Board is your attitude.

WE DO NOT BELIEVE that you will go through picket lines if you are permitted to know the truth.

WE ASK YOU

Have you been permitted to hear all the facts concerning the lockout?

Have you voted on whether you will violate bona fide A. F. of L. picket lines?

Will you be allowed to vote at your coming mass meeting?

Or are you being called together just to receive orders, without reference to your own opinions or respect for your trade union principles?

In the interests of truth, our representatives stand ready to appear before that meeting to honestly present the facts.

WE REPEAT

That this controversy has been provoked by the Producers to forestall negotiations and completion of satisfactory agreements covering wages, hours and working conditions.

The Producers created the crisis and then locked out our members after we refused to strike.

Our picket lines will be to protect our jobs and to secure our contracts.

By respecting our picket lines you strengthen your own security and bargaining position.

DON'T BE MISLED BY YOUR EXECUTIVE BOARD. We ask your help now and assure you of our assistance should you need it in the future.

CBS Bans Giveaway Show; Joan Davis 30G Loser

For one radio stunt that backfired—$30,000.

That's the red letter entry as the books are opened on the Joan Davis tea room, which starts serving on CBS Monday night. Not only can it be counted the biggest loss in a campaign to promote interest in an airshow but it probably tops any other controversy in recent years. Battle has been raging for weeks and as of last night the 30G loss still stood.

The stunt, used years ago to stimulate newspaper circulation, was revived and refurbished with only a slight variation. But CBS called "no dice" and the gag is stone cold in the script room. Variation of the old dodge operates thusly: Miss Davis returns to her tea room after a summer vacation, a victim of amnesia. By some queer quirk of memory all she can remember are the serial numbers of five one dollar bills she passed out in her travels around the country. Listeners to her program were to be asked to examine their dollar bills for the missing

Flacks Vote To Use Own Judgement On Picket Lines

Whether film flacks will cross picket lines or not was left up to the discretion of individual Screen Publicists Guild members at last night's voting on action organization would take in the present jurisdictional fight.

SPG executive board and officers were authorized to do all within their power to help bring about a setlement of the dispute and it was decided the Guild "is prepared to defend the right of all members" who choose not to cross picket lines because of threat of physical injury or personal indignity.

Vote on individual discretion was approximately 4 to 1, signified by hand balloting.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

ALL studios have similar problems in getting returned veterans going in pictures again, but Warner Bros. seems to be unique in having the only service wife to get re-geared for films in Joyce Reynolds, the original "Janie." Joyce dropped her career cold when she married Lt. Robert Lewis, a marine corps fighter pilot, and she traipsed around from one marine base to another, lived in the ramshackle housing available, and their baby was born under these conditions three months ago. De-mobbed, Lewis decided to come back to California and enter college to take a pre-medic course, which brought Joyce once more close to the studio. Warners met her check for interest in resumption of her career with an immediate contract, and now the search is on for a suitable role for this ex-service wife, and meanwhile, a re-introduction publicity campaign is on.

'MAST' FILM DOES BEST ON B'WAY

New York, Sept. 26.—Strongest new entry on Broadway this week is "Two Years Before the Mast," at Rivoli Theatre, with about $36,000 in sight for first three days, ending tonight.

"Three Little Girls in Blue," with Beatrice Kay, Maurice Rocco, Mary Raye and Naldi, at Roxy, got off to moderate start due to opening yesterday of Jewish Holy Day, but winding up first two days with $27,000. "Black Angel," which teed off yesterday at Criterion, also was hit by holiday and does not look strong for first week. "Three Wise Fools," plus Paul Whiteman's band, Martha Tilton and Roddy McDowall, was slow at first shows at today's Capitol opening.

(Famous CBS Commentator)

Naturally, with meat almost completely off the market, and with elections just a little over a month away, the Democrats are afraid their candidates won't be able to bring home the bacon this time. They know that even though some of the Republican leaders, like Taft, are chiefly responsible for the OPA suspension in July and August, and the form of the present bill, that they nevertheless were the party in power, and will be held accountable by the meatless consumers. Some of them are therefore even for removing controls on meat altogether, others for a 60-day holiday which would get us over the election period. But this agitation is more likely to keep meat off the market. It will mean that growers who would normally move grass-fed cattle off the ranges, in October, when the grass browns, will be inclined to hold even that back. They will gamble, as in the last part of June, on holding the stock a little longer, in the possibility that controls will be off, and they can get over ceiling again. The present shortage is of Congress' own making, as the President says. It's because the cattle which would now be going to market was rushed out ahead of time during the time when the ceilings were suspended. Some of course is also due to the opposition of growers, feeders and packers, to the OPA.

Outlaw' Getting Three-House NY Preem Despite Loss of Seal

"The Outlaw" gets its New York preem in three theatres on Broadway simultaneously Oct. 26 regardless of its lack of the Motion Picture Association's "seal of approval," Howard Hughes announced yesterday. Hughes, still convalescing from injuries received in recent test flight plane crash, is now in New York challenging the action of the Johnston office in revoking the seal. In a statement issued there he said:

"I want the New York movie-going public to know that the Johnston office has not prevented the New York showing of 'The Outlaw' . . . 'The Outlaw' will be presented simultaneously in the Rialto, Gotham and Republic Theatres. This will be the first time a motion picture has been given its initial New York showing in three theatres."

Hughes is also conferring with his attorneys regarding his $5,000,000 damage suit pending against the MPA because that organization withdrew its seal of approval from the picture.

"I do not believe that the Johnston office has the right to assume the role of dictator in telling the American public, in New York or anywhere else, what motion pictures it may or may not see," Hughes said. "Three courageous theatre owners are willing to show the picture and believe that the rank and file of movie-goers is entitled to freedom of choice in entertainment, so long as that entertainment meets legal requirements."

Trigger Fingers

(Western)

MONOGRAM RELEASE. Supervised by harles J. Bigelow. Directed by Lambert illyer. Original screenplay by Frank H. oung. Photography by Harry Neumann. ecorded by Franklin Hansen. Film editor, red Maguire. Musical director, Edward ay. Settings by Vin Taylor. Assistant diector, Eddie Davis.

CAST—Johnny Mack Brown, Raymond atton, Jennifer Holt, Riley Hill, Steve lark, Eddie Parker, Pierce Lyden, Ted dams, Cactus Mack and Edward Cassidy.

REVIEWED at the Hitching Post theatre, Hollywood, Sept. 26, 1946. Running ime: 58 MINS.

Johnny Mack Brown and his trus-y comic pal, Raymond Hatton, do it gain in "Trigger Fingers," with a lot of nervous fingers on nervous triggers. Naturally, it wound up with Riley Hill and Jennifer Holt headed for the altar and Johnny and Raymond getting the hell out of there to seek new adventures, Johnny riding out on yon prairie for Monogram and Raymond shifting over to Paramount for his annual job with Cecil B. DeMille.

This picture follows the customary trends, with a jail break to release the innocent lad and the U. S. marshal helping the handsome lad to get out of the hoosegow, all with the best intent in the world.

Riley Hill, the honest kid, gets into a poker game with a gang of miscreants and winds up with a pistol battle. The kid thinks he has bumped off Eddie Parker, which he hasn't, but the gangsters pull a frame on him, intent on stringing him up, while his supposed victim is hiding out in the gangsters' hideout. Eddie is pretending to be a corpse, on account of the gang is trying to get possession of the ranch belonging to Eddie's old man, Raymond Hatton. There is a flock of gold buried there. Meanwhile Johnny Mack Brown, a U.S. marshal, blows in to help his old pal, Raymond Hatton, who owns the ranch and who is Riley Hill's old man, and they decided to release Riley from the calaboose.

Not only do they break the law but they hide out in a mountain cave where they discover the supposed corpse, Eddie, who hasn't been bumped off at all. While they are rassling with the supposed corpse, in walks the real gang leader, Steve Clark, who draws his trusty six-gun and wipes off Eddie before he has a chance to talk.

It winds up with Steve in handcuffs and Riley, as the new sheriff, marrying Jennifer Holt, and everything's swell. You know there won't be any more skullduggery in that neighborhood, with a new sheriff married to the old sheriff's daughter.

Ent Inks Lorring

Joan Lorring, who recently bowed out of her Warners contract, was inked yesterday by Enterprise for top featured role of Celestine in "The Other Love." Assignment is her first since leaving Valley lot.

Prods, Tax Experts Up in Air Over Solo Pic Deals

Motion picture tax experts and producers are up in the air on what procedure to follow in single picture setups. This was learned yesterday with the disclosure that industry lawyers have been unable to obtain a complete text on Treasury Department's ruling on solo-picture capital gains corporations.

Although the Bureau of Internal Revenue issued its ukase against single picture corporations as far back as July 25, 1946, no further conception of Government's viewpoint in situation has been forthcoming.

With millions of dollars voluntarily frozen by producers, directors and stars involved in single-pic corporations, industry lawyers have been dunning the Government agency the past nine weeks for additional information on the solo-pic ban, but to no avail.

TWO MAN ACTION

Only current information on the situation was initial statement to press by Commissioner Joseph Nunan that henceforth single picture companies were out. Understood no further action has been taken against Samuel Goldwyn since Government's original notification to producer that it would not accept as subject to capital gains taxes five personal corporations, which it is alleged producer set up to cover single pictures.

It was pointed out, that under Treasury Dept. practice, a ruling can be in the form of a field survey advisory statement to Treasury agents or as a formal final decree of the department. In the first instance, exact language of the original edict may not be available at all. If that is true, it is believed, that only an inference of just what type of companies are to be nixed would be indicated from Government's crackdown on particular loner setups.

Gen Service Dark

General Service studios, with windup today of William Boyd's "Hoppy's Holiday," will be dark until around Oct. 10, due to Benedict Bogeaus and Charles R. Rogers not having to avail themselves of two-week leeway in completing "A Miracle Can Happen" and "The Fabulous Dorseys," respectively. Both pictures were brought in right on the nose. This will give studio fortnight of inactivity, longest period of idleness in several years for lot. Hunt Stromberg's "Personal Column" slated next to roll about Oct. 10.

KLAC and municipal government engaged in a Katy-did, Katy-didn't tussle over station's airing of new program blasting Ku Klux Klan. Writers are dramatizing alleged recent Klan activities in L.A. area under title "It Is Happening Here," and the police department and Mayor Bowron's office are saying it can't and doesn't.

In every instance investigated, reported incidents have turned into pranks of children or frat house stunts, according to the sleuths, and dramatizations do not give proper picture of events here. Program airs Monday nights at 7:15 and goes into third edition this coming Monday.

Play Review

FATHER WAS PRESIDENT

"Father Was President," which bowed at the Phoenix-Westwood theatre last night, is a near miss by authors Malvin Wald and Walter Doniger. It has charm in spots and a few scenes of homely warmth. However, its wordiness, its pedestrian pace and lack of dramatic highs puts it in the so-so class with respect to commercial theatre.

Plot concerns Theodore Roosevelt's efforts to be renominated by his party (Rep.), and at the same time beat down the J. P. Morgan railroad and coal trust. Mr. Morgan (Rep.) and his trust, like the nomination, never come across as important threats to the good family life of Teddy Roosevelt in the White House. There is so much of this interplay of politics with family that at times the stage appears to be giving simultaneous showings of "Life With Father" and "State of the Union." Another confusion that develops is in the character of the earlier President Roosevelt. There are many times when he appears to be akin in spirit to Franklin D. Roosevelt (Dem.).

Albert Dekker as Teddy gives as good a performance as can be expected from the confusion written into the role. Of the rest of the cast, Kristine Miller, Stanley Andrews, Virginia Mullen, Robert Foulk, and Steve Darrell do nicely. Two children, Billy Brow and Theron Jackson, have a great scene reenacting the scene at San Juan Hill. Mr. Dekker's direction was not up to his performance. Claude Marks did a remarkably fine set of a room in the White House.

EXTRAS' PAY RATE OF $8.50 TO $40 UP FOR VOTE

Daily wage rates ranging from $8.50 up to $40 a day are provided in the new contract with major studios which is up for ratification by members of Screen Extras Guild. Ballots outlining important provisions of pact have been mailed to members with return limit set for midnight, Oct. 4.

Other than cost of living escalator clause and limitation on calls for lower wage classification, pact would provide that wage scales for eight-hour day are to be increased as follows:

Riders, from $16.50 to $20; dancers, swimmers, skaters, from $13.75 to $20.; dress extras, $16.50 to $20; general extra players, from $10.50 to $14; stand-ins from $8.25 to $12.50; mob scene extras, from $5.50 to $8.50; driving one or two horses or handling livestock, same as riding; riding double or driving four-up, $30 a day; driving six-up, $40 a day.

Weather permitting call cancellations will pay half check; minimum waiting time raised to four hours; allowance of wardrobe removal time and fitting calls is made; extras required to get wet on a set will receive $2.50 more a day; special business and wearing of uniforms calls for dress extra pay. Ten per cent extra will be paid for night work and double time for Sundays and holidays.

The $8.50 extras cannot be called in groups of less than 65 and only those registered for $8.50 jobs can be called. Pay raises will be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1946.

The findings cited facts to show that in half of the 92 cities over 100,000, where there were first run independents, Universal has sold to indie and away from affiliate. Its franchise agreements were made in closed situations with independents as inducement for them to build or improve theatres to successfully compete with affiliates. Company also claims its proposals were never based on freely fixed minimum admission prices, but that it allotted runs and clearances based on prices freely fixed by exhibitors, since box office price was major factor determining receipts.

Light 'n' Airy

by JACK HELLMAN

"Suspense," long one of the front runners in C. E. Hooper's Thursday book, is showing a clean pair of heels to a field strengthened by a return of several of the regulars. Latching on to a two-point rise, the curdler moved into a comfortable lead on a posting of 12.3. The Jack Haley-Eve Arden combo picked up the most ground, 3.7 and checked in at 10.4. George Burns and Gracie Allen just inched past that figure by three-tenths of a point. Losses were fractional so it looks like the home front is settling down to some steady dialing and may Hooper take the hindmost.

"Aldrich Family" swung back into normal stride and picked off 8.9 on a rise of 1.9. The others fell into this measurement: Dick Haymes 8.1, off .2; Lum and Abner 2.5, up 5; Kraft Music Hall 9.4, up 2; "Phone Again Finnegan" 6.5, off .1; Gene Autry 6.1, up 1.4; "Those Websters" 3.3, off .1.

By RADIE HARRIS

Equity upheld Francine Larrimore's run-of-the-play contract for "The Temporary Mrs. Smith," so this Jacqueline Susann-Beatrice Cole farce shutters in Baltimore tomorrow night for a six week's lay-off, when Luba Malina takes over. It was Luba, whom Vinton Freedley originally engaged for the starring role, but she bowed out when she thought a lot of picture offers were coming her way after her L. A. appearance in "Roberta." Freedley was so mad that he vowed he'd never engage her again . . . Until he needed her. P. S. he does now . . . Lee Nugent is at Doctor's Hospital, suffering from the effects of treatment at another hospital, whose medico diagnosed her case as diphtheria when her real ailment is a blood condition . . . Paul Douglas is yelling even louder than he does in "Born Yesterday" over that Hollywood commentator's misguided sense of rumor in announcing Paul's forthcoming marriage to Vivien Kiefer. If the commentator had bothered to check his source, he would have discovered that not only is there no semblence of truth to it, but Miss Kiefer is the current heart interest of Edgar James, ex-it of Paulette Goddard . . . Remember a few seasons ago, when Jessie Matthews making her Broadway return in Charles Rogers' "Lary Comes Across" suffered a complete nervous breakdown? Well, the same unfortunate fate has happened to Pat Kirkwood. Rehearsing for her Broadway debut in S. J. Perelman and Al Hirschfeld's musical, "Sweet Bye and Bye," she, too, has had a complete breakdown that will require a long recuperative period. Intimates say that Metro's dropping of her after "No Leave, No Love" plus the unpleasantness of her divorce led to the collapse, which, even the chance at a new career, couldn't forestall. Too bad, because it couldn't have happened to a nicer girl!

OF FAYE I SING: The Bucks County Playhouse was the last of the summer theatres to close, and it signed off in a blaze of glory with Faye Emerson in "Here Today." I drove down to New Hope to catch Faye's farewell performance and see for myself how right I was when I urged her to make her straw-hat debut earlier in the season at the Cape Playhouse. I only wish J. L. Warner had been sitting next to me to realize how Faye's sparkling personality, her natural flair for comedy and her wholesome good looks were completely obliterated in the heavy, hard-boiled roles with which she was saddled. Fortunately, Faye is going to stick to the theatre, where Hollywood will unquestionably re-discover her. But before she accepts Richard Aldrich's offer to star in the new Virginia Faulkner-Dana Suisse comedy-drama, she is heading for Russia in November with her husband, Elliott Roosevelt. As Faye told me over dinner at the Logan Inn, "I can always do a play, but I can't always go to Russia with Elliott—and to be anywhere with Elliott is more important to my happiness than a career that might interfere." Whoever said "in youth and beauty, wisdom is but rare" never knew Faye Emerson Roosevelt!

Cole Circus With 50 Clowns Opens Today

Contingent of 50 clowns, including a talking duck, heads the talent list as Cole Bros. circus opens a ten-day stand today at Washington and Hill streets. "Caravan to Mecca" is the spectacle's tag, with ballet thrown in to bewilder the older circus fans.

'Vendetta' Troupe Poison Victims

Richard Sale is home sick and Fortunio Bonanova barely managed to work yesterday on California's "Vendetta" location at Brent's Crags, as result of food poisoning. More than half of company was reported to be suffering from effects of poisoning.

CANTOR, PABST GET OLD YUCKS FROM NEW KEG

After not too much success with its radio shows of the past few years, Pabst finally has a winner in Eddie Cantor and the supporting cast he assembled. Shearing off into situation comedy, with topside aid from George Burns and Gracie Allen on last night's inaugural, the new format should prove a form-fit for the antics and showmanship of the headman. The years have taught him how to wring a laugh from a limp routine, which is no reflection on the script fashioned for the opener. It wasn't too punchy with sock situations but nonetheless served him well. Then again, this is Cantor in continuity and not the dealer in jokes of yesteryear.

All that has been retained from former seasons is the opening chorus of "we want Cantor," to the closing theme, "love to spend each Thursday with you." In the singing spot he has a sound investment in Margaret Whiting. After her rendition of "Come Rain, Come Shine," Cantor accoladed her with, "that was wonderful." This sentiment must be shared by all who heard her. Harry Von Zell and Jim Backus were fitted well into the running plot of a man who had too many washing machines. Manny Ostroff and Cecil Underwood let the production reins hang loose for the frolicsome mummers and kept the pace hopping. Commercials were in good taste and not overdone.

Cantor and Pabst should prove a happy combination. All the client asks is a good show and that he'll get from the veteran comedian. He's been doing it for years and the track is clear for a good many more.

NW VARIETY CLUB GIVES $253,833 FOR HOSPITAL

Minneapolis, Sept. 26. — With Fred Allen as master of ceremonies and toastmaster and more than 1,000 people in attendance, a dinner at the University of Minnesota celebrated the presentation to the institution of a $253,833.04 check from the Northwest Variety club for the construction and equipping of a 100-bed heart hospital on the campus. The federal government will match this sum. The club also has pledged itself to contribute a minimum of $25,000 annually for the hospital's maintenance.

Allen donated his services. Speakers included Gov. E. J. Thye of Minnesota, Mayor H. H. Humphrey of Minneapolis, President J. L. Morrill of the University of Minnesota and Robert O'Donnell and Col. William McCraw, national Variety club chief barker and executive director, respectively, who came here from Dallas, Tex. Bill Elson, local circuit owner and longtime friend of Allen, introduced the latter. Art Anderson, chief barker of the Northwest Variety club presented the check to President Morrill.

Four local radio stations broadcast the program. O'Donnell declared that the heart hospital project dwarfs that of any other Tent throughout the country and expressed pride that this educational institution and the amusement industry are linked together for the common welfare.

Birds and Beasts

PRC's "Red Stallion" has a cast lineup that sounds like "Who's Zoo" in the beast blue book. In addition to the nag in the tag role, there are 10 other horses, a bear, two dogs, a jackal, a falcon and an egret.

DISC CREDITS FOR ARRANGERS ASKED

Question of credits on platter labels for arrangers is being taken up as national policy matter with Musicraft. Plattery feels that arranger in many instances "makes" a disc, though seldom getting rightful recognition. Bobby Weiss, Coast rep for Musicraft, has proposed to New York heads that hereafter Musicraft labels permanently include mention of music setter-uppers.

ASK!

Every studio employee is entitled to the whole truth about this outlaw strike in the film studios.

ASK carpenters and painters whether they were locked out . . . or whether their present situation results from orders for a work stoppage handed down by union higher-ups who are quarrelling over JURISDICTIONAL issues.

ASK James Skelton, business agent of the carpenters, who on Sept. 11 served notice on the studios that his men would refuse to work on sets if their JURISDICTIONAL demands were not met.

ASK Herbert Sorrell, who after last Sunday's mass meeting was quoted in the press as saying that there would be a strike unless producers obeyed the AFL JURISDICTIONAL award, as interpreted by the C.S.U.

ASK William Bassett whether the Central Labor Council has authorized this strike, or whether the Council regards it as JURISDICTIONAL.

ASK William L. Hutcheson, international president of the carpenters union, who on Sept. 25 referred to the situaton as a result of an "attempted expansion of work JURISDICTION".

ASK William Green, president of the AFL, who on Sept. 25 referred to the "JURISDICTIONAL dispute" in a communication in which he advised that the Los Angeles Central Labor Council "should refrain from taking sides".

This is not a strike of unions against management but a dispute between unions which management is powerless to settle.

Don't rely on rumor and half-truths. Remember that your job and your future are involved. Demand the whole truth.

ASK!

"The Best Years of Our Lives"

It happened on NBC

STORY OF A CLUB ★ Every evening millions of Americans occupy reserved tables at the Chesterfield Supper Club. There are no charges of any kind, no tipping, and the only things sold are Chesterfield Cigarettes. The regular celebrities include singing stars Perry Como and Jo Stafford, the Satisfiers with Helen Carroll, Lloyd Shaffer's Orchestra and Martin Block of the smoke-dreamy voice and Lord Chesterfield mike-manners.

In addition, each night brings guest stars—famed personalities from the Radio City Air-Rialto, comedians and entertainers from Broadway bistros and theaters, and babes who found their way in the Hollywoods. After all this had been on NBC for only two months—in February 1945—the Chesterfield Supper Club was voted favorite fifteen-minute program by the nation's radio editors and columnists in the 1945 Billboard Poll. This distinction was repeated in the 1946 Billboard Poll.

The winner of many honors and awards himself, and the seventh son of a seventh son, there has been nothing mystical about handsome Perry Como's sensational rise to fame. He was a barber in small-town Canonsburg, Pennsylvania, when he was discovered by Ted Weems, and given a singing spot with the Weems orchestra. Night clubs, the movies, a singing engagement on the Fibber McGee and Molly show, best-selling records for RCA-Victor—all these came quickly, culminating in the role of singing master of ceremonies of the Chesterfield Supper Club. Como fan clubs flourish from Cape Cod to Cucamonga.

Feminine star of the Chesterfield Supper Club is lovely Jo Stafford, who made her radio debut at the age of 11 on an amateur show in California. Later Jo was a member of the Pied Pipers, vocal group. She made her solo bow on the Chesterfield Supper Club, and proceeded to win award after award and blossom into a leading night club and recording star.

How to operate a night club? Decorate with sparklers like Perry Como and Jo Stafford, invite the greatest audience in the world—the NBC audience—route it on the superlative NBC facilities, and bill it in the company of other great shows heard on NBC. The result: five nights each week millions of American homes take on the distinctive audible decor of the Chesterfield Supper Club.

Here are the FACTS

The American Federation of Labor is NOT supporting the CSU strike!

Following is a quotation from the letter addressed to Wm. J. Bassett, Secretary of the Los Angeles Central Labor Council, written by AFL President Green:

> "It is my opinion that the Los Angeles Central Labor Council, as a chartered American Federation of Labor central body, should refrain from taking sides in any jurisdictional dispute at Hollywood."

Following is the complete text of a letter which Bassett has written advising that the Central Labor Council will not take any position in this CSU strike:

> "The Central Labor Council offices have been bombarded with calls from various representatives of unions employed in the motion picture industry, requesting information as to what instructions President Green has issued relative to the possible strike situation in Hollywood.
> "Under instructions of the Los Angeles Central Labor Council this office requested President Green to issue instructions as to the position of the Central Labor Council. I am herewith submitting a copy of President Green's reply. In accordance with the communication from President Green, the Los Angeles Central Labor Council shall retain a neutral position in the event strike action is taken in the motion picture industry." JOAN DAVIS OUT 30G AS CBS BANS GIVEAWAY SHOW serials. Those who hold the lucky bill are rewarded with $1,000.

But CBS says positively no, that such a device entails no skill and is purely luck, therefore unacceptable to the network. Chain heads (it was taken all the way to Prexy William S. Paley) contend that sanction of such a contest would set a precedent and open wide the flood gates to many other gimmicks of similar stripe. The fight is still raging even though Miss Davis starts her new season Monday night.

Comedienne and her producer, Dick Mack, insist that the first seven scripts are based on the stunt and that's how the figure of $30,000 is arrived at. That includes the incidental expense of Cy Wills, husband of Miss Davis, in traveling around the country and planting the frogskins. He was last reported in Boston.

HUSH, HUSH STUNT

The stunt was hatched in such secrecy that even CBS knew nothing about it until the first script was submitted to continuity acceptance. Reported that Miss Davis threatened dire consequences to anyone on the show who revealed the giveaway. After perusing the script the scene that followed would have required all the props of the sound department. But CBS is standing pat and Miss Davis is equally confident that the stunt will be on the air Monday night. It is not known whether Lever Bros., sponsor of the Joan Davis show, has made any representations to the network. Charles Luckman, prexy of the soap outfit, has long championed the giveaway as a sales stimulant.

THIS IS IT

Here is the complete text of the letter from William Green to the Los Angeles Central Labor Council, dated September 21, 1946. It completely supports carpenters and painters in their refusal to violate an important AFL ruling. These unions obey. Producers should do the same. We ask you to help make them obey.

Read carefully. This is the American Federation of Labor speaking:

"Mr. W. J. Bassett, Secretary-Treasurer,
"Los Angeles Central Labor Council,
"536 Maple Avenue,
"Los Angeles 13, California.

"Dear Sir and Brother:

"Replying to your letter dated September 18th, the committee composed of members of the Executive Council who rendered a decision in the jurisdictional dispute which arose at Hollywood some time ago, resulting in strikes in motion picture studios at Hollywood, decided to clarify its decision, which it did at the last meeting of the Executive Council held at Chicago, Illinois, during the month of August.

"The commttee explained that the clarification of its decision was for the purpose of making clear to all concerned the real meaning of its original decision.

"By direction of the Executive Council, copy of the clarification made by the Executive Council's committee was sent to the representatives of employers in Hollywood studios and to the representatives of unions interested and involved in the controversy.

"I hope and trust the pessimistic view which you express regarding the application of the clarification made by the Executive Council's committee, as set forth in the third paragraph of your letter, will not prevail.

"I hope and trust that good judgment and common sense will be exercised by all affected and all concerned, and that the decision of the committee members representing the Executive Council, and its clarification of its decision, will be accepted and applied in good faith by all concerned.

"It would seem most unwise and inexcusable for vicious fights to continue among unions functioning at Hollywood over a limited number of men whom each may claim come under their respective jurisdictions.

"Be assured that we will do everything that lies within our power to bring about the acceptance of the decision made by the committee representing the Executive Council, and of its clarification of its decision, both in spirit and in letter. All parties involved in the jurisdictional disputes agreed in advance of the decision of the committee to accept it and abide by it.

"It is my opinion that the Los Angeles Central Labor Council as a chartered American Federation of Labor central body should refrain from taking sides in any jurisdictional dispute at Hollywood. Your central body should use its good offices to bring about acceptance of the decision made by the committee representing the Executive Council, and the committee's clarification of said decision.

"(Signed) William Green, President
"American Federation of Labor."

Some Film Work Slowed By Studio Picket Lines

to enforce the AFL directive causing the trouble without delay.

Despite fact that the seven majors hit yesterday morning by heavy picket lines all reported production continuing at a normal pace, Pat Casey's wire to Hutcheson emphasized that jurisdictional fight is "sabotaging production at a time when production is vitally necessary to national recovery."

METRO, WB HAVE SLOWDOWNS

Warners and Metro, facing largest picket lines, had definite work slowdown, although each studio reported production situation as normal. Former reported seven films in work. Before the cameras at the valley lot were process shots on "Night Unto Night," with Viveca Lindfors, who reportedly spent Wednesday night in the studio, and some action on "Pursued." Metro has six pictures in various stages of work.

Late yesterday Warners obtained temporary restraining order from Superior Judge Allen Ashburn limiting picketing at the studio. Order, returnable Oct. 4, limits pickets to a total of 50 within 200 feet of the studio. Vehicular entrance picketing is limited to eight at any one time. Two other entrances are limited to six while others are limited to four.

GROUPS LIMITED TO SIX

Order permits no more than six within 50 feet of any given point and calls for a passageway of 25 feet at the vehicular entrance and 15 feet at other entrances. It was obtained against Painters, Carpenters, Electricians, Janitors, Cartoonists, Machinists and officers of the locals, plus the Conference of Studio Unions and Herbert K. Sorrell.

Following wire to Green for designation of a representative to enforce the directive, CSU locals wired William Bassett of Central Labor Council asking an immediate meeting of CLC executive board to acquaint all unions in the industry with William Green's letter confirming the AFL directive and subsequent clarification.

In his wire to Hutcheson, Casey, chairman of the Producers Committee, declared that major studios share former's regret over breakoff in relations with carpenters and asked that Hutcheson "earnestly consider a means of solution." Casey repeated that studios have lived up to the Dec. 26, 1945 directive and "because we have done so we are now encountering another jurisdictional strike."

APPEAL FOR PEACE

"We appeal to you as a conspicuous leader of organized labor to do what you can to end this succession of jurisdictional strikes which is becoming a national disgrace, penalizing vast numbers of workers who are not parties to the dispute," wire stated. Casey wound up telegram with "We are powerless in this situation but you and the International presidents of the unions involved are not. We ask your help."

Six CSU pickets were arrested yesterday on various charges but were soon bailed out by the organization. Three got the nod from the law at Warners. Two were picked up at Paramount and one at Metro.

Lines at Metro and Warners averaged 500 each, with particular effort to halt workers checking in on the first shift. Same tactics will be followed today. CSU strategy committee, after a meeting yesterday, announced it was satisfied with progress of the first day of picketing "to regain jobs" and believed production will be brought to a virtual shutdown in a short time.

Two RKO pictures filming at Pathe studio in Culver City shut down yesterday. One, Dore Schary's "Bobby Soxers," was held up because of need to build one big set. Largest group of Metro pickets were concentrated at the labor gate. There was some scuffling, a few bruises and hurt feelings but no serious injuries. Picketing at Metro was viewed for some time by Eddie Mannix, and group of workers who collected across the street from lines without going through.

QUIET AT 20TH

At 20th-Fox action was quiet, approximately 100 pickets parading before the Santa Monica gate and near that number at the Pico entrance. Only one film, "The Home Stretch," was before the cameras.

Comparative quiet was also maintained at Paramount, RKO and Columbia. At an early hour in the morning a number of RKO pickets were switched to Warners to bolster lines at the valley lot. Early in afternoon a number of pickets at Paramount were sent to Metro. Approximately 80 to 90 pickets fronted the Paramount entrances, while estimated 60 guarded entrances at RKO and Columbia. Pictures at all three lots continued in work and labor departments reported only a small percentage of workers failing to go through the lines. RKO has three films shooting. Columbia has six, of which three are on location. Paramount had five.

CRAWFORD AVOIDS LINE

Joan Crawford, starring in Warners "Possessed," is reported to have driven up to the studio but did not cross the auto gate picket line. Besides Miss Lindfors, on the lot were Teresa Wright and Raymond Massey. Studio used buses to carry replacement workers through the lines during the afternoon. Pickets at Warners, asking Sorrell for permission to get rough, were told by the CSU leader to "do things legal. We are not striking. We only want our jobs back and producers to comply with the AFL directive."

About 150 pickets manned the gates at Universal-International but there were no violence or arrests. The two pictures slated to shoot yesterday, "I'll Be Yours" and "Flame of Tripoli," were before the cameras. Adolphe Menjou, appearing in former, spent the night on the lot. Republic, exempted from pickets along with Goldwyn and Roach, had one film in work, "Hit Parade of 1947."

Picket line events were recorded on both sound tracks and celluloid by studios. Paramount had cameras concealed at the Lemon Grove and Marathon gates. RKO had a camera atop one-story building overlooking its Marathon gate. Metro had a sound truck at its labor entrance to record dialog of pickets and others.

U.S. RULES TRADE ADS DEDUCTIBLE

Washington, Sept. 29.—Trade ads are deductible but other advertising of a propaganda nature, is not, according to ruling by the Treasury Department. Ruling may affect the spending of some money for radio advertising in the current election campaign.

Statement by William T. Sherwood, Assistant Commissioner of Internal Revenue, says in part:

"It may be stated generally that the cost of advertising may be deducted only when such advertising is designed to interest the public in the company or its products with the 20th Gives 50G for 'Nightmare Alley'

New York, Sept. 29.—Twentieth-Fox yesterday upset dope that "Nightmare Alley," shocker by William Lindsay Gresham published few weeks ago, is too strong for filming. Company has paid $50,000 for novel, which has been a favorite with story editors but at which most producers balked. Yarn is about "Carney Geek"—carnival character who swallows live mice and bites heads off chickens, and a femme psychiartrist.

ATA Case Up

Washington, Sept. 29. — Statement of the Justice Department opposing intervention into the New York motion picture suit by ATA will be filed with the court tomorrow. The Anti-Trust Division document was mailed to New York after it had been prepared here by Robert Wright, motion picture specialist for the division.

ATA has petitioned to intervene to oppose the single picture selling provision of the decree. Justice has consistently blocked intervention in the long-dawn out case by indies, although it has no objection to briefs filed as friends of the court.

Vallee Show Slated For Heavo With Legal Action In Offing

Rudy Vallee's days on NBC for Philip Morris are said to be numbered and Milton Biow, head of the agency handling the cigaret account, was reported leaving New York for a fast trip to confer with Vallee on termination of his contract. Vallee's deal with the sponsor is for straight 26 weeks but the actual washup, if it comes before expiration of the contract, may involve legal complications.

Trade is speculating on whether there will be a cash settlement or no payoff at all. Vallee has been on week-to-week notice by NBC to improve his show or take the consequences and the termination may be predicated on the CERTAIN Sunset Strip nitery is in for terrific lacing by Frank Morriss, of Winnipeg Free-Press, when he returns to his home range, after several-week look-see of Hollywood. Staff-man indicated he would like to look in on a Hollywood night club before he left for home, to see what one really was like for his readers, and was recommended to this spot. He called up operator, who first asked him if he wanted dinner; then, when told by writer no, he'd buy a few drinks but only wanted to spend little time there to see what went on, was told to come in about 10:30, when gaiety was at its highest. When he arrived, maitre de looked at him very askance, inquired if he wanted dinner, finally placed him at tiny table where a waiter constantly hovered over him and constantly demanded if he didn't want more drinks. Brush-off was so apparent, Canadian got disgusted and left. Morriss' paper has daily circulation of 98,000, and Sunday circulation in excess of 300,000. With practice of other Canadian papers picking up stories on Hollywood from one of their own, it's cinch Morriss' experience and name of nitery will be widely circulated in Dominion.

HOLLYWOOD INSIDE

TEN veterans of General H. H. ''Hap'' Arnold's personally organized First Motion Picture Unit of the Army Air Forces are all working on Warner Bros.', ''Night Unto Night.'' Ronald Reagan, the star, was a captain and Owen Crump, who is producing the film, was a lieutenant-colonel. Oren Haglund, the assistant director, was a major; Pev Marley, the cameraman; Gene Delaney and Chuck Mason, prop men, were former master sergeants; Del Nodine, grip, and Bob O'Neil, laborer, former technical sergeants; Eugene Westfall, sound man, and Dick Thoerson, grip, onetime staff sergeants. Two of the men, Haglund and O'Neil, both received the Purple Heart in Europe. The unit shot approximately 5,000,000 feet of film, a great deal of which was in color.

HAL Wallis believes that stage is still the best source for acting talent, and best proof of this is fact that of the 11 players under contract to him seven are from legit. These include Lizabeth Scott, whom he took off Broadway stage when he first became an indie producer; Wendell Corey, who co-starred in Edgar Rice play, ''Dream Girl,'' with Betty Field; Douglas Dick, Kirk Douglas, Betsy Drake, Burt Lancaster, all from eastern stage. Kristine Miller was discovered in Little Theatre group in San Francisco. When producer goes east early in December to be film industry speaker at 50th anniversary of death of Alfred Nobel, he will make thorough canvass of stage in effort to line up further talent to add to his roster.

THE Rexall Co., has no intention of going into recording business with its own label, according to execs of druggery. It's admitted that plans are being laid to go into platter retailing via tieups with one or more companies (probably indie labels due to ''big four'' platteries franchises, etc.) which would mean opening of permanent disc counters in chain's stores across country. They are handling some ''specials'' now on hit 'n miss basis, such as late president Roosevelt's declaration of war, etc.

NEW Zealand documentary, ''One Hundred Crowded Years,'' produced at the time of the Dominion's centennial celebration has been turned over by the New Zealand government to Metro to assist studio in the filming of ''Green Dolphin Street.'' It includes scenes showing the development of Wellington, New Zealand seaport, which will be depicted in ''Green Dolphin Street.''

TRADESHOWING of one of Arthur Rank's Prestige Pictures films, put out in England as ''Love Story,'' was suddenly called off other day. Screening had been set for today at Universal-International but was held up when it was learned that the Johnston office had not cleared the American release title, ''Strange Rhapsody.'' Instead, studio is showing to the trade today '' I Know Where I'm Going'' which is scheduled to open at the Four Star Theatre Friday.

VAGARIES of picture advertising and effect upon business at box-office is illustrated by case of Arnold Pressburger's ''A Scandal in Paris.'' Heavy campaign was pushed for opening of film in Cincinnati, with business reported only fair and far from that expected after such solid plugging. After only small campaign in three cities, picture did terrific business in Miami, Albany and Minneapolis.

PARAMOUNT flackery has effected a tie-up in which Philco will feature Virginia Welles and ''Ladies' Man,'' in which she is co-starred with Eddie Bracken and Cass Daley, in a widespread promotional campaign. Campaign calls for newspaper advertising in the United States, Canada and various foreign countries. Philco also will distribute display material to dealers.

ESTABLISHMENT of new radio stations, plus promise of more is said to be stimulating considerable changes in personnel and hikes in payrolls. Established stations are trying to cement relations with topflight employes and, in some instances, attract desirable employes from their rivals. Situation will likely make for some recriminations and retaliation.

ONE of more turbulentely operated indie platteries apparently is looking for a buyer. Outfit is currently circulating ''rumors'' that several buyers, including one film company, are trying to buy it, when actually impression being made is that present owners would like very much to unload. Smoke screen to impress also includes much heavy advertising.

CBS Petitions FCC To Permit Color Television Commercially

Anne Lehr Acts

Mrs. Anne Lehr, founder of Hollywood Guild Canteen, has been signed by Cecil DeMille for a role in "Unconquered." Development was result of Mrs. Lehr being chosen "Queen For the Year's" in a contest sponsored by Mutual's "Queen For A Day" air show.

KORDA WILL GET WELLES 'SALOME' ON LONDON WAY

Alexander Korda will get the Orson Welles Technicolor production, "Salome," underway at Sound City Studios in London in early January. Welles will leave for London in December to start on filmization of the Oscar Wilde play. Actor will produce and co-star with Eileen Herlie in the film. Latter has been signed to a term contract by Korda.

Film will be first in a series Welles will produce and star in for the British rival of J. Arthur Rank. "Salome" was last produced as a film in 1923 by Charles Bryant and starred latter's wife Alla Nazimova.

Bernard Herzbrun Inks for UI Art

LEGION TO GIVE HOPE DSM TODAY

San Francisco, Sept. 29. — Bob Hope will receive the American Legion's highest honor, the Distinguished Service Medal, tomorrow at the opening of its national convention. Award is being made for his overseas entertainment tours.

Alo receiving the medal tomorrow are Cordell Hull, J. Edgar Hoover and Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, with National Commander John Stelle making the presentations. Only 26 of the medals have been awarded in the Legion's history.

Hope is bringing his radio troupe to San Francisco, with Bing Crosby as guest star. Hope's regular broadcast will emanate from the Marine Memorial theatre here tomorrow night.

New York, Sept. 29.—Columbia Broadcasting System yesterday petitioned the Federal Communications Commission to set standards for and permit commercial operation of color television in ultra high frequencies. Net also asked that hearings be set to get supporting evidence that basic technical stages of development have been completed, and that further advance may only be obtained under conditions of commercial telecasting and regular service.

Move was probably designed to beat Television Broadcasters Association, including virtually all other video interests, to punch with FCC. TBA, long reportedly opposed to introduction of color due to feeling that well-advanced black and white should first be perfected and used, is readying for convention on Oct. 10 and 11 at which time standards are to be set and presented to FCC. TBA, Mutual Broadcasting System, National Broadcasting Co., and others have reportedly long opposed CBS color bally as smoke that has only added to public's confusion in regard to video, and something better left to continued research while black and white was commercially employed. Nearly all are working on a color system, but only CBS has repeatedly declared itself ready, while others think it premature.

"So long as color television continues in an experimental status, the entire industry will be subject to uncertainty, and the investment of the public and broadcaster in low frequency black and white television may be in jeopardy," said a letter accompanying the petition. It added, "The public is entitled to enjoy, at the earliest possible date, the inherently greater beauty and interest of color television pictures."

Johnston Scores SWG Pitch For French Film Industry

French film industry is in better position to move forward under the French-American film agreement than under pre-war deals, according to Eric Johnston, president of Motion Picture Association. Statement was made by Johnston in replying to Screen Writers Guild's request that State Department investigate possibility of re-negotiating agreement so that the "French film industry can survive."

Johnston declared that terms of agreement "actually protect the development of the French film industry and give it a greater measure of protection that it had before the war," and challenged "the implication that the government of the United States or the American film industry took undue advantage of the French film industry."

Agreement does not guarantee the exhibition of any American film in France and leaves the French exhibitor free to use native product 100 per-cent on his screens. Deal does require that French films be given at least 16 weeks out of every year, or 30 per cent of the playing time, exclusively in every French theatre.

Johnston discredited M. Henri Jeanson, president of the Screen Writers of France, who had complained to SWG that deal stifled French film industry. In letter to Emmet Lavery SWG prexy, Johnston named Jeanson as a collaborationist condemned by the Resistance Purge Committee "for having favored the designs of the enemy but escaped with a light sentence."

(Famous CBS Commentator)

One of the most important stories of the last few days—it seems to me—has been passed over. That's the report of the scientists of twelve nations, forming the Security Council atomic energy commission, to the effect that the control of atomic energy for peaceful uses, is technologically feasible. A lot of us have been wondering whether it would be possible to prevent the diversion of atomic energy material into bombs once we had agreed to do that. For a while, numbers of persons were in favor of our sharing the know-how of atomic energy with other nations, including Russia, in the interests of mutual understanding and removing suspicions and fears. But in view of a continued adamant attitude by Russia in the Balkans, Poland and elsewhere, this idea began to look less good. We knew it had been said that Russia would get the secret herself in time, but the know-how was something else. The sharing of that part of the secret began to look as if it were wise only if we could be assurred that diversion of atomic energy development could be guarded against. The scientists now say that is technologically possible. Because the bomb now stands poised over us, it seems most important to me that we have now learned we can control its use for peaceful purposes only.

'LAUGHTER' HEADS FOR HIT RATING ON BROADWAY

Wilmington, Del., Sept. 29.—"Present Laughter" is headed for the hit class—definitely so on Broadway in its present form and a winner in films after necessary revision. Noel Coward is in top writing form in this sophisticated, fluffy comedy of an egotistical London actor who can't stop acting off-stage. There's not much plot but nobody cares as long as the clever laugh lines keep tumbling over each other. The actor can't keep his love life under control and his ladies create crises as he prepares for an African tour. Solution of the difficulties creates merriment but, as usually with Coward, it's more what the characters say than what they do.

Cast knows how to toss around dialog, with Clifton Webb doing a bang-up job in the lead role. Sauve, self-centered and conscious of his charm, the character might have been created for Webb and represents Coward in his best comedy mood. Rest of the characters are foils but the laugh lines are generously distributed. Marta Linden and Doris Dalton are fine as the women in the actor's life. Evelyn Varden and Chris Alexander give good accounts of themselves.

John C. Wilson, who presents the play, keeps it going at top speed but breathless direction keeps the audience on its toes to catch the dialog. Donald Oenslager's setting is excellent.

REPERTOIRE HAS HIT

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—Screendom scored again when the American Repertoire Theatre put on Sir James Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows" as the second of their ambitious repertoire programs. Richard Waring won major honors as John Shard. June Duprez as Maggie Wylie, played on both stage and screen by Helen Hayes, also pleased critics and playgoers. But the real surprise star of the occasion, remembering the Hayes and Maude Adams productions, was Eva Le Gallienne, as the Countess. Like the company's "Henry VIII," show has been cut and sharpened. In its two acts, there are few dull moments. Margaret Webster, who directed, deserves a big hand for that.

BEES AND FLOWERS

New York, Sept. 29.—"Bees and the Flowers" by Coast scripters Fred Kohner and Albert Mannheimer, which opened here at Cort, is a mild marital lesson about a woman educating her three kids to her remarriage. Comedy, which is pleasant at times and tiresome at others, is too pallid for Broadway. But Metro, which already owns the script, can make a satisfactory film out of it.

Major Healy Heads MPA in Mid-East

New York, Sept. 29.—Major Tim Healy has been named Middle Eastern manager for the Motion Picture Association by Eric Johnston. Healy, who has been assistant manager of the London office for the past year, leaves for his new post Oct. 17, stopping in Paris for huddles with Harold Smith, MPA European chief. He will headquarter in Cairo.

SDG of New York will use as a pattern for its negotiations the basic agreement in affect here between Screen Directors Guild and Hollywood studios. A special section covering directors of industrial pictures will be included in New York agreement.

Bud Pollard, prexy of New York guild, aired from here Friday for the east after huddles with George Stevens, prexy of Hollywood SDG, on matters of inter-relationship between the two guilds. After reports to New York body he returns here to direct four action pictures for Jack Elliott Productions and Astor Picture release. First goes into work at Sutherland studio Oct. 21.

Berlin At London Preem of 'Skies'

London, Sept. 29.—Irving Berlin's "Blue Skies," Paramount production, preemed at the Carlton theatre here over the weekend. Berlin attended the event which was a benefit for the Musicians Benevolent Fund. Jack Buchanan, legit and screen star, and Tommy Handley, radio comic, co-emceed the stage event preceding the screening.

KGER SLATED AS 2ND CROSBY OUTLET

Indie KGER has been virtually set to carry Bing Crosby's new transcribed program as supplement to KECA in the Los Angeles area, and four other stations, indies and affiliates of American Broadcasting Co., will help blanket Southern California.

Aaron Schultz, operator of four department stores, and leading Philco franchise holder of 52 in Long Beach area, gets sponsorship of the Crosby show for Long Beach area. Deal is practically set and is being cleared at Philco headquarters in Philadelphia. Station is now prepping big promotion campaign to go with prestige of acquiring Crosby show on supplementary basis.

• JUST FOR VARIETY •

THE GRAPEVINE: Hollywood's widespread avowals to ditch all B pictures will have one kickback. Young talent won't be given much of a chance to develop within the industry. Promising actors, writers and directors have usually been given their trial runs in the lower-budgeted productions, and many a top performer, actor, writer or director, has been discovered in a sleeper put out by the B unit. Short subjects are about the only place left for untried talent under this set-up. Producers won't be eager to give the tyros a showcasing in million dollar-plus productions. All of which sounds like the first curve in a vicious circle . . . A character who gives his name as Emmett has been posing around town as a Variety feature writer. Says he's working here while waiting for his $5,000,000 fortune to be paid him; also that he's marking time until his "Metro contract" starts. He is phoney as a $4 bill . . . Michele Morgan will complete arrangements to appear in a French film production with her husband William Marshall when she goes to Paris to receive an award for her performance in the French film "Symphonie Pastoral." Marshall will apply for a leave of absence from Republic on completion of "Wyoming," under present plans . . . Reed Hadley says he's shampooing his face instead of washing it—preparing for his bearded role in "Captain from Castile" . . . Harold Arlen was struck by a car as he got out of his own go-cart but escaped with minor injuries.

HOLLYWOOD CAROUSEL: One of Leroy Prinz's chorus girls in "My Wild Irish Rose" signed on under the name of Maureen Leibowitz . . . A new form of chauvinism is sweeping the Paramount lot. Mitch Leisen and the "Golden Earring" crew started it by wearing golden earrings. Now members of "The Big Haircut" company, working on a wheat-harvesting picture, are wearing ears of wheat in their coat lapels . . . "The drone of official voices beat into the ears of marching pickets yesterday as the third day of the Hollywood film strike got under way . . . "and we're quoting the Sunday Times lead on the studio imbroglio. There should be some reward for such news writing. If the Pulitzer Prize committee can't do something about it, the Academy, in the emergency, could dish up some sort of Oscar. . . . While radio was going slaphappy over football the past weekend, downtown papers were meeting the public appetite by hiring special help in the sports departments to flash scores of the Brooklyn and St. Louis beseball games to a flood of phone queries. All of this puts us in mind of the time—in October, 1908—when Fred Merkle missed second, the Cubs and Giants tied for first place and had to play an extra game for the pennant. Baseball all but crowded the presidential campaign off Page One. The experience of the newspapers this year indicates baseball is still our national game . . . Charley Foy returns to his night club chores Wednesday night after three-months-plus of illness . . . Director Ray McCarey's beautiful blonde daughter Pat, now working at 20th-Fox as a secretary, was secretly married last week to Dick Allen, an adman.

CALL SHEET: DAVID O. SELZNICK has placed a horse under two-year contract. "Dice," a five-year-old stallion, performed so well in "Duel in the Sun" that Selznick decided to tie him up to an exclusive contract for forthcoming films . . . RALPH S. PEER'S two-year-old son, Ralph, is a diplomat. He learned "You Are My Sunshine," written by Gov. Jimmie Davis, before going to visit the Louisiana governor . . . EUNICE, head of Eagle-Lion's hairdressing department, is the only Hollywood hair stylist represented in Bud and Ern Westmore's forthcoming book "So You Want to Be Beautiful" . . . LILLIAN MARSHALL probably won't be a hostess at the Cabana Club much longer. Seymour Nebenzal gave her a bit in "The Chase," and she will be tested by 20th-Fox for a termer . . . TONY BARRETT hasn't been seen on the screen since joining the RKO contract list six months ago but he's been busy. Actor has worked in five unreleased films and appeared in an average of 12 radio shows weekly . . . FRANK SINATRA took a whirl at disc-jockeying the other night. Appeared as guester on Ira Cook's KFAC platter session . . . TOMMY DUGAN, veteran comic in the deadpan field, has been type-cast again. Metro engaged him to play the role of deadpan comedienne Virginia O'Brien's father . . . RITA LA ROY'S model list has been raided by 20th-Fox. Studio is testing five of her girls . . . JACK BERNHARD will act as his own technical advisor on a flying sequence in his forthcoming production, "Violence." He was an army flier in the first World War .

ON THE SOUND TRACK: Forty members of the Internal Revenue department swooped down on Sam Goldwyn studios the other day! But you can calm down. They didn't drop in to look at the books. There's a convention of Revenuers in town, and they came out for sightseeing purposes. . . . Louella Parsons places her footprints in the foyer of Grauman's Chinese theatre today at sundown . . . Usually it's a fullgrown flying machine that interrupts film production, but RKO admits with a blush and stammer that MODEL airplanes held up shooting on its modest little dog picture, "Banjo," on location in Pasadena . . . Bob Hutton would rather not be reminded of his pre-acting career. He drove a dump truck while attending college. One of his more redolent memories concerns a call at a hatchery to haul off a truckload of eggs that failed to hatch . . . Sixteen members of the "Rosalie" cast were tapped for Red Cross blood donations last week. For years actors have been wailing, "What do you want, my blood?" And that's what happened when somebody finally said "Yes" . . . Richard Blackwell got his first important film role in "Vendetta." So far his chores have consisted of lying face down in the grass and emoting only with his hands in his death scenes . . . A UCLA student won Bill Anson's song title contest over KFWB. The student, Bob Hart, submitted the title, "Don't Change Sweethearts in the Middle of a Dream." Which brings a dash of physochology to Tin Pan Alley, hitherto more familiar with fraud than Freud.—D.D.T.

ROGERS' RODEO BREAKS MARK WITH 100G

Roy Rogers' rodeo, his first personal venture in sawdusterping, broke all rodeo records at The Arena in Philadelphia, hitting $100,000 in eight days. This tops the previous score for the same spot by $20,000. Rogers is now in St. Louis for 10 days, with another $100,000 advance for the saddle and spur shindig. From there, show moves to play the Chicago stadium for 17 days.

Art Rush, Rogers' personal manager, left over weekend with "Gabby" Hayes to join the show, which includes Dale Evans and the Sons of the Pioneers. Others going East for the opening of Rogers' new airshow Saturday include Charles Lyon and Country Washburn. Show will be aired via NBC at 6 p.m. PST. Rush will stay in the East for three weeks, both on management business and on Victor record chores.

'MY WAY' OPENS IN 4 PARIS SPOTS

"Going My Way" opened in Paris in four first-run theatres day-and-date to capacity business, Paramount was advised yesterday by its New York office. Perfume that spins a moment into a memory

EDDIE BRACKEN OILER OFF TO FAST START

Lightning struck twice for Eddie Bracken and last night he came through with another whopping "first." Well remembered is his opener of last season, rated one of the funniest shows of the season, and then things went sour for the clever little comic. Texaco, his new client, can only hope that the recurring forked flash has shot its bolt and history doesn't repeat itself.

As the naive, kicked-around small-towner Bracken is in a perfect character setting for his talents, exuding a subtle charm and infectious sympathy that sets well around the home receivers. He's the star of the piece and could well corner the best lines but he smartly surrounded himself with able aides and gave them plenty to do and say. Bill Demarest is back as the gruff, tormenting elder; Ann Rutherford, Janet Waldo and Irene Ryan make the femme roles ring true, and for additional male help there are Wally Maher and Jack Norton. Almost perfect casting, each to his own way of keeping the situations rolling and rocking.

That Bracken is intent on making this series the high point of his radio career is apparent on many scores. Even for a relatively small part of the race caller he brought NBC's Clem McCarthy in from New York. He has toiled long and hard on the scripts and keeps four or five ahead. Rehearsals are serious business and there's no letdown until the last commercial is read. He went to great pains to secure the services of Z. Wayne Griffin as producer and scored handily there. To Texaco's credit only one minute was taken for the product plug.

Borzage Radio Tie-in

Tieup has been effected by Republic with KFWB, in connection with local opening of Frank Borzage's "I've Always Loved You," whereby piano aspirants will compete over air in a piano audition featuring excerpts from Rachmaninoff's Second Concerto, thematic music for picture. Cash prizes and radio audition will be awarded winners.

Bob Burns Show

There's a little less monologue and a little more drag in the Bob Burns show that returned yesterday with a new bankroll, a slightly new setup embracing situation but pretty much the same kind of humor that's typical and expected of him and his shows. Whatever else may be said of the quality of his humor, he relies on the lines as written for the ear and doesn't straw-catch for house horsing laughs.

Comic sets usual sympathetic mood with pokes taken at himself and, thereafter, if not particularly unexciting is, at least, not disappointing. There was generally mild amusement in lines of preemer, a few scattered laughs but little that sparkled. Better direction may have perked where material sagged. Throughout, however, the cast was equal to what was fed.

Commercials were as unobtrusive as show was unimpressive.

LIGHT AND AIRY

By JACK HELLMAN

If there be ethics among writers now is the time to prove it. With most of the top comics the preview is back and that means shows will be run off two or three days in advance of the broadcast date to get a live audience reaction. It has been proven prop of unquestionable value but had to be discontinued by some comics because of the piratical ideas of writers of other shows who get on the air first. It's recalled that some years ago a show airing on Tuesday previewed on Saturday night (for the obvious reason of getting a full house of people in gay, carefree mood) and stowed away in the audience were writers of a Monday night show with pencil poised on pad. Sure it wasn't cricket but who could prove it didn't come out of the same file with refurbished treatment? You're on your honor, men, and if you fear detection at your own attendance don't send over a confederate. The preview is an important cog in the works and pleading "coincidence" puts the onus of proof on the filcher. So play it squire, kids, and let the one who got there fustest with it have it, each to his own. If the pirates persist in their larcenous practices we wouldn't be surprised if some of the shows were "sneaked out of town," which doesn't sound like a bad idea at all.

Drama rules the roost in the Hooper stakes but the ceiling still looks like something the OPA is sitting on. High count of 16.2 was posted by Lux Radio Theatre, with Screen Guild Players a mere three-tenths of a point off the pace. Red Skelton moved into show position at 15.3 and Charlie McCarthy was tabbed at 14.5. The sequence then follows this pattern: Walter Winchell 13.5; "Mr. D.A." 13.4; Hollywood Players 12.8; "Suspense" 12.3 "Maisie" and Kay Kyser 12.2; Judy Canova 12; Phil Baker 11.9; Tommy Dorsey 11.6; Hit Parade 11.5; "Man Called X" 11.3. Individual ratings on Fri.-Sat. entries follow: "Sam Spade" 5.3, up 7; Alan Young 7.3; Durante-Moore 8.7; Fanny Brice 9.9, up .6; Ginny Simms 7.4; "Maisie" 12.2, up 5.7; Hollywood Star Time 4.6, off 2; "Life of Riley" 10.5, up 1.3; Mayor of the Town 8.2, up .6; Tony Martin 6, up 1.1; Truth or Consequences 10.6, up 2.1; Henry Wallace's five-minute talk on all networks was indicated at 30.8.

Chain breaks . . . Some of the comics are bellowing because of the net-network attitude on jokes pertaining to national figures. If there's any tinge of partisanship, real or fancied, now that the campaigns are warming up, the red light goes up fast. References to President Truman's piano-playing hobby are passable but a little tired by now . . . Murdo McKenzie has quit NBC's engineering staff to become production aide to Bill Morrow on the Crosby-Philco waxies. Morrow will also have writing assistance from Larry Clemmons, former scripter for Disney Cartoons . . . Shortest variety show on the air will be the Slapsy Maxie five-minute revue on KFWB at 8:10 p.m. Monday through Friday. In the act will be Jerry Lester, Rose Marie, Patti Moore, Ben Lessy and Matty Malneck's orchestra . . . Veteran Dave Howell now conducts "The Childrens Council" on KGER, in which the youngsters solve the problems sent in by teen-agers . . . Joe Rines has been made an honorary member of his Shrine lodge in Bawston.

This column doffs its skimmer to Bob Hope; not because he has been the Hooper champ or runner-up for so many years but because he dared try for something new. It's a brave effort and runs counter to the proven concepts of show business and if he's sticking his neck out for the critics to whack it's all the more to his credit. We, for one, sound a huzza and if some of the other comics would do likewise or at least feint in that direction it would help reduce the ammunition pile of newspaper columnists who just dote on slapping down the guy who stole all that revenue from their sheets. (I think the shoe is just your size, Mr. Crosby of Fire Island). Anyway, Hope is brave enough to scrap a successful format for one of experimental design and from where we sit he'll come out on top. He always has and that's the stamp of the showman. Critics who rale at radio for "the same old thing in the same old way" are the first to take up the cudgels against any departure from the tried-and-true pattern.

Vengeance can be exacted in many ways and one of the most novel is the one adopted by Meredith Willson to pay back an old score to Stu Dawson of the Chicago office of Foote, Cone & Belding. Willson hasn't forgotten that his "Big 10" was appropriated by FCB for The Hit Parade and vowed some day to even up things. On a recent broadcast in the summer Maxwell House spot he told of the early film heavies and that Robert McKim was his favorite. He didn't know McKim but Dawson he did, the spittin' image of the cinema menace. So he advised his listeners to Write Dawson for a picture and lo and behold he could pass for McKim in their collection of movie celebs. Dawson received so many requests that he decided to go through with it and had hundreds of photos run off. It was all in fun, of course, but Willson feels he has had his revenge.

Hitch hikes . . . Ben Gage has been added to the cast of the Joan Davis show as the "love interest" . . . Eve Arden to NY for three-week vacation. . . . KHJ has an hour amateur show coming up Oct. 19 with Tiny Stowe as emcee and sponsored, too . . . Chuck Lewin flies to Paris Nov. 1 to head up an English language program service for Radiodiffusion Francaise, which is Gallic for network . . . Now that the Eddie Cantor show for Pabst has been successfully launched, Paul Warwick, Henry Legler and Ed Morris departed for their eastern habitats . . . Meredith Willson will have an all-Iowa audience at his initial broadcast for Canada Dry Oct. 4 on the Warners Sunset lot . . . Some of the shows over-printing for early eastern airings are going to get caught with their seats down. Some have been guilty of passing out enough ducats to twice fill the auditorium.

ALICE AND PHIL DO SO-SO IN FITCH PITCH

An obviously nervous Alice Faye and a sure Phil Harris brought their own program, a pseudo take on their family life and a not so showsure initial presentation, to the ether yesterday in a pitch for Fitch. Theirs is a tough air pocket to fill and hold in which they're surrounded by pretty fast company, if at present not serious competition.

Idea isn't strictly new nor has it, fortunately, yet been overdone. However, it's newer, though not better, than many seasonal returnees of which so much new and better was expected when Fall was talked about in future tense. Domestic comedy is pretty well carried by pappy Harris and his air clan, but they do need more continuous flow of brighter stuff to cheer up their "home" and those of listeners.

Initialer lent impression that Alice Faye may have been trying too hard to get young matron warmth and tenderness into her singing, making it a mite strained. Musical backgrounding throughout was solid and show moved along to moderate result.

Peers Stay for Tele

Mexico City, Sept. 29.—Ralph S. Peer, president of the Peer Music Enterprises, and Mrs. Peer have extended their stay here for a few days so that Mr. Peer may attend sessions of the radio and television convention being held from September 30 to October 5.

People Are Funny

Like its companion piece on NBC, "Truth or Consequences," the John Guedel-Art Linkletter packaged insanities, "People Are Funny," can live up to its title only if they are—that is, the hand-drawn contestants. Unfortunately for the curtain raiser the stooges from the pews didn't act up to the degree of lunacy required of volunteer subjects. "Link" was as fast as ever, Guedel and his crew cooked up some mad and idiotic moments, but the ones who can make or break the show didn't come through.

Just about everything nightmarish eventually finds its way to PAF. For instance, as a starter, there was a pail of fish to be given away, a girl in a box to be sawed in half by Alan Young, a skunk changing places with a rabbit, Young frantically trying to free himself from a straitjacket, a sweet, young thing refusing to be "promoted" into marriage, giveaways and those gosh awful commercials. All that and more too was crowded into the half hour but Linkletter and Guedel sweated through it and they must've been wringing wet when the signoff kid moved in.

Naturally, it's up to Linkletter, as it is with Ralph Edwards, to do their own "casting" and they must rise or fall by their choices, As a cushion against a bad lot of mike-frighters, pros are called in. Neither Young nor his magic business was too funny for the ears although it had the sitters screaming.

Like many another opener it got away to a slow start. It'll pick up as the rust wears off and gives Raleigh a sound investment, dollar for dollar and point for point.

Foreign Stars Easing Problems of Indies

Sudden influx of foreign stars to take over star roles awaiting their arrival, is having double effect of more American top names being made available to hard-pressed indie producers, who have had serious time casting their pictures during past few years, and cutting down number of top features for Hollywood players. More than a dozen top foreign players have arrived in Hollywood within last few months, to vie with American players, and more are due to land here shortly. Two pictures currently are in production starring personalities brought here specifically for them, and at least half a dozen are slated for early start, with stars recently arrived.

Viveca Lindfors, Swedish star, was inked by Warners and immediately assigned to top cast of "Night Unto Night" upon her arrival. Film now is before cameras, as is Jules Levey's "New Orleans," with Arturo de Cordova imported from Mexico for star part.

Just in from England last week, Ann Todd came over to appear in David O. Selznick's "The Paradine Case," and Phyllis Calvert for Universal's "Time Out of Mind." Louis Jordan, star of French screen, preceded Miss Todd by several weeks for her picture.

Rex Harrison was brought from London to co-star with Irene Dunne in 20th-Fox's "Anna and the King of Siam," and next will do "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir" for same company. His wife, Lili Palmer, while not set for any particular picture when she arrived with him, won lead opposite Gary Cooper in Warners "Cloak and Dagger," in short order, and will star for company in "Golden City."

Metro imported Pat Kirkwood for role opposite Van Johnson in "No Leave, No Love," and Peggy Cummins is to star in "Moss Rose" for 20th-Fox, after being featured in studio's "The Late George Apley." David Niven and Richard Greene reached here number of months ago, Niven immediately going into top male role in Hal Wallis' "Perfect Marriage," then into Skirball-Manning's "The Magnificent Doll," and Greene set as one of stars of 20th-Fox's "Forever Amber." Margot Grahame, shortly after landing in Hollywood for first time in eight years, was paired with Walter Abel in Hal Roach's "Fabulous Joe."

Due here in November, according to announcement from RKO, James Mason will come from England to star in "Mourning Becomes Electra," and Michael Redgrave, one of foremost British stars for past 10 years, will come over to co-star with Joan Bennett in Diana's "The Secret Behind the Door." Anton Walbrook, another top English star, recently was inked by new Richard Wallace-Stanley Bergerman indie combo to star in company's pictures, deal reported to call for $100,000 per picture.

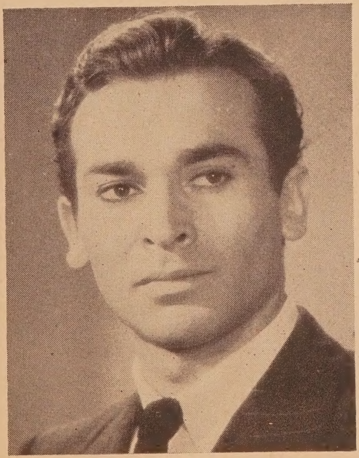
COLE BROS. CIRCUS WORKS OVERTIME IN THREE RINGS

After two year absence, Cole Bros. truck turn pitched its tent at Washington and Hill Streets with what stacks as a number three show in three rings. Fast moving and comparatively light in production, pageantry and spectacle, it accents animals and aerialists. Two-hour runoff is followed by an "after show" of rehearsed grunting exhibition and hybrid horse histrionics tagged as wild West and Cossack displays. Entire troupe is competent, if short of the spectacular, and at this stage of season looking a little tired and down-at-heel to a critical eye, albeit entertaining.

Sawdust presents much doubling of personnel. Virtually every turn duals with more than usual one specialty, even to assisting roustabouts in deck-clearing. For show folk it should serve to vividly illustrate comparative ease with which a buck comes to exponents of other art forms hereabout.

As billed, Cristiani Family is indeed star attraction. Equilibrists and equestrians, they add flashy closing to otherwise run-of-the-mill assortment of expected and standard, from grounded clowns to loft performers. Flying Thrillers, high trapezists, are another of really few highlights. Chambertys, casting bar trio, rate a nod, and ditto Paul and Ruth Nelson, who double at many things but mostly in horses. Group of perch acts also click with some noise. In all, there are some 30 displays, plus a moderate menagerie.

Thank you, MR. PRESTON STURGES! . . . .



JOHN HAROLD GORDON

It is an honor and privilege to make my screen debut in your current California Pictures' production "VENDETTA." I hope my performance as "Vincentello" will justify your confidence in my talent as an actor.

And thank you, Miss Theresa Helburn and Mr. Lawrence Langner of the THEATRE GUILD for giving me the opportunity to be seen on the stage as "PORE JUD" in your epoch-making "OKLAHOMA," as well as "CAROUSEL."

BENNY TAKEOFF HITS HOT PACE WITH LAUGHS

One of the best first shows of the season seems a reasonable appraisal of Jack Benny's takeoff yesterday on his 15th year in radio. It was the same kind of Benny show as last year and many before and offered the same brand of easy, natural humor. It also set a high mark to shoot at the remaining 34 weeks and gives some of the other high raters something to worry about. If he starts off that hot the mid-season pace will be a sizzling one.

Benny, the master timer, has all the old gang back without exception. True, two of his standbys are doubling over to their own programs and he and his writers make plenty of capital of it. They were also guilty of local jokes, thrice playing on the Eastern Columbia slogan. Network censor was equally guilty of passing a pair of border line gags.

It all added up to a howling session, nonetheless, and laughs piled up end on end. Only new piece of business was the humming quartet Don Wilson hired for the commercial backup. It kept the sitters howling and should be good for occasional spotting. Wilson landed a big laugh by calling himself "A big fat slob," and Dennis Day's fumbling of a line called for Benny's reproof to "Get nervous on your own show." Gags were for the most part topical as they were crackling and the writers rate a posy for fitting them so well to the characters on the double shift.

Music sounded muddy and noisy but Day's solo was in his accustomed good voice. Commercials are as boring as ever, with Benny tossing in a couple of his own.

'Key West Passage' Waits For Summer

Production of "Key West Passage" has been put back until at least next summer by Edmund Grainger, who was to have put pirate story before cameras sometime this year for Republic. NAME BANDS ON MONDAY NEW CASINO PLAN

In addition to remodeling Casino Gardens, Kermit Bierkamp, manager, inaugurates new seven-nights weekly policy and schedule change for name attractions to hypo traditional off night, Mondays. Switch will be pulled with exit of owner and current maestro, Tommy Dorsey, who leaves Wednesday and is followed by Eddie Howard, opening Friday. Dancery will also hypo promotion and stunts to assist.

Name band will be employed on Monday nights, setting precedent on what's considered to be regular "off" night. Management hopes to catch heavy trade among those wanting to dance or hear name attraction on night that all other local ballrooms use relief and substitute bands. Therefore, Frank Wooley, reliefer, will work Thursday nights instead of Mondays, and change also gives Casino a different opening night, Fridays, from other competitive spots. It also affords bands a good weekend breakaway on closing of engagements.

Selznick Halts Start of $6,000,000 Productions

preparation of "Little Women," in Technicolor, and "The Paradine Case" in black and white, originally scheduled to begin production early in October at a total cost of over $6,250,000. Accordingly, these pictures have been postponed and Vanguard has been compelled to lay off some of its personnel for the time being.

"It is not true that we have closed the studio."

30 PICTURES IN WORK

Selznick action can well be the forerunner of similar steps by other majors unable to obtain sets needed to launch new films. Approximate total of 30 major productions are on studio schedules, a small number for this time of year, and only a very few are in work outside of process shots and small sequences. Locations are taking up some of the production slack, there being a total of six currently filming away from the picket-bound studios.

Scanlon's announcement of production halt stressed that studio's position is neutral as far as points involved in the jurisdictional squabble are concerned. He said: "During the last strike we tried everything within our power to avoid asking our people to work under similar conditions. We stopped production on "Duel in the Sun" at a cost to us of over $400,000.

"We resumed only when it became apparent that if we did not we might have to disband the unit which was making this picture and discard a costly incompleted negative. We remained neutral throughout the strike and attempted unsuccessfully to secure the intervention of the highest ranking AF of L executives and of governmental officials in Sacramento and Washington. All this proved futile.

HOPE TO WORK SOON

"In the present issue we have been particularly mindful of the urgent plea of William Green, president of the AF of L, that this is a jurisdictional issue in which he recommended neutrality.

"We hope and expect to resume production on our pictures at an early date when the labor situation in Hollywood has adjusted itself."

Production slowdown as a result of picket lines continued Friday and Saturday at major studios. While there was activity on practically all pictures supposed to be before the cameras, in some instances work was slowed to a walk.

Picketing violence proved costly to two automobiles attempting to enter Metro studio Saturday morning prior to reading of an injunction order to the Conference of Studio Unions men walking the line. Pickets were limited at the Culver City lot to 50 and prohibited threats or violence. Prior to injunction reading by sheriff's office, a state of emergency was declared to exist in Los Angeles County, permitting sheriff to put on 150 extra officers to police the studios.

15 PICKETS ARRESTED

Fifteen pickets were arrested Saturday, nine at Warners and six at Metro. There were some injuries, although none reported to have been very serious, in the scuffling that featured the day at Metro and Warners.

Feature of Saturday's mass picketing was action of Herbert K. Sorrell, CSU prexy, who took to the air in his personal plane, a two-place all-metal Globe-Swift monoplane, to direct pickets from above via loud speaker. It is expected Sorrell will continue the stunt.

WOMEN FOR LINES

General report of the situation to date was made yesterday morning by Sorrell at a meeting of Painters. Picket captains and the strategy committee also met during the day and it was announced that mass descents on Warners and Metro will continue today. Also announced that women can now join picket lines if they want.

All Tanner transportation equipment was declared "hot" by CSU and none of its members may ride on the busses or limousines. This is expected to affect independents not being picketed by CSU but who use such equipment for moving personnel.

Barasch Going To Near East for RKO

Buddy Richard Barasch, RKO production department exec, leaves for the Near East late next month to set up a film-library project in that area. Barasch will take off immediately upon completion of current chores on "The Bachelor And The Bobby-Soxer." He will create an international Near East library of background films, inserts and stock to be taken in order. Headquarters will be in Cairo. Barasch, an expert on Near East and Arab matters, was a pilot with the AAF during the war and was assigned to the King of Egypt.

Raoul Pene du Bois leaves for New York this week to confer with John Houseman on "A Mirror for the Sky," musical which du Bois will produce. Houseman, who is on leave of absence from RKO, will direct the tune version of the life of John Audobon.

'20th Century' Set To Bow Tomorrow

Herbert Rudley is directing "20th Century" which opens at El Patio theatre tomorrow night. Keenan Wynn, Tamara Geva and Lionel Stander are starred in the show which has Byron Foulger, Marjorie Bennett and Nicodemus Stewart in featured chores. George Coulouris in "Blind Alley" follows Oct. 15 for two weeks.

WB Sales Exec Due

Norman Moray, Warner Bros. short subjects sales manager, is slated to arrive from New York Saturday to confer on production and sales program with Gordon Hollingshead, studio shorts head.

Irwin Inked for 'Rose'

Charles Irwin, who recently completed Broadway chore in "Up In Central Park," has been signed by Warner Bros. for a featured role in "My Wild Irish Rose."

1421 TO THE ART DIRECTORS

As picketing started last week in the current lockout controversy, we informed your Society of the points at issue and requested that you honor studio picket lines in order to bring this fight to the earliest possible conclusion.

Some of you have respected our picket lines and we are grateful for this recognition of our mutual problem. Others of you have done much to hamper and prolong our fight.

We want to be sure that every member of the Society knows why the set designers, illustrators and decorators are on those picket lines. We want you to know exactly what will bring this controversy to an end.

Basically, of course, our fight is for that contract so long denied us. A contract covering wages, hours, conditions of work. A contract providing security for the organization we have given so much to build. One which will enable us to defend the gains we have won from the Producers.

Last week the Producers' strategy of disruption became clear to all. We had not allowed ourselves to be provoked into strike so the Producers made it a lockout. It was an action against two unions which have been the staunchest allies of 1421. It was an action designed to break the bargaining power of the Conference of Studio Unions.

1421's duty and self interest were obvious; we voted to support the Conference unions thus attacked. And we joined the other Conference members on the picket line in their fight for their jobs.

The Producers and the IATSE leaders are trying to break this lockout fight. They will not succeed. With your cooperation in the studios they may succeed in making it a long and bitter struggle.

The Producers can settle the matter and restore peace to the industry by doing three things:

1) Restore all men and women to their jobs.
2) Accept and abide by the A F of L arbitration award.
3) Conclude proper contracts with all C.S.U. unions.

A respected motion picture writer stated it aptly last month when he wrote that part of the studio management refuses to accept the fact that free and democratic unions are a permanent feature of the Hollywood scene.

Well, ART DIRECTORS, there you have it. We wanted you to know. For many years we have worked together in the Art Departments—parts of a designing team. Many of you have shared this 1421 and other organizations with us. We believe our individual welfare and yours are inter-dependent; we have often spoken for better cooperation.

YOU CAN HELP THE PRODUCERS NOW AND THUS, IN THE END, DESTROY YOUR OWN FREEDOM.

YOU CAN RESPECT OUR PICKET LINES AND HELP TO BRING THIS STRUGGLE WITH THE PRODUCERS TO AN EARLY CONCLUSION.

YOU COULD, AND IT WOULD BE A FINE EXAMPLE FOR ALL THE TALENT GROUPS, JOIN US IN THIS FIGHT FOR A CLEANER AND MORE HARMONIOUS INDUSTRY.

NAB TELLS U.S. IT ISN'T BOUND TO UNESCO IDEA

Washington, Sept. 29. — NAB prexy Justin Miller told Assistant Secretary of State Bill Benton here today that NAB is not committed to a UNESCO round table proposal of last week which called on the international body to set up its own worldwide radio network. The same UNESCO commission recommendation called for interim use of existing radio stations for UNESCO programs and perhaps purchase of one or more operating outlets.

Miller wrote Benton that his membership had not authorized him to support the resolution which had been forwarded by Benton himself and strongly supported by RCA president Dave Sarnoff. Said Miller:

"I feel that it is only fair to all concerned for me to say that the National Association of Broadcasters had not had an opportunity to consider the proposition and in the event that another policy should be adopted by the Association I must reserve the privilege of supporting whatever other policy might be so adopted."

ical and moral effect upon people." Rev. McLeave said later that resolution has specific reference to the Atlantic City case which focused wide attention on the matter of censorship. "The Outlaw" played for a month at the Steel Pier here this summer after George Hamid, Sr., Pier operator, obtained an injunction against city's plan to seize film.

Harry Stern Goes Into Indie Prod

Harry Stern, former PRC western district manager, has completed arrangements for a new indie production company. Outfit is tagged, Harry Stern Productions. Former show biz associates, and ex-service men whom he befriended, are preparing to circulate separate petitions which, when containing large enough list of names, will be forwarded to Governor Earl Warren. VALLEE SHOW DUE FOR HEAVO AND LEGAL TANGLE net's policy to refuse any show that doesn't measure up to that chain's standard of quality. So far his shows have been disappointing to both NBC and Biow despite Vallee's effort to dissipate the criticism by changing format and spending more money for guestars. It's his responsibility to put on a show for $9,000 a week even though it would shorten his own take, reputedly set at $4,000.

If NBC orders the program off the network it would relieve Philip Morris of its financial obligation, according to a legal interpretation, as it could contend that it bought a show and has no place to put it. Unlikely that CBS would take it if tossed off the rival major and Vallee would not be agreeable, nor would the cigaret company, to go on any of the other webs. Vallee is said ready to contest any action of NBC or Milton Biow and is reported consulting attorneys.

Situation, if it reaches the decisive turn, is not unprecedented in big time radio. Others have been tossed off the nets for one reason or another, but what makes Vallee a cause celebre is the wide publicity given the affair even before it came out of the cellophane wrapping.

Bergen Partner Studying Tele

Patrick M. Cunning, television production partner of Edgar Bergen, left yesterday on extended tour of country's active television stations. Particular stress will be put on study of video activities in New York City and Schenectady, N. Y. While East he will also attend Television Broadcasters Association convention in New York City on Oct. 10 and 11. Latter is being held to help set standards for industry.

Cunning is toting along samples of tele film production completed at Bergen's indie tele production center. They will be shown to agencies and others in video picture, while Cunning studies methods and techniques in use in other quarters.

CAGNEY TO MAKE PICTURE AT GS

"The Stray Lamb," postponed in starting by William Cagney due to unsettled labor situation, will be made at General Service lot in every likelihood, instead of Samuel Goldwyn lot, when cameras actually roll on Thorne Smith story.

Cagney has stage space commitment with Goldwyn which expires early in December, and after this date space will not be available to him here. "Lamb" was slated to start two weeks ago, and would have come under wire, but with long production schedule and cast having to be lined up again film could not now be finished within this period. Cagney recently acquired fat financial interest in General Service studios, and will move over there shortly.
